MADRID (AP) — The United States Air Force will eventually have supplies of atomic bombs stored in Spain for use against Communist enemy, Harold E. Talbott, U. S. air force secretary, declared here today.

Talbott said a press conference that an atomic base for the U. S. strategic air force will be established only with the approval of the Spanish government.

Any use of these atomic weapons by the United States, he said, is the result of negotiations between the two governments, he said, even though that Spanish use of these weapons "is not in the picture at the present time."

Talbott is at present studying sites for atomic bases in Spain. Spain which the U. S. Air Force will occupy and use in conjunction with Spain.

Police Identify Shooting Victim As Toronto Man

TORONTO (CP)—Police have identified a shooting victim as Fred (Scotty) Cameron, 60-year-old management fee for a Toronto investment brokerage house, but they still are trying to find out who killed him and why.

Cameron's body, pierced by five bullets, was found in the trunk of a ditch near Strood in the Barrie area 50 miles north Friday.

It was identified Saturday night by C. W. Jeffreys, president and manager for the brokerage firm.

Lefkimo was quoted in Barrie as saying the slaying was a gangland murder and that he, too, expected to be killed. Whatever, police said there was nothing in Cameron's background to support theories of underworld vengeance.

Cameron, a bachelor, lived in Deerhurst Woods and used to tell fellow workers he had once been a professional soccer player in Scotland. His job called for him to walk around in uniform on errands between brokerage houses and to carry his firm's mail to the post office each night.

1st Battalion Of 27th Brigade En Route Home

HANNOVER, Germany (CP)—The 1st battalion of the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade was en route home today after serving three years in West Germany as part of NATO forces. Other units will follow later.

They are being replaced by the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade which will be based at Soest, the new Canadian Army base in Germany.

The 800 men of the 1st battalion boarded two trains here Saturday night for Rotterdam where they are to go aboard the liner Samaria. The ship is due at Quebec Nov. 8.

Meanwhile, the new base at Soest was occupied Saturday by 850 replacements mostly veterans of Korea from the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synoptic: Skies are clear over most of southern Ontario this morning as Sunday's cloudy weather moves into Quebec. Northern Ontario is still under the influence of a disturbance east of James Bay and scattered snowflurries were reported from a number of points.

A new storm has developed west of Lake Winnipeg and is expected to affect northern Ontario Tuesday and the lower Great Lakes Tuesday.

POLITICAL WINDS HAVE OBSERVERS ON 'HOT SEAT'

New Jersey, Virginia, N.Y. City Key Spots

NEW YORK (AP) — Observers anxious about which way the political winds of the United States are blowing will be holding up fingers Tuesday at three key points: Virginia and New York City.

New Jersey and Virginia elect governors. There is also a special House of Representatives election in New Jersey. New York picks a new mayor as do a number of other cities, including Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

In no case, perhaps, is there a clear-cut test of the popularity of the Eisenhower administration because of the nature of state and local issues involved. But the results will be closely watched, particularly in the case of the upset Democratic victory in a Wisconsin special House election three weeks ago.

SUPPORTS REPUBLICANS

In brief, this is the picture:

New Jersey Democrat Paul L. Troast opposes Democrat Robert B. Meyner, governor since 1949 in relatively known politically. Democrats are not counting too heavily on Meyner's coattails to carry them the Republicans, nor in winning the House seat vacated by Republican Edison A. Williams Jr. is running there against Republican George Meader.

In Virginia—Democrats voice confidence that Lieut.-Gov. Pattersonship in the face of the first-determining attempt in almost a quarter of a century. Republican Theodore R. Dalton's Democratic opponent is former Representative Thomas B. Stanley.

In New York—There are three major candidates: Republican Harold Riegelman, former acting postmaster of the city; Robert F. Wagner Jr., Democrat, Manhattan borough president; Rudolf Halley, Liberal, city council president. Wagner is generally conceded to have the edge. Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, who won the Democratic nomination to Wagner, sought to run as an independent, but his name was left off the ballot on grounds his nominating petition had insufficient valid signatures.

TALKING POINT

Joseph Fay, convicted extortionist and labor racketeer, has been a talking point both in New York and New Jersey.

Troast was disclosed to have written a letter in 1951 asking Governor Meyner to help Meyner sought to make it an issue. Troast has said Meyner was "in cahoots" with the racketeer. Meyner has denied any connection with Fay.

In New York, Wagner has said that among those urging a parole for Fay "was been a close associate of Governor Thomas E. Dewey, an individual who considers me as a political figure . . . one of the most important men in the United States."

This mysterious figure became the subject of a New York grand jury parole board deny that such a person existed.

TEACHERS CRITICAL

SUDBURY (CP)—More than 60 members of the Ontario Federation of Women Teachers in this city have criticized the present state of teaching standards and qualifications for the 25,000 elementary teachers in the province. They met Saturday to discuss a summer training and similar projects for teachers.

Only Chains of Fear Are Holding 19 American PoW from Their Homes

By JOHN RANDOLPH

FANNUNION (AP)—A "very reliable source" said tonight that only chains of fear are holding back 19 of the 22 American war prisoners who refused to go home.

The other three, he said, are confirmed Communists who are dominating the little group of Americans who stayed behind.

The source, who declined use of his name, said the three Communist Americans and their Red captors have drummed terror of going home into the 19 by telling them they now are "outside American law" and can be executed as traitors.

He painted this bleak picture of the neutral zone camp where the Americans are held with some Britons and 332 South Koreans—a handful of deceived, bewildered and frightened men, afraid to return home but more fearful of going home because they believe they would be executed.

Twenty-three Americans originally were held over the head by the neutral nations repatriation commission in September—even the Reds said had refused repatriation.

One, Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson, returned to the Allies last month by his own choice, leaving 22 Americans who also have returned.

The 22 other Americans are awaiting interviews by the United Nations command on the possibility of their return. The UN command has not announced when it will begin.

The informant said letters from relatives and friends "probably would do more than anything else to convince the fearful 19 that they can be free Americans again."

Abbott Says Reallocation Of Taxing Powers 'Futile'

MONTREAL (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott said" today" it would be "futile" for federal and provincial governments to attempt a reallocation of responsibilities and taxing powers.

"There is no magic formula that will settle all our problems at a stroke," Mr. Abbott said in a speech prepared for delivery to the Canadian Club.

Present tax agreements between the federal government and three provinces—Ontario, Quebec—are "the best solution I have been able to find" he said.

The minister reviewed the development of the agreements, under which the provinces allow federal collection of corporation and personal income taxes and receive action duties in return for annual payments.

No one would suggest the existing situation was a "final and perfect solution." There was "no easy answer."

RAISE UNDETERMINED

"One thing I think is clear in any approach to federal-provincial fiscal arrangements," Mr. Abbott he said. "That is the futility of attempting to allocate the responsibilities and revenue fields."

"Two great series of changes" had undermined the basis of federal-provincial tax arrangements in the British North America Act of 1867.

One was a series of technological changes which had brought demands for giant highway and hydro systems.

The second was a world-wide change in the concept of the function of the state, and the assumption by the state of an ever-wider range of responsibilities for health, education and general welfare."

Mr. Abbott termed present tax fields "crowded" but said the growing share of taxes taken by the federal government is based on "the will of the majority of the people."

NEW APPROACH

A suggestion to "start afresh" in the tax area would mean that various levels of government would not be a workable solution.

"This approach might be helpful if the various tax fields were of equal value to all the provinces, but of course they are not.

"Any allocation of tax sources which would be adequate in most of the needs of the wealthier provinces would leave the less well-off provinces with a balance their budgets or to provide services at standards which they consider proper. Moreover, a rigid allocation of tax fields could not be adapted to meet changing requirements. . . ."

Adenauer's Bloc Victorious In Hamburg State Elections

HAMBURG (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Ade nauer's "Hamburg bloc" uprooted the Socialists from their stronghold here in Sunday's Hamburg state election. The bloc displaced the West German federal government's rule in the city, which through its pro-Western policies.

Complete official returns in the bloc — the Christian Democrats, Free Democrats, the Germany Party and the Refugee Party—of 97 of the state parliament's 120 seats. The voters also elected a Socialist state governor, Minister-President Max Brauer, in favor of an Adenauer man who will have the task of appointing the state's three representatives to the upper house of the federal parliament.

WILL GIVE CONTROL

Those appointments will give Adenauer's coalition a two-thirds majority it needs in the Bundesrat, the federal government's upper parliamentary approval of plans to rearm Western Germany and integrate it with West Europe's defence set-up. The coalition already controls a two-thirds majority in the lower house, the Bundestag.

While Adenauer's Hamburg triumph was not as impressive as his federal grandstand win, the federal general elections last September, he showed that the bulk of West German voters are solidly behind the 77-year-old chancellor's foreign policy.

The bolly – contested election in Hamburg — is known as "a national figure . . . one of the most important men in the United States."

Randolph Leigh Takes Own Life, Killed Wife

MCLEAN, Va. (AP)—Randolph Leigh, 46-year-old traveler and former newspaper man, was found hanged in his country home Sunday, with the body of his 43-year-old wife nearby. She was killed by a shotgun blast.

The bodies were discovered by the couple's 16-year-old son, Richard and the six-year-old granddaughter of Mrs. Leigh by a previous marriage.

Making the discovery, the children went to the nearby home of Dr. Randolph Leigh, Jr., son of the couple by the first marriage. Dr. Leigh ran back to the other residence, cut down the rope with held his father, and called police.

Authorities did not immediately issue a formal opinion on Mrs. Leigh's death.

LEFT NOTES

Police said the dead man left a three-page note which he left with his son Richard, but refused to disclose its contents.

Dr. Leigh told reporters that his father told him that the fatal shooting was accidental, but that he felt he would have difficulty in proving it was accidental, and that because of his two-year-old marriage to a Negro, he would be tried.

Leigh, a native of Memphis, Tenn., was publisher of the Cheyenne, Wyo. State Leader and the Tucson, Ariz., Star, from 1940 to 1946 to 1920. The three subsequent years he was a traveler for the Los Angeles Times.

Leigh organized the national labor party in the political contest. He was the author of several books.

Moslem Veils Might Save Lives In Lethal Fogs

MANCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters) A Manchester university student today suggested that Moslem women don yashmaks (Moslem veils) to protect them from the lethal yellow fog enshrouds the capital.

Last week Britain plunged into a "great debate" over what sort of fuels people should use to fight off the noxious fumes which in the last few weeks have been caused the deaths of 4,000 persons in one week. Doctors suggested the use of surgical masks.

The student, Bernice Hamilton, suggested in a letter to the Manchester Guardian that British doctors could easily yashmaks designed "in the most popular autumn colors."

Miss Hamilton argued that the "becoming" yashmak would be better for women than masks which would make them look "like something out of an operating theatre."

GALES BATTER BRITISH WESTERN COASTAL AREAS

Many Parts of South England Flooded

LONDON (CP)—High, whistling winds battered much of western Europe's coastal areas today but in the tricky Northern weather brought summer sunshine and balmy breezes to Scandinavia.

Gale warnings were hoisted along Britain's coasts after 24 hours of torrential rains and hurricane gusts caused havoc of shipping and flooded many parts of southern England.

Three records were reported in Britain as winds swept the Danish coast.

A 350-ton Norwegian freighter was reported missing.

Sweden basked in extremely mild and sunny weather. There was still no snow in the north.

Abnormally mild weather was also reported in Norway. But wind and rain shipped the coastal ferries.

THAMES RISE BANKS RANKS

In England, the Thames broke its banks in several low-lying places after night-long rains, but no severe damage was reported.

The river rose nearly a foot in Windsor and water covered the riverside promenade.

In Northern Ireland, torrential rain caused flooding in several districts. At Enniskillen, one section is in the narrowest part of Lough Erne, 70 miles west of Belfast, is feared the most serious issue in many years.

After the first October since 1861, winds and rain battered the Netherlands. But again no damage was reported.

A 14-yearold boy was drowned today in northern Italy while trying to cross a swollen mountain torrent. Another person perished in a landslide in Trento province, northern Italy.

Millard Critical Of Workmen's Compensation Bd.

TORONTO (CP)—C. H. Millard Canadian director of the Congress of Industrial Organizations (CCIF), Sunday has accused the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board of shirking its responsibility for accident prevention.

Speaking at the first accident prevention conference of the Ontario Federation of Labor, Mr. Millard he said the board is ignoring one of the basic requirements of the provincial act which established it in 1915. The other is to arrange compensation for injured.

"Surely the time has arrived for the board to call in several of workers and their families, to cry out against the needless waste of human life and limb. We should demand that the board act to reduce the accident rate," Mr. Millard said.

He said that during its 38 years the board has paid out $248,827,000 in benefits including $107,830,000 during the last five years.

"In that time there have been 322 deaths from industrial accidents and 663,000 disabling accidents in 1953. A total of 163,349 accidents have been reported.

"The Canadian Federation of Labor should insist that the compensation board discharge its responsibility for accident prevention or delegate its program to which organized labor can actively participate."

'Guys and Dolls' Altered for Queen But Salty Version She Has Seen

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and other royal guests saw a bowdlerized version of a specially-censored version of the American musical, "Guys and Dolls," at the Royal variety performance tonight.

The scene was watered down because the Queen attended the royal variety show were afraid that the original was too suggestive in its dialogue and a song which makes fun of a religious sect.

Yet the Queen and her husband have already seen the musical, and Princess Margaret has even seen it three times. So they all know the original version of the "censored" scene.

They will know that the mission hall meeting setting has been changed, the dialogue altered and the lyrics of one of the show's hit tunes—"Sit Down, You're Rocking The Boat" — rewritten. Princess Margaret called for an encore of the song when she saw "Guys and Dolls" for the second time.

Changes made in the original version is set in a "save the soul" mission staffed by revivalists instead of the missionaries those worn by Salvation Army members. But there is no "Salvation Army" theme song tonight.

Banned from the dialogue are the words "brother" and "sister." Instead of "sinners" they talk will be about "characters."

A Royal variety show press officer explained gravely to grinning reporters that the scene was altered "merely because of the necessity to be discreet on an official occasion."

Tito Reported Ready To Bargain On Trieste

Might Offer Closer Military Co-Operation

BELGRADE (AP) — Persons close to the Yugoslav foreign office are circulating reports that President Tito is willing to bargain with the west on Trieste. They say he might offer close military co-operation, possibly joining the Atlantic Pact, in return for concessions on the disputed territory.

The reports during the week-end may have been trial balloons to test reaction. However they came from sources so closely connected with the foreign office that they cannot be discounted.

Yugoslav demands are uncertain. But as a minimum, it was said, Tito probably would expect outright annexation of Trieste's zone B and a sea outlet in zone A, which contains the important port city of Trieste.

Tito has already has military control of zone B, the territory surrounding the port. Zone A is held by Britain and the United States, who have announced their intention of handing it over to Italy. Strong Yugoslav opposition has caused the two western allies to postpone the move.

Although Yugoslavia rejected Western bids to join the 14-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization, there is said hope for the current reports s he might reconsider in a trade on Trieste.

Yugoslavia claims Italy is using her membership in NATO to put pressure on the West, thus gaining the upper hand on the Trieste issue. This is backed upon here as an important factor in any official Yugoslav reasoning.

Another point worrying consider. able weight in Belgrade is the fact that Yugoslavia has been placed below NATO countries on the priority list for U. S. arms deliveries.

Shadow Cabinet Of Conservatives Nearly Intact

OTTAWA (CP)—The official Opposition, the Progressive Conservative party, will start the 22nd Parliament Tuesday with its shadow cabinet virtually unchanged from the last session.

The shadow cabinet is composed of the chairmen of committees of Opposition members of the activities of government departments. It also represents the party's executive. No cabinet changes have been announced.

Only two former members are missing from the group. They are Gordon Graydon, member for Peel who died recently, and Percy Black, former member for Cumberland, who did not run in the June 10 election.

Mr. Graydon was chairman of the Opposition's agricultural affairs committee, deputy Opposition leader and chairman of many meetings of committee heads. Mr. Black was chairman of the railways, canals and transport committee.

Mr. George Drew, Opposition leader, has not yet announced successors.

Second Foot Of Victim Found In Laurentians

MONTREAL (CP) — A second foot belonging to an unidentified man whose mutilated body was discovered Wednesday in an eastend lane was found during the week-end by a farmer near a Laurentian mountain highway.

Police said the farmer, whose name was not disclosed, found the right foot of the victim Saturday, 40 miles north of Montreal.

Discovery of the second member, boy said it was made only a mile from where the man's left foot was found Friday by another farmer.

The left foot was found Wednesday wrapped in an old blanket. Feet, hands and head lacked off, after the man had been shot dead.

Police said they are working on the theory that the killers dumped other missing parts of the body in the Laurentians or in the surrounding region to prevent identification.

So far they have only been able to say the victim is between 25 and 40, of heavy build and possibly the victim of a gangland slaying.

FRANKSTEINS KEPT FIREMEN BUSY

Hallowe'en pranksters made it a busy night for city firemen as a tempting pile of leaves proved a ready target for the match or cigarette lighter that brought the fire alarm sounding.

Firemen stated they were called out on six different occasions for burning leaves in various parts of the city. In each case the blazes were believed caused by Hallowe'en pranksters.

Miss Gertrude Gunter, school teacher at Glen Miller school has been honored with the award of a Coronation Medal for long and efficient service as a public school teacher.

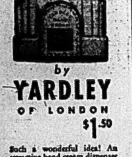
GROUP OF YOUTHS PREY UPON OTHERS ON HALLOWE'EN

Some of Hallowe'en's costumed masqueraders did at least, took advantage of their evening and lived the part.

Dressed as "hoodlums" a group of youths terrorized the town around twelve to fourteen years of age, actually staged "holdups" while hiding their victims' acts under the guise of their camouflage.

It was simple, as could be expected from this type.

They merely waylaid youngsters from the ages of six years to nine, "held them up" by grasping their hands and twisting them while the helped themselves to the candy and apple loot.



Then they ran away laughing while broken-hearted youngsters sadly took their way home.

He is survived by his wife, the former Isabel McMillan and five children, two daughters Anna and Madge, and three sons, Douglas, Grant and Stanley, all at home.

Two sisters, Mrs. Colin (Violet) Bain of Bellevile, and Mrs. Clarence (Eggie) Roe of Ivanhoe, and six brothers, Clifford, of Ajax; Arthur of Rochester; Leslie, at home; Fred of Belleville, Ormsford; of Bloomfield, and Dayton of Belleville, also survive.

NATIVE WORKERS

CAPETOWN (CP)—The South African government has endorsed the principle of employing native drivers and conductors in buses serving native areas. The minister for native affairs, Dr. W. W. M. Eiselen, said "natives should gradually be encouraged and trained to build up self-respecting and progressive communities."

Vehicle Strikes Highway Sign, Hydro Pole

Taking a sick dog to his animal hospital proved costly for Dr. Harry W. Burns, of 109 Dundas Street, Sunday night when in rounding the curve at the Devil's Elbow on west of Bridge Street, he car went out of control, struck a highway sign and hydro pole and broke off a telephone pole.

Damage to the late model car amounted to approximately $1,500. Dr. Burns and the ailing dog escaped without injury.

Police said that Dr. Burns was east bound on Dundas when in rounding the turn at the Devil's Elbow he noticed a line of approaching traffic. He swung his car to the right but it mounted the sidewalk, struck and broke the telephone pole, but the highway sign then veered across the street where it struck the hydro pole before cutting back again to the right side of the street.

Near the intersection of Bridge and Bleecker two cars collided causing about $500 property damage.

Also on the corner of Bridge Street, was eastbound on Bridge when approaching this car was in collision with a second vehicle driven by Gerald Smallwood, of Madoc, which had turned off Bleecker.

Several other minor traffic accidents were reported to police over the week-end.

Wayne Kingston, age 10, of 7 Elm Street was hit by his bicycle into a parked truck and received a cut over his right eye.

Two District Motorists Hurt Over Week-End

Two Belleville district motorists went to hospital with facial injuries sustained in crashes as a result of separate motor accidents on the Trent Road, west of Belleville.

James Graham, manager of the Cash and Carry Grocery, suffered what were stated to be severe facial cuts when his English model sports car went off the road, struck a culvert and went on into the ditch. The accident occurred at 2.30 Sunday morning about three-quarter half miles west of the city.

Two tickets later Warrant Officer Wilfred LeBlanc, No. 6 R.D. Trenton, dozed at the wheel of his car and it left the highway and crashed into a tree near the Ontario School for the Deaf. He was taken to Belleville hospital with facial cuts and was later transferred to the Trenton RCAF hospital. Damage to his car amounted to approximately $1,500.

Both men were driving alone when the accidents occurred. Provincial Constables Tasker and Toll investigated both accidents.

SWEDISH GRAIN

STOCKHOLM (CP)—As a result of good harvests this year Sweden will have about 300,000 tons of wheat for export, plus 100,000 tons of rye and 70,000 tons of oats and barley. Wheat orders have already been received from Brazil, Western Germany, Spain, Yugoslavia and Britain.

Hallowe'en Property Damage Restricted to Broken Windows And Up-Rooted 'Stop Signs'

Barring a few park benches that found their way into the centre of main thoroughfares, the odd mail boxes that were removed from their foundations and some broken window panes, Hallowe'en 1952 was fairly quiet considering according to the local police.

Inspector Clare Hayes reported that property damage within the city limits was restricted to several broken windows. He said that the police received many calls but, the damage was held to the broken glass.

Nevertheless, painting of glass with the old familiar soap compound appeared to be the order of the evening. It is doubtful if ever a line of glass on Front Street escaped the ravages of soap. Plate glass windows in Bell's were not the only glass to received 'the treatment', parked autos got their share.

At the end of Gordon street celebrants who apparently were not afraid of a bit of hard work carried a number of cement blocks from where a house was under construction and played them in the centre of the street.

Some persons in the city apparently have a dislike for stop signs. Alderman Jim Thomas reports he made a rapid survey Monday morning and discovered a considerable number of these signs uprooted and thrown on lawns or in ditches in the east, west and west hills.

Since these signs are all rooted in cement, it must have been quite a job to heave them from their moorings. George H. Carver, sports editor of this paper and resident at 47 Campbell street was this morning in time to wrestle one of these heavy signs from his front lawn. It was lying in the middle of the garage doors.

Mr. Thomas, who described the act as "indiscriminate vandalism, perpetrated by either old teen-agers or young men," stated it will take a crew of men several days to replace the up-rooted signs.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were higher in heavy forenoon trading on today's stock market. The first-hour volume was 1,138,000 shares.

Industrials were firm after a strong opening. Utilities were mixed and papers, liquors and refining oils were a little higher.

Base metals were the only losing group as a fairly wide list slipped. Hudson Bay, Ontario Pyrites, Sherritt-Gordon, and Consolidated Smelters took slight losses. Harrison-Hibbert countered the trend with a 10-cent gain as it traded more than 250,000 shares.

Western oils trading was light and principal issues were up small amounts. Most golds were less than Britain's 10 cents.

Uraniums and Bathurst - area base metals were higher as New Larder, New Morrison, New Mylamaqua, New Senator, New Rouyn and New Bidiamaque made small gains with volumes more than 40,000 shares.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Prices were weaker on steers and heifers and about 31 lower on cows at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: Cattle 6,000; calves 2,700; hogs 400; sheep and lambs 550; holdover 800 cattle.

Fresh receipts included 2,300 westerns. Choice light steers 19-20; good weights 18-19; medium downward to 16; good heifers 17.50-18; plain light steers and heifers 15-16; good to choice cows 10-10.50; a few tops 11; canners and cutters 5-8; good bulls 12-13; choice fed yearlings 21-22; medium down to 16; medium to good stockers 14-18; a few stock calves up to 19.

Included in fresh calf receipts were 1,800 westerns. Vealers were firm at 25-26; medium downward to 15; grassers mostly 1.50-10.50.

Hog prices were not established.

Lambs were steady at 20-21; for good ewes and wethers; bucks 21 discount; heavies 2 discount. A few sheep sold at 4-6 according to quality.

PRODUCE MARKET

The egg market was steady on grade A large and almost steady on medium and small. Offerings were heavy and demand fair. Quotations for graded eggs in fluin cases were: Alarge 50; A medium 39-40; A small 36-37; B 29-30; C 34. Wholesale to retail: large 53; A medium 44-45; A small 41-42; B 44-45; C 29.

Sidney Pupils Compete For Speaking Honors

On Thursday evening, under the chairmanship of Deputy Reeve Byron Harder, and sponsored by the South Hastings Kinsmen Club, Ameliasburg and the teachers of Sidney township, a very successful public speaking contest was held at Wallbridge Laura Anne Woods of the Wallbridge School and Thelma Rushnell of SS No. 23 were declared winners of the seniors, while Allan Slavin of Centenary, and Marion Woods of Wallbridge carried off the honors for the juniors.

Other speakers, all of whom received silver dollars from Sidney township council were: John Dudgeon, Margaret Davies, Suzie Musgrove, Marjorie Baker, Dawn Short, Marilyn Jones, Eleanor Clapp and Betty Grills. Musical numbers were provided by the children of Avondale under the direction of Miss K. M. Bird, the pupils of Glen Ross led by music supervisor Mrs. Verne Clancy. The judges were Mrs. Blue, Mr. and Mrs. Darling, Mr. John Chard, Mr. Art Clare and Mr. H. O. Walkom.

Laura Ann Woods, Alan Slavin and Thelma Russell now represent Sidney township in the public speaking finals sponsored by the South Hastings Educational Association to be held in Queen Alexandra School, Belleville, on Friday, November 13.

Northern Electric Hockey League

Northern Electric's inter departmental hockey league opened a new season over the week-end with Jerks defeating Idiots 6-2 and Buzzards downing Hotshots 4-1 in a double header played at Memorial Arena.

Idiots and Jerks played a scoreless first period. Semark opened the scoring for Idiots with a goal at the two minute mark of the second period, but Locke and Lynch hammered home two tallies for Jerks before the end of the session. Wardaugh, Gregory and Weatherall with two second for Jerks in the third session with Semark notching his second goal and the final tally for Idiots.

In the second game Bell tallied twice, and Bennett and Day scored one apiece as Buzzards downed Hotshots 4-1. York notched the only Buzzard goal midway through the second period to tie the score at 1-1.

SIXTEEN ARRESTED

SARNIA (CP)—Sixteen persons were arrested in a house Sunday and charged with offences under the Liquor Control Act. Police made the arrests in the home of Robert LeBlanc three miles east of here.

Variety Show at McCarthy Theatre One of Best Seen In District For a Long Time

If the stamp of approval placed by Belleville and district residents on the Rotary Club show held in the McCarthy Theatre, Sunday evening, can be judged by criterion then "Variety Village" need have no qualms as to future support of its needs by this district.

The theatre was packed to official capacity and many were turned away. At eight-thirty practically every seat in the "house" was occupied. Extra seats were rushed to the theatre but even these failed to accommodate the crowd.

And the happiest men in the city and district were the members of the Bay of Quinte Theatre Managers Association, representatives of the Variety Club, Toronto, and theatre executives from the same city.

Messrs. George Forhan, Tommy Masuro, William Fawcett and Larry Buck and their confreres from Napanee, Picton and Trenton, were broad smiles as they noted with the satisfaction of a job well-done, the unmistakable success of their first venture into sponsorship of a very worthy humanitarian cause.

A FINE SHOW

Consensus of the large crowd was that the show was one of this world." True, it was unfortunate that Monte Hall, well-known radio personality was unable to be present due to an attack of virus pneumonia, but the "the show must go on" and versatile Ron Thomas, "amazing amusing magician" stepped into the breach in the true spirit of showmanship.

Not only did he do a splendid job of emceeing but his magician artistry had the crowd "stitches" and wonderment. He opened the show along with a funny line a'patter and featured his mysterious cabinet with the "Mystery of the Missing Watch."

Ronnie Mac Hall, well-known Belleville singing entertainer, who came from Hamilton to join the show. Bill brought down the house with his imitation of Jimmy Durante and his own original comedy offerings, besides exhibiting his marvellous mastery of the electric organ in pre- and post-show music. He received a tremendous ovation and was repeatedly "called back."

Len Moss, brilliant accordionist, demonstrated fine artistry on his instrument. He accompanied his musical offerings with a fine display of footwork and kept the audience in a continuous state of merriment. A brilliant linguist, he played and sang the favorite melodies of various nations while his "train tour" with the theme song "She'll Be Comin' Round the Mountain" was a melodic masterpiece.

"Tony the Troubadour" with a guitar almost as big as himself drew from a well-stocked repertoire in a program of song that was delightful to hear. A clear ringing tenor, Tony drew the well deserved plaudits of the large audience.

VERSATILITY SHOWN.

Versatility in person was Barry Phillips, an accomplished organist, pianist and vocalist as well as a comedian of parts. Barry played several organ accompaniments then stepped on the stage in a delightful presentation of song and mimicry. Frankie Lane's voice was well "done" as was the screen voice of Jimmy Cagney with accompanying physical effects. His imitation of Charles Boyer in the Casbah"—for any but other bar you like" had the distaff side of the audience shuttter. His closing number "I'm Walking Behind You" sung by special request caused a rush to the front of the theatre in which one could have heard a pin drop. It was delightful entertainment.

HAD HOUSE IN STITCHES

A rapid-fire jumping jack type of comedian was diminutive Jerry Lader. This half-pint of dynamic energy both vocal and physical had the hose in stitches with a outstanding offering of comedy and song. He rafted down the St. Louis Blues with the audience assisting by Cab Calloway's "Hiley Hiley" with audience accompaniment. His vocal rendition of an army recruit's experience during the first stages of enlistment was an experience in matchless comic patter and lightning like vocal calisthenics. He, too, received the well-earned applause of the audience.

Miss Dorothy Steadman as accomplished pianiste was unable to be present, as was Miss Libby McMorris, comedienne, both of whom were ill. It was an all-male cast which put on a show par excellence.

The show was rounded out by the technicolor motion picture "Cruisin' down the River" which had its Belleville premiere on the screen. It was a delightful musical featuring the old-fashioned Mississippi showboat, which was the centre-

NORTHERN ELECTRIC HAS FINE SAFETY RECORD

There is a tense atmosphere at the Northern Electric plant on Belleville's west hill these days. If the Workmen's Compensation Board is not careful, the day "Kill the umpire" may be declared at Northern—and the Board will be the umpire in question.

The Northern family was getting all set to celebrate two years of accident-free operation on October 18, when an employee reported sick. Now the question is whether it is an occupational hazard. If the Workmen's Compensation Board rules that it is, then Northern has fallen just two days short of reaching its two-year accident-free goal. If, on the other hand, the Board rules that the illness was no connection with the nature of the employee's occupation, then Northern is already well on its way to its next objective, 4,000,000 accident-free man-hours of work, which it expects to reach by mid-November.

That illness caused by the nature of the work, as well as injury through mishaps, should be considered an "accident" under Ontario's system is itself a striking tribute to the safety work undertaken at the plant. This work is the subject of an interesting article by John Turville appearing in the latest issue of "Northern Electric Circuit," the firm's company magazine. Mr. Turville notes in this article that "a spirit of competition, partly inspired but mostly spontaneous, has grown up between departments in the plant and each department has tried to outdo the others in its record of safety."

At the time that Mr. Turville wrote this article, October 15 was still in the future. He noted the hopes of Northern employees that on that day they would be able to celebrate two accident-free years. When the Ontario Intelligencer asked to see whether this had finally been attained, E. J. Rivest explained that the decision was still in doubt, depending on the Workmen's Compensation Board ruling.

Mr. Rivest also gave the Ontario Intelligencer some interesting sidelights on the operation of the plant's safety program. The plant opened here in the fall of 1947; there were already 27 accidents between that date and October 18, 1951. That was when, by an unfortunate coincidence, the firm had its worst accident of the year, which incited the safety committee into being. An employee lost the partial sight of one eye when a saw blade shattered, from a cause which it was found impossible to determine. On that day until the present the plant has recorded 3,500,000 man-hours without an accident, unless the illness of the employee whose case is now before the Workmen's Compensation Board is ruled to be the result of the nature of his work.

E. S. Booth, manager of the plant here, has been the driving force behind the safety campaign since the inception and has, as results would indicate, received the enthusiastic co-operation of department heads and other employees. R. J. Rivest, who is in charge of safety training at Northern, has headed the safety committee since its formation. He says the results of this committee's work are seen not only in the plant but also in the homes of employees and on the highway. The firm's safety record speaks graphically for the achievements in the plant itself. As for the influence of the safety committee's work on the driving habits of employees, this can be seen in the firm's parking lot, says Mr. Rivest. And, of course, the impact of safety training on employees' attitudes in their homes, where statistics show the accident rate is normally highest, is reflected in a decrease in the loss of time from such mishaps while off duty.

U.S. PROPERTY OWNERS UNREASONABLE

There appears to be no letup in the controversy over the high water in Lake Ontario and its effects on the St. Lawrence power project. Suits against the Canadian government and Queen Elizabeth for damages to lakefront property by American citizens amount to over 17 million dollars to date. Property owners, meeting in Rochester, N.Y., have stated that they will seek an injunction to prevent the building of the proposed power project, and the 15 million dollars for damages already sustained by lakefront property.

The argument that the Canadian government is responsible for high water levels in Lake Ontario is like blaming the United States government for droughts in Texas. They are entirely beyond human control, and it is silly to claim omnipotence there is no way for them to do so on the basis of past performances.

Earlier this year the Canadian government had Gut Dam removed from the lower St. Lawrence. There was not one shred of evidence that Gut Dam was responsible for the high lake levels, and there is no evidence that its removal has been responsible for any decrease in the levels.

If the ire of damp cottagers was the only issue involved, we could dismiss the whole situation with a shrug and urge them to move back a few hundred yards into their vast country and allow for normal erosion. But these people, via a property association, are thinking of holding up the entire development of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project with an injunction against New York State's participation in the project. The head of this association has stated that technical grounds alone this injunction will stand.

The property owners intend to file their injunction three days before election. It is stated to ratify a bill permitting New York State to join with Canada in the project.

It is regrettable whenever people lose property and possessions, whatever the causes. But it is folly when a minority construes a manifestation of nature as the wrongdoing of a neighboring nation and proposes to halt essential progress for the gratification of its personal whims.

ENVY

It's human, I suppose, to think
The grass is greener far away;
That plaker is the neighbor's pink,
Than that which makes our gardens gay.

I'm sure that this is so with me,
I never envy my health or share,
But many an artist I can name
I envy for his talent, rare.

I envy all who quickly give
The odd I think of just too late.
But I suppose the while we live
This is for all the common fate.

I wish I had the gift of song.

Soft Collar Is New Hazard

(Ottawa Journal)

For what it is worth we report that Bill Smith, the Philadelphia Bulletin:

"There was a time when diplomats and Foreign Office people were men of few words. Now-a-days they are forced to speak on anything, anywhere, any time, at the drop of a Homburg hat.

"Students of international affairs view this wordiness with alarm. Lately experts fix the blame on the introduction to formal wear of the soft collar, which allows a statesman to wag his jaw freely. In the old days, whenever an ambassador started to say something, the sharp points of his starched collar scratched his throat, reminding him that wisdom dwells at his foot in his mouth with closed lips.

"Nobody will suppose, of course, that this could have the smallest influence on the learned diplomats who are invariably models of decorum and perfect examples of international etiquette; but even so they will be interested in advice considered good for older and less exemplary practitioners of the diplomatic art.

In fact most of us need to be reminded occasionally that rarely does anyone get into trouble over the things he has left unsaid or the words he has left unwritten.

SIGN AND SYMBOL

Along a turnpike in an eastern state, one frequently sees the sign, "No stopping except for repairs."

This, of course is a good regulation. No one could have any quarrel with that. But is more than a regulation—it is a symbol of modern life! We have come to the place where most of us are never ready to stop except for repairs. We drive along with our overloaded schedule until we have a nervous breakdown, or a coronary, or we dissipate the night hours away and then wonder why our business goes to pieces and we find ourselves standing among our fellow. We scoff at the idea that there is anything the matter with us, and at last when we get a heart attack or a stroke, we go to bed for six weeks or six months, whether we like it or not. We insist that we are too busy to take vacations out under the blue sky and then we indulge in a long vacation under a red blanket.

"Too much speed! No time to stop except we have to stop for repairs." That's why society has to spend so much on hospitals and lunatic asylums. And right here it might be well for us to remind ourselves that half of the mental beds in the country are occupied by patients suffering from nervous disorders.

Not Easy to Loaf

(Washington Star)

In these glamorous days, when idleness pays off at all but a minute, few things could be more timely than what two medical authorities have had to say in favor of reviving the art of loafing. Let their names be mentioned here. They are Dr. Saul Taran, a New York heart specialist, and Dr. O. Spurgeon English, a Philadelphia neuropsychiatrist. They are good men whose experience with coronary and mental cases has convinced them that our society is driving itself much too hard. And so, in an effort to help, they have written out a delightful prescription for all of us—namely, that we treat ourselves, periodically, to generous doses of utter indolence.

Unfortunately, however, this is something that is not as easily said than done. For the art of loafing—here the two wise doctors declare—is not a simple art to pursue in these hectic times. On the contrary, anybody who would aspire to it must reckon with two powerful enemies, among others:

A vast body of literature that has cast it into disrepute with such phrases as "idle hands are the devil's tools" and "the early bird" and words like "sloth" and "sluggardliness" and (3) well intentioned friends who militantly insist that idleness is the root of all evil and judging himself in complete inactivity, should devote all his free time to some "worthy cause" like plodding up and down mountainous hills to play golf.

In the teeth of such obstacles it is obvious that an individual, if he wants to develop into a good loafer enjoying the esteem of his community, must do two things on the outset. First of all, he must make clear that his exercises in indolence are in keeping with the Hippocratic oath prescription—that is to say, that they are not to be confused with "health," but are to be regarded merely as periodic therapy for the stress and strain undertaken solely for the sake of his health. Beyond that he must try to educate his hobby minded friends to the fact that the art of loafing, in its pure form, is the art of doing absolutely nothing and that therefore they profane that art when they presume to argue against it in favor of strenuous activities like golf.

Once he does these two things (and he will find them anything but easy) the aspiring loafer will be free to get down to the serious business of practising the art itself. At this stage, however, even the less serious are likely to run into trouble—distractions of every description will make it extremely difficult for him to do absolutely nothing. But he should not let himself be unduly discouraged. In due course, after a number of years, he will begin to find himself surprisingly adept, though not perfect, at sitting all day at a wall or engaging in some similar inactivity. Then, if he keeps trying hard enough, he will come to know the sweetness and restorative value of indolence and he will appreciate more than ever these stinging words of Walt Whitman: "Loaf and invite my soul! I lean and loaf at my ease, observing a spear of summer grass."

How relaxing.

Why This Aid To Red Plans?

(The Enslen)

Today in Canada there are thousands of fatted Canadians anxiously awaiting the day when they can exercise their God given privilege of the protection of Canadian citizenship.

They have come often from homelands in which they have left behind them the dreadful curse of Communist cruelty and Godless persecution. They look with horror on Communist regimes which have murdered their nearest kin and hold captive those others still in their clutches.

Many of us, as we know, the efforts being made in our own country to undermine and destroy these terror regimes, whether in Communist China or in the part of Russia itself, to extend their fearsome influence over these regions by some of the most refined forms of blackmail, through holding relatives and friends behind the iron curtain to exercise their terrorist control over the helpless people of the occupied territories.

To find these unfortunate people, whether Poles or Hungarians, Czechs or Russians, Ukrainians or Baltic States, they are now, and still under the jurisdiction of the representatives of these terrorist governments, is to drive terror into their hearts and to expose them to dangerous coercions.

For that reason it is as surprising, as it is astonishing to learn that it is precisely what the Passport Department of Canada has been and still doing.

Many of them need identification papers, having abjured their Red-travestied nationality, which is their only identification, whether from Ottawa by the passport department, or from the U.S.A. we regret that the issuance of a certificate of identity, which we have held-until I receive refusal from the USSR embassy on the renewal of their Canadian passport." Why should the USSR embassy refuse an opportunity of continuing its influence over refugees being pushed into its arms by those to whom they come to escape this terrifying experience!

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FOR THE FUN OF IT!

We would be healthier and happier human beings if we looked upon the hours we spend at work each day—as fun! After all, it's what we earn that is later converted into personal belongings, into travel, reading, entertainment, food, and whatever else contributes to our well-being.

So look upon our work as drudgery, or something that has to be done for a certain amount of compensation, we can be assured in advance that we will not perform it with any efficient manner, and something precious in our make-up will be destroyed and wasted or thrown away. And that something is our self-respect and our inborn pride.

Haven't you witnessed workers who were so interested in their work that they found it difficult to stop on time? A Pittsburgh steel worker once wrote and told me of the job he experienced in getting promotion—he changed the steel into a thing of beauty. He mailed me some samples of this change and I must say that the newer kind of his work because, besides his pay, he got this additional joy in the form of beauty.

I have seen athletes, training for their contests, bounce through the most strenuous exercises, simply because they found in a gymnasium, at the same time enduring many a sacrifice that they might be in top form for the hope of triumph. These same athletes would resent it if such a procedure should there be no glory, little money or fame to be won. Why? Because the more people in this world who will work for the joy of it, knowing that it will be additionally paid, beyond their agreed salary, in health and inward satisfaction?

You don't have to worry over the work that is being done by one who whistles or sings as he works at his job. Certainly, that work is of such a nature that no one is ashamed of it. The only reason is that one who gets fun out of

Can De-Bug By Flashlight

(Chicago Daily News)

Apparently there is no end to the things the versatile Mr. Sorgens meeting in New York are reminded by a specialist that he is outstanding. In the case of a bitter flavor that discourages small insects from dropping in to lay eggs, he is told, it can be used to invade this delicate and awkward area, he suggests a set of stiff couple way to dislodge it. Just hold a flashlight up to the ear and the noise directed will come out under its own power to investigate. Quality of insects and light is well known.

Your Humble Servants

(Montreal Gazette)

"Atticus," writing in the Sunday Times, London, mentions an organization which Canadians will wish had been founded here. They are the Lord Stanley of Alderley founded a club whose qualifications and requirements are most attractive.

No dues or other monies are demanded. The only requirement is do not know each other. There is only one qualification to membership. Each member, when writing to a government department, must end his letter with:

"You are, my dear sir,
Your obedient servant."

This reminder seems an excellent one.

Why should some of our officials be left in doubt as to the correctness of their views? If the dictates of humanity toward the refugee are not convincing enough, the dictates of common sense with regard to the safety of our own country should suffice.

NOT NEARLY ENOUGH IODIN

Dr. Brady

According to an arbitrary assumption of nutrition authorities the minimum daily requirement of iodin (iodine old style spelling) for man, woman, or child has been estimated to be one-tenth of a milligram a day. This would be equivalent to 1/100th of a grain a day.

It is conceivable if an individual assimilated 1/600th of a grain of iodin every day in the year it might prevent manifestations of iodin deficiency.

But for my metabolism I prefer not just the least possible amount of iodin per day that will keep me alive but an optimal daily ration, several times as much as that, which will keep me not just alive but full of pep and fettle.

Dr. Pitzmoser and other recognized authorities established the optimal daily ration for adults at 2 milligrams and children at the equivalent of 1/6th of a grain a day. D. T. Quigley, M.D., U.S.P.H.S., recommends 0.15 milligrams a day, in his book The National Nutrition.

O. P. Kimball, M.D., recognized authority on the prevention of goitre, recommends the use of "iodized" salt, giving the entire population of the salt (universities such as that formerly used in the Kanawa River Valley, West Virginia with a perfect record of prevention of endemic goitre. The natural, "sea" salt, instead of "unrefined" salt formerly used in that region contained practically the same amount of potassium iodide as refined salt manufactured. Iodin was added to refined salt to make it "iodized" salt, that is, 0.01 per cent—the equivalent of a little more-half grain of iodin in a pound of iodized salt.

In the chemical process, oxidation or combustion that goes on constantly is what we call life. The rate of oxidation or combustion, like the pulse rate, rate and depth of breathing and the height of body temperature varies with the activity of the chemical process, and the activity of the process is regulated by the hormone produced in the thyroid gland in the neck behind the sternum (breastbone) and in front of the windpipe.

The thyroid gland normally weighs less than an ounce. Only when it is enlarged (goitre) does bulging or swelling appear in the front of the neck above the breastbone.

The thyroid gland is the storehouse of nearly all the iodin in the body. In the body of a healthy adult this total iodin amounts to little more or less than a grain, according to various analyses. But as the iodin in food and condiments in iodin reserve must be constantly maintained. In short, iodin regulates metabolism.

Simple endemic goitre is an uncomplicated result of one of the numerous manifestations of iodin deficiency.

The prevention and perhaps the correction of the manifestations of iodin deficiency is of course an adequate daily intake of iodin, and that is a matter of medicine. Everything I say about iodin here or elsewhere applies not to iodin in nutrition. I do not advise anyone to take medicinal iodine or iodides in any dose without supervision of his or her physician.

Messerschmitt Memory Short

(Windsor Star)

Willie Messerschmitt is a good aeronautical engineer, and Adolf Hitler found this fellow useful. Highly thought of were other good aeronautical engineers at the time, especially among the English Spitfire designers. Messerschmitt warrant were kept under appropriate restraint.

There are facts of this competition that the German builder and designer is reluctant to face, even in the day, perhaps, that United States, he has mentioned that in the Second World War Germany was overwhelmed by the number of Allied planes, rather than by their quality. But he admits that the American B-17 Flying Fort and Fort Mustang were good planes for their day.

Numerical superiority in aircraft came to the Allies during the war, it is true; but earlier German weight of numbers was overcome by R.A.F. superiority in quality of machines, as in the Battle of Britain.

Mr. Messerschmitt might have added that the eight-gunned Hurricanes and Spitfires were pretty good for their time, they indeed much better than the four-gunned Messerschmitt fighters' first tried to provide effective allcover for Goering's daytime bombing of London.

Maybe it's just a notion, but we think Mr. Messerschmitt has lived swell and his face reddens at mention of Hurricane or Spitfires. At any rate, it ought to.

A friend of mine who moved from the city to the country might call a suburban farm, a lovely hundred acres fully serviced by the office, but with a boarding trouble with dumpers. A ravine runs along the north end of the farm, and people in the city have recognized it as a convenient dump. Each member, when writing to a government department, must end his letter with:

"You are, my dear sir,

vine. He reported this to his wife, and said:

"I'll put a stop to that."

"No polite still," said the lawyer. "Make it dumping illegal, then."

The signs were repainted. That was last year. Only two loads were dumped. Gaining of the dump this year, my friend again consulted the lawyer.

"Now, you will unload junk and refuse on other people's property," said the lawyer, "and you will be in the right. Shoot at their soft spot. Put up two clear signs, one at each end of the property. 'Dumping Within Two Miles of Here Will Be Prosecuted.' Then why two miles?' my friend asked.

"Well, before they figure it out," said the lawyer, "they'll be at least a mile-that your place."

Hon. Wm. A. Goodfellow Promises Support to Quinte District Handicapped Persons

TRENTON, (Special). — The Hon. William Goodfellow, Minister of Welfare for Ontario, assured a large gathering of handicapped Trenton and district people in the "Legion Hall here yesterday that he would support their movement morally and otherwise as long as he was in office. The meeting was arranged by Miss Eva Morrison of Trenton a disabled person herself.

In his remarks Mayor R. E. Whitney said that Trenton owed a great debt of gratitude to Miss Morrison's enthusiasm and drive. "I never realized there were so many people, who needed meetings like this," he said.

Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P., of Belleville in his greetings also called on the Minister of Welfare to address the gathering.

The Welfare Minister revealed that Ontario has pioneered the legislation providing pensions for those impaired through no fault of their own. He said that in 1937 this was introduced in 1951 not without knowing that plenty of problems would arise in the drafting of the act. "We anticipated 4,000 would apply and we found in the first year 10,000 had already made application for the pension, which will be necessary to increase disabled pensions estimates to $3,000,000 this year," he declared.

"The Province paid $2,000,000 to the handicapped last year."

Mr. Goodfellow pointed out that the Welfare Department realized there must be a program to take care of the handicapped. He suggested that all handicapped who can be rehabilitated should be encouraged for the good of the community and the individual.

NO POLITICAL INFLUENCE

"The pension act," he said, "is also designed to relieve hospitals and institutions. The Minister said that while the Welfare Department found it very difficult to administer the act political influence did not supercede the medical board. The department must be confident despite the difficulty of assessing the disability of people."

Mr. Goodfellow believes that the greatest service can be rendered and could be provided through organizations. He was pleased to see outstanding citizens and philanthropic organizations aspiring. He doubted whether the spending of three or four times more money on the disabled would make them more worthwhile impressed on earlier meeting that a cheerful note to the disabled person means more to them than all the care that can be provided. "If we are going to be a social democracy," he said, "it is up to everyone to share their responsibility." He also emphasized the service clubs and charitable institutes for their excellent job of helping."

In closing his talk the Welfare Minister stated he was sympathetic note. "I am much more sympathetic for the people than you will ever know. I am a social democrat, he said

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Harvie, Miss Joyce Row, of Oshawa and Mrs. D. Freeman of West Hill, spent Saturday with Mrs. Alice Harvie, Cannifton, on the occasion of her 81st birthday. Mrs. W. Edwards and daughter of Belleville, were guests.

Front Rd. W.A. Sponsors Bazaar

The W.A. of the Front Road United Church held their 80th anniversary tea, bazaar and Wednesday afternoon.

The ladies gathered at 2:30 in the church which looked lovely with flowers loaned by Mrs. Seeley graciously extended a welcome to all present and made mention of the different booths and tea room and following prayers pronounced the bazaar open.

ATTRACTIVE TEA ROOM

The tea room looked lovely with its lace covered tea table centred with a lovely 80th anniversary cake, decorated by Mrs. Roy Clarke, president of the group, while bouquets of mums added a pleasant touch. The small tea tables were centred with amethyst bouquets of Cebb apples and Japanese lanterns were among the decorations.

HOME COOKING TABLE

The home cooking table was attractive with an abundance of cakes, cookies, tarts and buns. Mrs. Clifford Reid and Mrs. Gordon Day had charge of this table while the candy booth which with all kinds of candy attracted the eyes of the younger generation, as well as the older ones, was in charge of Mrs. N. Brown.

The apron and quilt booth presided over by Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Botting was eye-catching with pretty aprons and quilts to adorn it. Mrs. Don Bradshaw and Mrs. R. Cizzle had charge of the table of Christmas cards and miscellaneous items which were both useful and pretty.

Mrs. A. Cizzle had charge of the pantry shelf counter and violets and other plants, while Mrs. Clinton Brown had charge of the fish pond and parcel post booth.

AFTERNOON TEA

Dainty refreshments were served the ladies by Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Charles Grass, Mrs. McMullen, Mrs. Glen Bradshaw, Mrs. M. Greatrix, and Miss Lois Bradshaw, while Mr. Gedes Bradshaw had charge of selling the tickets for the tea.

This ended an afternoon of fun and laughter, the meeting of new friends and old friends; and all felt it good to get together once more in a friendly relationship among the different groups from the different churches.

The members of the Front Road W.A., wish to convey their thanks to all who helped make this bazaar a success.

Weddings

YATEMAN—ROGERS

The newly-built Kingdon Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses, 30 Veterans Street, was the setting for the marriage on October 24, of Mary Gertrude Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Rogers, St. John, New Brunswick, to Melville Francis Yateman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Yateman, Belleville. Officiating was Mr. C. L. Poltras, presiding minister of the Kingston congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses.

The ceremony was preceded by an enlightening discourse on the divine origin of the marital arrangement. The wedding music of choice selections from "Songs to Jehovah's Praise," was played by Miss Dorothy Johnston, Belleville.

The bride, wearing a tailored blue suit with white accessories and corsage of pink roses, was attended by Miss Allen Brenzy, Montreal. Miss Brenzy wore a grey gabardine suit and powder blue accessories with corsage of red roses.

Mr. Robert Joy, Belleville, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Yateman will live in Belleville.

Mr., Mrs. G. Allen Morton Happily Wed for 60 Years

Childhood sweethearts, the glow of sixty years of marital love, contentment and happiness shining on their faces, stood together on Sunday afternoon and received the felicitations of upwards of 200 friends of the city and district.

They are Mr. and Mrs. G. Allen Morton, 126 West Bridge St., who observed the diamond anniversary of their wedding.

Many summer winds and winter snows have gone since Allen Morton, now 88 years of age, and Mary Elizabeth Green pledged their marital troth in the farm home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Green, near Thomasburg. The bridegroom had only a short distance to go, since the families were neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton practically "grew up" together. They struck up an acquaintance at a tender age and attended the little red schoolhouse in their neighborhood together.

"Those were the days when we had to carry wood for the school house stove, and many a time our dinner-pails were frozen. But we didn't mind that," smiled the silver-haired "bride of sixty years."

Officiating at the wedding was the Rev. A. L. Geen, uncle of the bride, who was assisted by the Rev. John Fisher. It took place on November 1, 1893.

LIVED AT THOMASBURG

Mr. Morton, a budding young blacksmith at the time, moved with his bride to the village of Thomasburg, where he owned a "smithy." For eighteen years the couple resided in the pretty village before moving to Belleville in 1911. Mr. Morton acquired a blacksmith shop here in the place now occupied by the Campbell Monument on Bridge St. West.

There was no standing "under the spreading chestnut tree" for Mr. Morton. "In those days," he smiled, "we received a quarter for a new shoe and ten cents for a 'set.'" He shod up to eight horses in an eight-hour day besides doing carriage and implement work.

Developing eye trouble, Mr. Morton was forced to relinquish his blacksmith business and fifteen years later acquired a 15-acre farm on the Dundas Road near the railway tracks, where he resided until six years ago when he moved to his present residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton are in fine health, other than Mr. Morton's eye condition, he can see long walks every day and "tinkers" in the garden. Mr. Morton is a picture of health and moves briskly about her daily household tasks. Her eighty-three years sit lightly upon her.

WORK IS PLEASURE

"Retire? Never," she smiled. "Work is the best thing for people kept working they would find it is the best thing they ever did. It keeps the mind occupied. I enjoy it. For me, work is a pleasure."

Mr. Morton never became interested in municipal politics. He was too busy looking after the needs of Dobbin's pedal extremities. But he did find time to join the Orange and Oddfellow lodges.

He has been a member of the Loyal Orange Lodge for sixty-six years and during that time he never missed a "walk" and has been a member of the Oddfellows' Lodge, Thomasburg, for the past 63 years. At present he is a member of the Royal Black Preceptory.

Mr. Morton is a son of the late William (Billy) Morton and Elizabeth Morton, whose forebears came from McGuire's Bridge, a tiny settlement in Northern Ireland.

Members of the immediate family are Miss Luella Morton, at home; Mrs. Charles (Laura) Bishop, Catherine St., Belleville, and Mrs. James (Lela) Cooke, of California. A son Donald passed away twenty years ago. They have six grandchildren, five boys and a girl and six great grandchildren, three boys and three girls.

AT HOME TO FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. Morton were "at home" to their friends on Sunday afternoon from three to five in the afternoon and seven to nine in the evening in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bishop, corner of Dunbar and Catherine Streets.

Upwards of 200 friends called to offer congratulations, while many floral tributes, telegrams and cards were received by the bride and groom of six decades.

One of their proudest possessions which commemorates their diamond anniversary is a message of congratulations from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. The Province of Ontario also sent its felicitations.

Also well-appointed home of Mrs. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Morton looked happily down on a lovely floral arrangement of the diamond anniversary cake, flanked by two tapers.

Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Morton received the guests in the living room, while Mrs. Morton presided at the dining room table. Mrs. Morton cut the cake and Mrs. Bishop served it.

Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. Morton's granddaughters, Mrs. Ralph Bishop, Mrs. Ronald Bishop, Mrs. Ronald Cooke and Miss Jean Bishop.

Mrs. Morton's great granddaughters, Miss Sandra Bishop and Miss Sharon Bishop, were in charge of the guest book.

Mrs. Morton's granddaughters, Mrs. Ronald Bishop and Mrs. Ronald Cooke, presided at the tea table.

Mrs. Morton's great granddaughters, Miss Sandra Bishop and Miss Sharon Bishop, were in charge of the guest book.

Belleville As I Remember It 60 to 70 Years Ago

By Edgar S. Vandewater

Returning now to the northeast corner of Bridge and Front streets was the Dafoe House. I remember the morning it took fire, but having to go to school I did not see much of it until noon hour, but after a hurried lunch we (I think it was Alex McFee, Dick McCaul and myself) went to see the burning ruins, and when going back to school up Pinnacle Street we saw a gathering of men near the Ashley Carriage Works and as we neared them we saw Chief of Police MacKinnon strike a man with his cane. After further struggle the crowd parted and the chief and another officer led a man who was bleeding badly, down Pinnacle Street, across the Market Square to the police station, which was then at the city hall, just south of the main entrance. A few moments later, after the man was lodged in the station cells a noisy crowd gathered outside, then Chief MacKinnon walked out and down Front Street to the wharf, left on the Varuna and did not return to Belleville. Shortly afterwards as election-for position or chief of police between Sergeant McSulman's fancy goods, Dunnil's dry goods (daughter Izzie), Conger's grocery, Gould's men's wear, Allen and Angus McFee had separated, Sergeant McSulman and Lockhart's shoe store, Conger Bros. grocery, Walker's hardware and Sergeant Jones' "walk" in Reman's fur store (sons Sid and Vennoy), Alex Hay's optical store, Anglo-American Hotel (Danny Coyle, prop.) then Ritchie's dry goods and on the footbridge entrance; continuing north was Thompson's furniture store and further north, A. L. Geen's and T. W. Young's drug stores, W. W. Chown's hardware, two sons Allen and Russell, several farm machinery agencies, Hoy's meat factory, and McNellis grocery, Walter Dafoe's Jake Pinkard's grocery store on the corner of Wallace's present property. Next Elvin's grocery, the fire hall and Moore's monument works. Crossing Front Street opposite the upper bridge going south, was the general fist of butcher and grocery stores, a couple of second-hand shops further on, Kyle's Hotel, St. Charles' coach works, Jim St. Charles, two sons, Jim and Doc, then Crystal's, then some farm machinery agencies and Alf. McCauley's grocery on the northeast corner of Front and Victoria, crossing Victoria Street was the Belleville Planing Mills, owned by John Frost, furniture store, Tickell's furniture, John Lewis hardware store, Stroud's, two sons Burrows of Belleville insurance office, Joe Morgan's hat store, Clifford's tailor shop, Miss Farley's millinery store, Fox's clothing store, Dickens' confectionery store, St. George's hotel (Mr. Stirling, prop.), two sons Frank and Leon, Sullivan's barber shop, then Wesely Bullen, liquor store, then we come to Templetory's drug store on the corner of Bridge street.

As a boy of eleven going to Queen Victoria School on Church Street, we celebrated Queen Victoria's 50th year of reigning (1887) when all the scholars assembled in their respective class rooms, then led by our teachers marched north to Sam Retallack's sport's field, it being on the north side of Cooper was the home of Ann. Mr. Retallack was a bicycle enthusiast and had a track there for racing. We were assembled on the bleachers, sang patriotic songs, listened to speeches and saw the bicycle races. I remember that Bert Cooper was the outstanding bicycle rider. All bicycles then had front wheels of about 60 inches high, and rear wheels about eleven inches.

The pupils of Queen Victoria School I might say the Public School stood on the ground floor and the High School above. Some of the Public School teachers were Sam Gardiner, Principal, Mr. Dafoe, Mr. Narroway, Chris Urquhart, Minnie Fleming, Minnie Northcote, and in the High School, Dr. Ponton, Mr. Kennedy, teachers Milburn, Knight, Taylor and Jessie MacRae.

My first school experience was at Octavia Street, School. Miss Harold was teacher and Jessie Jack, Principal.

At just remembered I had an old photograph of Chris. Urquhart's class, taken on the front steps of the Queen Victoria School, and as I look at the picture I can name most of the boys, Frank Bull, Charlie Ostrum, Jim McDonald, Bert Hancock, Frank Dwyer, Minnie Kennedy, Ella Robertson, Bill Lott, Dave Keith, Fred Sifton, Herbert Thompson, Mike Cummings, Bill Thompson, Ben Walker, Billie Love, Bill Wesee, Will Johnson, Alex McFee, Howard Sharpe, myself, Jim Pratt, also Lew Reid and Frost. Among the girls was Olive Maybee and sister, Violet Fitzpatrick, Annie Falconer, Jessie and Gertie MacNab, Bertha Osborne, Annie Carmichael, Lillian Kelso, Annie Hutchinson, Irene Hartnell, Minnie Kennedy, Annie Petrie, Also Walker, Cook and Sheard, Jr.

In closing I might say as I have lived on the West Hill, then on Coleman Street and then on East Hill, I could cite many changes on most every street in Belleville. Hoping your readers enjoy what I have written as I have enjoyed writing it, and as everyone knows after reaching a certain age we love to reminisce and live in the past.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She Doesn't Like Her Husband's Friends—Friend Can Also Be a Menace, Too—Should She Tell Him? About It?

How far is it wise for a girl to go when she tries to censor her husband's friends? And how can she persuade him to give up those she considers undesirable?

"Quite frequently my husband and I get into arguments about his friends," writes one wife, who adds that "they all drink too much." Then she goes on to tell about one particular associate of his who seems to be her special problem:

"One of them, especially, showed such disrespect for our home that I told my husband to quit seeing him. Well, he did not do it. Instead, he allows this man to keep bouncing in and out of our home as if he owned here.

"One night he got drunk at some lady's house, and at midnight my husband was asked over the phone to come and get him. We put him in our guest room, and later I told him in a polite but stern way to quit bothering us. I also told my husband to quit seeing him, but he would hear nothing of this.

"Not long after that my husband had to go away on a trip, and this man dropped in one night to ask if I needed anything. Because my husband had our car, I let him run an errand for me. Then he came back another night and watched TV with the children and me, and left at ten o'clock. The next night he came again, this time to find out whether I had heard from my husband when he was coming home. I let him in, told him I had not heard when my husband was coming, and as too late that he was drunk again. He asked me if he could sit down a minute, I said yes, whereupon he passed out flat. I rushed the kids to bed and just left him there.

"At about 2 a.m. I woke up, scared stiff, for there he was standing right beside my bed. He tried to get fresh. I screamed at him, and he left the house, slamming the door.

"Now my husband is coming home from his trip tomorrow, and I have a good mind to tell him that I'm through with him, if he doesn't stop seeing this man. I love my husband, and we have two children, but I just can't put up with this kind of people any longer. This was not my first experience with his type of friends, but certainly the most horrible one.

"I think if my husband really cared for me and the children, he would not permit such disrespect towards his wife and children."

HER OWN FAULT

Naturally, the question that immediately arose in my mind as I read this letter was: Why was this woman foolish enough to allow this man in her house at all when her husband was away? He had already told her husband to stop his visits, so why not do so herself, and, on at least one occasion, she had told the man to his face that she didn't want him around. Yet, in her husband's absence, when she had the right of way to back all this up by refusing to let him in, she let him three nights in a row. Certainly it was not her husband's fault, but her own, that a most unfortunate incident happened on the third night. For what happened, she, and she alone, was responsible, and if she bawls her husband out for it, she is not only being completely unfair and unreasonable, but is weakening her own case against his choice of companions.

The smartest thing she can do, as I see it, is to tell her husband frankly that she made a big mistake. The fact that she was good sport enough to admit it might easily surprise him into a frame of mind where he would suddenly see his undesirable friend from a new point. Obviously, he is used to being constantly told how wrong he is. If she says bluntly that she was wrong, too, it would strengthen her case, where blaming him once more would, as I say, only weaken it.

However, if she does this, but still fails to win her husband over, then I suggest that any time her husband brings this man, or any similar associate, to the house, she should simply walk out on them. If it happens in the day time, she could take the children and leave the house, staying away until there might be a good chance of finding the visitor missing when they got back. In the event of an evening visit, she could merely take the children and go upstairs.

Let her take this course for awhile, refraining in the meantime from any discussion of the matter, and see what happens. If it proved no more effective than anything else, then some more drastic step might be considered. But before she tells her husband anything so final as that she is "through with him"—which she probably wouldn't, really mean anyhow—I hope she will try this experiment at first and let me know what comes of it.

For Health's Sake

By Mary Moore

Between them the departments of health and education are doing a magnificent job in their efforts to raise the standards of health and learning. But do you know that there are some mothers (and fathers) who object to having a little school card signed by their dentists confirming the fact that their child's teeth are periodically examined?

Whose child does she think is being protected? What does she pay school taxes for? How would she like to live in most other countries in the world where nobody cares whether her child's teeth fall out or not?

. . . and another thing—does she remember that her child at school to study and that one of the subjects that he studies is health? If she neglects to have his card signed, she not only is training him to be negligent about his teeth, but if the card is not signed by the dentist her child's marks for health will be lower?

I harp on the "well-balanced diet" as much and as often as I dare and here I am again today back at it because I'm all steamed up about the ignorance and negligence of some mothers.

I'm going to ask some pointed questions. You don't have to answer because I'm here and you're there, but you will know if you are doing your duty by your youngsters and your husband, or not.

(1) Do you buy a great variety of foods and serve them attractively?

(2) Do you serve your family an adequate breakfast?

(3) Do you serve too many starchy and sweet foods? (Here's where dental decay thrives)

(4) Do you buy enough milk or milk products? (Milk powder is an economical and excellent source of milk.)

(5) Do your groceries include plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables?

(6) Do you spend too large a portion of your food money on fancy groceries or luxury cuts of meat, and too little on basic nutritional foods?

(7) Do you overcook or prepare vegetables and fruits ahead of time, thus losing vitamin and mineral content in cooking waters or by exposure to air?

Good sources of the necessary nutrients are contained in this short table:

Vitamin A—Green and yellow vegetables, apricots and peaches, tomatoes, cantaloupe, egg yolk, whole milk and cream, butter, fortified margarine, fish liver oils, liver.

Vitamin D—(necessary to infants, children and pregnant mothers): Sunshine, fish liver oils, Vitamin-D fortified milk.

Thiamine—Pork, potatoes (particularly baked with skins on), liver, legumes, nuts, whole grains (this means whole wheat bread and cereals), milk, meat, eggs, green leafy vegetables.

Riboflavin—Milk, cheese, liver, legumes, green leafy vegetables, meat, eggs.

Ascorbic Acid—Citrus fruits and juices (oranges grapefruit, lemons, limes), raw cabbage (shredded just before eating), tomatoes, green leafy vegetables, strawberries, cantaloupe.

Friends—have you had your spinach and liver today?

Affectionately yours
Mary.

QUESTIONS ABOUT CHRISTMAS CARDS

The first Christmas card question out of the mailbag this year is one of the most important questions, really the most important question concerning the ordering of imprinted Christmas cards. Here it is:

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am about to order Christmas cards for my husband and me, and this year we've decided to have our names imprinted on the cards. Which form of name should I order. Mr. and Mrs. John Smith or John and Mary Smith?

—Mary.

And here is the answer:

You and your husband want your Christmas cards to be informal. . . don't you? You want them to be personal, friendly greetings from friend to friend . . . don't you? If you want them to have this informal personality, then of course your names on them must be your informal names. That makes sense. doesn't it?

Your informal names are Mary and John Smith. So order Mary and John Smith imprinted below the message on the cards. When the names are imprinted on cards, the wife's name is correctly imprinted first.

WHY NOT CHOOSE A GUEST OF HONOR?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I know that, at a dinner of any degree or formality, the woman guest of honor sits at the right of the host. But what perplexes me is, when an informal dinner, a dinner without service, is given for no one in particular, who is then considered "the guest of honor"—Hostess.

Most dinners today are very informal, and most of them are "given for no one in particular." However, it is a gracious gesture for the hostess to choose as the guest of honor a woman who rates this honor because she may be somewhat older than the other guests, or because she has a distinguished position (for example, she may be one of the officers of the hostess' club) or may be on a house guest, or a guest in the home of a dear friend of the hostess, or she may soon be leaving on a trip. . . there are any number of pleasant reasons why the hostess may wish to make this gracious gesture to one of the women guests. When the hostess is assigning the place she must make this woman very happy when she says, "Mrs. Hill (or Katherine) please sit here by Paul's right." This is one of those social amenities simple and thoughtful to do, and very indicative of the hostess' knowhow. And this gesture is not at all only for formal dinners or luncheons . . . it is for any dinner, small or large, very informal or formal, no-room for me as service. Its charm can't fail!

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

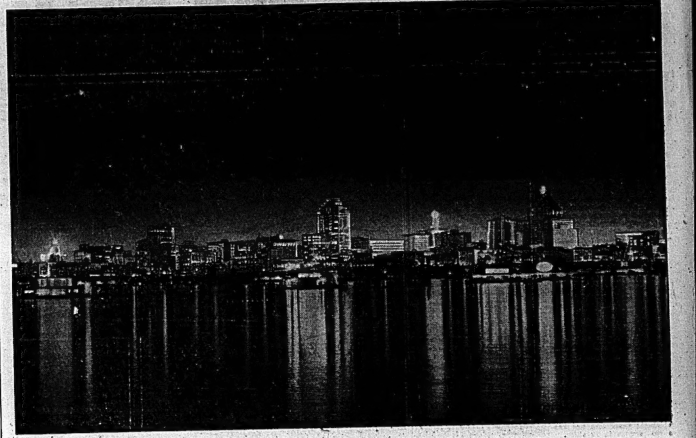
CONVERSATION AND CHARM

What a woman has to say and how she says it contributes so much to her personality and the impression she makes on others that feminine gab should rightly be considered a fit subject for a column devoted to beauty and charm. Talking is the favorite diversion of the members of the trail sex, yet when we are in the company of a sweet, smiling woman who doesn't talk very much but listens attentively, we are likely to bask in her restful companionship.

The wise woman endeavors to make herself interesting. When she speaks, it should be on a subject that is worthwhile and she should use good judgment. She does not talk about books to individuals who seldom read. She does not offer advice, even when it is requested. Nobody is likely to take it anyway and how many of us are really qualified to tell other human creatures what they should or how they should screw their lives!

She does not talk about her illnesses, past or present. It is not a popular subject and there is always a chance that another woman will come right back with a long, tiresome recitation about her operation. And, everyone is bored to tears!

She will not bare her soul, tell about her mental sufferings. She will never, never complain about her husband, his shortcomings or weaknesses. Such revelations are embarrassing to the listener. What can one say?



She will withhold criticisms of mutual friends. No telling how they will be twisted, how distorted they will be when told to others.

Graciousness in speech is important to charm. Too bad some of the sharp-tongued girls do not realize that. Everyone cringes under quick, harsh words. They are like slivers in the flesh, even when uttered in jest. It is cruel to hurt the feelings of another person.

It is a mistake to be a monologist, never letting the other fellow squeeze in a word edgewise. You know the type. Yackety-yack On and on like the babbling brook, saying nothing that is worth listening to. You can't stop her, you can't run away. You are trapped. No charm rating for her! Because she talks too much.

...the Preservers

Preserves include Jams made from fine fruit and sugar boil, pulp and sugar boil, Jellies made from fruit juice and sugar boil, Conserves made from the whole fruit, Marmalades made from fruit and peel, Butters made from fruit pulp and sugar. Kerr seals in just once. The second time's the job.

As the sun goes down tonight...

...it will be the signal for a great spectacle to spread westward across this broad land of ours. Millions of people will see it, yet scarcely one of them will think it worthy of comment. It is the forgotten wonder, lost among so many newer wonders. It is electric light.

From myriad city windows it will shine forth, creating its own beautiful patterns in the night, as in the view of the Vancouver waterfront above. It will stream from the open doorways of farm buildings in remote communities ...poke probing fingers of light into the sky from airport beacons . . . and, everywhere, set about its task of adding pleasant hours to the day for well-earned recreation.

Today we have moved far beyond the point where we light our homes solely for the purpose of being able to see comfortably; we now devise interior lighting schemes for each room to add to the decorative effect of furniture and drapes. We have increased the intensity of outdoor lighting until there is hardly an activity of the daytime that cannot be successfully carried on "under the lights"—from playing baseball and tennis to loading freight cars and landing airliners. In our stores, we use lighting to present the goods in a salescompelling setting. Schoolrooms have a high level of uniform light so that every pupil can study without fatigue.

Modern street lighting, not only adds to the safety and convenience of pedestrians and motorists but provides a reassuring sense of security to householders as well.

Canadian General Electric has been in the business of making electric lamps for over sixty years. It has pioneered a long succession of improvements that have resulted in better illumination—including the inside-frosted bulb, the new White Bulb with even higher efficiency and softly-diffused light, and the remarkably economical, long-life, fluorescent lamp that has revolutionized the lighting of industrial plants, stores, and offices. In no small measure, its work has resulted in the cost of good lighting falling consistently over the years. Not so many years ago a 60-watt bulb cost close to a dollar. Today you can buy one for about a fifth of that and yet it will give you much more light.

As a public service, the Company maintains a Lighting Institute where people from industry, hospitals, hotels, municipalities—wherever good lighting is needed—may learn all that is newest and best in lighting practice.

Long a leader in lighting research, Canadian General Electric can be depended upon to head the steady march of progress towards better, more efficient and more abundant light to serve Canada's needs.

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—For thousands who line the streets of more than a dozen Ontario cities to view the annual Santa Claus parade, Ben Matlock is the nearest thing to Santa this side of the North Pole.

Ben is the paint-flecked genius behind the glittering, $30,000 two-mile long display which kindles the Christmas spirit in young and old.

He and his helpers, working in a large building which resembles an airport hangar, handle tons of papier mache, paint, silver rope, wire mesh, wooden frames, artificial snow and multi-colored cloth to fashion several new floats and remodel some of last year's for this year's parade.

Sketches are transformed into 18 giant floats to equal in splendor even the most vivid dreams of youngsters who have followed the adventures of Cinderella, Humpty Humpty and dozens of other fairy-land folks.

With eight motorized floats hauling the other trailer floats they will head for cities as far away as Ottawa. The first engagement will be at Dearborn, Mich. During the last six years Ben has handled 100 parades in 20 cities.

PLAYS SANTA ROLE

Santa, usually Ben himself, rides a 50-foot, snow-covered combination truck-trailer on which is mounted the traditional sleigh and eight reindeer.

Other floats include a three-car candy train, Jack the Giant Killer, the Old Woman in the Shoe and her children, and Cinderella in a posh carriage. Ben draws many ideas from his library which includes probably the largest private collection of children's books, in Canada.

He and his wife and three children live in a cottage adjoining the plant, situated on three acres of land in suburban Windsor.

Born in a small community near Kingsville, Ont., some 50 years ago, Ben first showed his artistic ability on one of the walls of a house his family occupied. Later he became a decorator in a Detroit department store.

STARTED OWN FIRM

Six years ago he started the firm of B. G. Matlock, Ltd., here and created animated characters and displays for Canadian stores. He got the idea for the Santa parades after Windsor merchants paid $2,000 to "import" a parade from the United States. En route the parade ran into a hurricane and presented a tattered sight by the time it arrived here.

The following year Ben made some models and won the financial support of a merchants' association. The parade has been going ahead ever since.

Besides his usual Santa parade, Ben now is working on various schemes for decorating Windsor during its centennial celebrations next year.

Another pet project is the possibility of creating a "Parade of Progress" which would tour about 30 of the major fall fairs in the province. If he can get enough support from various industries and firms, he said the parade could be extended later to take in more of the 250 fairs held in Ontario annually.

A REAL MOUTHFUL

TORONTO (CP)—An explosion in a housewife's mouth shattered her confidence as a cook. An unnamed Toronto woman reported medical treatment for a badly cut mouth when a roasted chestnut exploded while she was biting it. She admitted she had always considered herself an expert cook—but she forgot to pierce the chestnut before heating it so the steam could escape.

Former U.S. Army Private Duped Doctors in 8 States Masquerading as Physician

CINCINNATI (AP) — A 30-year-old former army private who duped doctors and hospitals in eight states with his pose as an experienced physician will serve the next three years in jail.

His fantastic story, reminiscent of the Royal Canadian Navy's "Korea doctor," was unfolded after he pleaded guilty to charges of misrepresenting himself as a physician to army officials.

He is Harold K. Hain, who used the name of Dr. Samuel P. Hall in performing scores of operations. The Federal Bureau of Investigation arrested him Sept. 2 after he asked a magazine editor if the publication would be interested in buying the story of the masquerade.

TRAINED AT CHICAGO

Hain said he went to the University of Chicago as a pre-medical student. After his "training," a medical placement agency referred him to the Island Lime and Stone Co. of Manistee, Mich., as company doctor.

From there he went to Mississippi, Arkansas and St. Louis, where he worked in a sanitorium for four months.

He became a resident physician at Camden-Clark hospital in 1949 at Charleston, W.Va. There he performed his first major surgery unassisted. There too he married a nurse.

THREE CHILDREN

They had three children. The couple was divorced and he remarried the day after the decree.

From West Virginia, Hain moved to Ravenna, Ohio. He was resident physician at Portage county hospital from October, 1947, to July, 1948. On the move once more, he went to a clinic at Stephensville, Tex. Here he acquired a reputation as a specialist in obstetrics and gynaecology.

But the state medical board caught up with him and fined him $20 for practising without a license.

Undaunted, the dark haired and scholarly-looking Hain asked an ex-patient for a position as company physician in San Antonio, Tex.

TANGLED WITH ARMY

"Dr. Hall" then applied to the United States Army and was accepted as a contract physician. This was the job that got him into difficulties with federal authorities.

The Cincinnati case recalled the hoax perpetrated on the Canadian Navy by an American named Ferdinand Waldo Demara, who posed as "Surgeon Lieutenant J. C. Cyr" and served as a doctor in Korea for several months in 1951.

Demara got hold of a New Brunswick doctor's licence, adopted the doctor's name and enlisted. He was exposed when news stories from Korea told of his work in operating on Korean civilians.

Demara was discharged from the navy and deported.

FRANKFORD

Canal Bridge Now Electrically Equipped

FRANKFORD—The canal bridge in Frankford has been given a new look by the Department of Transport. The bridge which had been swung manually since it was erected, has had electric controls installed and is now equipped with two signal lamps, one at each end, which signal green, amber and red as in ordinary traffic lights, also at each end are two automatic traffic arms 27 feet long, which drop, from vertical to a horizontal position, blocking traffic. This equipment is all controlled by a control panel on the bridge itself, and is powered by a three horsepower electric motor. Another feature is the alarm bell, the same type used on railroad crossings.

LATEST EQUIPMENT

Mr. Lloyd Hanna, canal supervisor of the number 1 division stated that the equipment installed on this bridge, known to him as Frankford bridge No. 6 is the latest and best in use on either the Trent or Murray canals. He also added that a new type of underwater electric-cable was used, made in England, and soon to be manufactured in Trenton at the firm's new branch there. This cable is named parafteran, and the wires are encased in copper tubing.

Mr. Hannah also said that men to operate the new equipment will be trained during the closed season, to be ready for the opening of navigation next year.

Republicans Fairly Confident Of Retaining Control In More Significant Contests

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Election day finds Republicans in the United States Tuesday with Republicans fairly confident of retaining control in the more significant contests — the governorship and a house of Representatives seat in New Jersey.

Democrats are not giving up but neither are they counting too heavily on winning in New Jersey. They naturally would welcome an upset on top of their victory in the normally Republican Second Ninth District Oct. 13. If they should win, they say the Republicans had better be prepared for losing control of the House of Representatives in 1954. The Democrats assert they will retain the only other governorship in Tuesday's voting — Virginia—and they expect to capture a close one for the New York governorship.

The New Jersey contests, plus three contested race for New York mayor, an unusually hot fight for the Virginia governorship and scattered municipal elections highlight the off-year balloting.

LEGALIZE BINGO

Also, six states will vote on 36 constitutional amendments and referenda. These include a proposal on Tennessee's ballot to abolish the poll tax, and referenda in New Jersey to legalize bingo and raffles and to exempt veterans' widows from taxation.

In Pittsburgh Mayor David L. Lawrence, Democrat, is seeking a third four-year term against Leo F. Kane, 53 - year - old real estate appraiser. The city hasn't had a Republican mayor since 1933.

State Senator Anthony Celebrezze, backed by Governor Frank J. Lausche, is the Democratic candidate for mayor of Cleveland, the post left vacant by the appointment of Mayor Thomas A. Burke, Democrat, to the U. S. Senate seat of the late Republican senator Robert A. Taft. William J. McDermott, former juvenile judge, is the Republican candidate.

In Little Rock where the Republicans won two years ago for the first time in 50 years, the Democrats are making a strong effort to unseat Mayor Pratt Remmel. Alderman Aubrey Kerr is their nominee.

35 SENATORS

Politicians will be looking for all possible signs in Tuesday's voting that might help in sizing up the congressional and state elections next year with the Senate and House divided closer than they have been since 1930.

Thirty-five senators, 435 House members and 33 governors will be chosen next year. There now are 49 Republican and 48 Democratic governors.

New Jersey's sixth District is the only one holding a U. S. House election Tuesday. This, and a California special election Nov. 10, are to fill vacant seats formerly held by Republicans.

The upset election of a Democrat in Wisconsin's Ninth District Oct. 13 made the House line-up: Republicans 218; Democrats 214; independent 1; vacancies 2.

Wisconsin's Ninth is a farm district which always before had gone Republican. The Democratic victory there was taken generally as an expression of discontent with administration farm policy. New Jersey's Sixth District is industrial with many wealthy suburbanites. California's vacant House seat is in the Los Angeles District.

Issues have been largely lacking in the current campaigns.

Portable Palace Made for Prince To Go Hunting

LONDON (Reuters) — A camel train laden with a prefabricated portable palace will trek across the Arabian desert soon for one of the wealthiest Arab princes in the oil-rich Middle East.

The "palace" a group of factory-made aluminum buildings, will go wherever 33-year-old crown prince Saud of Saudi Arabia goes hunting. The prince, heir to King Ibn Saud, ordered the palace from a British firm.

Each of the buildings can be erected and dismantled within an hour. The equipment includes a shower and a water tower which will be filled from buckets.

Abduction of Wife Planned Says Police Officer

CHICAGO (AP)—A woman who escaped from an ex-convict after her abduction which police said was planned by her husband says: "I still love him (the husband) and will stand by him."

Mrs. Rosemary Anderson, 27, appeared at the suburban Morton Grove jail Friday with her father-in-law, who posted $2,000 bond for release of her husband, Frank T. Anderson Jr., 26.

Held in jail is John Nowicki, 26-year-old ex-convict and an employee of the Chicago Cutting Die Co. Anderson is secretary-treasurer of the firm, which is owned by his father.

Both men have been charged with conspiracy to commit a crime. Nowicki also has been charged with robbery in connection with stealing Mrs. Anderson's car and $30 from her purse.

John P. Reed, assistant state's attorney, said Anderson told him "domestic difficulties" led him to plot the abduction to "scare" his wife.

SAYS WIFE OUT TOO MUCH

Reed said Anderson told him his specific complaint was that his wife went out too often in the evening, leaving him alone.

The Andersons have been married seven years and have three children.

Reed said Anderson had telephoned Nowicki Wednesday and told him where his wife would be Wednesday night. Nowicki hid in Mrs. Anderson's car and when she started the car to drive to her home in suburban Northbrook, he announced a robbery. After driving about a mile, Mrs. Anderson jumped from the car; Nowicki was captured by police after he rammed the car into a tree.

Nowicki was quoted by police as saying Anderson befriended him after his release from prison in 1951, and there "wasn't anything" he wouldn't do for Anderson "in appreciation" of giving him a job as a metal polisher in the tool factory.

Police said suspicion that a plot was involved followed Anderson's offer to provide bail for Nowicki.

New-Type Barn Being Built As Experiment

MONTREAL (CP)—A new-type barn is being built as an experiment at Senneville Que.

The Macdonald College agricultural engineering and animal husbandry departments report a keen interest in the new barn, which in construction is similar to a large scale igloo.

It is a giant dome 80 feet in diameter and about 40 feet high. Like an igloo, it has no internal bracing, but there the comparison stops.

Designer Jeffrey Lindsay of Montreal describes the barn as a weather-break. He claims it lends itself to mass production techniques, is extremely strong and will have a low depreciation.

The present plan calls for orlon plastic curtains around the bottom six feet of the structure. These could be rolled up in summer. The entire structure will be covered by flat fiberglass plastic panels one-sixteenth of an inch thick, and these are filled with a material to cut some of the sun's heat-rays.

Little Benny's Note Book

By LEE PAPE

I had to write a composition for homework, and I said, Heck, pop, G, ma, I don't know what to write.

Just stick to the subject, pop said. Well how can I? The subject is supose to be, A Turning Point in My Life, and it's supose to be about something different and unusual that changed our future life. Heck, I'm not old enough to have turning points I said.

Oh yes you are, ma said. It certainly was a turning point the day you were born more than a pound to life, and the whole world revolved around your weight for weeks. I can assure you it would have made a grate difference to your future life if the scales had kept on going down instead of up, ma said, and I said, But gosh, ma, if I wrote about that and claimed I remembered it, the teacher propably wouldn't believe me.

You've got a point there, pop said. Well, it was a turning point when you swallowed a teaspoon full of the wrong medicine and had to be rushed to the hospitile to be emptied. You remember that, don't you? he said, and I said, Sure, but that wasn't anything very difrent. Kids are always eating the wrong things and living afterwards. G, I know a turning point. I mean the time the barber was half ways through cutting my hair, and I heard fire engines and ran out of the barber shop with my hair half off and half on, and I had to miss school the next morning because I had to go back and get both sides of my head made alike, so how do I know what I missed in school that morning? It's libel to be effecting all the rest of my life, I said.

Which it is, and I quick wrote a composition about it in 87 words.

It's a funny thing about building pyramids...getting the base on which to build is usually the toughest part of the job. But, the more blocks you lay safely in place—the easier it becomes. You run into the same situation in building savings. The way to save effectively, of course, is to save systematically—to build dollar by dollar—month by month—year by year.

It takes self-discipline to keep at it—and most people find that a bit difficult. But if you really want to save—and everyone does—Canada Savings Bonds are the one sure way to build that foundation. One firm decision—and saving becomes automatic. You can buy Canada Savings Bonds for cash, of course, but you can pay for them on convenient instalments over 12 months. That's the way to build savings—block by block. And every "block" is available to you as cash at a moment's notice without loss or discount—and in the meantime is earning you 3¼% interest each year.

Red Wings Reduce Canadiens Lead As Habs Lose Pair Over Week-End

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

GOOD START!

The first week of play in the Senior "B" group did not bring an say upsets to speak of and the powerful Oshawa Truckers, with a month's practice and a half-dozen exhibition games under their belts, won their first two starts. The Truckers defeated Peterborough 8-3 in their initial outing and Saturday night edged the Kingston Goodyears, last year's champions, 4-3 in overtime.

Belleville Memos, Peterborough Petes, and the Orillia Fontinas, late starters from a practice viewpoint, with the Petes having an edge, held up well in their first-season games. The Memos and Terriers, Johnnie-come-lateties on practice ice, have perhaps larger grounds for improvement than have the Truckers and Goodyears.

The Memos, with a little over a week's practice in their system, gave ample notice they will be a force to be considered in the clash with the Goodyears here last Friday night. Edged 6-5 by a last minute goal, they looked every bit as good as the champions, who, in this observer's opinion, are not as strong as the squad which won the Senior "B" berth last year. They had more polish in their passing and were somewhat more finished around the nets than the Memos, a situation that can be remedied as the season goes on.

"Armchair and rinkside quarterbacks and coaches" should remember last Friday's game was the first of the season, and a few wrinkles have to be ironed out before the squad hits its peak. Even then, Friday night, I was inclined to think the Memos have a stronger team than that of the 1952-1953 edition, and by the time they get straightened away they should make the best in the league know they have been in a hockey game.

Judged from the score and not performance, as we did not see the Kingston-Oshawa clash Saturday night, it would seem the Oshawans are not as strong as touted, or the Goodyears were playing over their heads as compared to their performance here. Again, and don't think for one minute the Goodies didn't give all they had last Friday to eke out that 6-5 win.

The Orillia Pontiacs and the Peterborough Petes battled to a scoreless tie in Peterborough Friday. So despite the 8-3 setback handed the Petes by Oshawa in their first time out, it would seem from the games played this week there is a fairly good equalization of strength in the Dominion.

The Memos go to Peterborough tonight in their 1953 debut with the Petes, and much will hinge on the outcome. Coach "Red" Doran, who was pleased with the squad's showing against the Goodyears last Friday, will take practically the same squad that played Friday night with the addition of Jud Somark.

"Red" was not the least disappointed in the team's showing on its first appearance. "Due to the late start in practice," he said, "we did not have much bigger opportunity to improve than have the Oshawa and Kingston squads who have benefitted greatly by a longer practice time and exhibition games."

The acquisition of Wade and Taylor for the Memos' defence already looks like a smart move on the part of the powers-that-be, while the Duncan twins, who have not yet struck their stride, should add power to the latter's offensive.

Referee Lavis LeCompte, one of the officials of last Friday's game, said he had seen the twins play on several occasions in eastern Ontario, and "they are really tops when they are at their peak."

BOWLING

"Tools" Holway's Central Ontario Bowling League at a meeting yesterday decided to accept the Deseronto entry and make a six-team loop of the group. Other teams are Recreation and Bowl-o-Drome, Belleville; Guay's and David's, Trenton, and Picton Bowl-o-Drome.

Percy Holway announced that the league would establish a flag during the season to help pay entry fees of the league's five highest average holders to the Ontario Bowling Tournament held in Toronto in the spring.

The league gets under way this week with two opening games on Friday night and a single on Saturday.

FOOTBALL

A plucky, hard-fighting team of Albert College Juniors were no match for the heavier, speedier St. Peter's High School, Peterborough, in their Junior COSSA titular clash on Saturday. The "Petes" rolled up an impressive 38-0 score behind the sharp running of Ken Lane. The Blue Caps were held to the ground for their main offensive and they continually smashed the light Albert line for heavy gains. The college youngsters could not match the speed and deception of the visitors but they battled gamely and hard in a lost cause.

Lindsay Snaps Out of Slump With Pair Against Leaders; Leafs Win, Tie for 3 Points

By The Canadian Press

Ted Lindsay, Detroit Red Wings' sharp-shooting left winger, appears to have snapped out of an unusual scoring slump, so it wouldn't be surprising now if the National Hockey League champions began making a shambles of this season's campaign.

The Red Wings made a runaway of the race the last couple of seasons, and it's no exaggeration to figure that with the Detroit captain clipping along at full steam again, the same situation is a definite possibility.

Lindsay, who finished second in the scoring race last year to linemate Gordie Howe with 32 goals and 39 assists for 71 points, scored two goals Sunday night as the Wings whipped league-leading Montreal Canadiens 5-1 in Detroit. They were his third and fourth goals of the season. And the first he has counted in three weeks.

TIGHTENED UP

Lindsay's two-goal activity was disastrous. On Saturday they were blanked 1-0 by Chicago Black Hawks in Montreal. The win broke a four-game Montreal victory streak, their longest this season. Detroit's setback moved Detroit within two points of a deadlock with the Habs. The Habs' whole race was tightened up a notch as Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins, in a tie for third place, gained three points in two games each.

Boston Beat the Wings 3-1 at Detroit Saturday night and Toronto played a scoreless tie with the Black Hawks in Chicago Sunday night. The Leafs also won Saturday, whipping the Rangers 4-1 at Toronto and Sunday night they are five up on the Chicago and New York clubboard for fifth place.

Lindsay counted his two goals in the second period in the Detroit victory over Canadiens. The high-scoring Red Wing forward was driving as he hasn't done before this season and missed a half dozen more chances for easier counter.

OPENING PERIOD

Other Detroit goals by Dave Creighton and Cal Gardner gave Boston its win over Red Wings Saturday night. Leo Labine fired the other Bruin tally in the opening period. The loss was the Red Wings' first at home.

The Montreal scoreless deadlock with Chicago Sunday night was the second shutout for goalie Al Rollins in two outings.

The Leafs' win over New York Saturday night was their first in five games. Sid Smith, leading Leaf scorer last season, got two of their four goals with the others going to George Armstrong and Harry Watson.

Ted Kennedy's goal with less than two minutes remaining in the return engagement in New York Sunday gave the Leafs a tie.

Harry Watson counted the Leafs' other goal which wiped out a tally by Aldo Guidolin. Wally Hergesheimer came through with the third goal of the first period to give New York their 2-1 and it remained that way until Kennedy's tally.

No Champion Decided Here

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Although it has completed action for the 1953, the Big Four Football League hasn't got a champion decided.

Ridley College of St. Catharines and St. Andrew's College of Aurora, entered the league finals here Saturday after each had won two games without dropping a defeat. Saturday's final ended in a 17-17 deadlock and since the league has never played overtime, the title was left hanging in the air.

PAIGE REPORTED INJURED

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) Satchel Paige, veteran Negro pitcher with St. Louis Browns, now baseball's oldest, suffered three broken ribs and a possible dislocated or broken shoulder in an automobile accident Sunday, it was reported.

Jim Williams, who brought the Satchel Paige All-Stars to West Palm Beach for an exhibition game said Paige, three other players and his secretary were hurt when Paige's car was involved in an accident between Savannah and Jacksonville.

Williams said Paige was treated by a physician and taken to a private home in Jacksonville.

WAGERING RECORD SET

Varsity Swamps McGill Redmen; Queen's Wins

By The Canadian Press

A tight down-to-the-wire race for a playoff berth in the senior intercollegiate football union is in prospect as the result of week-end games.

University of Toronto Blues, who have been able to crack Western Ontario Mustangs hold on the college title only once in the last nine years, took a big step with a decisive 34-0 decision over McGill Redmen and Queen's Golden Gaels whipped McMaster Marauders 34-20. The action left Mustangs in the lead just two points up on the Blues and four ahead of Gaels and McGill.

And the Blues have a big homecoming up next Saturday with the Purple Raiders at Toronto. It could be the big game of the schedule.

ONESCHUK AGAIN

The Blues, with Steve Oneschuk showing the way, made it look easy over the Redmen. Oneschuk clicked for three touchdowns and five converts, sharing individual record honors with Ron Stewart of Queen's who crossed the McMaster goal line three times for majors.

The Blues compiled 28 first downs, gained five for the Redmen and picked up 327 yards rushing against only 87 for McGill.

GAELS FULL FROM BEHIND

The Gaels twice came from behind to defeat the luckless Marauders. Jim Dodds kicked a field goal early in the first for Pat Marauders ahead 3-0 and after Stewart went over for his first touchdown in the quarter the Marauders went ahead again on a major by Ken Stanley early in the second.

Stewart crossed the McMaster line for his second touchdown before the half and Queen's never looked back. They led 13-8 after two quarters and 19-14 going into the final 15 minutes.

It was the third such award for Foxx, who had won the league's most valuable player award with Philadelphia in 1932 and 1933.

Tigers, Dutchies Extend Senior Lead With Wins Over Cataracts, Indians

By The Canadian Press

It appears that there's no stopping Hamilton Tigers and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

The Cats and Dutchies pulled out further in front of the Ontario Rugby Association Senior A standings over the week-end as each scored single victories.

Kitchener downed Stratford Indians 4-2 in their fourth Saturday while Hamilton shut out Niagara Falls Cataracts 3-0 in Niagara Falls. It was the fourth victory in as many starts for the Tigers and the fourth victory for the Dutchmen, who have yet to be defeated.

In the circuit's Sunday contest, Windsor Bulldogs took to their home ice for an 8-3 pasting of the Indians.

In the two week-end games in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A group overtime was needed in two of them. Sudbury Wolves edged out Pembroke Lumber Kings 5-4 in an extra period in Pembroke Saturday and Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians battled to a 4-4 tie in overtime in the Sault Ste. Marie Sunday. In a second Saturday game Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.) Greyhounds won their fifth consecutive game when they put down North Bay 8-3.

PENALTY HELPFUL

Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts took advantage of an Indian penalty to rap home a pair of goals for their 4-2 decision. Rank Schiestel, Jim McKenzie, Ron Hurst and Jerry Theberge shared scoring for the Dutchmen. Apples Fladgeon and Steve Dejordy countered for Stratford.

The stellar netminding of Al Bennett, teamed with the sharp shooting of Murray Counsell who fired two goals, gave Hamilton their 3-0 whitewash of Niagara Falls Saturday. Bud Kemp scored the other Hamilton tally.

Gord Haily and Fred Hildebrand netted three goals each for the Bulldogs. Gary Gordon and Lyle Wiseman completed the cycle. Mickey Both, Bob Mader and Tom Walker did the Stratford scoring.

In Sault Ste. Marie Saturday, Johnny Officano scored two for the Greyhounds with the others going to Johnny Thrasko, D. Johnson, Lay, Smelle, Hurst and Heximer. Ab Demarco, Hogan and Zike connected for North Bay.

In Pembroke Saturday night Sudbury Wolves tied the score with two seconds left in the game and then repeated in the overtime period for their 5-4 nod over Pembrokes.

Frank King, with two goals, and Gordie Heal, Gel St. Pierre and Jim Gallant, with one, accounted for the Wolves. Lionel Barbeau and Bruce Glesebrecht bagged two each for the Pembroke cause.

Bo Elik scored for North Bay Sunday with less than two minutes remaining in the third period to Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Sunday to carry the Trappers through an overtime period for a 4-4 draw with the locals. Gord Pankhurst scored twice for North Bay, with Don Hogan collecting the other. Laurie Peterson, chalking up a pair of goals, was the man for the Indians, or Gordie Kerr and Henry Backer shot singles.

Sudbury and Kitchener journey to Kitchener and Chatham Maroons to Windsor for OHA games on Tuesday. Sudbury Wolves play host to Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds tonight.

Ottawa Split-T Pays Off With 20-8 Victory Over Argos; Bombers Win

Riders Now Share Second-Spot With Beaten Montreal Larks; Tiger Cats Tops by 2 Points

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Coach Clare Drake of Ottawa Rough Riders, with a possible assist from coach Darrel Royal of Texas Robinson, is wearing a chuckle following Big Four playoff action.

Royal employed the split-T formation and a powerful ground attack to baffle Eddie Mahrous runaway first-place Alouettes in the Western Conference and Crowe, a straight-T operation man, produced plans he added Royal's method could be the key to Ottawa's success.

He got the split-T a 60-minute work out on a flabbergasted Toronto Argonaut club Saturday and it paid off, with a 20-8 victory before 24,000 fans.

THE COLLAPSE

Victory sent Riders into a second place tie with Montreal Alouettes who lost 32-18 to the Tiger-Cats at Hamilton. As far as Argonauts are concerned, their loss just plain smashed their playoff hopes of coach Frank Clair.

With only two games remaining in the schedule, Argonauts trail Riders and Als by two points and the top position is now out of their reach. One more loss and they are out.

Sarnia Imperials and Toronto Balmy Beach Beachers, second place two points behind Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen before the week-end, scored identical 6-5 victories in a situation that offchecks said left the issue before happened in the history of the union.

The huge shut out the Dutchmen 12-0 at Sarnia. Saturday and Beachers clobbered the last-place Brantford Redskins 31-6 at Toronto Sunday.

PILEUP AT TOP

The three-way tie made a semi-final necessary and a home-and-home total-point series now will be played between Imperials and Beachers. The Dutchmen drew a bye into the final.

The first game of the semi-finals will be played at Sarnia next Saturday and the second at Toronto the following day.

At Toronto quarter Tom O'Malley benefited the split-T assignment star 27 he had been playing it all his football life. Besides running for good gains himself, he had his backs taking precision-like plays north, east, south, passing passes and his line operating in the blocking and pushing style.

HAPPY STARS

At Hamilton, it was almost a personal triumph for Merle Hapes former New York Giants professional who is playing his first full season since 1949. With Tiger-Cats behind 18-7 at the half, Hapes smacked through the Als line for 35 yards, ran for seven of Hamilton's 25 first downs and set up two Cats for touchdowns.

His play fired up the Bengals who scored four converted majors in the last 30 minutes.

Avatus Stone, Bob Cunningham and O'Malley all scored majors for the split-T formation for the winners. Johnny Podoprzal scored his first touchdown of the season and the Argos' only major.

ALL STARS FOR ALOU

Tip Logan, Dick Brown, Bernie Custis, Royal Bailey and Lou Kusserow scored touches for the Titans. Joey Pal went across for two of Montreal's touchdowns with Hal Adrian getting the other.

Dick Gregory was practically a one-man team amassing 21 points for the Beaches on three touchdowns and five converts. Jackie Hagleton added a pair while Jim Corbiere, Maurice O'Callaghan and Bob Schneidebach scored the others. Stan Turejko carried the ball over from the one-yard for Brantford's only major.

Petes Defeat Oakville 19-6

OAKVILLE (CP)—Peterborough Panthers defeated Oakville Black Knights 19-6 Saturday in the first game of a two-game total-points series for the Ontario Rugby Football Union intermediate title. The second game will be played next Saturday at Peterborough.

Scorers for Peterborough were Bill Bumley with two touchdowns and Spinner Hope with one. Bumley kicked three converts and a single. Ed Sullivan kicked a single and scored an unconverted touchdown for Oakville.

The Panthers are central group champions in the intermediate OHFU and the Black Knights are western group champions.

St. Peter's Defeats Albert College For Junior Title

By PETER UTTER

Speerheaded by the sensational running and kicking of Ray Allen, St. Peter's High School of Peterborough downed Albert College 29-0 to take the COSSA Junior B championship for a sudden death title at Albert College Saturday afternoon at Albert College.

Allen zipped the Albert line to shreds as he scored 3 TDs, 2 yards on the ground for a brace of touchdowns. He also kicked a field-goal and four converts.

Jack Kane pranced for 170 yards on the ground and a pair of touchdowns for the Petes. Board intercepted a forward pass on Petes Albert 30 and scored for the Petes and Daley wound up the scoring when he recovered a fumble over the Albert goal-line.

The Albert Juniors were no match in speed or deceptiveness as was displayed by their lack of ability to get going on a downfield offensive.

Masterson made a couple of impossible catches for the Petes and gained 75 yards on the ground after he caught the passes.

Gilliteaux and Malenko were the chief ground gainers for the Albert Juniors but they were stopped them.

Both teams had the jitters with Peterborough seeming the shakiest. They fumbled 18 times but lost the ball only twice. Albert fumbled eight times but lost the time times, once for a touchdown and the other three times were directly responsible for a score.

Board called a beautiful game for the Petes. The plays were clicking and even on the fumbles it seemed as though St. Peter's had it planned what to do with the ball.

Allen averaged 33 yards on his kicking for the Petes while Kirkconnell averaged about 30 yards on each attempt.

The Petes made 11 first downs to four. Board completed three passes in 11 attempts and accounted for the other five points. Kirkconnell for Albert also completed three in 11 tries.

Lineups:

Petes: ends, Flynn and Crowley; tackles, Mackie and Nolan; inside, Lefore and Hickson; centre, Bradley; backs, Board, Buckley, Masterson, Allan and Kane. Substitutes: Kearns, Sullivan, Mahoney, Nolan, Martyn, Daley, Ayotte, Gordon, Cairns, Hoey, Quinlan and Russell.

Albert College: ends, Hertel and Gilliteaux; middles, Chan and Bothwell; inside, Tripp and McDonald; tackles, Reid; backs, Kirkconnell, McQuaig, Perry, Malenko and McMillan.

Scoring:

Petes: Allen, 17; Kane, 10; Board, 2; Dailey, 1.

Penalties:

Petes: 35 yards, 25 for offside; 10 illegal interference.

Albert 10 yards for offside.

Senators Trim Braves Twice

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ottawa Senators twice defeated Valleyfield Braves during the week-end to move into a tie with Chicoutimi Saguenens and Quebec Aces for first place in Quebec Hockey League. Aces and Saguenens helped things out by playing to a 3-3 overtime draw at Chicoutimi Sunday.

The Senators walloped Valleyfield 6-1 Saturday and 5-1 at home Sunday to vault over Montreal Royals, who failed to budge from second-place by losing to Sorel. Sel Iodaba 3-1 in the American team's arena and beating Black Hawks decisively 5-1 in Montreal Sunday.

SETS WORLD RECORD

VIENNA (AP)—Czechoslovakia's star runner Emil Zatopec Sunday bettered by 10 seconds the world record by one second and also set a world mark for six miles with 28:36.2 performance.

Pirie's time was 28:19.6 minutes for the 9,656-metre yaks.

Teepees Chalk Up 4 Week-End Points To Forge Ahead in Junior A Race

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Teepees were the opportunists during the week-end, chalking up a maximum four points to forge ahead of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A pack by a hoop-full margin.

Teepees won two games while their two rivals for the top spot went nowhere. Toronto Marlboros, one of the three teams that shared first place before week-end action, in the former three-way tie, were lost two games to drop behind idle.

St. Catharines dropped Barrie Flyers 9-3 at home Saturday and then stole a 3-1 victory from St. Michael's College in Toronto Sunday.

In other Saturday games Galt Black Hawks defeated Marlboros 4-2 in Galt and Hamilton Tigers decisioned St. Michael's 3-1 in Hamilton.

Quebec Citadelles continued their uphill climb Sunday when they edged Guelph Marlton Greyshirts 3-1 in Quebec. Galt robbed Marlboros 2-1 in Toronto Sunday, in the only other Sunday game.

In St. Catharines Saturday Hugh Barlow rapped home three goals for the TeePees. Barry Cullen added a pair. Others going to Brian Cullen, Danny Pollizzi, Hank Cieslak and Doc Hoskins. Jim Robertson scored for the Flyers.

In both ends of the doubleheader at Toronto Sunday, the losing teams took leads. St. Michael's had a 1-0 margin before the TeePees tied it up in the second and rallied it away with another pair in the last 30 minutes.

Hank Cieslak tallied twice for the winners, Hoekstra notching the other marker. Jim Logan fired the only goal for the Collegians.

In the second game Marlboros opened the scoring in the second. Bot Galt replied twice within 40 seconds of the last period to smash it away.

Ed Switzer and Halstead won it for Galt Hawks. Jack Bionda tried for Marlboros.

Quebec Citadelles took their third in a row when they fought back from a 1-0 deficit to down the Greenshirts. All the scoring was done in the middle period. Richard Bouchard clicked twice for the Citadelles after Gary Collins had given the Greenshirts the first-period lead.

St. Michael's goes to Galt in the next OHA junior A action Tuesday while Kitchener visits Quebec.

Oshawa Truckers Defeat Goodyears In Overtime

KINGSTON — Oshawa Truckers, now playing out of Bowmanville, duplicated last season's early feats when they defeated Kingston Goodyears, OHA Senior B champions 4-2 in, overtime on Saturday night. Goodyears, clearly showing the effects of the game in Belleville where they emerged as conquerors the previous night, were outlasted.

It was after team's verdict until Red Peters netted the issue in extra time and Bob Holden made it decisive by scoring the final counter less than three minutes before hostilities were concluded.

Goodyears, who trailed 2 to 0 at the first intermission, exhibited courage and resourcefulness in eventually forcing a deadlock and Jack White, who tallied in the second and third sessions, skated with the stars.

Opening ceremonies were brief while 3,001 fans waited for the starting goog. Mayor George C. Wright threw in the first puck while Captain Jim Sutherland, founder of the International Hockey Hall of Fame, and Lorne Cook, second vice-president of the OHA, stood at attention.

Tommy Goodfellow, Don Bellringer and Wilson Reid were conspicuous additions to the local squad. The experienced Gary Wager also worked hard under trying conditions. Most of the veterans were in fine fettle and the team as a whole made a favorable impression before exhaustion coupled with shrewd attacking by the visitors spelled defeat.

Bisons Win Fifth in Row; Still on Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The American Hockey League pet in another heavy week-end schedule and when the smoke had died away, Buffalo Bisons were still atop the league, more comfortably ensconced than before.

Sunday, the Bisons posted their fifth straight victory, a 4-3 conquest over Pittsburgh hornets. In Sunday's other game, Providence Reds snapped a five-game losing streak by defeating Syracuse Warriors 3-2.

The victory enabled the Reds to move out of the cellar, one point ahead of the Warriors.

At Buffalo, the home team spoiled the Hornets the first goal by Phil Maloney. Then Jacques Plante blanked Pittsburgh the rest of the way while Ed Slowinski, Rollie Rousseau, Ten Hayden and Joe Leduc tallied.

At Providence, the Reds struck for two goals in the second period by Bert Hirschfeld and Al Baccari to take a 2-1 lead after Ed Leier, Syracuse rookie centre, and the Reds Walt Pawtyszyn each scored in the first.

Elliott Chorley pulled the Warriors within one goal of a tie but that ended the scoring.

Saturday scores: Cleveland 4 Hershey 2; Pittsburgh 4 Providence 2; Buffalo 3 Syracuse 6.

Sale of Club for 'Ridiculous' Price Indicates Move of Majors to West

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The circumstances of the sale of the San Francisco ball club for sr ridiculous $350,000, said that to be paid some time maybe, indicates that one of the big leagues, probably the National, is taking steps toward moving in on the Pacific coast scene than might have been supposed.

Significant was the fact that Jimmie Gallagher, an executive of the Chicago Cubs, and his boss, P. K. Wrigley, who owns both the Cubs and the Los Angeles Angels, attended the meeting at which the sale was approved. From information which seeped out of the closed session, Gallagher apparently had a full voice in the discussion.

Also it was worthy of note that Paul Fagin, while selling his San Francisco franchise and players for nothing much, hung on to most of the Seals' minor league farm system, including the Oakland baseball league moves in within the next five years. He obviously felt that the period specified gives him plenty of leeway.

It came out that, before the sale was made to an unmonied group headed by Ramon Miller, Fagin had been talked to by Gallagher and Bill Veeck, the latter now employed by Wrigley, about the way for the coming big league trek to the west.

Fagin, who has been accused by some of his irate fellow magnates of trying to wreck the coast league, must have known something. So he gave up, and was the privilege of losing more money running the Seals between now and the day the big story pops.

OTHERS RESIGNED

Other coast league owners appear to be resigned now to having their territory invaded. Bob Cobb of the Hollywood club, who has that franchise only through Wrigley's sufferance, was quoted as saying he was ready to move out before the expiration of his agreement in 1957 if the big leagues came. Emil Sick of Seattle said his league would "welcome" the invasion.

It now appears to remain only for the National League to decide which of its two clubs will move into the rich new territory. The league already has passed a measure which makes such a shift possible virtually on a moment's notice.

The two teams we have heard mentioned most frequently as candidates are the Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia Phillies, though this was only talk. One thing generally agreed upon is that there is no thought of extending the league to 10 clubs.

It seems logical to suppose that the plan will be to combine San Francisco and its cross-bay neighbor, Oakland, into one big league club. Chuck Dressen now will be available to manage such an entry, and that almost surely is what he had in mind when he gave up the Brooklyn job.

TALLY HO!

QUYON, Que. (CP) — Fletcher Kirby, a foxhound owned by A. F. Cook and Angus McDermid of Stratford won the all-Canadian foxhound title at two-day trials here which ended Saturday.

Disaster AT WINNIPEG

When the mighty Red River burst its banks, it forced 100,000 people from their homes and caused damage estimated at $100,000,000.

In a disaster of this magnitude, Insurance companies went beyond the letter of their contracts to play their part in offsetting the staggering financial loss. Claims were settled swiftly, so that a city and its people could be set on the road to recovery.

Blue Bombers Edged by Saskys But Win Round

REGINA (CP)—A giant cushion of 26 fanfuzzy points gave Winnipeg Blue Bombers into the Western Interprovincial Football Union Final Saturday as they dropped an 18-17 decision to Saskatchewan Roughriders but took the total-point, semi-final series 60-31.

The 43-laving Bombers hung on the bubbling Saskatchewan team last Wednesday in the first game of the home-and-home series proved too great a barrier. Riders played the game out as just another game.

Winnipeg now meets Edmonton Eskimos in the best-of-three final with the first, game at Edmonton Saturday. The second game is at Winnipeg Nov. 12 and the third, if necessary, in Edmonton Nov. 14.

RIDERS GET FIRST BLOOD

The Riders opened the scoring late in the first quarter with a touchdown set up when Winnipeg quarterback Joe Zaleski fumbled near his own goal line. Glenn Dobbs, who played a brilliant game at quarter for Riders, tossed 15 yards to halfback Bill Todd on third down for the major. Del Wardien converted.

Gerry James, Winnipeg's 18-year-old halfback, tied the score 6-6 on the first play of the second quarter. Jad Kozhak converted.

Riders scored their second major after Dobbs moved them down the field with a series of passes. End Harry Lampman got as far as the Bomber five on a pass and halfback Bobby Marlow went through the line on third down. Wardien again converted.

SCORE TIED

Riders evened the count in the third quarter when Wardien fumbled and Jack Jacobs kicked and Al Wiley recovered for Bombers on the Rider 37-yard line. Zaleski passed to Andy Sokol on second down and Sokol carried over.

Bombers went ahead briefly in the fourth quarter after half Tom Casey intercepted one of Dobbs' passes and ran it to the Rider seven-yard line. Sokol bulled over the Rider line two plays later. Kozhak missed the convert.

Dobbs took the Riders to pay-dirt with successive 34 and 16-yard passes to end Mac Speedie. Halfback Johnson took another pass at the Bomber goal and shook off Casey to go over for the major. Wardien converted.

Grandame Heads Belleville Minor Hockey Body

At a minor hockey meeting held in the arena on Sunday afternoon the executives of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association were named for the coming year. They are: President, Frank Grandame; secretary, Lloyd "Ted" Doran; treasurer, Bill Hurst and chairmen of dances, Malcolm Robb.

Nothing definite has been decided on but plans are being made to enter a team in the juvenile league during the regular season and then draw a bye into the Junior "A" playoffs. Some of the best juveniles would help to strengthen the team in the playoffs. Before this can be a reality there must be enough players to form the team without those already signed to play in the Trent Valley League. Anyone interested can register by getting in touch with Ted Doran.

"Sollie" Lloyd was chairman of the meeting.

There was a discussion on the financial status of the organization with ideas how to obtain funds especially for the limelight.

Doug Patterson, a member of the OMHA executive, attended the meeting and made clear the facts of the insurance for minor players. He stated that in the 1952-53 season there were only forty accidents in the province, with about one-quarter resulting in dental bills. Doug assured those at the meeting that this insurance would cover the players while travelling from one place to another as long as they were in a group. It is hoped that all parents will see fit to protect their sons by obtaining this insurance.

WEEKEND STARS

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ted Lindsay, Detroit, whose two goals and one assist paved the way for Red Wings' 3-1 decision over Montreal Canadiens Sunday.

Veteran centre Ted Kennedy, whose goal late in the third period gave Toronto Maple Leafs a 3-3 tie with New York Rangers Sunday.

Bill Rollins, Chicago, and Jim Henry, Boston, who chalked up shutouts as the Black Hawks and Boston Bruins played to a scoreless tie Sunday.

Dutchies Draw Bye in ORFU

TORONTO (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen drew a bye into the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union final and a home-and-home total-points semi-final to be decided by Nov. 6.

The first game will be played in Sarnia Nov. 7 and the second at Toronto the next day. If the round is tied at the end of the second game, 16-minute overtime periods will be played until a winner is decided.

The winner will advance into the two-game ORFU final against the Dutchmen with the first game in Kitchener Nov. 1. If Sarnia wins the semi-final, the second game of the final will have the Dutchmen at Sarnia Nov. 14. Should Balmy Beach advance into the final the second game will be played a Toronto Nov. 15. As in the semi-final, there will be 16-minute overtime periods until a winner is decided if the round is tied after the second game.

STORMY SESSION

Dutchmen drew the bye from a hat at a stormy league meeting here while Sarnia coach Hugh (Red) Douglas protested in vain.

The squabble was brought about when Dutchmen Imperials and Dutchmen wound up in a three-way first-place tie in the 8-game regular schedule, each with 16 points. The home-and-home total-point final will decide the ORFU representative in the Eastern Conference winner Nov. 21.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The rise and fall of 3D appears to have run its course.

Production for the stereo "three dimensional" films that require special glasses is limited to a few film-makers who think such movies have a permanent place in programming.

When a new musical opened in Hollywood a couple of weeks ago, only one of the seven theatres showed it in 3D. Of the 23 pictures shooting in Hollywood today, only three are stereo type. MGM recently previewed "Kiss Me Kate" in two dimensions, although it was made for three. The studio and many others are being offered to theatres for 3D or ordinary projection and most are taking the latter.

Opposition to 3D has come from studios, theatres and the public. Here are some of the reasons:

Studios—3D filming is more expensive; it costs twice as much for prints, since two strips are needed.

Theatres—3D requires special projection, handling of glasses.

Public—Glasses and intermissions have been bothersome; upped admission prices are resented; quality of 3D pictures has been poor.

Most producers now are agreed that 3D will be limited to a few films, usually science fiction or suspense movies in which depth will be the frightening effect.

It's too bad that Hollywood never really gave 3D a chance to prove itself. But it was used principally to scare audiences by throwing things at the camera. And the studios ground out 3D films of such poor quality that they would have to permit perfection.

Perhaps some day the potential of depth will be realized. But that day may not come until some method is devised without glasses.

COLTS WIN

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Western Coll football squad walloped Ontario Agricultural College 34-3 Saturday in an intercollegiate interconference contest.

The Colts' line gained top spot in the loop with two wins and a loss.

AT THE BELLE—Lovely Jane Hayer, a Belleville favorite has taken over Dan Dalley's drawing-board in "The Girl Next Door," Twentieth Century-Fox's Technicolor musical romance about a comic strip cartoonist who falls in love with (you guessed it) the girl next door. Another good neighbor in the film is Dennis Day, in addition to songs and dances there are some clever cartoon inserts in the feature attraction Today and Tuesday at the Belle Theatre, Matinee daily.

Sport in Brief

WINS RICHEST RACE

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—The Calumet Boy stables' Turn-To won the $220,325 Garden State Stakes, the world's richest horse race, Saturday.

The triumph was as great a surprise as the same stable's victory in the Kentucky Derby with Dark Star beating out Native Dancer's only defeat.

The two heavy favorites, Joe Gavegnano's Errard King and C.V. Whitney's Fisherman, finished out of the money in the scramble of 20 two-year-old colts.

Jockey Henry Moreno, who rode Dark Star, was in the saddle as Turn-To took the lead on the final bend of the mile and-one sixteenth race and rambled under the wire two lengths ahead of R. S. Lyle's Correlation, a California invader.

Turn-To, a son of Royal Charger-Source Sucree, won $151,262.25. The time was 1:46 1-5 on a fast track.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is; according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, NOV. 2, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — There may be some startling conditions in the early hours which could be distracting if you yield to them. Brace yourself firmly. After noon, vibrations become more favorable; better prospects appear.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Adopt practical procedures, especially in financial and real estate matters. Avoid embarrassment by watching what you say and do and emphasizing your best attributes. Deliberate.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You have the "right of way" signal. A propitious time to branch out in familiar lines, new methods. Public, manufacturing, professional and personal affairs rate high.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — You are endowed with a fine mind, are quick to see openings, so use day to your advantage. You can achieve in both business and personal affairs. Move quickly, but surely.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Move haste slowly, with keen thinking. Alertness and sensible use of opportunities will pay high dividends today. Don't underrate others' feelings or their will to make headway.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Friendly vibrations favor you, a chance to show your real grit. Plenty of opportunity in both regular activities and the unusual, so what are you waiting for?

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — If you concentrate on steady, efficient management you can expect good returns for your efforts. Aim high; don't allow little things to annoy and you should come out on top. Good luck!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Aspects neutral in financial matters, more favorable for family, social and most personal affairs. Merge your fine attributes and experience with those of others and achieve.

November 24 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Your best ideas and propositions get a favorable response today. Watch undercurrents from unexpected sources, outside influences. They should be checked now.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Make sure of what you're doing before going ahead, as there is a tendency to take foolish chances. Caution advised for those in engineering, advertising, transportation and those engaged in handling large groups.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Put forth your ideas in the simplest, most relaxable way. Orderliness, proper application of energy can bring results and satisfaction.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — With self-confidence, pluck and perseverance, you can go places during this energetic period. But do recognize the difference between progressive vigor and plain bull-headedness. Others' views opinions. We can always learn.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with poise, charitable disposition, and a friendly manner. You have many talents, and could succeed at writing, art, music, a literary profession, or as a buyer or merchant. You have a tendency toward stubbornness and may be unreasonable at times. You should always concentrate on the bigger and more important things in life and refuse to be annoyed by minor matters. Guard health and get a reasonable amount of exercise. Give true creation. Birthdate of: William Cullen Bryant, American poet, editor.

Charles Cuddy David W. Wallace

STANDARD BRANDS EXECUTIVE CHANGE: Following a recent meeting of the Board of Directors in Montreal, W. L. Cuddy, president, Standard Brands International Inc., announced the retirement at the end of this year of Charles Cuddy, president of Standard Brands Limited since 1947. Mr. Cuddy also named David W. Wallace, vice-president, general sales manager, and a director of the Canadian company, as president-designate to succeed Mr. Cuddy, effective January 1st. Mr. Cuddy, who is leaving the presidency in accordance with the company's retirement plan provisions, began his career in 1910 with The Fleischmann Company, which was incorporated into Standard Brands in 1929. Mr. Wallace began his service as a salesman for the Royal Baking Powder Company in 1923.

By RICHARD E. KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—The ladies of the Soviet Union are not getting an even break from their menfolk and Kremlin over-lords are unhappy about it.

Wife-beating, polygamy and child brides are under fire. Such practices, says Pravda, Communist party organ, are in violation of one of the keystones of Communist policy: Equal rights for women.

Actually, equal rights for women in Russia is more theory than practice. Female workers do most of the heavy work on Soviet farms and a good part of it in Soviet industry. Moscow street-sweeping gangs are heavily staffed with women. Not many Soviet women reach positions high in the government.

But Pravda brings up its heavy artillery to blast at such "feudal practices" as plural marriages, wife-beating and the like. It says these must go.

MOSLEMS BEHIND TIMES

Things are especially bad in the Soviet republic of Uzbekistan, where Moslems make up a large part of the population. Authorities there, Pravda warns, are behind the times with a "wrong attitude toward women."

Pravda bears down on a case involving one Kemal Rakhimov, a "certified teacher of philology, a good chap in the opinion of his drinking pals, but, in reality, a petty rascal."

Kemal laid seige some time ago to the heart of a student of his, a buxom lass by the name of Khalima Akmedova.

Said Pravda:

"With what heartfelt shyness and pure joy did Khalima meet Kemal. She sang the finest songs for him. She read beautiful poetry to him."

And then they were married.

TURNED HER OUT

Things went along fine at first. Then Kemal started stepping out —without Khalima. There were fights. Then Kemal made his big mistake, at least as far as Pravda is concerned. He took a whip to his wife and turned her out in the street.

Town officials heard about it, but didn't take action. Pravda tells why:

"They were having troubles with their own multiple wives and their hands were full."

Pravda now insists something be done about Kemal and others who practice such "barbaric customs and scorn the human dignity of women."

There's a lot of bustling in Uzbekistan now, but it's a tough job to add plural wives in a hurry. Kemal and his indulgent town officials are hoping the whole thing will blow over.

Says Segregation Ends Step Toward Suicide

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Governor Herman K. Talmadge of Georgia declared today that a Unified States Supreme Court decision to end racial segregation in schools in the southern states would be "nothing less than a nation-wide step toward national suicide.

Talmadge, chairman of the southern governors conference meeting here, said any such "political decision" by the high court would involve "the most foolhardy sociological calamity in our national history."

The Supreme Court has scheduled December hearings on racial segregation cases which have Guelph Biltmores", the other team aroused most of the southern gov-

Farm Safety Day Staged at OAC

GUELPH (CP)—That the farm is not as safe a place as most persons think was demonstrated here Sunday, when the Agriculture Engineering Club of the Ontario Agricultural College held its first Farm Safety Day.

The audience of 500 was told the dangers of fires, machinery accidents and mishandling of livestock and was instructed how to prevent them. Different fire extinguishers for various fires and devices that stop tractors when drivers fall off of them were demonstrated.

Visitors were also shown how to approach an unruly animal and the proper equipment to use while handling livestock.

Racial Discrimination Case Has Been Settled

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Joint Labor Committee to Combat Racial Intolerance said Sunday satisfactory settlement of the first fair employment practices case to be handled under a federal law which came into effect in July demonstrated the worth and workability of the law.

It said in a statement a young Negro stenographer was refused employment because of her race. The company used a job application form to the girl, who by that time had taken another position, only there had been some mistake. The company used a job application form to the girl, who by that department investigator that appar-

Conservationists Whoop It Up For Whooping Crane

AUSTWELL, Tex. (AP)—Officials of the Arkansas wild life refuge here are enthusiastic over prospects for an increase in the population of the almost extinct whooping crane.

A count of the gangling, white birds today showed 16—including three young—had already made the long flight from their nesting grounds in northern Canada to their winter quarters here.

Last year's total winter colony, which includes all the known survivors of the once-plentiful waterfowl, totalled 21 with only two young.

Ont. Forester For 30 Years Dies in Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Wilson Dunlop Crum, 61, an Ontario forester for 30 years, died Sunday of a heart attack.

For the last six years he was chief of the lands and recreational areas division of the Ontario department of lands and forests. In that position he supervised provincial parks and resort areas and the selling of government-owned lands for cottage building.

A native of Carleton Place, Mr. Crum served in the Royal Flying Corps in the First World War. He graduated from the University of Toronto in forestry in 1923 and was appointed assistant forester in the Parry Sound district. In 1927 he became district forester at Kenora and in 1942 regional forester.

Heavy Rains Sweep Across Northern Italy

MILAN (AP)—New rains swept across northern Italy today, pushing swollen rivers and mountain torrents over their banks and unleashing scores of damaging landslides.

Near Varese, the River Tresa surged over the banks flooding a number of homes on the outskirts of the town of Luino. Small streams and torrents in Tuscany province were rising rapidly.

Heavy rains in northeast Italy pounded northern Italy all last week, threatening the ancient city of Venice in the rich Po valley. They stopped Friday and officials considered the danger of flood and downfall began Monday.

SHIP EXPLOSION AND FIRE CLAIM SEVEN LIVES

All of Victims Were Longshoremen

BOSTON (AP)—The fourth Boston harbor ship fire in 17 days swept the Norwegian freighter Black Falcon after a violent explosion Monday, with a toll of seven dead and 13 injured.

The dead and injured were longshoremen working deep in an aft hold unloading chemicals at the army base, 200 yards from where the ship's crew lived. Lerin was berthed when it was rocked by an explosion that killed 37 men Oct. 20.

The seven victims either were killed outright by the blast or burned to death by the roaring fire which shot flames 300 feet in the air.

The victims included a father and son—Anthony Benassi, 53, and Alvin L. Benassi, 24—who were working their first day as longshoremen.

At least five saved themselves from death by jumping overboard after their clothing caught fire.

In addition to the dead and injured found in the hold, five firefighters suffered burns that required hospital attention.

Fire Chief Edward Kelley, chief of the Boston fire department's arson squad, said after a preliminary survey of the scene that it is his theory the explosion was caused by a mixture of chemicals.

STORED NEAR BOILERS

He said a drum of sodium permanganate, which is stowed "too near the boilers" and that the heat caused some of the chemical to leak out and mix with bauxite—aluminum ore—stored in the same hold.

He said that when the mixture of the two exploded, one of the men threw a pail of water on it and caused a "chain reaction of explosive action."

The United States Coast Guard called a court of inquiry to investigate the disaster.

None of the Black Falcon's crew of 40 was injured.

Chief Kelley said Crowley, 36, said he saw McConnell pull "four or five" men to safety. "Then I saw him split his head open on the bulkhead. His clothing and hair caught fire."

Crowley said he saw McConnell plunge into the icy harbor waters overboard. Rescuers pulled him out but he died on the way to hospital.

In addition to the Black Falcon and Leyte explosions, a government-conducted experimental fishing vessel was swept by a $100,000 fire Oct. 26. On the Boston Oct. 22, and a navy radar ship, the Willamette Bay, received $8,000 damages Oct. 26 in a fire caused by a boiler flareback.

Living Costs in Canada, U.S. In Step, Both Are Rising

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs in Canada and the United States are in step. Both are rising.

In Canada a continuous, four-month increase brought consumer prices in August to a 16-month high. In the U.S. the government said more for his basic living needs in September than ever before.

There is some question whether prices will continue to rise. Export demand for some commodities is easing and this could affect the Canadian manufacturing picture.

Officials here say that for the present at least, they feel economic conditions are good and prices will remain strong.

EXPECTED TOMORROW

Meanwhile, the bureau of statistics is preparing the result of the September cost-of-living survey. It is expected tomorrow.

In August, the consumer-price index, yardstick for measuring cost-of-living changes, rose by one-half point to 116.3, highest since April, 1952, when the index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, totalled 116.8.

The index now is just two points below the all-time high of 118.3 in December, 1951.

The U.S. consumer-price index for September, based on 1947-49 prices equalling 100, rose to September a peak of 115.2 per cent of the 1947-49 average. This was two-tenths of one per cent above the previous record in mid-August. It was the seventh consecutive monthly rise.

Canada's August rise was caused mainly by higher prices for bread, butter, eggs, pork, coffee and last which offset declines for fresh fruits and vegetables and meats other than pork.

Rents edged higher. There were other small, scattered increases for fuel, household services, street-car fares, magazine subscriptions and the cost of operating an automobile.

Dutch Physicist, German Chemist Win Nobel Prizes

STOCKHOLM (AP)—The Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladgen said tonight this year's Nobel prizes in physics and chemistry will be awarded to a Dutch physicist and a German chemist.

The newspaper said they are Prof. Frederik Cerilke of Groningen, The Netherlands, and Prof. Hermann Staudinger of Strasbourg University.

Cerilke is best known for his work with a new electron microscope and Staudinger is an expert on macromolecular chemistry and biology, the newspaper said.

The winners of the two $33,500 prizes will be announced officially Wednesday night by the Swedish Academy of Sciences.

Macromolecular chemistry is the chemistry of giant molecules, which make up all substances produced by the plastics industry and a number of vital organic substances like proteins and carbohydrates.

The electron microscope, through the use of electronics, enables scientists to see extremely small bodies previously invisible to the ordinary microscope.

Power Authority Accepts Licence

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The New York state power authority today accepted formally the United States Federal Power Commission's licence to develop St. Lawrence river hydro-electric power.

The state authority announced Monday that it would accept the licence despite pending court actions that seek to block the project by having the FPC order set aside.

George Saunders Wins Divorce From Zsa Zsa

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actor George Sanders sued Zsa Zsa Gabor for divorce Monday, then beating his Hungarian wife to the long-expected action.

Experts disagree whether the glamorous beauty has charge accounts. Sanders got this letter, dated Oct. 30, from Sanders:

"Gentlemen: As of today, I have divorced from my wife, Sari G. Sanders, also known as Zsa Zsa Gabor, and so she tells me this day, I am not-responsible for any debts she may incur."

Martin Cang, Sanders'—lawyer, said there will be no property settlement, explaining:

"There is no property to divide."

Sanders used to call all women "spoiled little beasts" until he married Zsa Zsa in 1949. Then his attitude changed.

"Whereas I used to be pontifical on the subject of remarriage," Sanders said, "my marriage to Zsa Zsa has made me merely confused."

Sanders' suit said his wife had caused him "great humiliation and much mental anguish."

Flares and Rifle Shots Explode Near Compound

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Flares and rifle shots exploded tonight in the air near the area where Indian troops are holding anti-Communist North Korean and Chinese prisoners-of-war, a reliable source reported.

Three flares were seen and four rifle shots were heard at a point south of the southern boundary of the demilitarized zone, the source said.

Two flares went up at 7:40 p. m. and two rifle shots rang out 10 to 12 minutes later, it was reported.

Another flare exploded in the same area about 8 p. m. and two more shots were heard at 8:10.

A spokesman for the Indian command said he knew of "nothing" happening at the prisoner compound.

Vietminh Division Completely Routed

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — French union infantry and armored units reoccupied the town of Phu Nho Quan, about 50 miles south of Hanoi, in hard fighting today against Vietminh forces.

A French-Viet Namese column clashed with the entrenched 5,000-man Vietminh Division 320. The French command said the Communist-led troops were forced once again from the war base they had built up at Phu Nho Quan for an attack on the French defence base-tion in the Red river delta.

The renewed threat of this base induced the French to launch their attack early today. The French previously captured Phu Nho Quan but withdrawed it Oct. 28 after destroying all military installations. They say the base was an important base for Vietminh forces receiving supplies from Red China.

French and Viet Namese paratroopers dropped into Phu Nho Quan and reparations said results by the armored and infantry columns. The rebels put up fierce fighting, but artillery, bombing and artillery fire, and their casualties were believed to be high.

Convict Trucker Of Manslaughter In Bus Accident

CORNWALL (CP)— Max Roodman, 40, will be sentenced today for manslaughter in connection with a bus-truck collision near Morrisburg July 21 which killed 20 persons.

The Toronto and Ottawa trucker was convicted Monday.

Evidence was that Roodman was the driver of an unlighted pickup truck that ran on a Dr. Bus August about 4 a.m. July 31. An eastbound bus crashed into the truck and both vehicles burned. The Williamsburg cargo running parallel to the highway.

Twenty of the 37 bus passengers were drowned.

Bus driver Lorne Chescbrough was acquitted 10 days ago of dangerous driving.

Quick Penicillin Shot Being Called Medical Nonsense and Dangerous

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—Getting a quick shot of penicillin when you have a cold, flu or certain other infections is being called medical nonsense, and even dangerous.

The antibiotic usually does no good in the objecting medical experts say. It is costly and risks making you allergic or sensitive to it so that you may not be able to get it when you really need it later for something really serious.

Penicillin is a boon for pneumonia, and flu are caused by viruses. Antibiotics knock out only one variety of germs, but virus experts say they show little if any effect against true viruses.

Many doctors have been giving penicillin shots routinely, often as a routine part of treatment of respiratory infections, in hopes it will prevent possibly serious secondary infections or complications.

But this theory is challenged by two recent medical reports.

One challenge comes from Dr. Perrin H. Long, state university of New York college of medicine, writing in the New York state medical journal.

"Probably the commonest and most serious abuse of antibiotics by physicians today" is using them fever, as preventives or cures for mild respiratory infections, he says.

These drugs do help greatly against various types of bacterial infections. But they are effective against only a few kinds of virus or rickettsial infections—such as non-typical or virus pneumonia, psittacosis and Q fever.

They are nonetheless used against viral or symptoms that may accompany them on the assumption of protecting against secondary illnesses, Dr. Long says, adding:

"By and large, this is not only bad medicine from the medical point of view, but also may even be dangerous because it may lead to sensitizing patients to an antibiotic by frequent administration."

Dr. Long is supported by a study by Dr. Thomas F. Jones, Maj. Roy S. Bigham, Jr., and Lieut. Pill R. Manning of the U.S. Army.

Of 150 men with non-bacterial influenza like illness, none developed secondary infections when treated with either aspirin, or the anti-biotics terramycin or erythromycin, they say in the journal of the American Medical Association. Aspirin was as good or better than the antibiotics in reducing

Queen Pledges Commonwealth To Fight For Peace

Will Campaign Relentlessly For Four-Power Conference

LONDON (CP)—The Queen, radiant in jewelled crown and imperial robes, opened Parliament today by reading the speech from the throne, in which Sir Winston Churchill's government solemnly pledged to use the vast resources of the Commonwealth in the fight for a lasting peace.

The speech said Britain will campaign relentlessly for a four-power conference aimed at "the relaxation of international tension and the preservation of peace."

Major interests of the speech was its failure to mention impending legislation to amend the Regency Act and relieve Princess Margaret of the royal responsibility in the event of the death or incapacity of the Queen to perform her duties.

Under the forthcoming law, it is believed, the Duke of Edinburgh would become Regent until his son, heir-apparent Prince Charles, reached 18.

R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, said the last session of parliament that such a bill would be introduced soon.

CHURCHILL NOT PRESENT

Churchill himself remained at his official residence, 10 Downing street, during the reading of the speech.

A spokesman said: "He is preparing the speech he will make to the House of Commons later today."

"My government are resolved to work constantly in partnership with the government of the United States," the speech said.

"My government will continue to regard the relaxation of international tension and the preservation of peace as a basis of their policy. To this end they are using the utmost efforts to bring about an early meeting between the Soviet Union and the three Western powers."

Car and Truck Output Tops Any Other Year

DETROIT (AP)—Canada's car and truck output so far this year already tops the total of any previous year, Ward's Automotive Reports said Monday.

The statistical agency noted that car and truck assemblies in Canada so far this year number 434,000 units. This contrasts with successive record volumes of 432,978 in all of 1952; with 415,420 in 1941; and with 390,162 in 1950, Ward's added:

"This year's volume is 60 per cent over the 270,191 pre-World War II peak set in 1941 and definitely establishes Canada as a world power in automotive production."

Optimism for high level 1954 operations is strong. Used car inventories are consumer oriented admittedly (as in the United States) but are high, but not out of control. Moreover, Canadian production brighten when these factors are mentioned: (1) Population rise, at about 15,000,000 now, is trending toward 16,000,000 by perhaps 1970; (2) the replacement market, with 20 per cent of cars in use seven years of age or older, is impressive; (3) vehicle ownership per capita has sharply increased in post-war years.

Such factors portend not only an expanding market but also deeper penetration with sales. And the current revolutionary scope of plant modernization and expansion programs indicate the industry and its suppliers are out to accomplish just that. Canada, like only the United States, Great Britain and France in world vehicle output, is building more than 1,000,000 or 1,000 units registered for operation."

Jordan Officer Says Israeli Violated Truce

JERUSALEM AP)—A Jordan military spokesman today said the Arab Legion foiled an Israeli attempt to gain right to attack Budrus, a village 25 miles northwest of Jerusalem.

He alleged that the Israelis fired rifles from the other side of the armistice demarcation line into the village. The fire was returned, he said, by Jordanian troops. The clash with two Israeli companies in the Tel Aviv area Monday was the first since Friday, Belgrade. Also the very heaviest since the Israeli-Arab armistice pact was signed in 1949.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — Exhaust fumes from cars, trucks and buses are creeping into cities' lungs with a hazy, blue plague causing some lung cancers, scientists reported today.

They find the exhausts can spew out chemicals which give mice cancers.

Exhaust from gasoline or diesel engines apparently contain more of these chemicals when running slowly, as in traffic tie-ups, than at higher speeds.

But engines kept in good condition don't give out any.

The exhaust studies were cited as one of numerous bits of evidence that polluted air—from factories, highways and even home furnaces—may be a big cause of heart disease and rapid rise in lung cancer.

Lung cancer now is killing at least four times as many American men and twice as many women as in 1933. Its prevention is the theme of the annual meeting of the American Cancer Society here this week-end.

Lung cancer is more frequently found in cities than in rural areas.

Smoking, especially of cigarets, is blamed by other scientists as a main or contributing factor. But investigators in many parts of countries now indicate that the risk of lung cancer "increases with the amount smoked," said Dr. Ernest L. Wynder, of Memorial Centre for Cancer and Allied Diseases, New York City.

He suggested two preventive steps. One is moderation in smoking. The other is to discover what substances in tobacco may be responsible—and then to remove them.

Robert D. Adams Honored By First Aid Assoc.

Mr. Robert D. Adams, 272 Albert street, was honored at a meeting of first aid for the Central Region of the Canadian National Railways with four other C.N.R. officials was honored at a conference of the Canadian Ambulance Association at Government House in Ottawa on Monday.

Mr. Adams who has been in first aid work for many years was made an officer brother of the Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem. The honor was conferred on Mr. Adams by the Governor General, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey.

Long interested in first aid work, Mr. Adams, as regional supervisor of first aid, is in charge of all first aid instruction of C.N.R. employees in the Central Region. He organizes first aid classes, teaches first aid and inspects first aid equipment. He has 14 first aid instructors under him.

Mr. Adams was to a great extent responsible for the organization of the St. John Ambulance unit in Belleville. The men's section here has now been disbanded but the women's section is carrying on strongly. Four years ago Mr. Adams was made a Serving Brother in the St. John Ambulance Association.

His work with the C.N.R. calls for him to be out of Belleville most of the time and he gets home only on week-ends. Mrs. Adams was in Ottawa Monday to see the honor conferred on her husband.

Mayor Haig Answers Critics Of Hosp. Drive

Allan Griffin, C.N.R. general passenger agent for Ontario, recalled some of the amusing and tragic incidents which he had come in contact with while employed in his present work. He was speaking at a meeting of the Rotary club in the Hotel Quinte on Monday afternoon.

Mayor A. E. Hagerman Haig answered several public criticisms regarding the building of the new hospital. He said the main reason the city cannot construct the new wing on its own is because it cannot afford to with the present mill rate.

The other criticism answered by the mayor concerned the bringing in of outside professional fund raisers. This was done, according to His Worship, because it was felt responsible persons in the city did not have the time to run a campaign nor the professional knowledge.

Clare Hayes was awarded a birthday rose. The presentation was made by Gordon Robertson.

Mr. Griffin was introduced by George Campbell and the thanks of the club were expressed by the president, Harold Mott.

Santa Parade In City Off For This Year

There will be no Santa Claus parade in the city this Christmas season. The chairman of the retail section of the Chamber of Commerce, Bill Wills, said cancellation of the parade for 1953 was due to lack of support from business in general throughout the city.

He added, "although plans for this year's parade have been cancelled, sincere hopes are entertained for a parade at Christmas next year." The committee for next year's parade has already been set up and will go into action around the first of the year.

According to the retail chairman, some organizations and local business firms have indicated they will participate in the 1954 parade.

Plans for this year's parade came under discussion of both the directors of the chamber and members of the retail section in August. At that time it was felt by those present that a parade in 1953. However, it was much discussed by a number of Commerce officials and sincere efforts were made to organize a successful parade this year.

The outcome was the appointment of a special committee to make inquiries into the plausibility of holding it. A company was contacted in Toronto concerning the cost of the parade. At that time a circular was sent out to the business firms of the city requesting opinions and support to sponsoring such a venture. Although the returns were favorable not enough were received to finalize the much desired support.

Following a recent meeting of the committee and of the retail section it was deemed advisable to defer the parade until next season and sponsor some other form of Christmas activity.

Kinsmen Club Members Tour General Hospital

Members of the Belleville Kinsmen Club were guests of the Belleville General Hospital Monday evening when they enjoyed dinner at the hospital and were later taken on a tour of the institution.

Dinner was served the club members in the nurses' dining room with J. N. Vanover, chairman of the hospital board of governors later explaining the hospital campaign to raise $600,000 by public subscription to assist in the construction of a new one and a quarter million dollar hospital wing.

The members were then taken on a conducted tour of the hospital by hospital administrator, Kenneth Box who showed them existing facilities and how cramped the hospital is for bed accommodation.

The financial statement for the last fiscal year of the club was presented by Kin. Ray Lennox, the report being held over until the next meeting for discussion. Club members decided to proceed with plans for their annual New Year's dance.

Marmora Man Instantly Killed Near Village

Joseph Lewis, 72, of Marmora, was instantly killed Monday evening, when he was struck from behind by a car as he was walking along No. 7 highway about two miles west of Marmora. The elderly man's body was carried about 50 feet by the car driven by Hugh K. Robinson of Richmond Hill.

Police said that the car was eastbound, while the man was walking in the same direction. A former resident of Havelock, Mr. Lewis was said to have been living with his daughter Mrs. R. Keating of Marmora. A son Harry Lewis lives at Havelock.

An inquest looking into the death will be held Nov. 17th. Provincial Constables A. Bolyea and R. Devey investigated.

Food for Communist Propaganda Machine

Apprentices Not Attracted To Bricklaying Trade

Closer regulation of the hours of work and actual working conditions in the bricklaying trade in the Belleville area would encourage greater numbers of apprentices to show interest in bricklaying.

This was the concensus of members of the Belleville and District Apprenticeship Advisory Committee at their October meeting held last week. It was pointed out that no hours of work, working conditions or rates of pay have been set by the Industrial Standards Act and although $1.90 per hour is the union contract price in Belleville no enforcement is provided to maintain these rates and hours of work.

It was pointed out at a previous meeting that many bricklayers do their own contracting in the Belleville area at cut-rate prices and in off-schedule hours. Because of this no reputable bricklaying contractor has been able to stay in business and consequently no nucleus of bricklayers is available for instruction to apprentices.

The practice of employing bricklaying apprentices as ordinary laborers continually mixing mortar and carrying brick was deplored. This gives the apprentice not chance to practice the trade and he quits the job in discouragement.

Hazen Stairs, district barbering inspector, stated a shortage of barbers existing in the city a month ago had been overcome by the influx of barbers from the strike-bound mining areas of Northern Ontario and Quebec. He said the main cause for lack of apprentices in the barbering trade was the long trade school training requirements for a high school education and the long hours of work.

A complete outline of the barbering school set-up is to be presented at the next meeting.

Mr. A. O. Drysdale, chairman of the committee, reported on the last provincial advisory committee meeting stating that in future credits for secondary school education will be given for apprenticeship courses in the same trade. One year credit will be given for a four-year technical course and six months credit for a three year course.

LONDON "SKYSCRAPER"

LONDON (CP)—A 25-story office building 250 feet high is planned as a feature of the re-development of the County Council's former Festival of Britain site on the south bank of the Thames. It will be the highest fully-occupied building in London, accommodating a staff of 6,000.

Had Wiggle in It

BADEN - SOELLINGEN, West Germany (CP)—Officers with the RCAF's No. 4 fighter wing here think they have a "hot" pilot. He has a wiggle in it.

Proof is that the original plans of the French-designed base, paid for by France out of German reparations as a North Atlantic Treaty Organization contribution, called for a snack bar. The French took this to mean cocktails bar and so it went into the blueprints. The German builders followed the instructions literally.

MANY THEATRES

Admission was charged for motion picture shows in 2,416 theatres and halls in Canada in 1952.

Safer Traffic Conditions May Be Result

In an effort to make for speedier and safer traffic conditions on parking will be recommended by the city traffic committee for the east side of North Front street from Moira street to the railway bridge, and on the south side of Moira street from North Front to Coleman street. The recommendation was made by the traffic committee at their last meeting and will come up for ratification by the entire council at its next meeting.

Two signs urging motorists to drive slowly and to be on the lookout for children were recommended to be placed on East Moira street on either side of the railway crossing. The crossing at this point is served for less than the general level or the tracks and motorists approaching the crossing cannot see what is approaching on the other side of the tracks.

IN MEMORIAM

PARRY. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Percy Parry, who passed away November 3rd, 1950.

Three years have passed since that sad day,
Three years have passed since we laid you away,
In memories fond we picture you there,
You're not in our hearts, we trust still, in prayer.
Sadly missed by wife, Mabel; daughter and daughter Aletha, son-in-law Trevor and grandson Arthur.

CALNAN. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Norman Calnan, who passed away November 3rd, 1936.

Three years have passed since that day,
The one I loved was called away,
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he lingers still.
Lovingly remembered by wife and family.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) —Prices were lower in active forenoon stock market trading today. Volume was 823,000 shares, well above average for October.

Industrials dropped as banks and steels slipped a little from the opening. Papers and refining oils held firm.

In golds, seekers and holding companies slipped and juniors were mixed in light trading.

Base metals were down as sellers remained strong but juniors slipped after a higher beginning. Dominion Asbestos was among the slipped small amounts.

Western oils were slightly higher as a few issues moved, led by General's small rise. Most were steady and Federated, Central Leduc, Canadian Oil and Canadian Pipe Line remained unchanged.

Uraniums were a little lower and volumes were much lighter than Monday. New Delhi, up 30 cents yesterday with a volume of 30,000 shares, was down four cents today and traded only 27,000 shares at the end of the first hour. New Bidlamaque was down, a few, included small gains in light trading. Gunnar and Chino were slightly higher, New Lardor U was down seven cents in lighter trading.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Prices quoted a sharp drop at the egg market. Grade A large 1cst two cents, mediums and small two to three cents and B also dropped two to three cents. Undergrade C types lost heavily with a two- to four-cent decline.

Offerings were heavy in fall egg production rose and buyer activity was poor.

Jewelry Worth $40,000 Stolen At Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Jewelry valued at $40,000 was stolen during the night from an auto owned by a Toronto salesman.

The jewelry was in the trunk of a car owned by Clarke Phillips, stolen from a downtown parking lot. The car was recovered today.

When police forced open the trunk, the jewelry was missing.

Mr. Phillips told police he parked his car, which is equipped with a burglar alarm, for about half an hour while he went to have supper. When he returned it was gone.

Before they opened the trunk, police said they suspected the car was taken for a joy ride.

Gordon Graydon's Wife Will Seek His Seat as M.P.

BRAMPTON (CP)—Mrs. Daisy Graydon said today she will let her name stand at a Nov. 20 Progressive Conservative nomination meeting in Peel riding, the federal seat her 3-year-old husband, Gordon Graydon, held when he died Sept. 19.

A native of Stayner, Ont., and a member of a well-known Peel county family, Mrs. Graydon was the former Daisy Giffin. She taught school in this town 12 miles north west of Brampton before her marriage in 1927. She is the mother of three girls.

Mr. Graydon was foreign affairs expert for the Progressive Conservative party and a member of early Canadian delegations to the United Nations.

Minimum Time Loss Forecast In Seaway Plans

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier said today he is sure "a minimum of time will be lost" in the disposal of litigation to block a start on the power phase of the St. Lawrence seaway.

Mr. Chevrier, commenting on three suits launched in the United States against joint Ontario-New York state participation in the project, said Canada has received assurance of support from the U. S. administration in getting the appeals heard expeditiously.

Toronto Harbor Called Chaotic By Shipping Firms

TORONTO (CP)—Agents of six overseas shipping firms said today the port of Toronto was "a poor advertisement for a harbor" as conditions along the waterfront were chaotic.

They said unloading delays through lack of storage space were costing unnecessary expense and throwing schedules out of kilter.

One representative of three lines calling regularly at Toronto said shippers have met to consider shifting operations to Hamilton. Conditions here would be worse next year, they predicted.

'My California' To Be Reviewed In Color Film

California has everything and almost all of it will be reviewed in the Kiwanis Club's next big budget feature in its World Travel and Adventure series on Thursday evening, Nov. 5 at the Belleville Collegiate.

Stan Hilling, who spent six years in the preparation of his technicolor film "My California" will be on hand to narrate the picture.

The film shows California to be a land of variety from its highest mountains to its lowest depths. Sun, snow, teeming cities and the majestic ghost towns and present-day fleates, snowfalls and orange groves all blend into a technicolor kaleidoscope of the booming, bustling giant that is California.

As an added attraction #MM. Hilling will present a short, lively film of the tournament of roses parade staged last New Year's day in Pasadena.

Knowles Asking For Details Of Expenses

OTTAWA (CP)—A CCF member of Parliament wants to know how much this summer's election campaign costs the candidates.

Stanley Knowles, member for Winnipeg North Centre, placed a motion on the order paper for the forthcoming session of Parliament asking for details of the expenses.

He sought similar information after the 1949 election and learned that more than 100 candidates did not meet requirements of the Canada Elections Act.

The act requires every candidate in a federal election to provide information on expenses to the returning officer within two months of a new member being declared elected. He must tell who paid his bills, the amount of his personal expenses, the amount paid his agent for running the campaign and a variety of other information about campaign expenses.

The act provides several penalties. A candidate who is elected and sits in the Commons without providing the information is liable to forfeit $200 for each day he sits in Parliament. The money may be collected by anyone who successfully sues him for it.

The elected member or an unsuccessful candidate may also be charged with committing an illegal practice which carries a maximum penalty of $2,000, two years in prison or both.

No court action was taken against any of the 100 candidates in 1949 who did not meet the election act requirements.

Pulp and Paper Workers Stick To Demands

TORONTO (CP)—Union chiefs armed with strike orders for 15,000 pulp and paper workers in Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba said today they are standing pat on original wage demands as they met with company representatives in a final effort to avert a wholesale walkout.

Arthur Daoust of Hull, Que., Canadian director of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers, one of the nine unions involved in the dispute with 91 pulp and paper companies, said the unions agreed Monday not to lower their demands.

Mr. Daoust made the statement after the company officials sat down to talk over the problem, which could paralyze Ontario's big pulp and paper industry.

PRISONER REPATRIATION

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass, Soviet news agency, today said a Japanese War Crimes delegation which has arrived here will negotiate for the repatriation of Japanese war prisoners now were "released ahead of time from punishment for war crimes, as well as those who have served their sentences." The five-man Japanese delegation had its first meeting Friday with the Soviet Red Cross.

Presbyterians Charge Assault On Human Rights

NEW YORK (AP)—The governing body of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. said Monday that "a subtle but potent assault upon basic human rights is now in progress" in the United States.

Moreover, the church charged, "loyalty to truth" is being sacrificed for propaganda purposes.

In what was described as an extraordinary action, the church's 175-member general council sent to its 8,500 parishes and 2,500,000 members a letter on contemporary affairs, asserting:

"Dangerous developments are taking place in our national life"... The shrine of conscience and private judgment, which God alone has a right to enter, is being invaded...

The letter charged that a "cynical public" in official circles was discouraging attempts to settle world tensions by negotiation, and that congressional inquiries have tended to "become inquisitions."

"These inquisitions, which find their historic pattern in medieval Spain and in the tribunals of modern totalitarian states, begin to constitute a threat to freedom of thought in this country," the letter said.

12 Cars Collide, Five Persons Die In South Carolina

WALTERBORO, S.C. (AP) — Twelve motor vehicles crashed near here today, killed five persons and injured at least eight.

The five killed were occupants of a car headed toward Walterboro. It and another vehicle collided shortly after dawn about one-half mile from town.

Words first had left a pall of smoke in the area where the vehicles hit. Ten other vehicles, including a Greyhound bus and a tanker truck, piled into the wreckage or ran off the road on either side to avoid collision. The pile-up occurred on a long curve.

Drug in Jug Convicts Sleep Like Bug in Rug

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) — All was quiet in the Washington state penitentiary Monday night.

It should have been.

Some 400 convicts were snoozing off the effects of a week-end bender of sleeping pills.

Warden John Cranor tells this story:

Prisoners working at the penitentiary's warehouse got curious Saturday when a shipment of wonder surpius hospital supplies arrived. They happened to open a box containing 400,000 Nembutal tablets.

FELL FLAT ON FACES

They gulped 400,000 pills around to other convicts and, as one guard put it:

"By Monday morning the whole prison population had rubber legs. A man would be walking down the sidewalk and fall flat on his face.

A shakedown by prison guards, Cranor said, turned up most of the pills not gobbled down by the prisoners or flushed down the toilets just prior to the shakedown.

Threaten Police With Eviction

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario government has threatened the police department with eviction unless it moves from the provincially - owned court-house.

The department was originally ordered to move by May 1 but the order was held up when preparations were started for a new police building. City council last week decided to delay start on a new building because of high costs.

Council received a letter last night from Sheriff W. H. Marks threatening court action if the department does not move.

'Several Types' Of A and H Bombs Claimed by Reds

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio claimed today the Soviet Union scientists have created "several types of atomic and hydrogen bombs."

The claim was made in a Moscow broadcast to Russian listeners summarizing a talk by one of the delegates of twelve chemical science to the conference, B. I. Vozhdvizhen.

The broadcast said joint work by physicists, chemists and geologists brought the "secret of the atomic weapon and of creating several types of atomic and hydrogen bombs."

"This work demonstrates the high standard of Soviet science and technology," the broadcast said, adding that "our country is resolutely coming forward against the use of the atomic weapon (and) it continues a persistent struggle for its prohibition."

Soviet premier Georgi Malenkov last Aug. 8 told the Supreme Soviet Parliament that the United States no longer has the monopoly of the A-bomb, but today's broadcast was the first Soviet reference to the production of two types of hydrogen and atomic bombs.

Anglican Bishop Urges Boycott Of Newspapers Exploiting Sex

EXETER, England (AP) — The Anglican bishop of Exeter, Dr. R. C. Mortimer, today called on Christians to boycott British newspapers that exploit sex in their news columns.

Speaking at the Exeter diocesan conference attended by clergy and laymen from all parts of Devon, the bishop asked:

"The trouble I suspect is that many of us church people enjoy the titillations which these papers supply and persuade ourselves that we suffer no harm in reading them."

"We are wrong. The situation has become too serious. It is the duty of every Christian to be honest with himself and to refuse to buy the papers of which he knows his moral principles force him to disapprove."

SAYS PUBLIC ABUSED

He said the "near pornography of some parts of the press" had come under public protest.

"These protests are valuable and healthy," he said, "but more valuable and healthy will the protests beginning to come from within the press itself."

"It is obvious that any effective protest or any salutary raising of standards must be the work of those who are themselves responsible for the production of newspapers. A little discipline on their part is worth more than any amount of external control, censorship or legislation."

FUTURE PRESIDENT IN INDIANA?

Our operatives in New Castle, Indiana, have not yet reported on the outcome of Hallowe'en high jinks in that metropolis. As a matter of fact we are not overly interested. There may be some short-term profits to be invested. These are the days of Mayor Paul McCormick in preparing to the town's 784 junior high school pupils a pledge against Hallowe'en vandalism. But we are firmly convinced that the really important dividend will not be declared for many years yet. About the year 2,000, though, the world may well be reading about the boyhood escapades of a U.S. president who grew up in New Castle.

Mayor McCormick received an excellent response from 785 students. They signed the pledge. As we said, we have not yet received reports to indicate whether they kept it.

But our real interest is in the 784th student. He refused to sign. Now there is a boy who will, some day, be a great man!

His fellow-students all submitted supinely to social pressure. They either kept the pledge, in which case they had been cowed, or they broke it, in which case they were delinquent.

But the lone rebel had a mind of his own.

He showed courage.

He showed a surprising grasp, for one so young, of the limitations of human nature. He did not trust himself—and this mistrust of self is oft-times essential if we are to win, and deserve, the trust of our fellow-men.

He was honest. He refused to say, the way which his fellow-students took, was to sign the pledge and then to attempt to resist the temptations provided by movable steps, unguarded ladders, unlocked doors and flammable structures of unstated descriptions. But the dissenter would not risk a lie.

And, above all, he was not afraid to be different.

BUT LIARS FIGURE

Figures don't lie. This old saw has been thrilling figures of dubious parentage an ironclad respectability for years. Nevertheless figures are merely tools for the the conveyance of somebody's ideas, figures can sometimes have their integrity endangered by the character of their employer.

Nobody likes to use an instrument that has a bad reputation and so it is with lance-stilt that we dive headlong to the mountainous mound of statistics.

A recent epistle from Germany states that World War II destroyed or made uninhabitable 25 million homes in the European area. The colossal destruction is said to have been 20 per cent of the housing stock of Germany in 1939.

We would be unable to quarrel with these figures if they were used independently but when they are wedded in a news dispatch we must look at them with a jaundiced eye.

The pre-war population of Germany totalled less than 80 million.

According to reports on the housing situation we would have to assume that in 1939 Germany had 125 million homes. In view of the fact that Hitler's chief battle cry was Lebensraum—or "living room" for the German nation—we must now conclude that either the figures are wrong or Hitler was blind in addition to all his other ailments.

We are forced to conclude that perhaps the report on German housing is somewhat exaggerated.

An item in the Canadian papers of last last week again blighted our faith in figures. It was stated that Canadian forest fires take an average yearly toll of nearly two million cords of timber valued at four million dollars. We don't wish to depress you by asking you to think about four million dollars, and so for the sake of simplicity knock the value figures for ten cords of timber down to ten dollars.

Our admittedly shaky mathematics bring out the fact that two acres of timber are worth four dollars. We are not lumbermen and so we ask the question: If you can picture a two-acre timber lot worth only four dollars? See what we mean?

This sort of thing becomes frightfully distressing to an amateur statistician who feels that, while figures don't lie, they should be treated with enough respect that they won't refuse to testify on the grounds that they might incriminate themselves.

INDIANS FILLING DIFFICULT ROLE

Events have been proving that Syngman Rhee is wrong when he denounces the Indians as pro-Communists.

Early decisions by the Indian representatives on the repatriation commission in Korea brought heated reactions from U.N. officials in the field. But later developments have shown that the Indians are prepared to stand against Communist demands when they believe these to be unreasonable. Lt.-General K. S. Thimayya refused to use force to make North Korean prisoners listen to Communist "explanations"; then succeeded in persuading these prisoners to abandon their resistance to attending these interviews. Immediately after this point was solved, the Communists forced another issue by insisting on the use of loud-speakers, which the Indians refused to permit. Possibly Thimayya will succeed in ironing out this squabble, too.

If he does British officials who wanted India included in the list of countries attending the peace conference on Korea may quite reasonably feel that events have proven that India's peculiar status as a "neutral" might have been of value at this parley.

NATURE THE SEAMSTRESS

Mother Nature, fond of frills,
For the season's last display
Dresses up the fields and hills,
Robes the trees in blouses gay.
In and out her needle pushes
Making frocks for little bushes.

Mother Nature, seamstress wise,
Has a wondrous eye for tint,
Fashions with her marvelous
Lovely tapestries and prints.

Chooses gold where gold best flashes,
Red and bronze for young tree sashes.

Mother Nature's seams and hems
Seldom show a faulty stitch.
Even little twigs and stems
Wear brocades and velvets rich.
For her farewell party, beauty
Seems to be her final duty.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The advertising profession claims that women spend more than $2,000,000,000 a year, the great bulk of advertising is aimed at women readers.

The insurance business plums that men spend more than women. With that in mind, they advise a man earning $10,000 a year that his widow could get a nice fine on an income of $1,200 a year.

The truth of the matter probably lies in between. Marriage is the result of collusion. Some men have enough clothes, hunting clothes, golf clothes, socks, guns, fishing gadgets and trivial possessions to fill ten trunks, while their wives get married with a robe and the contents of their dresser drawers and are housed into three suit cases. Other men have only a sort of one clothes closet; their shirts, underwear and socks will go into half a bureau drawer; they have three neckties, one spare pair of shoes which can't be found at the moment, a snow shovel in the garage and a shotgun standing on the top of the fruit cupboard in the cellar. But their wives' possessions, from fur coat through party gowns, frocks, tweed suits, housecoats down to buffet dresses with five table cloths, forty serviettes, sixteen different salt cellars and nine deserver sets couldn't all be got into one moving van. They'd need two.

And if you did a kind of property inventory on them, you would find that that's the way they like it. Either they or the women doesn't want a lot of junk permeating the rest of their life. The partner behaving like a pack rat. It is a curious thing that in most marriages, and most marriages are happy, you rarely find both husband and wife to be collectors and amassers of goods and chattels.

For the fun of it, we can go through our homes, room by room, with husband and wife, husband and wife together, and just figure out who bought what. Furniture, curtains, rugs, pictures, contents of closets and shelves, every last item from kitchen to garret. And it would prove a most interesting piece of information for the advertising and insurance business to see both to learn that about 90 per cent of the worldly goods of the majority of the population is bought by husband and wife in complete and even enthusiastic agreement.

Letters to The Editor

Nobel Award Honors Man of Humility

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Albert Schweitzer was born on January 14, 1875 in Alsace. At that time the fact of history placed Alsace under German sovereignty. Dr. Schweitzer speaks French and German with equal fluency.

When he proceeds to record the qualifications of this man of our age, one does so surely, from a profound realization of his own inadequacy. Here is a man who holds more than doctorates, but is judged by those who are not capable of judging. Albert Schweitzer is a Doctor of Philosophy, a Doctor of Theology, a Doctor of Music and a Doctor of Medicine.

Doctor Schweitzer himself wrote these words "he absolute if you will, prove it absolutely if you can." Humility in mind therefore, our subjects own admonition, one must be moderate in the use of superlatives even though to do so might be unjust. If you are an admirer of Albert Schweitzer—as the writer is—it will have studied modestly some of his writing, as I have attempted to do in my preliminary survey. It is so easy to succumb to the impulsive praise of words.

It is debatable whether man is born equal in so far as intellectual gifts are concerned. Certainly as a lad, Albert Schweitzer had no outstanding evidence of intellectual capacity in the realm of the arts and sciences. But in his early age he was playing the organ, the same way that has held him in love through life, in his father's Lutheran church. Music was evidently a medium through which he found one of his greatest outlets for the beautiful thinking. As a young man, as a student, Albert Schweitzer was good in most of the capitals of Europe. You will realize that a musician of the calibre of Albert Schweitzer has been, and is, a student of music. But he is not only is a gifted musician, but is an acknowledged expert on organ construction. He knows his instrument as a craftsman and master. Indeed, it is his spiritual devotion.

When a youth, he decided that he would dedicate his life to the better being of his fellow man. Later, after reading a pamphlet pleading for helpers in Africa, he felt himself called to go to Africa to help and to do what he could. Having devoted service some of the white man's guilt to the negro race. Before him lay a future in Europe, a great future in the world of philosophy, in the world of music. He was convinced that his fitness for anything he had accomplished if he could help his fellow man, moral as well as the spiritual need of man. He therefore began and completed the study of medicine and at the same time lectured, preached, played the organ, studied music. Imagine the concentration, power and ambition! This was not sufficient so he took a course in tropical medicine in Paris.

When he left Europe early for Africa, he found that some of his views were not in keeping at the sight of orthodox-theological minds. The world was quick to indicate a fairly complete timetable for endeavor, but Albert Schweitzer had many marriages, and most marriages are happy, you rarely find both husband and wife to be collectors and amassers of goods and chattels.

For the fun of it, we can go through our homes, room by room, with husband and wife, husband and wife together, and just figure out who bought what. Furniture, curtains, rugs, pictures, contents of closets and shelves, every last item from kitchen to garret. And it would prove a most interesting piece of information for the advertising and insurance business to see both to learn that about 90 per cent of the worldly goods of the majority of the population is bought by husband and wife in complete and even enthusiastic agreement.

Comments on Highway, Train Whistles, Parks

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Could not the city fathers decide the matter of train whistling without the trouble and expense of a referendum? Surely we have enough sense to endorse the proposition of spending $25,000 on railway bells. Common sense should keep.

Could we not find out what other cities do in the matter of anti-whistling by-laws which they are said to have in force? Furthermore we have so far on many railway crossings over secondary streets, homes as regards the C.N.R. and the C.P.R. Several of these could be closed up without undue hardship on the citizens and the warning signals there, at present, could be placed elsewhere.

As regards something more land, this should be done in larger lots than the present 25 x 100 at a time, but with provision in one or two places for 25 to 50 foot parks. Such tracts would not be improved right away but with provision for "no sale" and reserving space for future generations. Such would probably save $500,000 on education $10,000 to $20,000, on parks once in two generations would be saved items, and might produce better results.

As regards the much proposed arterial highway, should this not be a "super" highway, with not one quarter the cost? And if Oshawa has three or four closed roads, we might do the same here.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

THE ORDINARY DOCTOR AND THE DOCTOR FAR AWAY

Young women pushing forty has been surveyed and sometimes embarrassed in the past three or four years by actual breaking of bones. No again, she says, but imagine the sensible crack in a knee . . . she wonders whether she has too much calcium in her system or too little.

Dr. Brady

I might palpate her noisy knee or last check her under the chin, in a grandfatherly way, put understand, and in thoughtful knowing manner pronounce the trouble due to too much calcium or too little calcium by the system, depending on whether it happen to be in the nineteenth century or the twentieth century school of quackery. A quack, says Webster, is one who professes skill or knowledge in any matter of which he knows little or nothing.

And so I say that any doctor who asserts that "too much calcium" or "too much phosphorus" or both will cause "deposits" of calcium in the joints, the arteries or one or another internal organ is a quack, unless he clearly specifies how much calcium and/or how much vitamin D is too much."

I never advise anybody to take more calcium and/or vitamin D unless nutrition authorities estimate every one needs to maintain good nutrition. Indeed, I recommend that the calcium content of four glasses of milk and two eggs and a handful of nuts and the vitamin D content of a tablespoon of cod liver oil.

A variation on Charlie Chaplin's role by so many trick specialists and irresponsible doctors is this one from benighted Athens:

A local doctor says that calcium taken by mouth merely passes through the body doing no good. (K.M.)

By now probably has been stuck with a course of calcium "shots". Its taken in the natural way merely passes through the body, how else can K.M. hope to absorb enough to keep bones, teeth, nerves, heart from falling apart? By the time the poor fellow gets his quota of calcium from 20 injections (the healthy body contains nearly three pounds of calcium) the quack whose office girl administers the injections will own the building outright.

There is no scientific evidence that any known vitamin is more effective when administered by injection than when taken by mouth.

Certainly calcium in its natural form, as in such calcium foods as milk, cheese, beans, peas, nuts, spinach, carrots, is not readily assimilated when taken by mouth many days after it is introduced into the vein can be.

A few medicines are effective only when given by needle, for example.

We don't let the kil-NICK reckeners sell you a course of "cold shots." Should you be "cured" of this and that for your exclusive kind of "arthritis." If you have money to throw away let them, where it will do somebody some good.

German Fools Drunk Drivers

(Ottawa Evening Citizen)

German inventors already do notch up with their creation of an anti-snoring device, have invaded the far more difficult field of combatting the drunk driver.

Guenter Hebermann, a Munich inventor, now claims he has invented an auto that cannot be driven by an intoxicated person.

His formula calls for installation of a "psychotester" in the car. When the driver puts the key in the ignition, three lights flash on and put him through a complicated test before the motor can be started. One light requires one to turn the wheel, two lights mean two turns, and so on.

The routine demands a good deal of dexterity and quick thinking. It would probably baffle the befuddled driver and probably will.

The only trouble with it is that it will probably be the same for other drivers. The flustered husband piloting his pregnant wife to hospital, the irate woman who has been nagging her husband to accompany her, the crestfallen young man jilted by his girl—they may all be stymied at the first hurdle by Mr. Hebermann's formidable contraption.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CURIOSITY

Just as soon as the mind in a child begins to work, it wants to know. Why? Time and again it keeps asking, and it never stops throughout life. Civilization has advanced because people were curious—they wanted to know. Try to keep knowledge away from a person and he wants more anxious than ever to hunt it out.

A large part of our knowledge has come because of our curiosity. Not only the professional scientist busy, and all researchers are encouraged and driven to their tasks because of the fascinating processes of discovery. There is no limit to what a person can learn from nature. We have coupled nature study with the most useful ideas that have been put to work for the pleasure and profit of man.

We read a book, and because of its literary merit or its interesting plot, we want to know something about the background of the author who wrote the book. Our curiosity keeps whispering to us, and if we obey it we are paper we learn things. Experiments go on and because of the curiosity of the one engaged in them, the revelation leads to another. Many a valuable discovery has come almost accidentally while at work on something alien to that discovery.

Curiosity is the spur. A curiosity men keep digging into the ground for coal, oil, gold, and for every something valuable — and they find it. Curiosity has furnished us the comforts of life. The automobile, telephone, airplane, radio, and the countless number of other things. Stop people's curiosity and you damn progress by killing incentive and initiative.

It's no disgrace to ask questions, even though they may appear foolish. How silly it was we going to find out what we don't know? It was this interest about to the Moon, or far into undiscovered space—it's because we are all curious about something that we would like to know about. Never laugh at anyone because he is curious. That's what made Henry Ford a billionaire and a benefactor a mankind!

REAL AUTHORITY IN THE CHURCH

A little child who had attended Sunday school in one community and then moved into another was somewhat disturbed to find that after her change of residence she would have to go to a church of another denomination. The first Sunday she rushed home excitedly, crying: They have Jesus in this church just as they do in the church we left back home."

This child had made a profound discovery. There are thousands of adults who never make this discovery. Yet it is a simple truth that comes straight down from heaven itself. And the truth is this—Jesus is to be found in every Christian church, regardless of its creed or its ecclesiastical allegiances. And this truth gives to every an even greater truth, namely that wherever Jesus Christ is, there is His authority.

"If any man have not the spirit of Christ," said St. Paul, "he is none of His." The logical corollary of that truth is that anything that rejects Jesus Christ is, there is His church.

Creeds and matters of ecclesiastical authority which separate us into different groups have real importance, but their importance is never primary. The only thing that really counts is this—does the living spirit of Christ abide in the heart of the believer or in the midst of a group of believers?

Jesus makes the church. His presence is the church.

Rubber Workers Ready to Seek Strike Settlement

WELLAND (CP)—Strikers at the General Tire and Rubber Company plant here said today they were ready to meet company officials in an attempt to settle a walkout which began last Friday.

Bill Bennett, a field representative for the United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America (CIO-CCL), said members of the General Tire local were in favor of early negotiations if the company withdrew disciplinary notices issued to 18 women employees last week.

The plant was closed when some 200 employees walked off their jobs in protest of what they called discrimination.

Union officials said the company had issued disciplinary notes to 18 women because they climbed a fire escape yesterday when they should have been on the job.

Liquor Profits In All Provinces $121,293,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Liquor profits made by provincial governments during the fiscal year ended nearest to March 31 soared to $121,293,000 from $111,863,000 the previous year, the bureau of statistics reported Monday.

The rise was reflected in an increase in net general revenue to $1,221,000,000 from $1,048,000,000. Net general expenditures also jumped among the 10 provincial governments to $1,220,000,000 from $1,045,000,000.

The bureau's preliminary analysis of provincial government finances also showed that tax revenues for all provinces dropped—to $670,704,000 from $554,864,000—due largely to Ontario's participation in the 1952 tax rental agreements between the federal and provincial governments.

Ontario's participation in the agreement also was a contributing factor in the rise to $202,148,000 from $85,801,000 in provincial receipts from the agreements. Part of the rise also was due to higher payments to all provinces resulting from the rise in population.

Liquor profits by provinces were: Newfoundland, $1,742,000; Prince Edward Island, $865,000; Nova Scotia $5,779,000; New Brunswick, $6,368,000; Quebec, $21,500,000; Ontario $80,380,000; Manitoba, $6,150,000; Saskatchewan, $9,950,000; Alberta $13,360,000; and British Columbia $21,805,000.

Hero of Iwo Jima Booked Again For Drunkenness

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An American Indian, hero of fighting on Iwo Jima and more recently a victim of alcohol, has forfeited $20 bail on a new drunk arrest. But he still has his job if he wants it.

"I'm all through; I guess I'll go back to Arizona," said Ira Hayes when he got into trouble again Monday after bandleader got him out of a jam in Chicago.

Hayes was one of six United States Marines who raised the Stars and Stripes on Iwo's Mount Suribachi, an event recorded by Joe Rosenthal with a picture which won a Pulitzer Prize. Rosenthal also was an AP photographer.

Did Not Like Boat

GREENOCK, Scotland (CP)—Lila Kaye, 24-year-old British cabaret dancer, set out on the Montreal-bound liner Empress of Canada to become a Canadian citizen.

Her first step was to be Toronto, where her brother Harold lives.

But when the liner stopped at Greenock en route from Liverpool Lila picked up her three suitcases and her brassbound trunk and left her £160 berth empty.

"I thought I was going to be seasick," she said.

Complete Work On Memorial

LONDON (CP)—Work is expected to be completed next spring on a memorial to Sir John Alcock and Lieut. Arthur Brown, the first men to fly the Atlantic.

Alcock and Brown flew the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Ireland in 1919.

Member Suggests Chairman of Bd. Be Replaced

TORONTO (CP)—W. J. Stewart, chairman of the Ontario legislature's select committee on reform institutions, Monday suggested the chairman of the Ontario Parole board be replaced and the board "rejuvenated."

He made the suggestion when the board chief appear for an appointment with the committee.

Mr. George Ince, chairman of board chairman.

"It seems to be a very unbusinesslike way of operating," Mr. Stewart said. "It's all evidence of lack of leadership and use of responsibility."

Mr. Stewart suggested an acting chairman be appointed from within the parole board's ranks to head the board until the committee finished it's deliberations and made its report on the parole board and other topics to the legislature.

Magistrate Thomas Elmore of Toronto told the committee as many drunks are arrested in Toronto as in New York. He did not quote figures. He also said it is common here for one person to go to jail 10 or 11 times a year for being drunk.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McKnight, of Belleville, were recent guests at The Guild of All Arts, Scarborough, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Simson Robertson and family, of Roslin, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Earl King, 24 North James Street.

Mr. Robert Gibson after spending the week-end at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Gibson, 178 George Street, has returned to London, where he is attending the University of Western Ontario.

Mrs. Ada Lingham Wagner, Toronto, has been visiting her father, Mr. Harry Wagner. During her stay here, she attended the confirmation on Sunday of her granddaughter, Priscilla Esther, at St. Margaret-in-the-Hill.

CORONATION MEDAL

Miss Farmer of Combermere, and Miss Grace Doucette, of Maynooth, were guests over the week-end of Miss Edith Lanning, Coleman Street. Miss Farmer, who attended the Teachers' Federation meeting in Trenton on Saturday, has been teaching in Renfrew county and North Hastings for a number of years, is an active worker in Teachers' Federation and the Women's Institute work, and is a life member. She recently received the "Coronation medal."

GREAT BOOKS DISCUSSION

Last night the Great Books Discussion group was led by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Buchan, who discussed Aristotle's poetics, dealing with Greek tragedy.

At the next meeting, Mr. and Mrs. K. G. M. Ross will discuss Plato's "Meno."

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilder Vickers are shown following their marriage in Mount Hamilton United Church, Hamilton, Ont. The bride is the former Miss Nancy Beryl Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel T. Jones of Bridgetown N.S., and the late Mr. Vickers.

Baha'i Assembly Holds Pumpkin Ball

Each guest having been instructed on invitation to wear an unflattering color predominantly, some executed their assignment by masquerade costumes, others by wearing disharmonious color combinations.

Hostess for the picturesquely happy hostesses, Margaret Mann and Helen White, clad in violently vibratory shades of purple, orange, scarlet, chartreuse and mauve, conducted an hilarious program of skits, impersonations, dancing and various forms of self-expression, concluding with grand treasure hunt.

Varlous Costumes

Present among the 30 guests were Carmen Miranda; Sadie Thompson, Mighty Mouse, two hairy-chested ballerinas, a harlequin, and a varied assortment of thugs, cat-lovers and murderesses including individuals. The costume prize was awarded Bob Corteny who appeared as the Irish Washerwoman.

The members of the Kingston Baha'i community were present. Other out-of-town guests were from Napanee, Ottawa and Toronto. The visitors gathered at the home Monday afternoon for Sunday morning for a farewell brunch party.

Canadian Legion L.A. Enjoys Party

The Ladies' Auxiliary Canadian Legion Branch 56, Belleville, held its annual Hallowe'en party on Friday in the Coleman Street club room.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Tweed was the guest for the evening.

Dancing was enjoyed by one and all. Those in costume held a parade for the judging. Prizes being, Mr. and Mrs. Slater, as Dr. Pick-Me-Up and his wife as nurse; Mr. and Mrs. Rabs as the Sheiks.

The spotlight dance was won by Mrs. Helm and Miss Margaret Elvins.

Lucky winners for hampers of groceries were Mrs. C. Meeks and Mrs. L. Smith.

The music was provided by Mr. Thorn and his accompanists. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Blair and her committee of which dancing was again continued.

Many thanks to Mrs. Blair and her helpers for the wonderful decoration of the hall. Mrs. Bean and Mrs. Bradford were receptionists.

S. Hastings Y.P.U. Elects 1954 Officers

Over 90 young people of South Hastings district Young People's Union of the United Church of Canada gathered at Holloway Street United Church to hold their fall rally. Fellowship hymns were served by the ladies of the church.

The evening program, presided over by Mac Cameron, president, opened with a worship led by Roslyn Robertson of Holloway Street Y.P.U.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mac Cameron then introduced the guest speaker, Rev. Miriam Colling, B.A., assistant minister of Bridge Street United Church, who spoke on the theme "Our Father's Business". Miss Collins chose as her text "What ye not that I must about my Father's Business?"

She urged each person to secure the booklet, "Our Father's Business", that is being sent out by The United Church of Canada. Miss Collins stated "Jesus went out to do His work and we are all His disciples" and this question was left with each of us "What are we doing about our Father's Business?"

DISCUSSION GROUPS

Discussion groups were formed and led by the following district and presbytery conveners: Faith and Evangelism, Wilkinson Huffman and Irene Walters; Stewardship and Finance, George Wilson and Gordon Fox; Missions and World Outreach, Earl Lashery and Rosemary Hunter; Citizenship and Community Service, Ralph Swan and Burton Vorton; Culture and Recreation; Eloise Clare and Reta Christie.

The returns of the year's activities was given by the secretary, Ruth McMullen and the financial report was given by the treasurer, Earl Lashery.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The report of the nominating committee was presented and the election of officers for the coming year was held and the results were as follows; past president, Mac Cameron; president, Reta Christie; vice-president, Ralph Swan; secretary, Ruth McMullen; treasurer, Jean Pinkey Switzer, Rev. G. J. Miniely of King Street United Church and Rev. and Mrs. R. W. T. Middleton of Bayside.

Miss Margaret Hillis, of Belleville, rendered two delightful solos. Mrs. Middleton, as guest speaker, closed all with the philosophy and Scottish wit. Her closing poem "The Builders," brought out the worthwhile role of the teacher.

A TEACHER BUILDS

"As a teacher builded a temple
With loving and infinite care
Planning each arch with patience,
Laying each stone with care.
None praised her unceasing efforts
None knew of her wondrous plan,
For the temple the teacher builded
Was unseen by the eyes of man."

The afternoon session of discussion followed this, thus bringing to a close a most instructive and inspiring conference.

Mrs. McConnel Entertains Pupils' Mothers, Friends

Friday afternoon Mrs. McConnel, Millstown school teacher, entertained the mothers and friends of her pupils to a Hallowe'en party. Games were played by the children.

Mrs. H. Houston and Mrs. Barnhart judged the Hallowe'en costumes, prizes were given by the teacher.

Mrs. Williams surprised the visitors with a large birthday cake in honor of her son David's fifth birthday.

After the refreshments were served by the pupils, Mrs. Houston thanked Mrs. McConnel for her hospitality.

HUNTER WOUNDED

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Daniel Goodfellow, 18, was shot in the chest with a 12-gauge shotgun in a hunting accident Saturday. A companion said he mistook Goodfellow for a groundhog.

were Mr. Ronald V. Jones and Mr. Jack M. Jones.

The reception was held at Club 222, Hamilton. To receive the guests, the bride's mother wore grey-blue iridescent taffeta and a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother was in black trimmed with silver. American Beauty roses composed her corsage.

The honeymoon is being spent in the Eastern United States. For travelling the bride chose a grey worsted suit and coat with red accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Vickers will return to make their home in Oshawa.

Royal Sisters Scintillate at Film Premiere

Queen Elizabeth II and Princess Margaret are shown arriving at a London theatre to attend a premiere. Queen Elizabeth is wearing an emerald necklace and a diamond tiara that formerly belonged to Queen Mary.

Trenton Unit S. Hastings' W.T.F. Hostess to Fall Conference

The Trenton unit of the South Hastings Women Teachers' Federation was hostess to the fall conference of region four or the Federated Women Teachers' Association of Ontario held on Saturday at Queen Elizabeth School in Trenton. Region four extends from the border of York County to the Quebec border as far north as Haliburton.

As this was the first time the regional conference has been held in Trenton it was most gratifying to see such a large gathering of delegates and visitors.

At this meeting all regional directors of region four were present, as were many of the conveners, and also Miss Elizabeth Taylor, assistant-secretary of the F.W.T.A.O.

GROW PROFESSIONALLY

Mrs. Ruth Clarke, of Port Hope, the governor of region four, presided.

In her address to the conference, she emphasized the theme of the fall conference, "Grow Professionally" Teacher certification was discussed, the lowering of standards being greatly deplored.

Following a busy morning session, a delicious dinner was served at King Street United Church. Among the guests present were Mr. Macklem, Public School Inspector, for South Hastings; Mr. Carswell, Supervising Principal of Trenton Public Schools; Mr. Sandercock, M.P.P.; Rev. G. J. Miniely of King Street United Church and Rev. and Mrs. R. W. T. Middleton of Bayside.

79th Anniversary Observed By Bethel United Church

On Sunday, October 25th Bethel (Hawkestone) congregation of the United Church observed the 79th anniversary, of the founding of the church, with a large assembly of worshippers in attendance from the community and many points.

The church was adorned for the occasion with baskets of pink and green "mums and the two pedestal standards were filled with autumn blooms.

Rev. E. G. Dewey, of Sidney, was the guest minister both morning and evening and preached two inspirtur sermons. His morning messages based on "Unity in Christ", with St. John 17:21 as his text, "That they all may be one as thou Father art in me, and I in thee."

Unity in Christ is essential for harmony in the home, in national and international life.

Unity in Christ is necessary for survival. It is Christ or chaos. Christ, not atomic bombs is the answer to the world's needs.

Unity in Christ is necessary for salvation, reconciliation with one another, and with God achieved in fellowship with Christ.

EVENING SERVICE

At the evening service he spoke on the subject, "The Shepherd" with St. John 10, 11 as his text, "I am the good Shepherd."

The good shepherd guides; the good shepherd protects; The good shepherd provides; The good sheep heed gives his life for the sheep.

Special music arranged by Mrs. Harold Wannamaker, R.M., church organist, was rendered by a full choir at both services. On Sunday morning the choir rendered the anthem, "The Stranger" by W. R. Clarke, with Mrs. R. R. Bontzel taking the solo part, and "O Master Let Me Live", by F. G. Walter, with the Misses Barbara Hadley, Barbara Green and Donalda Ellis taking a trio part.

The guest soloist Mrs. William Wilson, of Stirling sang "My Redeemer" and "The Holy City".

At the evening service the choir rendered "The Evening Prayer" by I. Bishop, with Mrs. R. Bontzel and Mrs. D. Heath taking duet parts.

The guest soloist, Mr. W. D. Grant, of Holloway sang two numbers, "He Smiled on Me", by G. O'Hara, and "Love Never Faileth" by F. W. Root.

Women's Activities

TRINITY CHURCH W. G.

The regular meeting of the Women's Guild of Trinity Church, Shannonville, was held at the home of Miss Grace Cox, on Thursday, with the president, Mrs. Fitzgerald, presiding.

Mrs. Page opened the meeting. Roll call was answered by fifteen members.

It was decided that a euchre party will be held on Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Marlowe.

Mrs. John Kent will entertain on November 5th, for a bazaar and tea.

A social party was held recently at the home of Mrs. R. Toppings with proceeds go Mrs. Toppings with proceeds go Mrs. After the business discussions were over, Mrs. Page closed the meeting and refreshments were served by Miss Cox assisted by Mrs. Kent.

ALUMINUM has a habit of turning up almost everywhere. But "farthest notch" was reached recently, when a U.S. Air Force pilot set down his aircraft at the geographic North Pole—on a pair of aluminum skis.

Aluminum's lightness - with - strength has made it the basic material of the aircraft industry. And because aluminum is only ½ to ⅓ as heavy as other base metals, a pound of it goes a lot further. Which is one more reason why so many manufacturers of so many products have turned to aluminum to help keep their prices down. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

A Friendly Letter

By Mary Moore

...ells the column, business the and Christmas seasons are...ferred to them. Well, I guess I'll...

"Dear Aunt Moore: Having re...recently moved I was afraid I...first I would no longer be able...to read your column, but luck...fully discovered your address...I received in one the pa...per we decided to take. Even my husband reads it sometimes...I'm afraid my requests are many, but I have been planning to write for so long to you, that I keep adding to my list of ques...tions. Do you remember when your children were young and how tired and threw? Well my girl is three and my boy is two, and I have enough my activities day by day.

"We are very fond of Chinese food, and have good recipes for Chow Mein and Sweet and Sour Spareribs, but cannot find any directions for Fried Chicken and Waffles. It's the tomato sauce that I cannot reproduce. I think the chicken pieces are French fried and then added to the sauce.

"Have you ever heard of 'Stand Pies?' My husband is a Scotchman and likes all varieties of it, and would like me to make one. It is made in a round mould, just like a Pork Pie with sausage meat, or something like that. Would you give me a good recipe for 'Orange Bread?' I make Date and Nut Cake in it, too, and it keeps very well and I would like an orange and date recipe that I could bake in 15 oz. tins also. They would be easy to slice for sandwiches and teas.

"Would you also please let me have your calorie chart. My husband and I are both too fat, and have made resolutions to try to get rid of some of the excess.

"Thank you once again for your most helpful column and your inspiration to your many readers to try to keep neat, attractive and diversified meals.—Thala H.

ANSWER:

Do I ever remember when my two were two and three? Indeed I do! Pete was worse than any other two naughty children I have ever known. Marianne was always an angel. Now at 19 and 20 they are very much grown and natural. So be patient.

I have a Chinese friend who is an expert cook. He gave me this basic sauce recipe. I am fairly sure you can vary it enough to satisfy you: A Sweet-Sour Sauce: 1-4 cup vinegar, 1-3 cup liquid —this may be tomato juice or tomato puree (use the puree if you want a sauce rich with tomato flavor and color) or pineapple juice, 1-2 cup solidly packed brown sugar, 1 tablespoon each cornstarch and cold water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon white seasoning (Ac-cent), 1 tablespoon of the cornstarch, cold water, salt and seasoning. Heat all other ingredients together to boiling, stir in paste until thick, let simmer about 5 minutes. If this is made with pineapple juice it is cooled and served as a "dip" with appetizers such as shrimp or cubes of chicken or lobster.

ORANGE BREAD

This calls for nuts and light raisins. You could omit the raisins. Squeeze the juice from 1 large orange into a measuring cup, then add boiling water to fill cup and turn into mixing bowl. Put orange rind through food chopper and to it add enough light seedless raisins (or dates) to fill the cup. Add to the orange juice and water, then stir in 1-2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons shortening and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat in 1 egg. Sift together twice, stirred but not sifted flour with 1 teaspoon each baking soda and baking powder and 1-3 teaspoon salt. Beat well, then beat in 1-2 cup finely chopped walnuts or blanched almonds. Bake in greased loaf pan 50 minutes at 300 deg. Fahr. If you bake this in 15-oz. tins it will not take this long.

I have enquiries out for the "Stand Pie" so please watch for it.

Fashion Flashes

No end to the handsome novelties available in skirts this season. Camel's hair and cashmere are two new fabrics, and leather also is smartly used. Really handsome is a skirt composed of big blocks of green tweed and black cape-skin, the skirt smartly flared, the blocks alternating.

Going in for the eccentric idea with a vengeance is one designer who is showing Persian lamb jackets and coats with umbrella matching to garment linings and sporting bandies of matching fur.

Soft touches appear on many many of the new, simply-cut wool dresses. A nice example is a beige wool dress with brown velvet ribbon laced through slots on the bodice and sleeves, the velvet repeated as a hipline accent. Dress is collarless, with a deep narrow V neckline, and has dropped shoulders.

Luxury belts include many of fur, others with fur accents. Brown ranch mink makes a narrow belt with glistening three - dimensional rhinestone frame buckle. Another nice fur found in a lapel bouquet of suede and mink flowers.

A striking example of the new coat fashions is a full-length model of black capeskin lined with black alpaca. The alpaca is set into the squirrel-collar, which is like the cuffs and the big patch pockets, finished by several rows of welt stitching.

Party-goers are going for new, handsome separates, with emphasis on such beautiful skirts as a whirl of a skirt in white felt trimmed with arabesques and scrolls of gold braid studded with colored stones

Clever hands have been working with corduroy, and the new shapes up as a smart and original as well as a durable fabric. Doubtless after as a blouse or a jacket is a pretty affair done in black

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THEY LIVE WITH HER FOLKS, WHO SPOIL THEIR CHILD

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

My husband and I are both in our very early forties and have a lovely four-year-old boy. We love each other very much, and get along remarkably well. It is not that it were not that we live with my folks, who make it impossible for us to act toward our little boy as though they were his parents.

What I mean is, that when I have the baby alone, everything is fine. But when my husband's mother is around, which is most of the time, she takes over, and either bosses him too much or spoils him too much. Then, when my husband and I have the baby to ourselves again, he acts up to the set that hardly manage at all.

My husband and I have talked this over, but hesitate to hurt his mother, but the situation has really become intolerable, and we don't know what to do about it.—Mrs. L. W.

Perry Mills, Ont.

It takes a great deal of courage and character on the part of parents to handle such a difficult problem. It is a very common thing that as many older women who have married sons and daughters living with them cannot keep their hands off the young people's affairs, especially in regard to bringing up their children.

The quickest and easiest solution, of course, would be for you to find a home for yourselves far enough away from the older folks so that you would be able to run your own lives. Unless you are making plans to do this, and that you will be able to bring it about as soon as possible. Once rid of the interference, you will be able to correct whatever harm may have been done in the child's upbringing by his parents, and get him started off again in the right direction.

In the meantime, the only thing for you to do is to take a firm stand in the matter; letting the grandmother understand, that, after all, you are the parents of the child and must be the ones to have major control of him. The grandmother may resent it at first, but if you speak your piece tactfully, and treat her with respect and affection, she will probably get over it.

Paris-Born 'Jungle Look' Catching On in Great Britain

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The Paris-born "jungle look" is catching on in conservative Britain.

Ingredients: Plenty of leopard skins, trimmings in real or synthetic fur.

Result: The fall fashion collections featured leopard-dotted cloches and leopard-collared coats, leopard muffs and pantaloons. There were unusual touches like a strapless leopard bra to a chiffon evening gown, a matching yard-long muff taking the place of an evening bag.

SMART FUR FABRICS

Jungle evening wear isn't too prevalent in London, and you might look a long way for the leopard-printed bra and pantie drawers of the set that hardly manage at all. My husband and I have carefully avoided the dark pebble tweeds now a seasonal favorite here.

There are rich-looking fur fabrics for those who want to add a fur strip to last year's outfit. Ocelot trimming in eight-inch strips costs less than £1 a yard, and narrow collar edgings are priced at less than five shillings a yard.

Leopard handbags in fur fabric sell under £5 and a beret hat with matching muff can be bought for less than £2.

In smart "arty" dress shops you'll find fabric leopard and ocelot waistcoats and matching dralon pique bows. Or there's circular cloche and striking hip-length coats in real or synthetic skins. For fabric blouses are teamed with evening skirts or black dralonpique pants.

CHIC TOUCHES

For smart women there are leopard-printed velvet linings to dark top coats, fur-printed nylon taffeta lining white nylon for jackets and fur-spotted hats in many styles. Muffs, cravats, belts, collars and cuffs come in printed velvets, fur fabrics and real skin. Not all trimmings are of the "spotted variety. Paris' love for Persian lamb and beaver lamb trimming has also crossed to Britain. Luxury touches to princess-line coats are cuffless polo neck pieces in black dralon, to match the tuck to bonnets or muffs.

A pre-war favorite, narrow fur trimming encircling the neck and travelling down the front of the coat to the waist or hem, is also noted. A chic French touch is narrow fur trimming to wide neckline and three-quarter sleeves.

The post-war demand for smart clothes at low prices has resulted in preference for fur fabric for trimmings and accessories. Work against this object to paying that small extra cost for real fur touches.

Smart fur trimmings are also the real thing. Nylon fur is standily increasing in popularity, imitation ocelot, leopard, ermine, mink Persian lamb and other furs come in a wide range of fashions including long and short coats, capes, stoles, hats, scarves and cravats. There are also many nylon trimmings.

MINISTER RESIGNS

LONDON (Reuters) — J. G. Braithwaite, 58, joint parliamentary secretary to the ministry of transport and civil aviation, has resigned because of ill-health, it was announced today. Prime Minister Churchill accepted his resignation "with regret." Braithwaite will retain his Conservative seat in the House of Commons.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

What Your Skincare Should Know About Beauty

Beauty goals include a peak 'fitness,' Sweet Sixteen! That is the romantic period in a woman's life and loveliness plays a dominant role in her every day. Just how does the Sweet Young Thing go about achieving that perfection and ideal? Well, usually, she has her own methods—and they're all right as far as they go. She stalks nifty clothes in the shops. She spends hours pin-curling her hair and arranging it. She has a flock of lipsticks from which to choose, and powdering her nose is more than a part-time occupation. She assumes what she considers interesting poses and uses her pretty eyes to the best possible advantage.

However, on the subject of health, her mind is closed. At the very mention of the word she is bored to death. Old Fuddy-duddy talk, she should realize, however, that youth is not immune to beauty problems and that most of them are traced directly to a violation of health rules. All girls desire everything about them to be gay, pretty, attractive—and popular. All right, then. Let them understand the basic requirements for beauty.

One is good eating habits. That means that she is not to load up at the soda fountain, filling her tummy with sweet liquids so she will have neither appetite nor interest in the next meal. She is to consume substantial, energy-creating foods—and a great variety of them.

She must have plenty of sleep, so necessary during growth. Unless she gives nature a chance to make repairs at night for the wear and tear of the day's activities she may look tired under the eyes and her skin may lack color. No make up is as beautiful as a complexion that naturally resembles the creamy gardenia plus the delicate pink of the rosebud!

Her Mind's On Beauty—Not On Health

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

WEDDING GIFT TO GRAND-DAUGHTER

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My granddaughter is to be married quite soon. I work at one of the school lunchrooms in this city, and I have been told by some co-workers of mine are going to give her either a wedding gift or the money to buy a gift. The group of girls here will give me the present to give to her. Will you please tell me what to say to these kind girls? (It is understood that she will send them a card of thanks while she is on her honeymoon).—E.H.

And indeed they are "nice girls," and apparently deeply devoted to you to make this bow to you in behalf of your grandaughter. Do not worry about how the present or the money-present, you might say, compares with this: "How wonderfully kind and generous you all are, to give such lovely gifts to Marie and me! You've always been so good and so friendly to us . . . and I could hug every one of you for giving her your splendidness, too. Of course she'll be thrilled, as I am, with your treasure you bought and she'll treasure you, thank you. Thank you, thank you, thank you, every one of you . . . and God bless you for your kindness!"

(Your granddaughter should write each one of these girls a note of thanks. . . It's not enough not at all enough, to send them a card of thanks. It probably meant a sacrifice for each of these girls to contribute to this present, and I hope your granddaughter will realize this and that her thanks will show them that she does realize it.)

WHEN BOTH BRIDE AND GROOM ARE DIVORCED

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My fiancs and I are both divorced. We are to be married in December. We want to have a small church wedding, with only our families, close relatives and a few friends present. But we would like to have a large reception, as we both have many friends. Neither my prospective groom nor I had a church wedding and reception when we had our first weddings, and would like to have this now. Are these plans proper under our circumstances?—T.

Your plan to have a small, informal church wedding is in good taste. . . with only the few present you mention. That is proper. To have a reception, but it should be on the side of simplicity and informality, and it should not be a large reception. It would indeed be in better taste for you to have the small wedding reception, and then, after you have returned from your wedding trip, give an At Home or Open House announcing in your new home.

SHOPPER WANTS TO TAKE BACK NAME OF HER FIRST HUSBAND

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My mother has a problem she would like to have me present to you. For many years she was married to my father, a truly wonderful man, who lost his life in a motor accident. She was positive she could never marry again, but after nearly 20 years ago she did remarry again, last year they separated, and now she is about to apply for a divorce. She would like to ask for the privilege of taking back her first husband's name, and my brother and I are urging her to do this, but she is not sure it would be proper. Would it be?—Josephine R.

Yes, proper. . . and it is not at all unusual for a mother to take back the name of her first husband, whom she loved, the name of her children's father. This privilege will be granted to her, and I am sure it will be a great comfort to her.

Toronto Girl, Prominent In British Radio and Television, Figures Broadcasting in Blood

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Ann Murray, a 23-year-old Toronto girl increasingly prominent in British radio and television, figures broadcasting is in her blood.

Miss Murray is the daughter of Gladstone Murray, Toronto business consultant and one-time general manager of the CBC.

An attractive girl with tawny, expressive eyes, Ann is reversing her father's order of things. He started in England with the BBC and went to Canada in 1936. Ann started in Canadian radio, then came to Britain and hooked up with the BBC.

Ann Murray, 23-year-old daughter of Gladstone Murray, former general manager of the CBC, now is in London acting in radio and television plays. Born in England, she came to Canada with her father in 1936 and acted in Toronto and Ottawa before returning to England in 1948. (CP Photo)

FEMININE PRODUCERS

"I just slept pestering British producers until I finally got an acting role," said the dark-haired Miss Murray, whose face now is familiar to millions of Britain's TV viewers. She wangled six auditions trying to get parts and finally landed a lead role in "Middle Watch," a sound radio comedy starring Jack Hulbert, broadcast in August.

Ann was born in England but went to Canada as a child, with her family, and had her first taste of radio-work in Ottawa during children's parts. She came back to Britain in 1948 on a three-month visit to relatives.

She studied with a well-known dancer and drama school in Stratford-upon-Avon, learning dance and mime as well as drama.

Recently Miss Murray appeared in a half-hour television play called "Chorus Girl" and followed this with a part as a witch in a Hallowe'en children's play. She was also heard in a sound radio production by Val Gielgud called "Hope, of Britain." This was completely in verse and Ann says it gave her a great kick.

STROKE OF LUCK

Her luckiest break so far—she's keeping her fingers crossed—is a chance to audition for the position of guest announcer, who takes over for regular announcers, when the need arises.

"It's a wonderful chance for those who are chosen," said Ann in an interview. The last guest announcer, Noelle Middleton, a dark-haired Irish girl, was offered film, stage and radio parts shortly after her first appearance.

Miss Murray has made a documentary ripped film for the St. John Ambulance Brigade and another documentary is on schedule. None of her British parts, however, has come up to the standards of roles played in Canada.

In shows at the University of Toronto she acted lead parts in Giraudoux's "La Folle de Chaillot" and Molière's "Tartuffe." Under the direction of Toronto newspaper man Herbert Whittaker she also played Isobel in "The Enchanted."

Ann has one other connection with radio. Husband Peter Paul Kuhne, an Englishman she met and married in Toronto, is working with the BBC in an administrative post.

The Experts Say

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

That feminine and practical branch of the Ontario department of agriculture, the Women's Institute branch, has brought out a booklet called "Potatoes Every Day." It has good-sized print on glossy paper and some appetizing pictures.

The booklet stresses what nutritionists have been saying for some years without too much success: "Potatoes are not fattening." Most persons on diets still shun potatoes but a potato is not more fattening than one slice of bread, or one large apple, or one large orange. It is about one-third as fattening as one piece of cake, or a slice of pie.

If you wish to preserve food value in potatoes, bake, boil or steam them in their jackets. Prepare them just before mealtime, cook just until done and serve immediately. They lose some of their vitamin content if they stand. Cook in only a small amount of boiling water and keep covered.

Tasty Soup

Here are two potato recipes:

Cream of potato soup: 2 cups scalded milk; one onion, sliced; 4 tablespoons fat; 2 cups diced potatoes; one half cup diced carrots; one half cup sliced celery; 2 cups boiling water; one tablespoon flour and one teaspoon salt.

Brown onion in 2 tablespoons fat. Add potatoes, carrots, celery, boiling water. Cover. Boil until vegetables are tender. Strain flour, salt and remaining 2 tablespoons fat together. Add to milk in double boiler. Cook and stir until smooth. Combine sauce with vegetable mixture. Serves six.

Chantilly potatoes: 3 cups of mashed potatoes; one half cup of heavy cream, stiffly beaten; one half cup grated cheese.

Pile mashed potatoes on baking dish. Spread cream over potatoes, sprinkle with cheese. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) until delicately brown. Serves six.

Woman Who Fought With Jewish Army Now Chatelaine of Legation

By DON HAWORTH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A charming 36-year-old woman who fought with the Haganah Jewish underground army is the chatelaine of the newly-accredited Israel legation here.

Mrs. Joan Comay is the wife of the minister, Michael Saul Comay. She and her husband with their children Jill 16, and Peter, 14, arrived in the capital for the opening of the legation in August.

The Comays were born in South Africa. Mr. Comay practised law in Johannesburg and his wife combined household duties with courses in architecture.

In 1946, with Mr. Comay back from service in the South African Army they decided to join the Palestine Jews in their struggle to establish a national home. The children went with them.

They made their decision not because they felt to be under any pressure themselves but because the suffering inflicted by the Nazis convinced them the Jews would have to have a refuge of their own.

Mrs. Comay's mother, Mrs. Bertha Solomon, an M.P. of the South African United Party, now in opposition, had urged the government to open the country to Jewish refugees from Hitler's persecution. She met with little success.

When Mrs. Comay arrived in Jerusalem in 1947 the city, still under British mandate, was divided between Arabs and Jews, both illegally armed. There was street sniping and shelling from one part of the city to another. For two periods of nearly six weeks the Jewish new city was cut off from the rest of Palestine.

VARIED CAREER

As a soldier in the Haganah underground army Mrs. Comay drove a truck carrying a six-pound mortar which fired bombs into Arab areas. She was also in charge of a school of applied arts which made parts for sten guns.

After the establishment of the Israeli state May 14, 1948, Mrs. Comay worked for the American published journal, Israel Speaks.

From Tel Aviv she wrote of the domestic austerity accepted by women to make possible Israel's open door policy, and of the still political and social rights which Israel gave its women.

Mrs. Comay speaks of the development of her country with evangelical zeal.

"In such a small state," she said, "everything that is done affects everyone. On the day of the opening of the road from Beersheba to Sodom to bring salt and potash from the dead sea, 50,000 people turned out to watch the ceremony."

As she spoke a phone call came to the suite the legation is occupying in an Ottawa hotel to announce the arrival of a new car made in Israel's only auto factory, set up with American capital.

CANADA AIR MINDED

Mrs. Comay sees a likeness between Canada and Israel. Both, she says, are immigrant countries with Canada some generations ahead.

In architecture she says she has seen little that is characteristically Canadian. "The so much else in Canada it is a stepping stone between the British and the American."

Israeli legation is still looking for chancellery and residence accommodation. "It is as difficult to find a house in Ottawa as it is in Jerusalem," says Mrs. Comay.

What does she like most in Canada?

"The sound of the big trees. We have planted 3,000,000 in our country, but they are still small. Here I love to hear the wind in the trees."

The Comay children are attending a public school in Ottawa. Both speak English as their native language, but Peter is learning to read and write it for the first time.

The 27th Canadian Brigade was Jones (left) commander of the "impressive" in Exercise Grand Repulse, an summer manoeuvre for North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Germany. Maj.-Gen. C. P. (CP from National Defence)

Mortar deputions among the three infantry battalions of the 27th Canadian Brigade in Germany brought the troops to a pitch of efficiency lauded by military observers as "impressive." Canadians in NATO Autumn Manoeuvres 'Impressive'

By BILL BOSS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

HANOVER, Germany (CP)—The NATO forces' autumn manoeuvres let commanders answer a question that several times this year has stirred Canada: "Just how good is the 27th Canadian Brigade?"

The consensus: "Impressive."

In Exercise Grand Repulse the Canadians were part of the 11th British Armored Division in the 1st Netherlands Army Corps. The assignment was to knock out an "enemy" bridgehead south of Delmenhorst. The attackers, including the Canadians, were grouped under Maj.-Gen. Basil Coad, commander of the 2nd British Infantry Division, who committed the Canadian troops to battle in Korea in 1951.

FOLKS OF FRAME

Reporters accompanying Grand Repulse wrote folios of praise about the Canadians. Afterwards, headquarters of Brig. John Rockingham of Toronto, 27th Brigade commander, were deluged with complimentary messages from senior officers.

A few weeks earlier the brigade's military efficiency had been questioned in Canada.

In Grand Repulse the Canadians carried the armored division's attack forward for five consecutive days. Maj.-Gen. E. E. Pyman said they "set the pace" for his force advancing its front more than 25 miles.

After the exercise reports were completed he told me: "I am impressed. It isn't easy for an independent brigade to come into an armored division, which has its special techniques, yet they quickly adapted themselves.

"Like most Commonwealth troops they are probably better in attack than defence and so were possibly seen at their best.

GOOD SHOULD TROOPS

"Nonetheless, their infantry moved nicely and quickly, both in the approach and in battle. I got the Canadians to do two battalion attacks at least a road for my tanks. They reacted quickly and mounted the attacks well.

"I got the impression their artillery (79th Field Regiment, RCA) is pretty good.

"There's no doubt about it—they are good mobile troops. After the cross-country marches there was lots of fire left in them. The boys love this sort of thing. I saw no sign of strain. They looked happy. You can tell."

Pyman's main criticism was for the brigade's handling of supply problems, but he said he subjects his own division to the same criticism.

The 27th Brigade's advances theoretically enabled the Westland forces 40 manoeuvre their armor forward successfully and close in battle with the bridgehead.

"GALLOPING" CANADIANS

Another British general who accompanied the scheme—he asked that his name be withheld—said: "We were very pleased with the way they (the Canadians) galloped from the first day. They really set about it and their best going. The speed with which their last battle was mounted was impressive.

"I'm a tremendous believer in the Canadian soldier, but you can depend on him fully only when you've got his interest, seized his imagination. These men were taken with the idea of the exercise, were interested and kept going."

Maj. Bill Leonard of Toronto, the Canadians' brigade major, summed it up:

"The chaps knew they were leading. They handled it well. They didn't like allegations that they were inefficient. They went all out to disprove that. They behaved marvellously."

From the infantryman's point of view Maj. Andy Mills of Toronto, second-in-command of the 1st Canadian Rifle Battalion, said:

"The fellows did it in an absolute no-trouble sort of way. Occasionally we just about ran out of supplies and rations but that was straightened out."

Grand Repulse concluded the brigade's official training program for Europe. Units now return to Canada for the new role in the army's projected 1st Canadian Infantry Division.

RAWDON

River Valley W.I. Holds Pie Social

RAWDON — On Friday evening, River Valley Women's Institute sponsored a Hallowe'en party and pie-social at the school house with a large number in attendance. Proceeds of the evening were $25.

This was the initial offering of the autumn entertainment under the leadership of Mrs. Gerald Brooks and her committee. They hope to sponsor another party later this month.

Mr. Jack Sagar was master of ceremonies with Mrs. G. B. Bedford and Miss Adeline Bush as judges of the eatables.

Mrs. Ralph Ulman was first, playing the Grand March, she also furnished music later in the evening.

The prizes were awarded as follow: Kindergarten age, best dressed, Sharon Scott; Mickey Mouse, Linda-Jean Bonnell; and all the other children received a balloon.

Public school age: Red Cross Nurse, Jean Zuidema; tramp, Betty Hanna.

Over 50 children received a large bag of candy and other confectionery.

Those assisting with the program were: soloist, Mr. Jack Bush and Miss Joanne Heasman; piano soloist, Miss Grace Heasman; Mrs. Will Ashby game a humorous reading and the school children, under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. N. Coombes, contributed three numbers. Mrs. Edward Heasman won the apple-biting contest in a team of eight.

Abundance of pie and sandwiches was served and the president, Mrs. Edward Heasman, expressed thanks to all who had assisted in making the evening a success.

Mrs. Reta Pryer and the pupils of the William's school at Mount Pleasant entertained the mothers and small children of the school section to a delightful Hallowe'en party on Friday afternoon at the school.

Mrs. Gordon Lind, supply secretary of Mount Pleasant, Rawdon W.M.S., is sponsoring an all-day quilting at her home on Wednesday, November 4th.

Mr. Harry Ingram is a patient in the General hospital, Belleville.

MARMORA

St. Andrew's Holds Anniversary Service

MARMORA—Well attended anniversary services were held at St. Andrew's United church on Sunday, the preacher for the day being Rev. W. K. Pace, of Tweed United Church.

The church was prettily decorated with roses and chrysanthemums.

At the morning service, the choir sang the anthem "O King Eternal" by Lorenz. The subject of the sermon was "Anchors of the Soul." The preacher spoke in turn of various anchors of the soul such as hope, duty, prayer, the cross and Jesus Christ.

At the evening service the choir rendered "The Word, O Lord" by Gabriel's setting. The pastor Rev. T. K. Crawford also took part in the service.

Preaching from the text. "Upon This Rock I Will Build My Church", the preacher chose as his subject "A Christlike Church or the Need of Our Time."

In course of an impressive sermon he reiterated the words of another preacher that a religion that ends with confession is but a doorway to betrayal.

Christless membership involves a worshipping membership, a praying membership and a working membership.

Flowers at St. Paul's on Sunday were in loving memory of James Jones and James L. Hickey being the gift of their respective families.

Rev. K. J. Crawford officiated at the anniversary service of Mountain View church on Sunday morning.

Ivan Lavender, of Toronto, spent the week-end with his parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Baker, and sons Robert and James, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Young, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jones, and daughters, Marion and Linda, of Peterborough, and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Jones of Stirling, spent Sunday with relatives here.

Miss Marjorie Booter Reg. N., of Peterborough spent the week-end at her home here.

U.S. Opens Drive To Have World Condemn Reds

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The United States has opened a decisive campaign in the United Nations to muster world condemnation of the Communists on charges of committing atrocities in Korea.

Red China and North Korea, backed by the Soviet bloc here, have refused to allow a UN impartial commission to investigate on-the-spot Soviet charges that the U. S. engaged in germ warfare in Korea.

The assembly's political committee heard pro-Western delegates argue in a debate that would up Saturday that Communist refusal to accept such an inquiry proved the charges were groundless.

The committee also rebuffed the Soviet bloc by referring to the disarmament commission its demands that the U. S. now sign the Geneva convention banning germ and gas warfare.

The U. S. has not signed the Geneva convention on the ground that it does not provide sufficient guarantees against the use of these weapons.

MARMORA

Foreman Honored On Retirement At Deloro Plant

MARMORA — At 11.30 a.m. on Friday, Edward Hewitt of Marmora, whose retirement from the employ of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited has just taken place, was called to the Oxide Plant office at Deloro to receive the presentation of a wrist watch from his fellow employees as a token of respect for the execution of his duties as foreman.

The presentation was made by Charles H. Bustard, manager of Cobalt operations.

Mr. Hewitt has completed a total of 41 years' service with the company, the greater part of which has been in his capacity as foreman of the Oxide Department.

Jimmie Dellne, nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dellne, had his left leg amputated up to the thigh in Belleville General Hospital on Saturday. This was occasioned by complications setting in after an accident of some time ago.

RAWDON

Mr., Mrs. R. Hart Given Farewell

RAWDON—Friends and neighbors in the Carmel community gathered at Carmel Silver Jubilee Hall on Wednesday evening and tendered Mr. and Mrs. Rolf Hart, who recently moved from Carmel to Tamworth, a farewell party.

Mr. Russell Fryer was master of ceremonies and a good program was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown contributed a duet; Mrs. Harry Vandervoort, Miss Jean Grills and Mrs. Milton Hagerman each read a selection, Messrs. Douglas Fryer and Donnie Armstrong gave vocal solos.

Mrs. Frank Bailey read an address on behalf of the community and Mr. and Mrs. Hart were presented with a coffee table and mirror.

Mrs. Joe Grills read an appreciative address on behalf of Carmel Women's Association and a serving tray was presented by Mrs. Hart.

The recipients voiced their thanks and the pastor, Rev. A. E. Baker and a few others spoke briefly.

Refreshments were served and a short time wis spent in fellowship together.

Mr. Robert Lake has returned home from Belleville hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Green, Redneraville, attended Bethel anniversary services on Sunday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Green and family.

Mr. James Pollock as returned home from Kingston hospital.

"SURFACE SOFTENED"
NEW WHITE SWAN
says Softer
LISTEN!
Make this test!

"Surface Softening" is an amazing new process that gives a fluffier, softer outer so much gentler, more absorbent! Yet it still keeps the firmness and strength you expect of White Swan, Canada's largest-selling tissue.

Hear the difference! Take two sheets of any ordinary tissue. Grasp between thumb and forefinger and rub the two sheets together. Hear that scratchy sound? That means this tissue is far from soft. You can actually hear its harshness!

Now, listen to New White Swan! Because it's "Surface Softened" what do you hear? Just a mere whisper that seems to say, "so soft, so soft" . . . and proves conclusively that New White Swan is so much softer . . . a better buy than ever!

QUEEN PLEDGES

This was the first time the Queen had worn the crown since the Coronation last June. The world's ambassadors listened in a special box and the Duke of Edinburgh, leaned forward to catch each word.

"My government will continue to take their full part in all efforts by the United Nations to promote international co - operation. The North Atlantic alliance is fundamental to my government's policy, and they will do their utmost to keep it vital and strong.

"My government are resolved to work constantly in harmony with the government of the United States of America. They will also continue to co-operate with their partners in Western Europe to promote European unity and economic well being. They hope to see the early establishment of the European Defence Community (the European army) and will attach the all possible support.

AUSTRIAN TREATY

"My government will continue to work for a settlement of the problem of German unity, in conjunction with the governments of France and the United States and in consultation with the German federal government. They will also maintain their efforts for the conclusion of an Austrian state treaty."

Right up on the agenda of world affairs would be efforts for the resumption of normal relations with Iran, as a step towards the solution of the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

Under domestic affairs, the speech dropped a hint that before long there may be some further curtailment in the hereditary rights of the House of Lords.

Reflecting the changing pattern of British life, it also dealt with such topics as atomic energy and commercial television.

ATOMIC ENERGY CHANGE

It disclosed plans to transfer the atomic energy program from government hands—it is now controlled by the ministry of supply—to a corporation, and said there will be a discussion of television, how a BBC monopoly of radio and commercial TV is expected to emerge.

The speech stressed the importance the government attaches to consultations with other members of the Commonwealth, but placed action to check the high accident rate on British roads, to maintain full employment by striving for export trade, and to build more houses.

The speech also promised a bill to end present restrictions on private trading in raw cotton, and steps to encourage farmers to produce more food, combined with a guaranteeing scheme to take over when circumstances send, probably next year.

MAY REFORM LORDS

The statement about reforms of the Houses of Lords said simply "my ministers will give further consideration to the question."

A bill to reform the 850-member upper house is not expected this session, but the government evidently plans a new effort for all-party talks on reform. Last year similar talks broke down on the powers the peers should have to delay legislation. At present they can hold up a bill passed by the Commons for one year. There may be an effort by district members of the many peers do not implement their right to attend sessions and to admit women.

The speech referred to the forthcoming Royal tour to Australia and New Zealand and said the Queen spoke forward eagerly" to visiting the dominions.

In connection with the absence from the speech of mention of the regency act, Reuters news agency quoted political spokesmen as saying there were "technical reasons" for not referring to it.

THINGS HAVEN'T CHANGED

BRANTFORD (CP) — Firemen answering an emergency call at Mohawk Park Saturday night sped siren ing with an ambulance to the scene of a supposed serious accident at the main intersection in Burford. They found two overturned cars, but no victims. Hallowe'en pranksters had towed two old cars to the intersection and upset them to look like a collision. Other pranksters—or possibly the same ones—transplanted a half dozen outhouses, depositing them at points along Burford's main street.

Judd suffered polio last year and a few months ago his wife and three children moved to Galt, Ont. Mr. and Mrs. Judd's meeting at Bismarck was a reunion after a separation of four months. Judd was brought to the Toronto hospital last week. — (CP Photo.)

ROSLIN

ROSLIN—A successful chicken supper was held in the hall on Wednesday evening under the auspices of St. Paul's Anglican church.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stirk and baby of Orillia, spent the week-end with the former's brother, Mr. Sam Stirk and Mrs. Stirk.

Quite a number of Women's Institute members attended the W.I. area convention which was held recently in the Masonic Temple, Belleville.

Mr. Donald Bates has returned home after spending some time this fall in western Canada.

SLASHES FOOT

Messrs. Philip and Howard Watson of Wooler, spent last week-end with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Alford and on Saturday evening, while they were chopping a limb off a tree, Howard had the misfortune to get his foot slashed. He was taken to the office of Dr. Simpson where a number of stitches were required to close the wound.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wilkins and daughter, of Alex spent a recent week-end with Mrs. H. Chisholm.

Mrs. R. Clare left last Wednesday to visit her sister-in-law at Winona. Just prior to her departure, Mr. and Mrs. M. Fargey entertained at a supper party with the following guests present; Mrs. H. Welsh, of Tweed and Mr. and Mrs. C. Chapman.

OLD LANDMARK GOES

One of the last of the old village landmarks has disappeared with the tearing down of the old blacksmith shop that was originally owned by the late Mr. William Hudson, who ran a carriage shop in the village years ago. The barn for the carriages were brought to the village and assembled and painted in the carriage shop here, which has been torn down for a number of years.

In later years, this old blacksmith shop was used as a garage which was owned and operated by Mr. Glen Ish, who sold the property to Mr. C.W. Slingerland, who also operated it as a garage.

Later Mr. Slingerland purchased the property across the road, and erected a garage there, and the old building was not in use.

The present owner, Dr. J. Hartt, erected a fine new home on this property, after having the old house torn down last year and now the old shop.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Howes have returned home after spending two weeks with their daughter, Mrs. Frank Abbott and Mr. Abbott, of Consecon.

The Roslin United Church is being completely redecorated. The tower has been painted with aluminum paint and a new steel roof put on.

The interior of the church is being repainted. Mr. Maurice Bell, of Stirling and his assistants were awarded the contract for the decorating of the interior.

It will be remembered that Mr. Bell decorated the interior of St. Paul's Anglican Church last winter and also Christ Church at Thomasburg, the previous year.

ANCIENT ART

The wrestling art of ju-jitsu was known and practised as early as the 7th century BC.

CAMPBELLFORD

Kinsmen Club Sponsors Hallowe'en Party

CAMPBELLFORD — The annual Hallowe'en shell-out party sponsored by the Kinsmen club was held at Edgewater Park, Saturday evening, when children of all ages, dressed in costumes of almost every description, flocked to the pavilion to receive bags of candy and fruit, see a movie, and compete for cash and merchandise prizes.

Master of ceremonies was G. I. Blair, with Kinsmen Forrest, Dennis and Glen Taylor, acting as judges. Credit for organizing and arranging the party goes to Kinsmen Bill Taylor.

Nearly 500 bags of candy were distributed.

Prizes were given for the best fancy and best comic costumes in the various age groups. The club holds the party each year on Hallowe'en in an effort to keep the children out of mischief.

How It Looks from the Communist Side . . .

Here viewed from both sides of the conference table are the men who are doing the spade-work on the preliminary political conferees to pave the way for a Korean peace parley. The photo was made as Communist and American diplomats indulged in a verbal fencing match at Panmunjom, Korea. Top, American Ambassador Arthur Dean as viewed from behind the Communist representatives, Korean Gen. Nam Il. Bot Nok-chi and Red China's Gen. Hsiang Hua, at right. Bottom, Dean is in centre, flanked by flags. Some of his advisers are in background. Above, the Communist representatives, North Korean Il Sok Nok-chi and Red China's Gen. Hsiang Hua, confer with their aides. Chinese Hsiang seemed to do the more talkative of the Red fencers and appears to be in command. — Central Press Canadian Photos.

U.S. Votes Today in Regional Tests for Mayors, Governors

NEW YORK (AP)—It's Election Day in the United States and the big ones—a mayor in New York and governors in New Jersey and Virginia—have Republicans and Democrats battling with one eye on election day a year hence.

Ever since a Democrat, upset a Republican in Eisenhower's home congressional election last month, leaders of both parties have been looking to this day for clues. The way things go today, they theorize, might show how things will go in the 1954 congressional election.

One Republican leader said that election of a Democratic governor in New Jersey—it would be the first time in 10 years—might set off a chain reaction resulting in a Democratic congress.

That could, they say, "tie the hands" of President Eisenhower during the last two years of the first Republican national administration in two decades.

Eisenhower is backing the Republican candidates in all three crucial races—Paul L. Troast for New Jersey governor, Theodore S. Dalton for Virginia governor and Harold Riegelman for New York mayor.

Troast, 58, and a wealthy contractor, is seeking the seat vacated by Governor Alfred E. Driscoll. He appears a slight favorite to win over Democrat Robert B. Meyner, 44, lawyer and former state governor.

In Virginia, Dalton's whirlwind campaign has brought a total of 25,000 miles—to become his state's first Republican governor since Reconstruction days—and he's predicted he would run well enough to win.

New York's mayoralty campaign, hot and heavy since the starting whistle, is expected to bring out only a relative trickle of voters. The vote may drop below 2,000,000 for the first time since 1945.

Contesting for the $40,000-a-year post, along with Republican Riegelman, is Democrat Robert F. Wagner, Jr., and Liberal Rudolph Halley.

Wagner, 44-year-old son of the late senator who wrote President Roosevelt's labor relations act of 1935, is the heavy betting favorite.

Halley, 45, is best known nationally for his work as examiner of underworld big shots for the televised Senate crime hearings two years ago.

The incumbent, Vincent R. Impellitteri, is out of the race.

U.S. Citizen Is Free Following Eight Years Of Red Imprisonment

A U.S. citizen, Frank Rohrbacker, Jr., 28, has just been released by the Communists after eight years of Russian and Hungarian captivity. He's a native of New Yorker. He said in Vienna that he was forced into the Communist army in Hungary in 1944, was seized by the Russians in 1945. They charged him with being the Hungarian Communists in disguise. A Leer for Greer

LONDON (Reuters) — London University students replied with wolf whistles Monday night when a guest lecturer mounted the rostrum to speak on "Shakespeare and the Films."

The lecturer was British-born Hollywood star Greer Garson, in a flaming red dress with a huge shoulder bow.

Miss Garson, who "edned a bachelor of arts degree at the university in the 1920s, said: "Frankly think I'm a high-brow when they hear about my degree. But that's not true. Learning and acting don't mix. I'm a happy illiterate now."

ABBEY OPEN AGAIN

LONDON (Reuters) — Westminster Abbey was open to the public Sunday for the first time since preparations for the Coronation began 10 months ago.

Police Digging Into Background Of Slain Man

TORONTO (CP)—Fred (Scotty) Cameron used to play bagpipe records in his $5-a-week bedsitter in central Toronto, police discovered as they dug into the background of the 57-year-old investment house messenger whose bullet-ripped body was found in a ditch 50 miles north of here last Friday.

In the hope of finding a clue that would lead them to the killer, detectives probed the private life of the former soccer player for St. Mirren of Paisley.

While they appeared no closer to finding the slayer or establishing a motive, police uncovered several facets of Cameron's character he had succeeded in concealing from most of his friends.

Office associates described him as a friendly, easy-going Scot who liked to yarn about football.

SECRET LIFE

Police, however, said he used to get back to his rooming house after his day's work as a messenger, don an expensive suit and slip out into the night in quest of feminine companionship.

They said Cameron, separated from his wife for 19 years, used to bowl every Wednesday night with an attractive auburn-haired brunette half his age.

John Quigley, an English immigrant who lived at the same rooming house as Cameron and often talked with him, described him as a shrewd, secretive, confused and lonely man who seemed inwardly disturbed, "as though he had a premonition of a violent end."

PLANNED RETURN HOME

Cameron planned to return to his native Scotland and settle down there in two years, he said. He played Scottish piping records as a nostalgic reminder of the land he loved.

One theory in the slaying is that he was killed by someone who sought to rob him. But police say there is no indication he carried any money with him the night he was slain, as he did not pick up his two weeks' pay, $150, as usual Thursday.

Retiring O. C. To Visit Canada For Eleven Days

OTTAWA (CP) — Maj.-Gen. M. M. A. R. West, retiring commander of the 1st Commonwealth Division in Korea, will arrive at Vancouver Wednesday for an 11-day tour of Canada on his way home to Britain.

Gen. West, who commanded British, Canadian, Indian and New Zealand troops in Korea for the last 14 months, will visit military and industrial installations on the 7th to start before coming east next Friday.

His itinerary includes Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec City, Kingston, Gen. West will address the National Defence College and the Canadian Army Staff College.

TEST SIRENS

HAMILTON (CP)—This city's air raid sirens will be tested at noon next Monday to find out if they can be heard through closed doors. Junior Chamber of Commerce members will distribute 12,000 cards for householders to mark if they hear the sirens.

TANKS VIBRANT

AURORA (CP)—Residents complained about tanks edged at the local armory. They said vibration from the 35-ton vehicles forced them to replaster walls and ceilings and replace cracked windows.

70 Members Of Govt. Party Killed in Ambush

NEW DELHI Reuters) — The Assam Tribune of Gauhati said Monday 500 savage Abor tribesmen have ambushed and wiped out 70 members of a government expeditionary party in the northeast mountain wilderness.

The attack took place about 19 days ago, says the newspaper, which gave this account of the attack:

The 70 men who were on the tribute sail to tribesmen paused in a deep forest for lunch. Suddenly 500 whooping tribesmen leaped out from behind the trees shooting bows and arrows, firing home-made guns and plunging spears and daggers into the surprised travellers.

They left every one of the 70 men dead in the clearing.

Most of the dead were tribesmen serving as porters and guides. The Abors had a grudge against the tribesmen in the expedition.

The rest of the 100-man expedition had taken another route and thus was saved, the Assam Tribune says.

Pleath ! My Teeth!

BUFFALO, N. Y. AP)—Anyone around here missing some teeth?

Mrs. Henry W. Shaffer says her son Harold, 13, came home fairly late one night with a set of false teeth somebody had dropped into his "tricks or treats" bag—presumably by mistake.

A local dentist said the dentures, worth about $10, are practically new.

Unusual Office

VANCOUVER (CP)—Chinese in this city have an unusual dead letter office.

It's a bulletin board in the window of the Chinese Times, situated in the heart of the second largest Chinese community outside the Orient.

When letter carriers fail to find an addressee in Chinatown, the mail goes to the Times, which pins it up in the window. In nine years, an estimated 2,000 letters have been delivered this way. Only one or two have hung there the one-year time limit after which time they are returned to the sender.

Odd-Jobs Man Becomes Scots Knight

Adrian Ivor Dunbar, 60, of Fairmount, Md., who does odd jobs for a living, is shown with his wife and son as the parents prepared to leave for Scotland, where Mr. Dunbar will become Sir Adrian. A 200-acre estate and a stone mansion go with the title, Sir Adrian says and will remain as U.S. citizens. — Central Press Canadian.

Federal Taxes Are So High Provinces, Municipalities Said in 'Untenable' Position

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec Chamber of Commerce said today heavy federal taxes have created an "untenable" situation for Canadian provinces and municipalities.

In a preliminary brief prepared for delivery before the royal commission set up by the Quebec government to look into federal-provincial relations, the 25,000-member chamber said the federal government collects such a large share of national tax revenues that provinces and municipalities no longer have the required freedom of action to meet the needs of their population."

SITTINGS OPEN

Public sittings of the six-man commission, presided over by Chief Judge Thomas Tremblay of Quebec City court of sessions, opened today eight months after it was set up on recommendation of the chamber.

The commission's mandate is to study all aspects of a problem that is not new to Canada.

Quebec is the only province not at present drawing federal subsidies in return for its taxation rights.

The Quebec chamber said that under the British North America Act provinces are limited to direct taxation and it is "vital" for them not only to keep their rights in this field, but also to be in a position of exercising these rights freely.

SEARCHED HEAD

Entry by the federal government into the income tax field "to the point of saturation" had made the provinces' position "untenable."

"This evolution toward centralization of taxation powers reached its peak in 1942. Taking advantage of circumstances the federal government obtained from all the provinces the guarantee that expenditures would be limited and that taxation would be withheld in the principal fields."

"Federal expenditures then reached record levels and taxation became so heavy that . . . it had to be relaxed because the country's production was affected. . . .

"Provinces which have not signed a taxation agreement suffer a grave prejudice."

Steering Column Pierces Throat Of Man Killed

TORONTO (CP) — Harry W. Payne, 32, was killed Monday night after his rented automobile skidded in street-car tracks and crashed into a safety island.

Police said the steering column pierced Payne's throat. Gasoline from the fuel tank burst into flames.

Three hours earlier, Ernest Webb 14, was killed when his bicycle, with a seven-year-old boy on the handlebars, skidded under the wheels of a truck. The younger boy suffered cuts.

Duke Appears In Spectacles For First Time

LONDON AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh made his first public appearance in spectacles Monday night.

The handsome duke donned the specs to look at the 24th annual Royal Variety Show, to which he escorted Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret.

Sir Stewart Duke-Elder, the Royal Family's surgeon-oculist, told reporters later that the duke "has had spectacles for quite some time. He wears them intreq uently."

Randy Turpin Held on Charge Of Beating Girl

NEW YORK (AP)—British boxer Randy Turpin, recently beaten in a fight for the world's middleweight championship, was arrested Monday on a charge of beating up a woman.

The woman, Adele Daniels, 24, was described as Turpin's "girl friend." Both are Negroes.

At his arraignment on the assault charge, Turpin pleaded innocent and a hearing was set for Wednesday afternoon.

Turpin, 25, who remained silent throughout the proceedings, was paroled in the custody of his lawyer, Saul Strauss.

Miss Daniels also had nothing to say. But her lawyer, J. Roland Dale, was on hand to speak for her.

He argued for high bail and a later hearing, and said Turpin should be examined by a psychiatric examination. He claimed Turpin was "highly vicious and bestial." Strauss replied that Dale was the one who should be committed.

Miss Daniels, fair-skinned and red-haired, said in her complaint that she is "black and blue" from a number of beatings by Turpin.

But Turpin's lawyer countered in court that she "shows no visible marks of any assaults."

Turpin lost to Bobo Olson Oct. 21.

Korean PoW Turn Red Efforts To Win Them Into Taunting, Cursing Attack on Explainers

By JOHN RANDOLPH

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Tough, jaunty Korean prisoners-of-war rejected Communism today by more than 96 per cent, turning Red efforts to win them home into a taunting, cursing attack on Communist interviewers.

The explanations ended in less than six hours with only 17 of 483 interviewed choosing to return to North Korea.

A North Korean general observing the operation sank down on a bench, his grey, gold and scarlet uniform glittering in the sun, and glumly held his head.

The interviews began after the Reds had made loudspeaker broadcasts to the North Koreans, only to have them drowned out in a roar of yells and singing from the PoWs.

Meanwhile, the Allies moved to break a deadlock in the preliminary Korean talks, when United States envoy Arthur Dean suggested a discussion of United Nations and Communist agendas with the understanding that no agreement will be final until we have a meeting of minds on all."

AGREEMENT POSSIBLE

The Reds, after telling Dean he had proposed nothing new, said they would think it over and reply Wednesday.

Dean told reporters, he still believes an agreement will be worked out on arrangements for a Korean political conference.

More prisoner interviews are scheduled Wednesday—these with Chinese.

The Korean prisoners in today's interviews followed the pattern already set by more than 900 Chinese and almost 500 Koreans interviewed earlier. The Red refusal average has been only about three per cent for the total.

The PoWs stormed into the interview tents shouting slogans and jeering at the Communists. Many screamed and chanted throughout the interviews.

The language of these prisoners was the vilest in the Korean tongue.

One prisoner had learned the English equivalent and hurled them at the uncomprehending North Korean colonel who interviewed him. It was the first of all but the American observer present and the Indian chairman, who was forced to bite his lips to repress a laugh.

Former Governor Given 15 Year

CAIRO Reuters) — Kamel El-Rawish, former governor of Cairo, was sentenced today to 15 years imprisonment by the revolutionary tribunal on charges of corruption during his term of office.

El-Rawish was also deprived of his civil rights, but was granted a stay of execution on the jail term.

A member of the tribunal which sentenced him was Lt.-Col. Anwar Sadat. El-Rawish had once defended Sadat in the famous case in which Sadat, an assassination case prisoner, was El-Rawish was then public prosecutor.

PUPPS FOR TOUGHS

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. AP)— A bakery display of cream puffs proved too much for a Grand Rapids juvenile court judge Monday.

The two were nabbed by police after they shattered a glass display window with bricks to get at the delicacies.

The culprits, twins, are 4½ years old. They were released to their parents.

Murdered Man Was Messenger

Police identified the bullet-riddled body of a man found in a ditch near Barrie, Ont., as that of Fred Cameron, 57, above, brokerage firm messenger, of Toronto. Few details of his past life have been uncovered so far. He is believed to have been separated from his wife, who may have died some time ago, and was frequently seen in the company of an attractive young woman. — Central Press Canadian.

West Berlin May Get Canadian Info Office

BERLIN (Reuters) — The Canadian government is considering setting up a permanent information office in West Berlin, a Canadian official said here today.

Historic a Canadian immigration team has made regular trips from West Germany said the Canadian pavilion at the recent West Berlin industrial exhibition led to many inquiries about emigration possibilities.

As a result, officials gave two lectures about Canada at the British information centre here.

Police had to turn people away from the first meeting because the hall couldn't hold them all.

Prime Minister Of Israel Govt. Wants to Resign

JERUSALEM AP) Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion has told the political committee of his Mapai party he wants to resign all his cabinet responsibilities, the office of the ministry of defence and chairmanship of the Jewish Agency executive.

A spokesman said he is quitting because of "tiredness."

He told the committee Monday night of his intention to resign. One informant said Ben-Gurion, 66, plans to settle in a south Israel collective village to write a book and pursue his principal hobby of studying history and ancient languages.

A party spokesman said there are no differences of opinion on policy between Ben-Gurion and his party.

Wildlife Experts Hope to Find Key to Nature's Strangest Mystery

FREDERICTON (CP)—Wildlife experts from Alaska to Newfoundland are hoping this year's rutting week, hoping the key to one of nature's strangest mysteries will be unlocked by millions of moose and deer, may soon be signted.

Nowhere in North America have moose ever overcome a "deer complex" and the latter is established. No one has been able to figure why this is so. Nevertheless, the numerical strength of moose is increasing and they are being spread by the presence of deer in far greater numbers.

Wright Cox of Fredericton, director of the northeastern wildlife district, said management is instituted, says there's a chance now that moose may reverse the deer's historic habit. At the same time, it may be possible to study moose and deer haven't been able to thrive in the same territories in the past.

This year New Brunswick has an abundance of deer. On the basis of previous experience the moose population should be dwindling but the opposite is true. Mr. Wright admits he's baffled by the usual inimical relations between the species and by what now is going on in N.B. forests.

For the first 25 years of this century moose gained ground steadily in the province. About 1925 the limit was reached and this high level continued until 1930 when a gradual decline began. In the same 30-year period deer were comparatively rare but since have multiplied steadily while moose slipped just as steadily until 1940. During the last 13 years the latter have been on the increase, ignoring the deer domination.

Mr. Wright mentioned another theory of nature. Herds of moose and caribou can exist in balance side by side. If deer moved into the same territory moose will decrease, although food supplied for both species may be ample.

Mr. Wright said it might be feasible sometime to introduce caribou into New Brunswick. These animals were last known here in 1877.

He doubts there can be a wide-open season on moose next year but hopes a "harvestable surplus" beyond which hunters will not be permitted to go, will become available annually. A government decision on this point is expected after a survey of the moose population is completed. The last open season on moose in New Brunswick was in 1936, when about 300 were killed.

Evidence of Atrocities Before U.N.

Documented photographic evidence of atrocities committed by Communist forces in South Korea will be placed before U.N. delegates of all 61 members of the U.N. by the U.S. delegation. Among the photos collected by the U.S. army are those showing mass graves of Korean civilians whose bodies were burned with gasoline and tossed into a pit; small portable jails in which a prisoner could neither sit down nor stand up; and the mutilated bodies of U.N. prisoners who died under various forms of torture. Past President Of Federation Offers Criticism

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—John T. Stubbs, of Sault Ste. Marie, past president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, lashed out at the department of education with charges of contradictory policy and "scandalous" methods of administration.

He quoted what he termed "irrefutable facts" to show more than 100 teachers from district No. 2 meeting here "the extent to which deceptive and nefarious encouragement is given to cheap achievement in grade XIII examinations."

He told of one candidate last June who failed a language paper required for entrance to his desired, university course but who had a pass mark in a mathematics subject which was not required for entrance.

"The department 'switched the marks and advised the principal of that student's school to alter his records accordingly," Mr. Stubbs said. "The department's moral apparently is 'pass the easy subjects and switch the marks with failures in the more difficult subjects."

APPLY PRESSURE

Now, he said, the minister of education is trying to apply pressure to universities to allow grade XII students also holding teachers college certificates to enrol.

"The universities have resisted to date but . . . should this effort succeed you can see how these same people could in a few years be found teaching maths, sciences and languages in secondary schools after obtaining short cut degrees."

In order to place "professional baby sitters" in elementary school classrooms, the minister has "dropped the bars in another fence."

4 Born Without Arms Given Artificial Ones

CORONADO, Calif. (AP)—Four children born without arms now have artificial ones that they move with their chest muscles, two surgeons reported here today.

The artificial limbs are connected to the muscle through a tube, skin graft, formed into a canal, and a peg.

Dr. Henry H. Kessler, an orthopedic surgeon, and Dr. Jerome Gelb, a plastic surgeon, both of the Kessler Institution for Rehabilitation in West Orange, N. J., said the children had to be trained to strengthen the muscles and use the artificial arms.

Atomic Electrical Power Will Be Used in Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — William J. Bennett, Canada's new atomic chief, said today that the next stage in Canada's atomic program must be the design of a reactor built expressly for producing electrical energy and predicted that eventually atomic electrical power will be used in Ontario.

Electricity produced through atoms involved higher costs but even at this early stage, "the estimated cost of nuclear power is within striking distance of the cost of power produced from other fuels," the new head of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Toronto Canadian Club.

Ontario's power needs are steadily increasing. And even if the St. Lawrence project is built, the province will be short of electricity by 1963 and it appeared likely that the additional power will have to come from "thermal sources," Mr. Bennett said.

"I do not think I am unduly optimistic, therefore, when I predict that atomic energy will contribute to the power sources of this province."

AIDS FOR DATA EXCHANGE

Mr. Bennett, president of Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., the government's uranium organization, took over as president of the publicly-owned atomic energy company Nov. 1 on retirement of the former head, Dr. C. J. Mackenzie. Two companies are to be combined.

The new atomic chief, reviewing the world's advance into the atomic age, emphasized there must be a certain amount of freedom of information if work in this field is to progress and added that United States restrictions have tended to "modify" the terms of the post-war atomic relationship among Canada, the U. S. and Britain.

"The partners in the post-war program still stand to gain most from the pooling of scientific information as well as the pooling of material resources. Any doubt that may have existed on either score should surely be dispelled by the knowledge that the USSR now has succeeded in producing atomic bombs."

SUBVERSIVES PUNISHED

VIENNA (AP)—The Pilsen newspaper Pravda today reported that 50 persons have been sentenced to long prison terms in that Communist outpost city for distributing "subversive leaflets." Seven men and three women received terms from life to six years. Observers here believe they may have been among scores of persons arrested in June when anti-Communist rioters invaded the city hall, tore down pictures of Stalin and displayed an American flag.

Little Benny's Note Book

We were eating dinner, being a little steak under a lot of onions, and me said to pop, I won first prize at the bridge tournament this afternoon, William, but dont congratulate me.

Who shall I congratulate, for? Pop shot back, and me said, You can congradulate Norma Skillwyr, she won 2nd prize, and that's what I really wanted, a lovely silver pen and pencil set, but what I needed. The first prize was a gold plated fotograph frame, and I already have most fotograph frames than pictures of people that I care to look at continuously. So it was just my luck to get the highest score, she said.

The gold plated seat of the victor is hard, pop said, and me said, There were only a few points difference between my score and Norma's, and we were at the same table at the final rubber, playing against each other. The whole outcome depended on just one trick, but before I realized it I played a small 8 although I had the high king, and I knew Norma held the jack. But low and behold she threw a still smaller 6 on my 8, luck forced me to take the deciding trick, ma said.

Do you mean she threw the gold plated fotograph frame rite in your lap- pop said, and ma said, Yes she did, and she made a big outcry about having pulled out the wrong card by mistake, but believe me it was no accident. Norma Skillwyr is a notorious glory-seeker, and if she hadn't had her heart set on that pen and pencil set, she never would of finished second instead of first, not by any amount of accidents. She was conspecting enough to deliberitly force me to win, by taking advantage of my carelessness. And stop laffing, William, its not funny, ma said.

Masked Men Tie Victim to Fence, Take $1,000

CAMPBELL'S BAY, Que. (CP)—Fabian Joanisse, 33-year-old Wolf Lake logging contractor, spent Thursday night barefooted and tied to a fence after three masked men robbed him of $1,000 and his car, police reported today.

Joanisse freed himself early Friday and walked to his camp, a quarter-mile away, where he was fed and put to bed suffering from exposure.

The three men sprang from the bushes as the contractor, returning to his camp near here with the payroll money, stopped to open a gate. Joanisse fought them off and crawled under his car but the robbers dragged him out, removed his shoes and tied him to the fencepost with baling wire.

Police said an arrest is imminent in the case.

DIM GLOW-WORMS

HAMILTON, N.Z. (CP)—The famous glow-worm grotto at Waitomo caves in the north island of New Zealand may not be at its best for the Queen's visit early next year. Severe flooding swept away about a third of the glow-worms. The grotto, entered in boats on an underground river, once was described by Bernard Shaw as "the eighth wonder of the world."

Battle Strong River Current to Salvage Cargo

Divers Bill Jorden and John Goodchild prepare to descend into the St. Clair river channel at Sarnia, to salvage the cargo of the sunken German motorship Wallachitt. Current is so fast that the divers have to lash themselves to the hull of the ship to keep themselves from being swept downstream. They released thousands of feet of lumber from the holds of the ship and, all told, intend to remove 300 tons of cargo before floating the ship. — Central Press Canadian.

Farm Receipts Decline This Year

GUELPH — Although 1953 was a fairly good year for Ontario farmers, it was not as favorable as 1951. Estimated receipts from the sale of all farm products fell by more than $74 million dollars.

For Canada as a whole there was a decline in the index of farm prices of agricultural products of 30 points from 1951 to 1953, and a rise in the index of prices of goods used by farmers of 111 points.

The smallest decline in income for seven main types of farms occurred with the "cash crop specialty" farms (farms on which crop sales accounted for over 70 per cent of cash receipts). The largest decline occurred in the "beef general" group. In 1951, the beef farms had the highest average labor incomes, and the cash crop specialty farms, which had the lowest average labor incomes in 1951, had the second highest average labor income in 1953.

In the fall issue of their publication, "Ontario Farm Business" the Department of Agriculture Economics, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, points out that the year 1953 emphasized the importance of price relationships in the farmer, and that efficiency in operation and management minimizes the effect of a price decline. This latest issue is printed in four divisions — Cash Crop Specialty, Beef General, Cash Crop General, and Dairy Specialty—and each division deals with factors which may suggest ways in which farmers may increase the profits on their farms.

Says Eskimos World's Most Honest People

LONDON (AP)—Rt. Rev. Donald B. Marsh believes Eskimos are the world's most honest people.

He is the Church of England's Lord Bishop of the Arctic and supervises a territory of 1,750,000 square miles of Canadian northland.

Preaching at St. Paul's cathedral Sunday night, Dr. Marsh said: "In the Christian part of the Arctic one could lay down a £5 note and it would still be there days later."

Montreal Unions Fight Against Race Prejudice

MONTREAL (CP)—Labor unions in Montreal have launched a fight against racial prejudice and intolerance.

The fight will be carried on through a school in human relations, sponsored jointly by the Montreal Trades and Labor Council and the Montreal Labor Council.

Jacques V. Morin, director of the school, said one of the aims will be to provide scientific information on race and other questions in a manner easily understandable for the average worker. The latest adult education techniques will be used and lectures will be followed by forums and films.

USE UN MATERIAL

Publications of the United Nations on race relations will be made available.

Claude Jodoin, president of the Montreal Trades and Labor Council, said the opening of the school was a big step forward in the accomplishment of organized labor's undertaking "to improve inter-group relations not only among workers but in the community at large."

Gerard Rancourt, president of the Montreal Labor Council, said: "As the trade union movement becomes of age and is recognized more and more as a civic body, it is its duty to educate its members in order to enable them to play their full role of enlightened citizens."

NO SUPERIOR RACE

Causes of mutations and racial differences were explained during the opening lecture which dealt with the definition of a race. During the lecture certain common prejudices, such as the difference of blood between races, were outlined and it was explained that four types of blood exist in each race.

The lecturer, Anne Malone, psychologist at the Montreal General Hospital, said that with blood transfusion a Negro could save the life of a white man or a Chinese as well as the life of another Negro. She said there is no such thing as a superior race.

Death Toll In Napanee Crash Stands at Four

KINGSTON (CP) — Two more deaths in Kingston General Hospital Monday brought to a total of four the number of dead as the result of a motor accident on Highway 3 Saturday morning, seven and a half miles east of Napanee.

Thomas Jillings, 2, died early Monday morning and Geraldine Winger 16, died at noon.

Killed in the crash were Mrs. Thomas Jillings, 22, of Toronto, mother of the dead two-year-old and Jean Winger, 9, sister of Geraldine who died today.

Still in hospital with injuries are George McTaggart, driver of the car, Gary Winger, 15, and Gary Fillings, 5. All were from Toronto.

PENALTIES AGAIN, SEE CLAUDE

The Belleville Memos have yet to put a point in the win column but they gave it a good try at Peterborough last night. Anyone seeing the Petes this year would not know it was the same team that Belleville teams have battled through the years. A lot of strange names are on the line-up and they have been drawn from all over the north country.

The Memos lost night battled through to the start of the third frame in a one-all tie and the Memos stuck their nose in front with a rush by "Pinky" Deenan but then the roof fell in as the Petes took their fall and before the shindig was over the Petes had scored five in a row.

The road chance five minutes before time when two Peterborough players were banished within seconds of each other but so strong a defence was put up that the Memos did not get one shot on the net in the last five minutes. The game was of the scrambly kind, which always happens on a small ice surface but that did not prevent the boys from laying on the wood and it developed into a rough, tough and nasty affair.

The Memos did not have the drive in the home stretch and, apparently more conditioning is needed. The team as a whole played well and Ronald Sarault, in the nets, looks very good. John Wade got a nice welcome from the Peterborough fans and he skated out for the first time. The juniors of the squad, Mail and Doran played well, each getting a goal. The team is shaping up and they will not lose all their games by wide means. The league is tougher than it has been for many years and every game will be a real battle right down to the final bell.

FEWER GET-TOGETHER

The Belleville softball powwow are being hosted at the West Main Fire Station tomorrow night by their big buddies of the district and they will not lose all their grievances and all here who played in the powwow league are invited. Fire Chief Gerald Vance and his merry men have aligned a good program as well as a feed and the get-together should out-do their predecessors and nobody should miss out on anything better than that.

IMPORTANT!

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association, the first sports organization of its kind to introduce individual insurance for the player whose welfare will, for the second year, provide this financial protection.

Last season the OMHA introduced the insurance after long and careful study of the situation and lengthy research along cost-lines. It arrived at the point where it could obtain the insurance at the cost of one dollar per player with benefits up to $300, with ten dollars deductable, and a benefit limit of $35 for dental injuries.

You, couldn't steal insurance much cheaper than these figures, but the OMHA has not rested with that point. Last year total claims amounted to some forty odd out of well over 1,500 player "risks". One claim was a broken leg, we are led to believe, but others were of a minor nature. In the majority, however, were dental injuries which is quite understandable in these days of high sticks, falls and what not.

It should be good news to parents of the moppets that the OMHA has again undertaken this type of insurance; Doug Waterson, Stirling, OMHA executive member for this neck of the woods, said on Sunday that while it was not believed possible to lower the premium cost, a movement is afoot to have the maximum payments for dental injuries increased to $50 or thereabouts.

Which is just another indication that President Mike Weicheld, secretary Jack Christie and their hard-working executive, are progressive and determined the association holds a place of leg in there battling all the time for the good of the cause.

This type of insurance should prove a boon, as it did last year, to parents, hockey players, clubs and association officials. Accidents like bad pennies, are liable to pop up anytime.

Last year the OMHA, as was said before, had but forty mishaps out of over 1,900 youngsters playing under its aegis. This year it might be less. It could be more. Accidents are no respecters of persons and your son or my son is liable to be an unfortunate victim of some unavoidable incident that necessitates help.

In cases where clubs or associations can afford it, and these are danged scarce, believe us, in these days of high costs of equipment, operation, etc., the parents have no financial obligations. In the greater majority of cases the clubs are always existing on a shoestring, and this applies to the larger centres as well as the hamlets and settlements, it is up to the parents to finance their offspring's insurance.

One remarkable feature about the OMHA insurance policy is that a team is not excluded because one or more members refuse to take out a policy. It is strictly an individual piece of business and not in any way compulsory. One player on a team can take out the insurance regardless of what the rest of the club does.

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association is "on its own" this year and like any other club of its kind, has built up funds to its credit. As a matter of fact at a Sunday meeting ways and means of raising funds were discussed with one major source centering the bulk of discussion.

However, that is neither here nor there for the moment. The point we are trying to bring out is that the parents of every future Howie Morens should take advantage of this generous insurance proposition. It costs but one dollar per year. And like "new boots must be understood that players' names were figured under this scheme last year, must make application for a policy this season.

To facilitate the efforts of those of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association, parents are requested to tie a one dollar bill to their son's or sons' certificates when they are presented for signature.

And in passing it should be noted that the entire insurance business rests in the hands of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association. All matters pertaining to insurance, claims, etc., are handled by the association's special committee. The Belleville Minor Hockey Association merely forwards the premiums to the OMHA.

Showing Plenty of Strength, Especially on Foreign Ice; Hawks Desert Penguin Class

MONTREAL (CP) — It's about time more attention was paid to Boston's Bruins, who have been lumbering along in the National Hockey League and mocking off opposition on foreign ice while few were looking.

In six road games the Bruins have won three, tied one and lost two. At home they have won two of three. Currently, the Bruins are tied with Toronto Maple Leafs for third place, but what makes them so worrisome to other clubs is that the Bruins have played only nine games.

The league - leading Montreal Canadiens, faltering on the road last week, have played 12 games. The second - place Detroit Red Wings have played 11.

Canadiens still are leading by two points but the pressure is on. Just to complicate things, Chicago's lowly Black Hawks gave signs of getting out of the penguin class by winning two and tying one last week and have caught up with fifth-place New York Rangers.

BIG CHANCE

The Bruins have their big chance this week when they are at home to the Black Hawks and then play home-and-home games with Canadiens.

Top rung in individual point-scoring now is shared by rookie Earl (Dutch) Reibel of the Red Wings and his teammate Gordie Howe, Nhl. champ. Reibel got himself only one assist last time out while Howe picked up three. Each has 14 points, five goals and 9 assists.

Ted Lindsay of the Red Wings moved sharply into contention with two goals and one assist. He is tied at 13 points with teammate Red Kelly, Boom-Boom Geoffrion of Montreal and Fod Sloan of Toronto.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal, leading the goal-getters with six, added two assists and now has nine points.

Three goalies are fighting it out for individual honors with goals against averages of less than 2.00. Terry Sawchuk of Detroit leads with 1.67, followed by Harry Lumley of Toronto with 1.75 and Gerry McNeil of Montreal with 1.83.

Canadiens are the most penalized team, with a total of 142 minutes, and their own Maurice Richard heads the individual penalty parade with 22 minutes.

Gaye Stewart Clings To Slim Lead

NEW YORK (AP)—Gaye Stewart of Buffalo Bisons is clinging to a slim lead in the American Hockey League's scoring race, with four of his team-mates challenging the 30-year-old left winger. Stewart, who experienced hard when played with four National Hockey League clubs, has 19 points on eight goals and 11 assists in games through Sunday.

Don Marshall of the Bisons is second with 18. Red Sullivan, Hershey centre, is third with 17. The other Bisons in the running are Ed Slowinski, Joe Lund and Johnny McCormack, each with 16.

Stewart, Slowinski and Marshall, who make up the No. 1 line for the league-leading Bisons, are tied for the most goals, eight. Fernie Eddolls, their playing coach, leads in assists, 11.

Vic Obeck May Quit McGill Post

MONTREAL (CP)—Vic Obeck, director of athletics at McGill University, said Monday night he is considering resigning his post as coach of the university's senior intercollegiate football century.

He said he doesn't like the "under the table deals" which are going on in hockey circles.

In a telephone interview, the McGill coach said if he does decide to quit the coaching job it will not affect his position as director of athletics.

Obeck came here from the United States several years ago as coach of the Redmen, and later was appointed director of all the university's athletics.

Ted Williams, Musial 'Feud' Comes to Life

By Rem Olan

NEW YORK (AP)—The arguments over whether Ted Williams or Stan Musial is baseball's best hitter apparently are ready to break out again.

Before Williams, the Boston outfielder, re-entered the armed services in 1952, baseball observers spent much of their time comparing the two. Ted's followers claimed he was more of a long-ball threat. Those who favored Musial said he was the more scientific batter—he hit to all fields.

Including their 1953 performances, Williams shows a mark of .348 and the Cardinal slugger is close behind with .345. They far outdistance the active big-leaguer third in the averages compiled by The Associated Press.

Williams has gunned out 1,804 safeties in 5,187 times at bat. Stan shows 2,291 hits in 6,637 trips. Ted is ahead in home runs, 337 to 257, and runs batted in, 1,298 to 1,197. Musial leads Williams in doubles, 467 to 397 and triples, 142 to 62.

Jackie Robinson, a .329 batter in 1953, brought his lifetime mark up to .319 to rate second to Musial in the National League. Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia Phillies is third with .311.

Cleveland's Dale Mitchell is runner-up to Williams in the American League with .315. Behind him come George Kell and Billy Goodman of Boston with .311 each.

Carl Furillo, the National League's 1953 batting champion, lifted his lifetime average seven points to .299. Mickey Vernon, who won the American League title for the second time last season, boosted five points to bring his mark for 13 years to .285.

Rough Riders Win Bonus Besides Game

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders have guaranteed a $250 Hallowe'en treat in Toronto Saturday with their 20-6 victory over Toronto Argos. It's up to the players how it should be split.

Before the game Ottawa club president James P. McCaffrey offered the team a $250 bonus if it beats Argos, matching a similar promise to Toronto players by Argos' president Lou Eisen. Riders earned themselves an extra $30 for their intercepted passes and three covered fumbles, at $5 each.

After the game the eight U.S. players on the club announced they wanted the money to be divided among the Canadian players.

The last word on the subject came from Canadian Bob Simpson, who said they would accept the offer and spend it on a party for their U.S. teammates "after we win the Grey Cup."

Operation On Mickey Mantle Said Successful

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—The surgeon who operated on Mickey Mantle, Yankee baseball star, said the New York baseball star came through in good shape and "we expect complete recovery."

Dr. Danr Vancey removed the semi-lunar cartilage from Mantle's right knee, which was injured in the 1951 world series and again last July. He said the operation revealed more damage to the cartilage than had been expected.

The speedy outfielder's knee "will be as strong as it was before the operation and there will be no less of action," Dr. Vancey said.

Mantle was kept under sedatives Monday night and today. Dr. Vancey said there would be considerable pain tonight. Mantle probably would remain in hospital a week or 10 days before returning to his Commerce, Okla., home.

Many Nations Enter Tourney

MONTREAL (CP) — Gordon Stringer, general manager of Canada, announced Monday night that a field of 15 to 20 countries is expected to compete in the Canada Cup soccer tournament here some time next Aug. 13-15.

Invitations will 15 countries have already asked to be represented by two-man teams in the competition, Stringer said. They are Argentina's Tony Cerda and Roberto de Stefano.

Eight countries participated in last summer's inaugural matches which ended in a round-robin of Vancouver and Bill Kerr of Montreal finished second. The winner became Australia, the England-South African combination, the United States, Germany and Mexico.

Countries which have already been invited to participate are Germany, New Zealand, Mexico, The Netherlands, Belgium, Japan, Argentina, Scotland and Wales.

'Choo-Choo' Leads Big 4 Scoring Race, Logan Boots 67 Converts in a Row

TORONTO (CP) — Tip Logan made it 67 converts without a miss when he booted the extra points on five Hamilton Tiger-Cat touchdowns last Saturday in his Big Four club's 31-18 triumph over Toronto Argonauts. The Canadian-born end also scored a touchdown for a 10-point day and a jump into fourth place in the scoring race.

The former Queen's University star's missed a converted try in his three seasons with the Tiger-Cats.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the 200-pounder with 68 points in 12 games on two touchdowns, three field goals, 27 converts and two singles. He hopped from sixth place with his brilliant Saturday effort.

ROBERTS TOP MAN

Gene (Choo Choo) Roberts of the powerful Ottawa Rough Riders leads the race with 80 points in three Montreal Alouettes' Ray Poole, veteran kicking star from New York Giants. Avatus Stone, former Chicago Cardinal and now with Alouettes, is in third place with 64 points.

Roberts, former New York Giant, kicked three converts in Riders' 20-6 victory over Argonauts Saturday. He has scored six touchdowns, five field goals, 3 converts and two singles in 12 games.

Dave Gregory, an import from Chicago Bears via Saskatchewan Roughriders, won the Ontario Rugby Football Union scoring championship with 85 points in 12 games with Toronto Balmy Beach he scored 13 touchdowns, two field goals, 23 converts and a single.

In second place was John Mas-con of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen with 72 points.

ONEACHUK NEW LEADER

Steve Oneschuk, who scored three touchdowns and kicked five converts in University of Toronto Blues' 34-0 victory over McGill Redmen Saturday, took over the intercollegiate scoring lead. He replaces Gino Fracas of University of Western Ontario Mustangs.

Oneschuk now has 37 points, four more than the Mustang back.

Ron Stewart of Queen's University Golden Gaels, scored two touchdowns against McGill Saturday to leap into third place in the college circuit, with 25 points.

The Calvert Sports Column

by Elmer Ferguson

The most sporting football game played in Canada this year did not take place on the gridiron of the eastern Big Four, nor the Canadian Rugby Union but between three grim battles in Canada's upper plaskin area which will be remembered for generations. But not the kind to which we refer.

The most sporting game of all was played on McGill's big football bowl, Delorimier on Nov. 16. It was Canada's nearest approach to the Rose Bowl game that hits the peak of United States college football glory. And, as in the Rose Bowl, it was college vs. college, and nothing else.

This game was of high sporting merit because it was designed for a fine purpose, that of establishing a memorial trophy, to a fund to make the Canadian parapiegic war heroes.

University of British Columbia sent its football team east to play McGill. The game was the first of what is planned to be an annual event for the Winston Churchill trophy. The grim and British warrior and statesman who defied Nazi and gave us at the lowest ebb of Allied hopes in the last World War, gave his consent to use of his name for a trophy. There is a trophy record-book, which will be kept in a compartment of the famous sculpture "The Knight", available for the game. The first game of work is by Dr. Tate McKenzie, famed Canadian sculptor, a work of art that is the property of the University of Toronto, and depicts with great vigor and vibrancy, a Toronto Varsity and opponent of the days of the game, changing football limb. Each year, the sculptor will be described in the record book, and it will become, over the years, a valuable contribution to the history of Canadian college football.

The game was played in the presence of two of the Dominion's most colorful mayors — Fred Hulme of Vancouver and Camillien Houde of Montreal.

Mayor Hulme kicked off in this, the first east-west college classic to aid the Canadian Paraplegic Association. Similar to famous yearly Shriners Bowl games in San Francisco each New Year's Day for the benefit of crippled children, the Canadian "Paraplegic Bowl" game is expected to become an annual attraction with the 1954 game to be played in Vancouver.

As the most sporting football game of all, in Canada, this column heartily commends it, for its scope, its sporting spirit, and its fine objective.

PETERBOROUGH — Downing Belleville Memos 6-2 here tonight, the Petes pulled into second place in their O.H.A. Senior group standing, just four points behind the Oshawa Generals. The Kingston Goodmen, Eddie Redmond's entry in the second by half a game, while Orillia is fourth and Memos in the cellar.

A fair-sized crowd viewed the game which was speedy in spots, but marked with considerable rough play. It was close enough for the third period but then the Petes got a couple of breaks and Belleville tallied early in the third for their only goal of the game, but the Petes replied with five before the finish, notching a pair inside the last minute and sitting out a charging penalty.

The games wasn't unduly rough although it got chippy at times with Referee Morrison Walsh and Crombie calling them close. Petes drew eight of the 16 penalties, one being a misconduct to Peterson for needling Referee Crombie after a minor penalty.

GREENLAW GETS TWO

Teodie Greenlaw counted two for the winners, singles being to Bill McMaster, Ron Beach Chmil and Rocky Mason. High in assists was Gus Bodnar with four in the scoring-making role, as one each was marked to Roy Armstrong, Chmil, McMaster, Mountjoy, Mc-Ginley and Eddie Redmond. For Belleville, Doug Ruff-and Don Horn scored, as Vern Goyer and Peter Jones each gained two assists.

Both goalies were good. Sarault, of Memos, being in the last minute but stopped 16 shots.

Belleville might well have added up a higher count in the last two frames but for smart netminding by Jack Dooley as the Memos had a territorial edge on the rather lackadaisical Petes. Only in the third period did the latter appear to be properly organized going and coming, while Belleville played a pretty steady game throughout. They were thwarted repeatedly in first half when in on goal.

Penalties struck the Petes late in the last chukker and at one time they were shy two men, Dee Prentice for holding and Bert Hill for high-sticking. Both two players for nearly two minutes the Peter trio of Redmond, Montgomery and Bill Crowley played a great checking game to keep the swarming Memos from getting a clear shot on the net.

Bombers in Final

Tongue out and clutching the ball tightly, Jerry James of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers makes a touchdown run down the sidelines from Ukrainian in the second game of their Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final with Saskatchewan Roughriders. Bombers lost the game at Regina 16-17 but won the two-game total-point series 60-32. Saskatchewan player Earl Hillenger (27) is cutting along for a position to tackle James who made a 22-yard run. —

Detroits' Powerful Production Line Threatens to Break All Records

By JOE FALLS

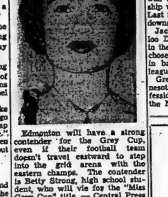
DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings' famed "production line" is producing at a greater clip than ever this season because of a sharp-eyed rookie centre who last year had trouble with his vision.

Earl (Dutch) Reibel, 23-year-old newcomer, is playing like a veteran between the Wings' two high-scoring forwards, Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay. They seem to be on break all scoring records for a forward line.

Reibel and Howe are tied for the National Hockey League scoring lead with 14 points each. Lindsay is right behind.

The trio has been averaging 3.64 points a game—far ahead of the 2.97 established two seasons ago by the Howe-Lindsay-Sid Abel combine.

Abel retired last year to take over coaching duties for Chicago Black Hawks. That left a big gap in the Wings' "production line." Five centres were tried between Lindsay and Howe last season, but none of them could keep up.



REIBEL "AT HOME"

Then along came Reibel, and from the opening game, when he made four assists, he's been right at home with Howe and Lindsay. However, one of his short months ago there was some doubt that Reibel would ever play hockey again.

As automobile crash in July, 1952, sent him hurtling through the windshield, impairing his vision. The Wings sent him to a specialist and in time his vision returned to normal through eye exercises.

This season he has proved beyond doubt that his vision is back to normal. He has overshadowed Jean Beliveau, the highly-touted $25,000 rookie of Montreal Canadiens, Beliveau, now injured, led the league in press clippings, but Reibel leads in points.

Scoring points is nothing new to Reibel. Playing with Ed-monton last season, he led the Western League in scoring with 90. The previous year he was named the outstanding rookie in the American League while playing with Indianapolis.

Strong Contender

Edmonton will have a strong contender for the Grey Cup even if their football team doesn't travel eastward to step into the grid arena with the eastern champs. The contender is Betty Strand, high school student, who will vie for the "Miss Grey Cup" title. — Central Press Canadian.

Shoot, Not Shake Hands, Says Clancy

TORONTO (CP) — King Clancy, coach of Toronto Maple Leafs Monday chastised his boys for waiting too long before shooting at the opposing goal.

"If they wouldn't wait to go in and shake hands with the goalie before they shot the puck they would be a much better team," said Clancy on his return from New York where Leafs gained a 3-3 tie by scoring in the game's dying moments of the National Hockey League game with the Rangers Sunday.

Little Big Four Football Title Declared Tie

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The winner of the Little Big Four football title? Why, either Ridley or St. Andrew's. It doesn't matter.

Headmasters Dr. J. R. Hamilton of Ridley and Ken Ketchum of St. Andrew's will be the last to argue about the champion of the sudden-death playoff Saturday when their teams tied 17-17.

Some Ridley fans claimed the title because the St. Catharines college was the defending champion and was not beaten. Not so, said St. Andrew's fans. They pointed to their club, which had a better goals for-and-against record. Commented Dr. Hamilton:

"As far as Ridley is concerned it was a tie game. We are both champions. That's fair, isn't it?"

Said Mr. Keehum at Aurora: "Let's be realistic. Both goal clubs were the best in the league. And, after all, there's no championship cup."

The other two teams in the league, Upper Canada College and University of Toronto Schools, felt the championship should be declared a tie.

Since the league has no executive, the headmasters call the shots. A tie it is.

Dick Gregory Beaches Back Named M. V. P.

TORONTO (CP)—Dick Gregory, halfback with Toronto Balmy Beach of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union, has been voted the league's most valuable player this year, ORFU president Donald F. Downey announced Monday night.

Gregory, who joined the Beaches a month after the schedule began, won the ORFU scoring championship with 95 points in eight games. East Sunday he scored four touchdowns against Hartford Redskins.

Jack Mancoe of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, second to Gregory in the individual scoring race, was chosen second most valuable player in balloting by players of the league's four teams.

Gregory is a product of Minnesota University and played professional football with Chicago Bears of the National League at one time.

Wodalla Wins Melbourne Cup

Illgal finished second and Mylerna one of the favorites, third in the field of 31.

Wodalla was clocked in three minutes, 25¾ seconds over the two-mile distance as he finished three-quarters of a length behind Illgal. My Hero trailed by another two lengths.

The victory was worth $22,148 plus a gold trophy.

Earl Walls KO's Kahut In 2nd Round

EDMONTON (CP)—Earl Walls of Toronto and Windsor, Ont., knocked out Ivan Kahut to win championship, Monday night knocked out Ivan Kahut of Portland, Ore., after two minutes and 40 seconds of the second round of a scheduled ten-rounder. Walls weighed 192; Kahut 182.

A crowd of 8,000 saw Walls score the 22rd knockout in 34 professional bouts and put out the blot Kahut put on his record by being the only man to go the distance with Walls since he won the Canadian title 1¼ years ago.

Walls started fast and forced the issue but the crouching Kahut was an elusive target. Kahut was floored for a nine-count in the first round by a storm of left uppercuts.

A hard right to the kidney ended the fight. Kahut went to his knees and remained on his hands and knees until his handlers helped him to his feet.

Walls was unmarked.

CURLING OPENS

GALT (CP)—The 17th annual Early Bird bonspiel opening next Monday, will draw Grayelle chased by Andre Corriveau of Valleyfield Braves with 15 points—eight goals and seven assists—while three others follow in a bunch at the 13-point mark.

Patrick, Abel Throw Punches In Hockey Brawl

CHICAGO (AP) — Players, coaches and spectators swung fists in a free-for-all Sunday night during the second period of the Boston-Chicago National Hockey League game.

No one was hurt but it took the three officials to sort out the fights. Jim Peters of Chicago Black Hawks and Bob Armstrong of Boston Bruins were given five-minute penalties for starting the melee.

It started with Peters and Armstrong swinging at each other along the boards between the players' benches. Coach Bill Abel of the Hawks reached over and grabbed Armstrong to haul him away. Lynn Patrick, the Boston coach, went to the defence of his man and swung at Abel. Abel returned Patrick's fire.

The coaches' duel started players on both sides bursting. Some spectators got on the ice to join in before officials restored peace. The game ended in a 0-0 tie.

In Montreal, president Clarence Campbell of the NHL said he has asked referee Red Storey for a full report on the fight.

Gravelle Tops Quebec League Scoring Race

MONTREAL (CP)—Ottawa Senators big-gun, Leo Gravelle, assisted on one goal and four assists during the last week to pull out in front in the Quebec Hockey League individual scoring race.

The Senator's ace has 11 points—made up of eight goals and nine assists—which put him two ahead of his nearest rivals.

Official statistics, issued Monday night, show Gravelle chased by Andre Corriveau of Valleyfield Braves with 15 points—eight goals and seven assists—while three others follow in a bunch at the 13-point mark.

St. Kitts C. I. Blanks Stamford

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— St. Catharine Collegiate Monday was the right to enter the Central Ontario Secondary School Association football quarter-finals by defeating Stamford Collegiate 6-0 in a sudden-death playoff game. St. Catharines made good use of its powerful ground attack but scored its only touchdown on a forward pass.

Sport in Brief

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Brooklyn shortstop Harold PeeWee Reese refuses to comment on reports from New York that he has been offered the job as manager of the Dodgers.

The reports said E. J. Bavasi, vice-president of the baseball club, put the proposition to Reese at a meeting at Columbus Friday.

Dodger officials previously had indicated Reese would get the offer to replace Chuck Dressen who refused to sign again as manager because he was offered only a one-year contract.

LONDON (AP)—Ray Barnes and Yolanda Pompey, middleweights who have been out of the ring for months, go back to work today.

Barnes, of France, former European featherweight champion, meets Sammy McCarthy of London on the same card.

Pompey, of Trinidad, is favored over Barnes, a Detroit Negro who recently was discharged from the United States Army. The fight will be Barnes' first since 1952. His record shows 36 victories, three defeats and one draw.

Pompey has been overshadowed in British rings by former world middleweight champion Randy Turpin. He hasn't been able to find a fight since November.

Copeland May Quarter Argos

TORONTO (CP) — Royal Copeland who played defensive halfback for Toronto Argonauts most of the season, may take over duties as quarterback when Argos meet Hamilton Tiger Cats in Ottawa tonight.

Regular quarter Knobby Wetsmid injured his throwing arm in last Saturday's 30-8 loss to Ottawa here.

Copeland practised at quarter Monday night and coach Frank Clair said he did "a good job."

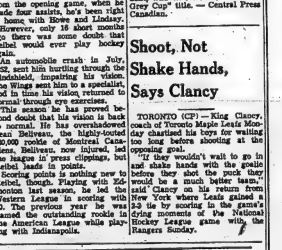
Parkes Whips Jimmy Cerello



PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Herreyweight James J. Parker, 165½, of Barrie, Monday night scored his eighth straight victory with a ten-round technical knockout over Jimmy Cerello, 177¼ of Jersey City, N.J., in a scheduled 10-round boxing bout.

Parker scored his third knockout in 8 fights by nailing Cerello with a right to the jaw late in the third round after dropping him for a nine-count in the same session.

The bout was stopped at 2:51 of the third when Cerello's handlers waved off the referee as he began to count over Cerello.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars:

FOR WEDNESDAY, NOV. 4, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A benign sort of day with matters requiring artistry and finesse first in favor. This means that finesse can be applied to any worthy undertaking to great advantage now.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Your Venus and Jupiter in grand aspect encourage personal interests; also forever new activities which could be profitable. But be careful not to make useless or unpremeditated changes.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — May be rather quiet where new and original ideas are concerned, but it is certainly a day for making progress in any honest endeavor. Artists of stage, screen, radio, etc., charity work highly sponsored.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Matters that require careful planning and perhaps even progress are favored during this promising day with work and activities demanding vigorous treatment and some aggressiveness.

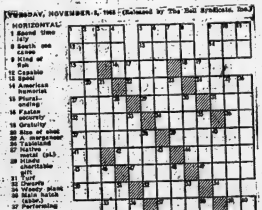
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — If you are steadily progressive and don't expect or demand the unreasonable, you can have a pleasant, constructive day. Seek to advance in your own line but don't force matters.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Read Gemini. Your day is similar. Agreeable time for extending yourself in a field for which you have specific talent, and for making valuable connections socially; getting on generally.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Excellent indications. Don't dally with purposeless ideas or tasks. You can make real strides now. Social investments, business transactions are favored.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—No unfavorable vibrations from Mars or Saturn and very friendly ones from Venus and Jupiter give promise of productive returns from steady, honest effort.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Get ready for a busy day but be sure your goals are honorable. No matter how seemingly difficult some problems or tasks may seem, you can master them. Make headway the "beaten" way.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Some restrictions likely but they will be for your good. Don't force issues or overdo and if you should attain best results.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—The position of Uranus warns against sudden decisions or changes. Day is so promising it would not be advisable to defeat achievement by wrong moves. Proceed carefully and you will advance.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Encouraging for social endeavors. This is a stimulating, beneficial period for hard work, for artistic and scientific professions on the whole. Enter any undertaking with confidence.

YOU BORN TODAY are blessed with determination, generosity, frankness and general capability; can be counted on in emergencies, dependable and helpful to those in trouble. You are too intelligent and willing to be agreeable not to recognize your own faults, so listen to just criticism and advice without "flying off the handle." You can gain success in any field you choose if you will work hard. Pray daily for patience. God's guidance. Birthdate: Guido Reni, famed Italian painter; Will Rogers, American humorist.

IRISH LEADER DIES

DUBLIN (AP)—Dr. Thomas F. O'Higgins, 63, former Republican Ireland defence minister, died today. O'Higgins, a leader of the Fine Gael party, did several jail terms during the fight for independence from Britain. He was the Dail (parliament) floor leader and later became Industry and commerce minister as well as defence minister.

KEPT THREE WIVES

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Police here announced the arrest of a 42-year-old Mexican textile worker accused of keeping at least three wives under lock and key for years. The man, Manuel Fraguel, when a search for a woman who disappeared 18 years ago led to the discovery of the first of his three spouses. The other wives were found later. Police said the three had borne Villaescor 15 children in captivity.

A LETTER TO THE FARMERS OF TWEED DISTRICT!!

I am endeavoring to clear up the confusion in your minds concerning the purchasing of Mr. F. Graham's business. I am not personally the purchaser. My wife is my brother-in-law; also he was with Mr. Lloyd MacKay in the hardware business for 10 years. Mr. Graham a number of years.

It seemed natural that he become associated with me. I have two sons one 18 and 20. This business was bought for the purpose of keeping employment and handling stock and sharing the ups and downs of life with your sons.

My opposition claim I am trying to monopolize the industry in Tweed. True, through my buyers I am handling stock from five stations and I will name these stations—Ivanhoe, Foxboro, Napanee, Harrowsmith and Tweed. Also we deal with approximately 100 farmers.

Each week's sheets had farmers from as far west as Colborne, Hastings and Havelock; as far north as Tweed and as far east as Kingston; as far south as Clayes, Ardoch and Bannockburn. Two-thirds of these farmers I have yet to meet, yet they have confidence in me and my partners I have yet to meet, yet they have confidence in me and my partners. Gentlemen, I am not stating these facts to boast; but just to let you be the judge. Can this many farmers all be wrong?

In regards to rail grading cattle, calves and lambs. Until this year I bought on live weight basis. A dealer buying on live weight basis does one of two things; either he buys too high or too low. One never does one of two things; either he buys too high or too low. One never receives too much, another not enough. On dressed weight basis Mr. Parker does not dock us. He allows us the dressing you will be paid according to your article. Here I would like to say that the company I represent did not set this system up. We are only a buying company. I believing it to be the fairest system in operation today. The company supplies one representative to purchase them from over-the-scale. I protect your interest, to see that you are not under paid. On Wednesday morning; killing for beaver cuts of calves and a receipt given. This system calls for tagging your cattle in tattooing hogs. The hogs will be in pens. The same system is used in tattooing hogs. The hogs will be killed from your station and are due at our killing plant at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning; killing for beaver cuts of calves and a receipt given. Your calves and lambs are fed and watered before slaughtering.

Returns should be back Saturday of each week, unless delay through the mail.

Yours truly,
BOB CRANSTON.

COPE GOLD CUP

NEW YORK (AP)—The Chartran Stable's Crafty Admiral ran away from six rivals in winning the $50,-000 Empire City Gold Cup at Jamaica Saturday.

He took the lead shortly after the start of the mile and five-eighths' weight-for-age marathon and held away throughout, spreading up in the final half to roll home ahead by 10 lengths.

L. J. Collins' Commission Cutlass was second, a length in front of Hampton Stable's Alerted.

The time of 2:43 3-5 was four-fifths of the track record, held jointly by Stymie and Counterpoint.

Municipality Will Maintain Grant to Fund

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—One of six Oxford county municipalities Monday decided to maintain its grant to the county tornado relief fund.

Five centres sliced in half their grants to the fund, following the lead of Oxford county council which reduced its grant from $30,000 to $15,000 last Saturday.

The cut backs mean a loss of almost $20,000 in aid to tornado victims, including about $10,000 in provincial assistance.

East Nissouri was the exception. Council decided to stand pat on its grant of $2,000 for relief because the township was one of the hardest hit by the tornado.

Ingersoll, Tillsonburg, East Zorra West Oxford and North Oxford reduced their grants to the amounts granted before they learned incorrectly that the province would pay 50 per cent of municipal grants.

79-Year-Old Wants Another Crack at Moose

LUNENBURG, N.S. (CP)—W. S. Sarty is 79 and has bagged his moose limit every year since he started hunting. He still has one ambition: "To get another crack at a moose before I'm too old to travel."

Mr. Sarty kept his deer-hunting record intact this year by getting his limit of two with one shot each on the same day.

"That was nothing at all. I like deer hunting but you take moose hunting. . . that's the sport." Unfortunately for Mr. Sarty moose hunting has been banned in Nova Scotia for some years.

"To still-hunt and kill a moose you require nerve and skill," he says. "I do hope the herd of moose will increase so as to justify an open season. I want another crack at the big fellows before I get too old to travel."

He had none, too, for the drive this year to teach gun safety. "Coming from a farm I've had them in the proper handling of guns makes for better and safer Any instruction that can be given hunting."

The Fox and The Grapes

A HUNGRY FOX saw some fine bunches of Grapes hanging from a vine that was trained along a high trellis, and did his best to reach them by jumping as high as he could into the air. But it was all in vain, for they were just out of reach: so he gave up trying, and walked away with an air of dignity and unconcern, remarking, "I thought those Grapes were ripe, but I see now they are quite sour."

MORAL: Instead of saying "sour grapes" when you can't immediately attain your ambitions, build a ladder to success by opening a savings account with The Canadian Bank of Commerce. Add to your balance regularly and you'll soon be in a position to get what you seek.

Queen Requests Duke of Edinburgh Be Regency Choice

Present Acts Make Queen's Sister Automatically Regent

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen today asked the House of Commons to name her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, as regent should the necessity arise.

A message from her to Parliament asked the House to change the regency acts of 1937 and 1943 before she goes on her Commonwealth tour this month.

The queen also provided that, Princess Margaret, her sister, would automatically be regent if the heir to the throne, Prince Charles, became king before he was 18.

QUEEN'S REQUEST

The Queen's message, read by the Speaker said:

"The uncertainty of human life leads me to put you in mind of the possibility that a child of myself and my dear husband may accede to the throne whilst under the age of 18 years and I would recommend to your consideration whether it be not desirable to provide that, in that event and also in the event of a regency becoming necessary during the minority while there is no child or grandchild of mine who can be the regent, my husband should be the regent and be charged with the guardianship of the person of the sovereign.

"I would also recommend that you should take into consideration the expediency of consolidating the law so that the heir apparent or heir presumptive to the throne should be capable of being regent if he or she has attained the age of 18 years."

The Queen also asked that steps be taken to provide for her mother, Queen Elizabeth, to sit on a council of state which will preside in her absence from the country.

ANNOUNCES MESSAGE

Home Secretary Sir David Maxwell Fyfe announced the Queen's message in ringing tones: "A message from Her Majesty the Queen signed by Her Majesty's own hand." He then announced he would propose a bill authorized by the message, Regency Acts.

Commonwealth prime ministers have already agreed to the changes Fyfe said.

The only opposition to the changes is expected to come from a few backbench Conservatives who complain the amendment marks a departure from the crown's hereditary principle.

Hold 4 Youths For Questioning In Murder Case

TORONTO (CP)—Four youths picked up Tuesday night in a raid on a downtown Toronto rooming house were questioned today in connection with the murder of Alfred (Scotty) Cameron.

Cameron's body was found Friday in a ditch near Barrie, 50 miles north of here. He had been shot five times.

Police said they found the youths in an upstairs room in the house with two 15-year-old girls. They were charged with vagrancy.

Police said the youths were being questioned in connection with the Cameron case and also the robbery Tuesday of Mrs. Ethel Percy Giltero, a Dufferin race track constable.

Giltero said police he was dragged into a car and driven to suburban Dixie where he was dragged and robbed of $85.

Railway Firemen May Go on Strike In Old Dispute

MONTREAL (CP) — Officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen here said today strike action may be taken in an effort to end a long-standing dispute with the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways.

The officials said they are meeting with railway representatives today in a final effort to end the dispute, arising out of a representation clause in the union's contract. If the meeting fails to reach agreement a strike may be taken by firemen among the union's 6,000 members.

W. E. Gamble of Winnipeg, Canadian vice-president of the union, said in an interview that the last strikes back in 1948. Until that year the union was able to handle personal grievances of members and former members.

For instance, if a man was promoted from fireman to engineer he could still ask the brotherhood lawyer to handle a grievance although he might by his promotion come under jurisdiction of another railway union.

ENGINEERS AGREE

Mr. Gamble said that in 1948 the railway companies decided they would deal only with the union to which an engineer belonged. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers agreed with the companies and now is handling the grievances of former firemen.

The railway companies, said Mr. Gamble, have described the dispute as a jurisdictional one between brotherhoods to settle.

But Mr. Gamble, a Progressive Conservative and Englishman believes, said Mr. Gamble, that the companies' sole aim is to remove the representation clause that has been in all contracts with the brotherhood.

Besides Mr. Gamble, those representing the brotherhood at today's meeting will include H. E. Hibert of Cleveland, international president of the union and A. E. Matthews of Perry Sound, Ont.

DROWNED IN CANAL

CAMPBELLFORD (CP) — One man was drowned and another was killed in safety Tuesday when he plunged into the Trent canal near here. Police said Harry Smith of Campbellford was drowned.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP)—Despite the drought that swept into Ontario early new books every from the northwest in August and September and south as Virginia and Missouri, temperatures fell below the freezing mark as far south as Windsor. Some northwesterly winds will continue to bring nonetheless to northern and central Ontario and chilly amounts of cloud in the three southern parts of the province today. However clearing skies and decreasing winds are expected for all regions tonight, giving promise of a fine day Thursday.

PRISONERS HUNT, FISH AT SYDNEY WIDE-OPEN JAIL

Judges Call It Dilapidated Clink

SYDNEY, N. S. (CP) — The county jail here is a place where cells have no locks, prisoners hunt for deer, fish for gaspereaux, sleep in the guard's room and make errands to town.

It's not a model prison nor an unique experiment in penology. Supreme Court judges say it's just a dilapidated old clink, a "disgrace" that should have been torn down decades ago.

A grand jury of the Supreme Court Tuesday that on one hunting trip he and two prisoners visited several "bootleg joints" at nearby Reserve, Glace Bay and New Waterford.

Thomas Wells, 53, who lost his job and is charged with allowing prisoners to get liberty, said he took John Mackie, 32, and John Wilson, 28, hunting for deer to satisfy prisoners' demands for a diet change.

Wilson and Mackie were convicted of being at large while serving jail terms and were remanded for sentence.

The Cape Breton county jail has held nearly 150 prisoners although built to accommodate 40. Prisoners have been known to have forced a sleep in shifts. There's often a shortage of beds.

OUT ON THE TOWN!

Its most frequent critic is Mr. Justice W. J. Patton, who made the said provincial jails are in "very unsatisfactory" sanitary conditions, under whose jurisdiction the jails generally fall, say they haven't the power to build new jails.

Wells said prisoners could crawl out a back window. He often remained awake at night to unlock corridor doors so they could return after being out on the town.

Jailer Angus MacLeod said he considered the prisoners to go fishing for gaspereaux, a herring-like fish, to secure bait supposedly used for fresh fish. He denied giving the guard permission to take the men hunting.

Wells also said that Wilson acted as a guard to Mackie after release. He was at liberty on occasion to do errands for jail prisoners. One night Wilson and Mackie were driven back to jail in a taxi. Wells opened the door.

Canadian Govt. 'In Full Accord' With Proposal

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today the Canadian government is "in full accord" with the proposal to have the Duke of Edinburgh named regent if the necessity arises.

The prime minister said it does not appear that any concurring legislation will be required in Canada.

In a statement issued simultaneously with a message given to the House of Parliament by the Queen, Mr. St. Laurent said:

"The regency acts of 1937 and 1943 were passed by the parliament of the United Kingdom which do not apply to Canada where the powers and authorities of the sovereign in respect of Canada are exercised by the governor-general.

"Therefore, though the government is in full accord with the proposal that effect should be given to Her Majesty's wishes, it does not appear necessary that any action be taken in Canada to that end."

Tells of Her Operation For $12,500 Weekly Pay

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Christine Jorgensen, the former GI who professes to have undergone a sex change operation and is married to female with the aid of Danish scientists, told about her operation in Las Vegas.

It was the opening of a two-week engagement at the Flamingo hotel which cancelled her booking at Copenhagen's Tivoli Gardens, she wasn't what she said she was. The hotel has since relented.

Miss Jorgensen is a blue-eyed actress and a partner—in which she sings a duet entitled "Two of a Kind"—tells jokes and gives a brief rundown on what happened to her in Denmark.

For this the hotel says it is paying her $12,500 a week.

Chilly at The Seat of Learning As University Heads Ban Slacks

OXFORD, England (Reuters)—An official notice posted in one of the leading women's colleges of Oxford University today sent cold shivers down the spines of the student girl undergraduates, who read it.

The notice—ominously headed "Improper Dress"—informed students of Somerville College, that from now on they are banned from wearing slacks with their cape and gowns.

It pointed out that girls who are "improperly dressed, academically speaking" when they go to lectures are breaking college rules.

Thus did the edict from university authority slip in the bud an American-type fashion craze which has swept Somerville this fall.

The girls took to wearing slacks —drain-pipe velvet and corduroy were most popular—and denim in the garden under their sober cassock and gowns as soon as the first frosty days of autumn appeared. But them that winter was not far off.

They suffered something awful from the cold in past winters," explained Jackie Self, third-year history student. "So this year we figured slacks would be the answer."

"They're just right for cold lectures and lecture rooms and draughty corridors. They're also much better for cycling than skirts."

"But," she added with a sigh, "now all our dreams of comfort are shattered."

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index jumped by another half point during September to 118.7 from 118.2 in August, DBS rose for the fifth month in a row.

The burst of statistics today reported the second consecutive half-point monthly rise, which places living costs at the highest level in 16 months.

The yardstick, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, now is but 1.5 points below the record high of 119.3 reached in November, 1951.

In the United States a new high was reached in September, 1953, on the American yardstick, based on 1947-49 prices equalling 100, rose to 115.2 per cent of the 1947-49 average. It was the seventh consecutive monthly rise.

FOOD, RENT RISE

Higher food prices along with other price jumps for rent, fuel, household operations and health care sparked Canada's September index rise. Clothing prices eased slightly.

The food column rose to the highest in more than a year, increasing by 1.5 points to 115.6 from 114 as prices rose for lettuce, fresh tomatoes, bacon, pork chops, butter, lard, eggs, shortening, oranges, grapefruit and canned fruits. Offsetting declines were for beef, lamb, veal, chicken, potatoes, canned tomatoes, cabbage, onions and turnips.

SHELTER INDEX AT PEAK

The shelter index rose for a new high of 124.5 from 124.3 as rents continued to climb. Household operations rose to a record 117.5 from 117.4, reflecting seasonal increases for coal, electricity rates, floor coverings and ice and telephone rates.

Most clothing costs were high, offsetting the impact of lower costs for seasonal men's items, and bumping the miscellaneous column to 107.6 from 107.4. This is the highest the column since last January.

Clothing was the only column to decline. Lower prices for women's and children's wear dragged the index down a point from the latest to 119.2 from 119.4. The drop brings the index back where it was in July.

While consumer prices strengthened, wholesale prices continued to weaken during September.

The price index for industrial materials, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, dipped to 227.3 on Oct. 23 from 228.4 on Sept. 25, DBS reported today. It was at 234.4 points from 230.7 last year.

FARM INDEX DROPS

The Canadian farm products index, based on 1935-39 prices, slipped to 209 from 210.7—a 22.4-point drop from 231.4 a year ago. Losses showed for potatoes and a number of eastern course grains, including oats, barley, rye, flax, western flax and eastern wheat and hay.

Quotations were lower also for steers, lambs, eggs in eastern Canada, veal calf and hog prices in western Canada, overbalancing advances for sheep, lambs, fowl, butterfat and fluid milk in eastern Canada and eggs, butterfat, fluid milk and raw wool in western Canada.

Democrats Cheer Supporters With Victories in Elections

NEW YORK (AP)—Democrats jubilantly hailed results of Tuesday's autumn elections and local contests throughout the United States as pointing to further gains next year, and the Republican high command conceded the GOP was in trouble."

But, said Republican national chairman Leonard W. Hall, he is confident things will be different in 1954, when control of Congress will be at stake. Democratic chairman, Stephen A. Mitchell, claimed his party "on the march from north, south, east and west." Both agreed the party label means little in off-year elections. In many cases there were state and local issues which overshadowed efforts to carry major weight next year.

But Adlai Stevenson, former State House statement stumping President Eisenhower extensively on behalf of Republican candidates, wherever they were running, and said that gave the results added significance.

FEW SURPRISES

Actually, Tuesday's balloting produced few real surprises. Chief among these were two Democratic victories for governor. In Virginia, Thomas Mayner won the governorship, first Democratic victory in 12 years. Robinson A. Williams captured the congressional seat held by Republican Stanley Lord, who resigned in 1952.

In New York City, Democrat Robert F. Wagner Jr. won by one of the highest plurality since 1945 to win the mayoralty. He defeated a Republican, a Liberal and one other candidate.

Wagner is the son of the late Senator who wrote the Wagner Act, labor relations law of the early Roosevelt administration.

In Virginia, which Eisenhower carried last year, the Democrats retained the state house in the face of the most determined campaign the GOP has ever put on in the state. There, at least, the two - party system is in state and local affairs appears to be some distance in the future.

Senator H. Stanley was elected Virginia governor with the backing of the Democratic organization headed by Senator Harry F. Byrd. Colgate Darden was the Republican loser.

Both the federal Senate and house of representatives now are almost evenly divided. All 435 House seats and 96 of the 100 Senate's 96 will be filled next year.

The GOP leaders have in mind when he commented:

"There is no question about it. We are in for a row. It is trouble politically. . . ."

In 1949 Mr. Wagner succeeds Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri Jan. 1 in the Democratic primary, the city's biggest political job in the U.

Impellitteri tried to run as an independent but a court ruled his nominating petitions had insufficient signatures.

In mayoralty races in the border cities of Buffalo and Detroit, the Democrats ousted the Republicans from office. Former Democrats also won in the Motor City.

Democrat Joseph Faukow, an auto dealer and one-time Republican, ousted the Republicans in Buffalo.

Detroit Mayor Albert E. Cobo was extended victory in his bid for re-election in non-partisan municipal balloting.

Cobo won his third term in office over James A. Lincoln, and will serve the four-year term in Detroit history.

Six Persons Believed Drowned When Boat Upset in Red Lake

RED LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Six persons are believed to have drowned in Red lake, victims of a storm which overturned their fishing boat.

The boat was found overturned in a bay Sunday, Ontario Provincial Police said today. The fishermen and a woman left the town of Red Lake, some 70 miles northeastward of Winnipeg, during a snowstorm on a four-mile trip to McKenzie Island.

Police said search parties will check the islands on the lake on foot as the faint chance some of the boat's occupants managed to swim to land.

STILL IN COMA

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Margaret Spence, 32, of Chesley, still is in a coma and critically ill in hospital. Miss Spence was found Oct. 20 with a serious head injury in a Chesley business office. Police investigation is at a standstill until the woman can be questioned.

MATORALTY CANDIDATE

STRATFORD (CP) — Alderman C. H. Meier, president of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Stratford Indians, said Tuesday he will be a candidate for mayor in the December municipal elections. He will oppose Mayor Lawrence Fickle, elected by acclamation last year.

LEGISLATION FOR UNION DUES CHECKOFF LIKELY

May Depend on Result Of Metal-Mines Strikes

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Government backing for legislation to write the union dues checkoff into labor contracts is regarded as a likelihood for the coming session of Parliament.

The ministers' attitude, however, is understood to depend largely on the outcome of the Ontario-Quebec metal-mines strikes, in which the checkoff is the most controversial issue.

Parliamentary approval of the checkoff would remove it from industry under federal jurisdiction in labor relations, it would be mandatory on employers and the labor union does at the request of the employee. It would apply to 375,000 workers in such industries as railways, it-m-m-a-i-l-l-i-n-e-s and shipping that reach across provincial boundaries.

For several years, the government has opposed successive attempts by labor representatives to get checkoff legislation adopted. The Commons late in the last session, however, unanimously sped the government study the question.

Now, according to informants, government policy-makers have a favorable view of such legislation in the federal field.

The big factor that could hold up checkoff legislation at the session, officials say, could be a continuing impasse in the metal-mine strikes.

LINE OF ACTION

Government authorities are hesitant about moving under the present circumstances, because they do not want either to encourage the Ontario and Quebec governments or to appear to be suggesting a line of action for a strike settlement. Ontario and Quebec are strong pro-provinces that do not have general checkoff legislation. It applies in various areas in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. New Brunswick has it in its Coal Mines Act.

Under any federal legislation, the checkoff would apply only in the "voluntary revocable" type, under which an individual worker must authorize it and may withdraw it at any time.

Hugh Llewelyn, CCF member of the Commons for Winnipeg North, has introduced a private labor code, which is expected to be opened up for review this year at the start of its first five years of operation.

Flames Destroy Montreal Hotel

MONTREAL (CP) — Fire early today completely destroyed the Plaza Hotel in Chateauguay-Basin, about 15 miles west of here, causing an estimated $150,000 damage.

No one was reported injured.

The blaze swept quickly through the three-storey wooden structure threatened other buildings for a time.

Cause of the fire was not immediately known.

Australia and New Zealand Plan To Guard Queen from Excess Strain

CANBERRA (AP) — Australia and New Zealand gave assurances today that every precaution will be taken to guard the Queen from being subjected to any strain not advisedly affected by the strain of the forthcoming Royal tour of Australia and New Zealand.

These assurances were given following conferences in the British House of Commons that the arrangements for the tour might be too strenuous.

In Canberra, Eric Harrison, Australian minister in charge of tour arrangements, said that if, despite all precautions, the program shows any sign of unduly wearying the Queen, Australia will not hesitate to advise changes.

He said the Queen will be in Australia 57 days but will have no official engagements on seven full days and nights, two full days and five mornings and 18 evenings.

In Australia the Queen will be covering great distances, including 10,000 miles in the Australian Commonwealth Jet every possible step has been taken to make travelling comfortable as easy and speedy as possible.

In Auckland, N. Z., Prime Minister Sidney Holland said he was satisfied that the program would not unduly tax the strength of either the Queen or the Duke of Edinburgh.

He said he has appealed to local authorities to avoid adding any engagements to those already arranged.

3 Czech Youths Blast Way Out Of Red Police Net

Tell Hair-Raising Tale As Objects of Manhunt

BERLIN (AP) — Three Czech youths who shot their way out of Red police nets across the Soviet zone of Germany walked today for word that the West would grant them asylum. One is in serious condition from East-German police bullets.

The three told police here a hair-raising tale of four weeks as the objects of a vast manhunt, and of gun-blazing clashes with Red police. They left two companions behind—one believed captured and the other either dead or taken prisoner.

The youths, who left their Communist-veiled homeland Oct. 2, said they opened fire at a police patrol that stopped them at a railway station near Luckau, about 50 miles south of Berlin. Four policemen were killed and one shot fled.

The Communist press last week reported the shooting of the four policemen and announced rewards totalling 1,000 marks each (240) had been placed on the heads of the three youths, described as students, and on them. The Reds claimed the youths were part of a "Fascist underground."

SERIOUS CONDITION

The three who escaped are Christof Jacob, 22, and his brother Josef, 20, described as sons of a Czech professor, and Milan Nesta in 1942, and Milan Baumer, 20, who left Czechoslovakia at the Prague military academy.

Baumer was still in serious condition in the hospital after an operation for removal of bullets received in another scrape with the east zone police.

The three said they left Prague after Red authorities arbitrarily refused to let them study at the Czech capital's technical academy.

They identified the two companions left behind as Vaclav Svajta, a sawmill hand and former land owner, and Cyhrym Jiri, a former Czech army trooper.

They gave this account of their flight:

After crossing the Czech border in coal cars they walked to the East German town of Riesa, living on corn from the fields and raw potatoes they also ate a cigaret case and watch they had stolen.

BRUSH WITH DEATH

During the night hiking, a Communist patrol detected them and poured machine-gun bullets into the wood, Svajta was hit. He urged the others to flee and was left behind.

The three later boarded an empty freight car and rode to the town of Dessau, 20 miles west of Berlin. The car was disconnected there, and they bumped into police again.

Once again bullets whirred, and Baumer was hit in the stomach.

The three staggered to an deserted railway line leading to Berlin. The last leg of the journey they had another brush with death, creeping through the three-storey wooden structure threatened other buildings for a time.

Cause of the fire was not immediately known.

Recover Platinum, Police Guarding Accident Victim

HAMILTON (CP)—Police today guarded a man in hospital while they investigated the theft of $13,000 worth of platinum concentrates.

They said the metal was recovered and retrieved under heavy guard early today to its owner, the International Nickel Company at Port Colborne.

Investigators would not say why police were guarding the hospital patient, who they said was injured in an automobile accident near Smithville in this district.

The platinum concentrates, in two 240-pound kegs, were taken from an express truck at Port Colborne police said. They had been part of a seven-keg shipment.

The International Nickel Company operates a big refinery at Port Colborne. It extracts precious metals, in addition to nickel, from ore sent from the mines at Sudbury.

King's Ex-Wives Are in Trouble With Tax Man

CAIRO (Reuters) — Ex-king Farouk's two former wives are in trouble with the Egyptian tax collectors.

Safinaz Zulficar, better known as ex-queen Farida, is disputing a demand for payment of £6,720 Egyptian (about $13,000) for income tax above the allowance between 1939 and 1948 while she was queen.

The lawyer said earned-income tax rules do not apply to royal allowances, but the taxation court will deliver its judgment Dec. 22.

Ex-queen Nazli is disputing a claim totalling £212 Egyptian income tax on ex-queen Narriman's allowance up to 1948. Her mother, Mrs. Aasila Kamel, told the taxation court that Narriman had never received the allowances in question.

The case has been adjourned until Nov. 24.

Farouk's mother and sisters are also fighting claims by the taxation department.

Woman Suffers Scalp Lacerations In Auto Collision

Mrs. Hobert McCulloch, R.R. 7, Belleville, suffered a cut on the scalp and her head was bruised Saturday afternoon when the car she was driving rolled over after being in collision with another vehicle at the Massassaga turn on No. 14 highway two miles south of Belleville. She was taken to hospital at Belleville by Bush's Ambulance.

Mrs. McCulloch was southbound and was about to turn left onto the Massassaga road when a following car driven by Carl Mitchell, R.R. 9, Picton, turned to pass. The impact rolled the McCulloch car over and it came to rest on the east shoulder of the highway. A small child in the McCulloch car was not hurt. Property damage to the McCulloch car amounted to about $500 and to the Mitchell vehicle about $700. Provincial Constable John Thompson of Picton investigated.

98 New Members In Department Up to Oct. 31st

"Membership in the physical education department of the YMCA, as of October 31st has increased by 98 new members," was announced today by Mr. Pete Beach, chairman of the physical education committee. "Attendances in all classes have been proportionately increased to the point that the physical education committee will have to decide to start a waiting list in certain classes, if registrations continue at the present pace."

"Quality of instruction and program with personal follow-up of individual members, and not large numbers, has always been the policy of the YMCA in serving the community," continued Mr. Beach. Thirty-four boys' and girls' gym and swim classes; five adult classes and three ladies' classes are now meeting regularly at the Y and more will be increased to forty-five a week this month. The new basketball house leagues and a gym club will be added to on-going program of physical activities.

Three Suffer Facial Cuts In Accident

At least three persons suffered facial cuts as result of a head-on crash between two cars on a Marmora township road just before midnight last night. The crash occurred atop a knoll about two miles north of Marmora.

Drivers of both cars, Douglas Smith and Ralph Brooks, both of the Marmora district, suffered cuts but were allowed to go home after medical treatment was given. The other occupants of the cars were not injured. Extent of damage to damage resulted to both cars. Provincial Constable Art Morrow of Madoc and Chief Constable Gordon Caldwell of Marmora, investigated.

Four Victims Of Crash Buried In One Grave

The four victims of Saturday morning's highway crash which occurred east of Napanee were buried in a common grave in Riverview Cemetery at Napanee Tuesday afternoon. The funeral took place from the Parliament Funeral Home directly to the cemetery.

Killed in the highway crash were Mrs. Thomas Billings, her son Terrance Billings, Mrs. Wilmer Wagner, 9, and Geraldine Winger, 16, all of Yarker. Mrs. Billings and Jean Winger died at the scene of the crash while the two children died Monday.

The accident occurred on a foggy morning on the highway by a highway transport plowed into the auto, while it was being turned around on the highway.

BEAVER CAUSES FIRE

ORILLIA (CP) — A beaver is blamed for indirectly causing a fire that destroyed a dam and part of a cottage valued at more than $10,000. The beaver gnawed away through a poplar tree near the shore of Sparrow lake, 15 miles north of here, a year ago. The tree died and Tuesday strong winds blew it down. As it fell, it snapped a hydro line and set the woods on fire.

Marilyn Wilson Seriously Hurt, Struck by Truck

Struck by a passing truck as she stepped out into the highway in front of her home, Marilyn Wilson, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson, 243 N. Front Street, was seriously injured Tuesday evening.

The little girl suffered concussion, possible fractured jaw and lacerations on the forehead and inside her mouth. She was taken to hospital by Bush's ambulance where she was attended by Dr. R. S. Gibson.

The accident occurred opposite McCaw's canteen just outside the city limits as the little girl ran from the east side of the highway in front of a southbound half-ton truck driven by Leonard Macdonald of Point Anne. MacDonald said he swerved to the right and applied his brakes, but was unable to stop in time.

Provincial Constable A. McLeod investigated the accident.

Rabbi Kutziner Tells of Life In Russian Internment Camp

The wife of Rabbi Menachim Kutziner, spiritual leader of the Hebrew faith in this area, pleaded with her husband before he left home not to make his planned speech at the Kiwanis club on Friday for fear he be shot. The Rabbi attempted to reassure her with the words, "We are in a free country now and we have nothing to fear." Then Rabbi Kutziner went to the club and delivered his anti-communist address on schedule.

The Rabbi, a native of Warsaw, Poland, was interned in the Russian camps in 1940. He was released two years later to work manufacturing bricks for the Russian army. He escaped and later when it was discovered he could speak, spoke the Russian tongue. After returning to Poland at the close of the war, Rabbi Kutziner found things so changed, that he left with his wife and children and their package for travelling on foot at night and sleeping in the woods to the American occupied zone of Germany.

WIFE HAS MEMORIES

He has come to realize that he now lives in a free country. But, his wife, who has memories of communist atrocities still fresh in her mind, has not. As Rabbi Kutziner said, "It is one thing to say we are in a free country, with rights and privileges to do as we see fit as we wish; but it is still another for us to know and believe this to be true after so many years of living under a dictatorship."

"The Russians do not trust anyone," he continued, "not even each other. A father in Russia is afraid of his son and a son is afraid of his father. They are afraid of being informed upon."

Rabbi Kutziner said the average Russian is a good people, but he is afraid to talk. Russia has not an abundance of food and other products as are found here, but they believe and there are no old men in Russia. The people die young.

"They have a strange attitude about those whom they consider enemies of the people," the Rabbi stated. "Unlike the Germans, they do not hang and burn people they dislike. They simply place such persons in prison camps, give them little food and no medical care. That way they know the enemies will die before too long."

He added, to the speaker, the Russians also have another method to destroy men. When such unfortunate persons are sent to prison camps, they are told that they will be released for the rest of their lives, "Destroying hope and faith is a favorite trick of the Communists," the Rabbi stated, "but they didn't destroy my faith in God, which was the only thing that kept me alive while I was interned.

WORD OF WARNING

Rabbi Kutzinger had a word of warning for his listeners. "You do not realize," he said, "what you have when you have free-dom. It is so near, so close, that you take it for granted. You do not know what it is to lose your freedom and it is endangered."

"The children, the younger generation do not believe the way we of our generation do. They minimize religion and discard the classics in favor of comic books. Our children have no appreciation for this thing called freedom."

Rabbi Kutzinger was introduced by Sid Rose and the appreciation of the club was extended by Louis Marsakas.

North Traffic Reported At All-Time High

Traffic in North Hastings is reported at an all-time high for summer hunting season by motorists returning from the bush country.

A heavy influx of American tourists has swelled the normal number of hunters. So congested are the before and after hours that some have reported more than one party hunting over the same area.

They state that the initial party and gun are often trailed at a distance of a quarter to half a mile by a second group.

Bishop pointed out that in villages, the United Church leads followed by the Roman Catholic Church and the Anglican Church. On farms Bishop Evans said the percentage was much greater, United Church led by a great majority, the Roman Catholic was 41 places behind and the Anglicans a great deal farther behind either church.

"This is so," he declared, "because the United Church has paid spiritual attention to these large family groups in rural areas and consequently people on farms and in villages are almost solidly of the United Church."

The speaker reviewed some reasons he had received for ministerial training colleges. He noted that there are seven young men from this diocese in training for the ministry and he added that he had received good reports of each of them. Bishop Evans, said farther, that he did not derive any immediate benefit from these young men, but a great deal is expected of them in future years.

Bishop Evans Guest Speaker At Banquet

The Laymen's Association of the Prince Edward Deanery held its annual banquet at Christ Church Parish Hall on Tuesday evening. His Lordship, the Right Reverend K. C. Evans, M.A., D.D., D.C.L., Ph D., Bishop of Ontario, was guest speaker.

The following were elected to office for 1954. Bishop Evans was re-elected patron; F. W. Leeming, president; Arthur Bowman and Clifford Bracy, vice-presidents; D. J. Batchelor, honorary president and council members, Archie Lewis and Morris Button.

Bishop Evans in his address revealed a number of interesting facts to the gathering estimated at more than 160. He stressed the importance of attending to the larger families especially in farm areas. In a sociological survey the Bishop noted that there is only one other diocese as good as Ontario and that he said port French Canada.

MEMBERSHIP BREAKDOWN

In a breakdown of church memberships, he said that in cities the United Church and the Roman Catholic Church are at the top and fairly even and he said the Anglican church is only slightly behind these two. But Bishop pointed out that in villages, the United Church leads followed by the Roman Catholic Church and the Anglican Church which is last. On farms Bishop Evans said the percentage was much greater, United Church led by a great majority, the Roman Catholic was 41 places behind and the Anglicans a great deal farther behind either church.

"This is so," he declared, "because the United Church has paid spiritual attention to these large family groups in rural areas and consequently people on farms and in villages are almost solidly of the United Church."

The speaker reviewed some reasons he had received for ministerial training colleges. He noted that there are seven young men from this diocese in training for the ministry and he added that he had received good reports of each of them. Bishop Evans, said farther, that he did not derive any immediate benefit from these young men, but a great deal is expected of them in future years.

In concluding the Bishop stated,

Harry Smith, Lockmaster, Drowned Near Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — A 53-Year-old Campbellford man, Harry Smith, lockmaster at Healey Falls' Lock 13, north of here, lost his life on Tuesday afternoon when a car in which he was a passenger went off a highway and plunged into the cold waters of the Trent Canal at Lock 13, about two miles north of here. The accident occurred at about 2.15 p.m. when an old model car driven by Alvin Hollings, 32, of Campbellford, failed to negotiate a curve, skidded nearly 300 feet across a lawn and plunged into the canal, breaking a wall and into the canal.

The car continued on for another 20 feet along a sloping cement bank before turning over and sinking in about 15 feet of water.

Hollings managed to free himself from the car and swam to shore. He told police later that he did not see the car leave the road when he came ashore. He ran to a nearby house to summon help and Garfield Fraser, who is acting as lockmaster at Lock 13, arrived before the accident occurred, was at the scene within minutes.

DIVES INTO WATER

He dove into the water in an effort to rescue Smith but the water was so cold he could do nothing to help.

The Campbellford fire department arrived on the scene quick-ly and firemen, town workmen and Rydre employees, who were summoned to the spot began dragging operations.

The car was pulled from the canal by a tow truck but Smith's body was not found. The dragging operations continued and after about a half hour Provincial Constable Art Graham, O. Cowell and Thomas Grahame, all of Campbellford, managed to find the body.

The lockmasters applied artificial respiration for some time, but their efforts were in vain.

Coroner Dr. D. W. Burgess pronounced the man dead and the body was removed to Bennett's Undertaking Parlor where a post mortem was conducted on Wednesday morning to determine the cause of death.

WAS VETERAN

Smith was a veteran of World War I and had an artificial leg as a result of action during the war. He had worked for the Department of Transport, Trent Canal Division, for seven years serving as lockmaster at Lock 15, He is survived by his wife, Phoebe.

Hollings was admitted to the Campbellford Memorial Hospital suffering from shock and bruises.

He has been charged with non-maintainance by O.P.P. Constable George Rose, who investigated.

Marilyn Wilson Seriously Hurt, Struck by Truck

Struck by a passing truck as she stepped out into the highway in front of her home, Marilyn Wilson, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson, 243 N. Front Street, was seriously injured Tuesday evening.

The little girl suffered concussion, possible fractured jaw and lacerations on the forehead and inside her mouth. She was taken to hospital by Bush's ambulance where she was attended by Dr. R. S. Gibson.

The accident occurred opposite McCaw's canteen just outside the city limits as the little girl ran from the east side of the highway in front of a southbound half-ton truck driven by Leonard Macdonald of Point Anne. MacDonald said he swerved to the right and applied his brakes, but was unable to stop in time.

Provincial Constable A. McLeod investigated the accident.

Rhee Reaffirms His Decision On Red Issue

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee today reaffirmed his decision to attempt to drive the Communists out of North Korea if a post-armistice political conference fails to unify his country or is not held.

The South Korean leader was answering questions submitted to him by The Associated Press weeks ago.

In his written answers, he reaffirmed his position and outlined a two-part plan for holding elections in all Korea, once the country is unified.

Rhee said he doubts if any questions can be peacefully settled at a post-armistice peace conference.

WELCOME SUPPORT

"In the event the political conference fails, or is never held, the Republic of Korea must act to unify Korea and drive from our soil the Chinese who now are settling in the north with the idea of eventually seizing the whole country.

"In this action we would welcome the support of the United States and the United Nations, but we do not ask them to stay, against their wish, solely for the sake of Korea. If they do not feel now, as they did at the beginning of the war, that the fight for Korea is a fight for themselves, then we do not urge them to do any more fighting in Korea."

Rhee said that the time of the Korean armistice—July 27—South Korea agreed to postpone its determination to take action on its own if necessary—to drive all Chinese forces out of Korea.

The 90-day delay set by South Korea presumably is for a period of 90 days after Oct. 28, the day the armistice decision calls for convening the peace conference. This would make Rhee's deadline for success of the peace conference Jan. 26.

BELLIGERENTS ONLY

He said South Korea opposes any plan to include non-belligerents in the political conference. This is the Red demand that has stalled the current preliminary talks.

Rhee advanced a two-part election plan for a unified Korea, once the Communist Reds leave or are driven from North Korea.

Under his plan, his South Korean government would "advise" North Koreans to hold an election of their own choice under observation of the UN.

"If the free people of North Korea should elect somebody other than the president of the Republic of (South) Korea, I would be glad to step aside and let the entire nation (of South and North Korea) hold a nation-wide election."

However, he stipulated conditions for the second nationwide election.

"It must be done according to the constitution of the Republic of Korea, and no interference from an outside power or powers will be tolerated."

Town Council Orders Action Against Residents Believed Encroaching on Town Property

TRENTON (Special) — Council by a 4-2 vote last night authorized town solicitor H. R. Park to take immediate steps against three residents of McColl and Henry Street, believed to have encroached on town property contrary to by-laws governing width of streets.

The action resulted from a request by Senator W. A. Fraser for installation of a curb along the north boundary of his property between Dundas and Henry Street. The Senator asked for an installation to comply with the official street survey and complained that residents to the west and north of his premises had violated both civic rights.

Councillors R. Armstrong, C. W. Gunter, E. James and J. Macdonald voted for the resolution which reads as follows. "Resolved that the town solicitor Mr. H. R. Park, be instructed to write registered letters immediately to the property owners or other interested parties who have encroached on, or caused to be erected, any building, structure, wall or curb on the Dundas Street property on McColl and Henry Streets. These letters to instruct them to remove such structures from town property within ten days, as suggested by town solicitor, or such structures will be removed by the town and the cost of removal charged to parties concerned; clerk-treasurer to be notified by solicitor of the parties involved."

TWO VOTED AGAINST

Councillors D. MacPherson and R. H. Smithwin supported another course of action and voted against the solicitor's suggestion.

Councillor Smithwin felt that council was placing a large responsibility on the engineer asking him to decide the width of the road between the curbs. He said he understood that streets in Trenton were either 44 feet or 66 feet wide, recommending that the Planning Committee and Traffic Committee be called to submit proposals for a policy to be followed. It was his feeling that more curbs would be required if a curb policy was laid down.

He intimated that council would be asking for trouble if the Planning and Traffic Committees were ignored.

Councillor MacDonald contended that street policy should be dictated by town engineer, J. Reid Clark. "I don't agree with calling in the committees," he said. "While these committees are most important we have I don't think these men are capable by lake enough interest in problems we have. I think they should be disolved." Mayor Whitley explained that council was waiting for new maps to be drawn before acting on evidence. Solicitor Park suggested that if Gerald Weaver caused a retaining wall to be erected on town property on Henry and McColl Street he should be responsible for taking it down.

ALDERMAN'S COMMENTS

Councillor Smithwin wondered if council would proceed against violators throughout the town. Councillor Councillor MacDonald replied to deal with the three properties on McColl Street and if we get further complaints we will deal with them too."

On the recommendation of Fire Chief Harry Pillon, volunteer fireman, Cecil Ellis' application for permanent firemen was accepted. Mayor Whitley also read his application for re-instatement of ex-firemen Joe Hastings, who resigned from the department a year ago.

The Rathbun Bus Service asked for council's permission to resumption of town bus service suspended by the Rathbun Bus Service some months ago, was accepted. The service is expected to be started within a few days.

LACK OF PARKING

The Traffic Committee is giving special attention to a complaint by councillor MacDonald relative to lack of parking facilities in the Front Street-Dundas Street business section below King Street since the entrance to the dock area was sealed off by a curb and fence at the western approach to the town bridge. A new parking area may be developed behind the stores on the north side of Front Street.

A 30-acre parcel of land was offered to the Department of Highway at $350 an acre. This land lies north of the railroad tracks crossing Sidney Street and is sought for the four-lane highway project pushing west from Belleville.

Council called for the second vote in a year on a proposed $300,000 sewage disposal plant and system.

A. J. Neal who recently retired as town engineer was hired as inspector for the Lake Assembly project now underway here. His wages were set at $1.82 an hour.

100 Flee Dance Hall

SUDBURY (CP)—More than 100 persons fled from a dance at the suburban Sunbury Riding Club Tuesday night when fire broke out in a washroom and destroyed the building.

McKim township firemen had the blaze checked after a water supply ran out and a stiff north wind died down. There was no estimate of damage.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 2 1-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Tuesday's rate was 2 per cent. Pound sterling $2.75 3-8 against $2.75 1-2.

United Germany Says Soviet Note

GDU Would Bar

PARIS (AP) — The Soviet Union has told the Western powers in its latest note that creation of the proposed European Defense Community and a separate peace treaty between the Bonn government and the West would make re-establishment of a united Germany impossible.

French foreign ministry sources reported today that this Russian declaration its note, delivered in Moscow Tuesday, was followed by a statement that the EDC also would make any Big Four foreign ministers' conference on Germany, such as the Western powers are demanding, a pointless one.

It said the United States, Britain and France would come into such meeting having already concluded separate agreements with the Adenauer government "to drag Western Germany into the North Atlantic bloc and create an army of revenge in Western Germany," the sources reported.

REDS CAMPAIGNING

Communist parties in Western Europe already are campaigning vigorously to prevent ratification of the EDC treaties by parliaments of the six participating countries

Cheese Producers Told Hopes For Continued Sales High

STRATFORD (CP)—Cheese producers were told here Tuesday that they can have high hopes for continued sales to Britain but they were also told that until further notice they will have to pay two cents a pound marketing licence fee to make up the loss the marketing board sustained in selling cheese to Britain below the guaranteed 30-cent Canadian market price.

The marketing licence fee has been five cents a hundredweight.

Representatives of the Ontario Cheese Producers Association and the Ontario Marketing Board attended a conference with western Ontario producers here prior to Tuesday's regular cheese auctions session.

Producers received their first official word that the British government had paid 25½ cents a pound for the 10,000,000 pounds of cheese purchased in mid-October. That means an anticipated loss of about $450,000 to $500,000 which will have to be made up by establishing a "surplus" fund to help finance future export sales.

Everett Biggs, Ontario dairy commissioner, said the loss could be made up within a few months. He and other representatives of the Ontario Cheese Marketing Board and the Ontario Cheese Producers Association explained the new financial arrangement to the producers.

Exchange prices rose to 31⅝ cents compared to the previous session's bidding of only 30 cents. All cheese was sold except one small offering. Total boardings were 125 white, 1,193 colored and 264 specials.

FREIGHT SEED FIRE

DELHI (CP)—Fire fanned by strong winds Tuesday damaged the Canadian National Railways express office and freight shed here and an estimated 40 parcels of freight and express. Damage was estimated at $8,000.

—West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

But the Soviet note was one of the strongest statements that the Russians have made against the creation of a European army, according to the French sources.

Denies Stating U.S. Will Store A-Bombs in Spain

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two top administration officials have denied that the United States has plans to store atomic weapons in Spain—and Air Secretary Harold Talbott contends he didn't say the U. S. had any such plans.

Until Talbott comes home about mid-November to make his official version, the government apparently intends to ride along on the heels of:

1. The pronouncement of State Secretary Dulles, concurred in by Defense Secretary Wilson, that: "We have no plans for storing atomic weapons in Spain" and that if and when such plans materialize, "we shall not announce them publicly to the world and to any potential enemy." Wilson is Talbott's immediate superior.

2. Talbott's insistence Tuesday on arriving in Greece that he had said nothing about storing bombs in Spain "nor will I ever make statements about atomic weapons."

Talbott's statement came after various correspondents for American and British newspapers said there were no less an authority there than such plans, subject to approval by Spain.

WEATHERMAN SANTA'S ALLY

They are working double shifts at the North Pole these days.

Santa's bags are going to be bulging this year.

And all because the Weatherman has been doing his assembly job instead of hustling north to meet Santa Claus and rush him south to make the acquaintance of Belleville residents.

Which, of course, is the big story of the year as far as the Santa Fan Club members in the Quinte district are concerned. It should be no surprise to you, dear reader, to learn that the facts on which this report is based were gleaned by the Ontario Intelligencer in interviews with Santa's most diligent weatherman, the Belleville members who are already making extensive preparations for his annual visit by Mr. Claus.

Of course, obtaining the facts for this story was not so simple as it would have been a few decades ago. Although Santa's weather has been learned much from the days of a secretive nature, but journalism has learned, modern propaganda tricks. But journalism of the interpretative writing has ence, and the new science of interpretative writing has enabled us to extract the real truth from an assorted jumble of facts.

The facts are simple.

The weather has been grand — for everybody but the snow-hunting white-winter clothing fans, the Santa-hunters and merchants selling winter clothing. Now it is easy to grasp the fact that, while the Santa-hunters have been unhappy with this weather, the ducks have been joyful. That gives us the clue we need.

If Mr. and Mrs. Duck are happy, it is a sure sign that Belleville stores will be able to serve Santa Claus in winter clothing when he arrives, when you see the toy displays already being arranged?

Of course, there may be a hitch in Santa's plans for Belleville if he does not get some appropriate weather for Christmas if he does not get some appropriate co-operation. The fine weather, besides giving the Santa-hunting white-winter clothing handicaper, has also served of life to Junior's Christmas list. Many of the latter have of its distinction from the fact that lay-away time is here. If everybody pays too much attention to Christmas, and not enough to the calendar, there is going to be a rush which will make Belleville stores look busier than in a rush which will make Belleville stores look busier than in a combination of the intersections of Bridge and Front at the Pinnacle and Front at Station Street and Front at the Pinnacle and Front at Bridge, know how busy that would be!

That's what is really worrying most merchants, the possibility that a continuance of unprecedented fine weather will upset Santa's already crammed schedule. Oh, there are some clothing merchants who are not exactly happy about the whole thing, but they also admit that Santa's plans are his own affair, and that what happen to him is his problem and are thus suffering from a double dose of unsuitable sunshine, they are not too grouchy. Just say business has been "fair" and you have the key to their interpretative writing. Fair business, in a fair year, is not been too terrible—not like it was back in the 1930's, for instance, when no businessman could even attempt to say whether that was not as busy as a bee, in order to pay night in a mining town.

Incidentally, the following observation has no direct connection with Santa's plans but serves as an additional reminder that things are not always as they seem. We wish to report that there is one business man who is pleasantly anticipating the possibility of a poor Christmas season in the next door. Bad for business? Not competition for his own business, but for the whole district at all, says he. People nowadays like to compare values and prices. If the two biggest businesses of their kind in Belleville look busy all day, they are going to be prosperous. Ideally certain that, whenever any district resident wants the type of article they sell, he or she is going to the busy to that part of the business district. Then the two stores will divide up the trade—the division, of course, depending upon the quality of their merchandise, the value offered and the price.

This may give the younger generation an idea. If there was only somebody they could get to set up business in opposition to Santa.

Pleasant thought—for everybody but Santa's banker and you know whom we mean by that.

DUTY REMAINS

A London, England, weekly, "Time and Tide," prints a little shocker from Sweden to illustrate the evils of state medicine. Seems a Stockholm man was bitten by an adder. He gibbers and tells his wife to call the doctor. "Does he seem to be dying?" the doctor inquired. The wife answered in the negative.

The doctor, using telephone, "open up the wound with a clean razor blade, suck it, and ring me again in three hours. He'll either have got over it then or he won't."

Now, if this story is true, it may just happen that the doctor was a callous type of fellow who would have been a similar disposition and would have been keeping his own books, instead of having the state put him on its payroll. But men of this temperament are extremely rare in the medical profession, and we are inclined to the uncommon conclusion that in some manner the mere fact that he was a state employee drained every shred of personal responsibility out of this Swedish doctor. sense of duty and responsibility out of this Swedish doctor. Isn't going to help us. And if this was true the implications are of a much more serious nature than a mere hitch in a plan for state medicine. For if a Swedish doctor feels that employment by the state absolves him from all responsibility toward those in need, what ground is there for belief that any other Swedish civil servant would feel differently?

There are some high-minded citizens who appear to feel that the mere fact that a man is employed by the state should make it forceful to perform his duty. That should be the viewpoint we cannot accept. But at least there is no legitimate ground for the argument that employment by the state, rather than by a private firm, lessens one's duty to provide conscientious, efficient service for the remuneration one receives.

OLD SONGS — SUNG LIKE NEW

"This will bring back memories," declared the radio announcer, and when he gave the title of the song we were sure it would.

But when the song was sung it aided memory not a bit. True, the words were the same—but the manner of singing them was never known back in the thirties, when the song was first "popular."

Why is it, if old songs are to be revived, they cannot be presented as was first intended? What good reason is there for stirring yesterday's songs in today's dress, producing poor little orphan children whom neither the grey beards nor the downy-lipped can love?

Here is an interesting item about the town clock. Taken from our file copy of this date in 1873: "Considerable discussion took place at the meeting of the town council with regards to the town clock. Mr. Henderson in addressing the council stated that a contract had been entered into for a clock with dials eight feet and two inches in diameter at a cost of $700. Since that time the diameter of the dial had been increased to nine feet and two inches which would render it superior to every clock in Canada in size. He was informed that now it is necessary to have a clock of greater power to drive the hands of the large size clock. Such a clock can be obtained for a Buffalo firm at a cost of $1,000. in American money and he moved that the clock be ordered from the Buffalo firm. The motion Mr. Henderson said would be in sections instead of one entire circle and would cost less. Finally after much talk Mr. Henderson's motion to order the clock was passed. Present at the meeting were Mayor Thomas Holden and Messrs. Burden, Taylor, Hambly, Sutherland, Northcott, Vanduzer, Holden, Henderson and Foster."

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

COST OF MORAL VICTORY

Moral character is something that must be sought after. Nature bestows it upon no one. It is true that nature does sometimes bestow upon some people more of a disposition to do good than to do evil, but character is the result of a splendid ancestry, or even more often it is the result of a good home environment.

But nature gives us nothing that must be sought after toward moral character. We all get our start alike to the right kind of life; if we do not live it, that is our fault. The preparation toward the doing of good atrophies at last if it is not developed.

Real victory over our evil tendencies is something never attained without the discipline of struggle. Read the Journal of John Wesley, who was one of the great saints of all time, and who will be amazed to find in the life of that most godly of men more evidence of continual struggle against the very weaknesses which assail all of us every day. Ignatius Loyola and St. Francis of Assisi both turned from worldly things to find high moral perfection in Christian faith and service.

Jesus Christ makes good his promise to overcome the world with a bullion pounds, or nearly two and a half times the consumption during the first eight months!

Indian Form Of Insurance

(Owen Sound Sun-Times)

What is wrong with the potlatch? Except that it doesn't fit in well with modern times, it does have a place in the lives of Indian tribes of the West Coast, one that corresponds roughly to insurance in the white man's world.

At indefinite times a certain clan would hold one of these "give-away" feasts to which all the relatives would be invited. After suitable entertainment and a substantial banquet, the chief would mount a platform and give the visitors lavish gifts, handed out with as much flourish as possible.

It was bad form to refuse to accept any of these presents. It was even worse not to hold another potlatch in a year or two and give back gifts of greater value than had been received. This went on and on. Most of the gifts were useful, and that they had, periodically.

But the potlatch was only held in times of prosperity. If a man died suddenly, leaving a young family, he might have the proceeds of several potlatches contributed to him. Nothing could be obscure, but apparently in such a case return gifts would not be made. The boys grew up.

A crude form of social welfare. Such a system worked keeping up with the Joneses was bound to get out of hand, and it did. Finally the potlatch was outlawed in many white men introduced goods not native to the sea and forest, for which they had money to pay for. An enthusiastic potlatch giver might go in debt for the rest of his days.

So the government has banned the potlatch feasts, although they still go in a minor key. Symbolic of the Indians' gregariousness toward each other. Call them insurance or what you will, they still have a place in the lives of the Indian, as on the coast.

To illustrate this, Chief Mungo Martin, one of the last men alive able to carve authentic totem ebemens, is being put on a salary to building an elaborate house in Victoria's Thunderbird Park, including Indian friends from near and far, and a few white friends here. They will arrive in full dress according to the legend, although not instead of high-powered dugouts. It will be a potlatch, in the Indian sense, this time apparently with official blessing. Traffic is a fine thing when it is based on practical good sense, as the people concerned saw it.

Hard to Aim Sonic 'Bangs'

(Kentville Circuit)

Dr. O. M. Solandt, chairman of Canada's Defence Research Board, says that supersonic flight will soon be commonplace, as the jet engine is perfected. The end of development is to be expected, when it is recalled that jets, in some eight years, already have doubled their power four or five times.

The effect on the communities surrounding jet bases, however, is growing at the same pace. The noise of jets is already proving a major problem and supersonic jets will add something even more dis-turbing than the noise.

When the U.S. Air Force demonstrated its new supersonic fighter-bomber, the day in California, the sonic "bangs" produced by the craft shattered windows in a nearby airport administration building, including panes of plate glass. It is reported that he had miscalculated where the sound waves would hit: he had expected them to hit at the end of the runway, a safe distance from the administration building. At 730 miles an hour, however, it is not always easy to tell the miscalculation of a mile.

Canadian Leader Neville Duke, who recently held the air speed record for British, piloting a Canadian-built Canadair jet in the Times annual contest, complains that he has miscalculated where the sound waves would hit: he expected them to hit at the end of the runway, a safe distance from the administration building. Canadians Eat Less Beef

(Edmonton Journal)

Exports of Canadian cattle are very much down this year — only 39,000 head left the country during the first eight months, for instance — but domestic consumption of beef has increased tremendously. During the first eight months, the total was nearly 700,000,000 pounds greater than the corresponding period of 1952, and 107,000,000 pounds above the 1951 figure.

It would appear, too, that there is much room for further expansion in the domestic market. Our per-capita consumption of beef in 1952 was only 44.8 pounds, far below the corresponding figure of 69.3 in 1943, according to the Council of Canadian Beef Producers' western section. To equal that 1943 rate this year, the country would have to consume about two

By GREGORY CLARK

In traffic control, particularly as regards parking in prohibited areas, double parking by delivery trucks or many others, I am afraid that variety of comfortable little conveniences by which a great deal of the business of the city is done is in danger of disappearing. The answer to the problem is to be found in the provision of adequate parking space, or even better, more schedules. The summoner would be supplied with printed on bright red paper and printed on bright red paper and should be unfailingly polite. He should not be a young politician or senior police officer.

What is required, positively without exception, the appearance of the officer of the court. The red summonses should be issued serially, so that some kind-hearted and incorruptible official could check the stubs regularly to make certain that every summons was dealt with by a magistrate in court.

What is the reason for all this suggested rigidity? Simply that the human element is, in our traffic problem, the largest item of all. In all enterprises, in business, in industry, in operating any machine or any system, the human element is the element that fails, as a rule. In dealing with traffic, policemen are just as human as the rest of mankind, and anybody else. After a few weeks or months on a beat, a policeman knows all, or make some acquaintances. Even if he doesn't, he would be hardly human if he did not grow a little calloused, or if he were not playing on people all the time for what, to him, might appear to be trifling or even human offences.

Above the constabulary level are the senior police officers, the court officials, the magistrates, the politicos of the municipality. We're all human, eh? But a flying squad of police, ranging all over the city and with special powers, could make traffic conveniences so much easier for us all. Out a few officers, we just mail them in, and forget about it.

Personal Health Field

By DR. WM. BRADY.

DON'T TELL ME YOUR RHEUMATISE IS ARTHRITIS

Describing the nutritional condition of the forest Indians of northern Canada, the late great Weston A. Price, F.A.S.D., observed that not, on p. 77 of Nutrition and Physical Degeneration, author of the outstanding scientific works of our time.

"We never saw or even heard of a case" (of chronic rheumatic, not arthritic) "in the isolated groups. However, at the point of contact with the foods of modern civilization many cases were found, including ten bed-ridden cripples in a series of about 24 Indian homes."

You pour folks running to trick specialists who try the latest "wonder drugs" on you, as one after discovery follows another, have been hypnotized by the persuasive machinery of the kill-NICK into believing that (a) arthritis is some kind of specific disease and (b) you have this or that particular type which is different from and above the common herd of "weatherworn, decrepit" sufferers. Now, that is pure nonsense.

Even if we follow the definition of Dr. Bradyarthritis (a) is the chapter on "Chronic Rheumatism" in his standard work, the fact that it is not correct to refer to the victims of "chronic rheumatism" under the disability is recent or of long standing, that is, the general universal wear, tear, weather, climate, heat treatment, manipulation or physical therapy has proved worth the price as a remedy for rheumatism.

Holden, please note that I didn't include diet in the foregoing list of "rheumatism" treatments. But I believe the character of the every day diet followed by a group, tribe, nation or by the individual is the answer to the rheumatism (or call it chronic arthritis if you are unleachable) problem.

I do not mean to say that a particular diet will cure chronic rheumatic. I do believe that when some people don't get well, they do-do but poorly educated class in America, for instance, explains the prevalence of chronic rheumatism (or call it chronic arthritis if you prefer), and what other peoples ate, eat the forest Indians of northern Canada and the inhabitants of Tristan da Cunha, for instance, explains their freedom from such physical degeneration.

Oh, oh, I had intended to hold back the idea of degeneration and break it gently in later talks, but now that it has slipped in here you may as well have it unvarnished.

After a professional lifetime study of the subject I have arrived at the conviction that chronic rheumatism is not a specific disease nor a class or group of diseases (such as "rheumatoid" arthritis, atrophic arthritis, hypertrophic" arthritis, etc.), but simply physical degeneration.

Now, don't get mad and toss this aside, Knucklehead, at least until I finish. Remember, Dr. Webster, who has kindly consented to explain what I mean by "physical degeneration":

"Deterioration of a tissue or an organ in which vitality is diminished; a substitution of inferior for the normal structure, either by chemical change or by defective development (degeneration) or the deposit of abnormal matter in the tissues (infiltration)." That definition, I have had bad. But Dr. T. L. Stedman (Stedman's Medical Dictionary), published about the same time as the World War I, is a good deal better, I think:

"A retrogressive pathological change in cells or tissues in consequence of which the functioning powers is lost and the living substance is sometimes converted into an inert mass.

Prairie Editor Really Tactful

(Ottawa Journal)

A delightful example of two splendid qualities in journalism, tact, is presented by the Lethbridge Herald.

The Herald, ordinarily concerned with practical problems such as the price of what the market is for hogs and the miscellaneous affairs of the Social Credit government at Edmonton, undertakes to discuss so delicate a subject as the fashionable length of women's skirts. That requires courage. But note the tactful manner:

"We think the ladies are simply lovely as they are. We also think they look well with long hair or hemlines. But, as we say, they are lovely with low hemlines. What's considered fashionable by them is considered fashionable by us.

Certainly no fair reader is going to stop taking the Herald because of that editorial opinion! Oldtimers will remember the Oldtimers' Eye-Opener, famous and ribald weekly of the Prairies when they were wilder and woolier, will find it amusing to imagine what the paper would have discussed hemlines.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TO BE NEEDED

We were not put into this world as mere automatons, often go to the aid of others simply because they are just to stand around and hoping for a moment's pleasure and the kind of success that is wholly selfish. We could not hope for happiness under such a procedure anyway. Somebody must need us, and we must feel that we are needed.

Many a friend, many a worker, and many a loved one has been alienated from our life because we decided that he or she did not need a person. He is usually a solid one, reliable, and with a good supply of common sense. He is always "at home" in an emergency. Good-natured and understanding.

But we always called upon when we are most needed in a situation. Often people are invited to a job, or some important position, because their life experience fits them to be the needed human product. We in America in need of what we have, and we had him, the same as England needed Winston Churchill during its darkest days. Let's want to be needed!

Birthday Party

Terry Feakes, one-year-old polio patient in a Winnipeg hospital, has spent almost half of his life in an iron lung but has a good time at his first birthday party. Nurses decorated the lung with balloons and a tiny rabbit. A birthday cake with one candle also was brought along. Totally paralyzed, Terry had to be fed his birthday cake with a spoon. His mother couldn't attend since she also is ill in another hospital. — (CP Photo.)

Storm of Protests Aroused By Long Communist Talks With Anti-Red Chinese PoW

By JOHN RANDOLPH

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The Communists dragged out interviews with balky Chinese prisoners today, netting a storm of protests from United Nations observers, charges of stalling and shouts, screams and curses from violent anti-Communist PoWs.

Three of 205 prisoners interviewed asked for repatriation, but the neutral nations repatriation commission ruled that one was mentally incompetent. He was sent to hospital.

The Communists were scheduled to interview 400 prisoners during the day, but some interviews dragged on for more than four hours and at the 9 p.m. deadline almost 300 were still waiting.

There were charges that the Communists were deliberately stalling, perhaps in an attempt to wreck the explanation program which has won them only about three per cent of the prisoners interviewed to date.

ANGRY OBSERVERS

Angry UN observers filed protest after protest, because Indian chairmen were reluctant to cut interviews short even when prisoners obviously were anti-Communist.

One angry American observer stalled out of an interview in protest after it had run three hours. The Swiss member protested the length of the session.

Both protests were overruled by the Indian chairman.

In at least two other cases Chinese persuaders, working in relays, hammered at prisoners for 2½ hours.

"It's an awful thing to sit there helpless and watch mental torture like that," said Lt.-Col. Vaughn F. Meiserling, American UN observer. "It's like seeing a man killed before your eyes without doing anything about it."

"COLD PROPAGANDA"

Meanwhile, in the preliminary peace talks, the Communists bluntly told American envoy Arthur Dean that they feel he has failed to "advance anything useful" in efforts to get the peace conference under way.

Dean called the Red statement "the same old propaganda potboiler."

The diplomats got nowhere in a one-hour, 25-minute meeting. They will meet for the 19th time Thursday.

Dean told reporters he felt the time, place and composition of the peace parley could be handed out to sub-committees for simultaneous discussions. But he has not given up hope for this in the Communist.

Despite the continued deadlock, Dean said he noted "a more reasonable tone" in today's Communist statements, and said he still is hopeful the two sides can arrange the already-delayed conference.

UN Secretary Seeks Greater Control of Staff

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (Reuters) — Dag Hammarskjold, secretary-general of the United Nations, has submitted proposals which would widen his powers for dismissing members of the UN secretariat.

In a report Tuesday on personnel policy, he proposed amendments to the staff regulations to put his plans into effect. The report will be considered by the General Assembly.

Hammarskjold proposed that he be able to fire a permanent staff member if his conduct did not meet "the high standards of integrity" required by the UN charter; or if such action would be in the interest of the good administration of the organization and in accordance with the standards of the charter.

NEW PROVISION

Under Hammarskjold's proposals, staff members would be required to avoid any action or public pronouncements which might adversely reflect on their status as international civil servants, "or on the integrity, independence and impartiality, which are required by that status."

He further proposed a new provision to staff regulations as follows: "Unless otherwise authorized in accordance with staff rules issued by the secretary-general, staff members shall not engage in any political activities outside the scope of their official duties, other than voting."

Hammarskjold finally proposed that where he considers it justified he might pay to a staff member dismissed under the new widened regulations an indemnity twice that which would otherwise be payable under the staff regulations.

Trucker Given One Year In Reformatory

CORNWALL (CP) — Max Roodman, 40-year-old trucker who passed his driver's test four months ago, was sentenced Tuesday to one year in reformatory and had his licence cancelled for life because of a bus-truck crash that killed 20 persons.

Roodman, from Toronto and Ottawa, showed no emotion when Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow passed sentence. He was convicted Monday on a charge of manslaughter laid after the worst highway disaster in Canada's history.

A Colonial Coach Lines bus hit Roodman's stalled and unlighted truck in pea-green darkness July 31 and plunged into the Williamsburg canal about 34 miles west of here, Twenty of the 37 passengers died.

Roodman's conviction came 10 days after bus driver Lorne Chesebrough of Kingston was acquitted on a charge of dangerous driving. Chesebrough was originally charged with manslaughter but it was reduced.

CONSIDER MENTALITY

In passing sentence, Mr. Justice Barlow said:

"This is a case where justice should be tempered with mercy. I have heard the evidence as to your mentality and its impact be considered. I am not criticizing you in this way, but it may be, as your counsel suggests, that some test of your driver's mentality should be made at the time a driver's licence is granted."

Roodman's brother, Dr. Harry Roodman, an Ottawa dentist, said Max had the mentality of a 12-year-old boy and had been mentally retarded since an illness in childhood.

Roodman was charged specifically by the Ontario Ordinary Seaman John Fanya of Hamilton and Churchill, Man.

Greenlease Boy's Kidnappers Enter Pleas of Guilty

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Federal Judge Albert Reeves, who will hear the Greenlease kidnappers trial, was instrumental more than half a century ago in pushing through a Missouri state law that provides the death penalty for abductors.

The trial of 34-year-old Carl Austin Hall and his 41-year-old woman friend, Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, has been set for Nov. 30. Both pleaded guilty at their arraignment Tuesday.

They earlier had confessed the kidnapping and slaying of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease, son of the wealthy automobile dealer, Robert C. Greenlease.

INSPIRED BY CUDAHY CASE

As a young state representative back in 1901, Reeves was co-sponsor of legislation providing the death penalty for kidnappers in Missouri. The bill came shortly after the abduction of 16-year-old Edward A. Cudahy Jr., son of an Omaha, Neb., packing company executive. Cudahy, held two days, was released after payment of a ransom of $25,000 in gold.

This law, however, applies only to state charges. The jury trial before the 79-year-old Judge Reeves will be held under the federal kidnapping law.

Only a jury can recommend the maximum penalty of death under the federal statute. If the jury rejects the death penalty, Judge Reeves will determine the prison sentences to be given.

SCOTT—LOVELACE

Tall standards of yellow and white chrysanthemums interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely setting on Saturday, October 17, at 2:30 p.m. in Holloway Street United Church, when Reverend J. N. Lovelace, assisted by Reverend S. E. Lamzan, pastor of the church, united in marriage Olive Marie Lovelace, of Belleville, daughter of the Reverend and Mrs. J. Lovelace, and Mrs. J. Lovelace, of Roseneath, Ontario, to Raymond Maxwell Scott, of Frankford, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Scott.

Mr. Gilford Templer, church organist, rendered the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Gerald Cherry, who sang before the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "Because."

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Lloyd Bagshaw, of Sunderland, Ontario, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white silk velvet fashioned with fitted bodice pointed at the back, and long sleeves. Queen Anne collar; and full-length tight-fitting sleeves pointed at the wrist. The floor-length full skirt of bonfis effect ended in a chapel train. Her fingertip tulle illusion veil bordered with silk braid, was held by a matching juliet cap accented by seed pearls and white feather tufts. She carried a bouquet of white feathered mums and yellow roses.

Miss Dorothy Lovelace, of Toronto, sister of the bride, as maid of honour, was gowned in autumn shade color silk velvet fashioned with full skirt and fitted halter top bodice. Her matching bolero having a collar trimmed with seed pearls. She wore matching mitts. Miss Bernice Ashbury, of Toronto, as bridesmaid, was gowned in the forest green silk velvet made on similar lines to that of the maid of honour. She carried bouquets of yellow and bronze mums with background of autumn leaves.

Mr. Bruce Parcels of Norwood, Ontario, cousin of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. Harold Frulick, of Napanee, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Bob Acker, of Oshawa, cousin of the bridegroom, acted as ushers.

The reception for seventy guests was held in the church parlors, which were appropriately decorated in fall and yellow chrysanthemums for the occasion. The bride's table was daintily arranged with yellow and centred by a three-tiered wedding cake surrounded by white tulle, bridal bouquets and silver candelabra with tall white tapers.

The bride's mother received, gowned in taupe sheer with brown accessories, and pink rose corsage. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy blue sheer with white and navy accessories and corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to the Adirondacks, New York City, Buffalo and Niagara Falls, the bridegroom an English grey flannel suit with matching stole with medium brown accessories and yellow rose corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Scott will reside in Belleville upon their return.

Out-of-town guests were present from Kemptville, Lindsay, Frankford, Toronto, Springbrook, Napanee, Perth, Trenton, Norwood and Sunderland.

FENN—LIDSTER

'Blithe Spirit' Provides Enjoyable Entertainment

By LINTON D. READ

The second performance last night by the members of the Belleville Theatre Guild leads one to wonder what they're tearing a Shelley gem from context, saying "Hail to Thee Blithe Spirit" . . . Once more the untiring efforts of a skilled director and an enthusiastic cast talented to a degree have brought to a good-sized first-night audience an evening of genuine entertainment spiced with typical "Coward-ian" brightness and humour. Despite the unusual length of Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" it is a delightful and consistently varied emotional impact of three acts that kept the audience interested and constantly amused.

Generally speaking, the director Syd Dean, did a masterly job with his actors. Despite relatively late changes in cast the players showed keen sympathy for their roles and managed their business with enviable smoothness and skill. Occasionally, when Elvira was on stage, the other members of the cast too markedly swallied her speeches before continuing their own conversation and business, but it is no easy task to ignore the obvious and on the whole that difficulty was well-handled.

EXCITEMENT, SUSPENSE

The play itself—a story of the bewilderment and embarrassment of Charles Condomine, a novelist, when his first wife is accidentally summoned from the astral realm of the dead to impishly make herself at home with him and his second wife—offers great possibilities for excitement and suspense well laced together with English humour at its best. No fair member of last night's audience could fail to be satisfied that Coward himself would have little to complain of general interpretation and maintenance of mood.

To this reviewer, Mrs. Vera Thompson, as the second wife, Ruth, turned in the most consistently excellent performance of the evening. Blessed with a subtle and attractive charm and vivacity she played the role of the sophisticated, perplexed, and desperate wife with a consummately skilful combination of stage business, gesture, and voice control that was a pleasure to observe. Her quarrel scene with Charles was a little masterpiece, and except for a tendency to speak a bit quickly at undecessary times, her overall performance was flawless.

Court Miller as Charles, the persecuted hero of the tiny comedy, improved his acting through the first few scenes until he seemed with professional polish as a thoroughly convincing urbane, sophisticated novelist beset by two wives from two worlds. His was a demanding role, for be fireplace and mantel banked with yellow and ivory colored chrysanthemums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attractively attired in a brown velvet suit with corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Graham Tuer of North Battleford, Sask., attended the bride, and Mr. Graham Tuer, attended the bridegroom.

The reception was held at the bride's home. The bride's table was centred with ivory church anthemums and ivory tapers, and presided over by Mrs. A. F. Mac Donald. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. W. A. MacNeill and those who served included: the Misses Irene Fowler, Sheila Pratt, Kay Turewski and Mrs. V. Lomont.

For travelling by motor to Belleville to visit the bride-groom's parents, and later to Montreal, the bride chose her wedding suit with taupe hat and coat and brown accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Fenn will reside in Ottawa.

FILLED DIFFICULT ROLE

In order of their appearance Elvira, the first wife reminded in spirit form from "beyond," was the last member of the cast. With charmingly light and ethereal qualities Nina Bennett filled this difficult role in thoroughly delightful manner. Despite a somewhat shockingly ghoulish first appearance because of her grey make-up, she wafted through her entrance scene with such skill that she established herself clearly with the audience in a matter of minutes. Although her voice has a peculiar nasal quality, she made a most satisfying Impish Elvira. Perhaps the director might do well to restrain her too petulant and often overly violent delivery which seems somewhat out of keeping with an educated upper middle-class young lady who is now a materialized member of the spirit world.

The stage decor was strikingly bright and lovely. It is such a pleasure to see a modern setting so tastefully and carefully arranged. This, coupled with the appropriately stylish costuming added much to the gay, festive mood that prevailed throughout the evening.

FINE LIGHTING EFFECTS

Except for the marvellously effective lighting effects used in the seance scenes to make the darkness visible, the theatre itself did not need to show their skill until the close of the play, then it was that weird and masterful things happened. More than one member of the audience began to feel his seat shake and felt himself in imminent danger of being struck by a falling chandelier. It was an inspiring example of what ingenuity and careful preparation can do.

To Mr. Rose once again, a bouquet for talented direction. The famous Coward scene closings were dramatically handled, the entire cast was audible throughout the auditorium and the grouping was pleasing and, for the most part, natural. Perhaps one might be made: first, that more time rehearsals be held to avoid long-drawn pauses, that actors and stage hands be instructed to wait for the final curtain call undisturbing the curtain during transmission; third, that the stenograph crew check their volume so that the opening commentary may not be missed as it was last night and so that the ent'ncie music may be heard.

"Hail to thee, 'Blithe Spirit'" and those who brought you to life for you have given your audience many minutes of happy enjoyment because those who presented you presented you well.

The play will be presented again this evening.

Following is a list of those all-important backstage people whose contribution to a play's success cannot be exaggerated or overly-applauded.

STORES LIMITED

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

KIDS—NEXT TOUR FAVORITE AUTHOR

Kids, I've just been talking to one of your favorite people—Rosamond Du Jardin, who writes those teen-age books you all like so much. Probably by this time most of you have read her latest story, "Fourteen Proposals," which takes the twins, Penny and Pam, you first met in "Double Date," on into college.

"The way you teen-agers like Mrs. Du Jardin's stories so much, of course, is, as one of you put it, "because they sound just like the way things really are with teen-agers."

Well, I spent an hour talking to Mrs. Du Jardin, and I asked her why it was she was able to tell them, in print, so exactly, the doings and thoughts of teen-age boys and girls, and I found there were two reasons. One, she said, was because she remembered so well what she did, and how she felt, when she was in her own teens, and second, because she has gone through the teens with a daughter, and a son each of these four married—and is doing so once again with one more daughter.

Naturally, I thought Mrs. Du Jardin had a person to ask when I didn't know the answers to some of the big questions that you so often write to ask me, so we took them up, one by one.

For example, I asked her about the business of dating, telling her that lots of your mothers won't let you go out with boys at 14, 15, or sometimes even 16. Is she right in all wrong. Of course she thinks, too, that you young folks should be reasonable about the number of times you ask to go out on dates in a week, and in the hours you stay out. But she agrees with you that it's only fair you should be allowed a right amount of "doing what the other girls do."

ONE DATE PER WEEK

She told me that her own 14-year-old is allowed one date a week on a school night, but that she must be home by half past 9:30 on Friday and Saturday nights, when there is some special event scheduled, she can stay out until midnight. She takes it for granted that her daughter's secret will bring her home at the time she's supposed to be there, and she never worries about what her daughter may be doing, because she knows it would never be anything she would not approve. Any mother who has brought her daughters up in the right way, she feels, will have the same perfect confidence in them, and so be quite willing for them to go out on dates.

I asked Mrs. Du Jardin what she thought of "going steady," and she said that, while this arrangement was perfectly understandable, since it gave a girl a sense of security in knowing that she would always have a boy to take her out, she still felt it would be a little wiser if girls and boys wouldn't pair off too exclusively. If they would go out with more than one girl or boy, and mingle in groups with each other, instead of a couple staying too much by themselves, she felt they would more quickly learn to size people up so that they could pick friends—and, when the right time came, the one and only friend—with good judgment.

We talked about the problem so many teen-agers have of shyness, and how they can become popular, and we agreed that shyness is gradually overcome as boys and girls take more and more interest in things outside themselves, that popularity is achieved by being a good sport, and also by being one's own natural self instead of trying to be like anyone else. Pretty much everything, Mrs. Du Jardin thinks, can be summed up in the word "friendliness," for the boy or girl who is always friendly toward everyone automatically wins friends.

It goes without saying that Mrs. Du Jardin is a friendly person herself, and that, as you read her books, you feel her friendliness and understanding all through what she writes. That's why you like her so much. She gets lots of letters from teen-agers and is delighted to know that they feel she understands their problems. Incidentally, I met her in some high schools, Rosamond Du Jardin fan clubs have been formed. If any of you are members of any such clubs, I'd like to hear about them. Won't you write and let me know?

A Dinner for Guests By a Clever Cook

By Mary Moore

French Onion Soup with Cheese Rolls
Roast Rolled Barbecued Beef
Broccoli with Mock Hollandaise
Garlic Rolls
Tossed November Salad
Ginger Cream Pumpkin Pie
Cafe-Noir

I am not pretending that this meal takes no time or, that when your guests have arrived and you are chatting with them in the living-room it will, under its own power, appear on your dining-room table.

What I am claiming is that it is a meal any cook could be proud of, but she must be a good manager and organizer. The last thing she does before that door bell rings is make the cheese rolls and keep them hot in the warming oven with the door open.

FRENCH ONION SOUP

Slice 3 medium sized or 2 large mild Spanish onions in thin slices. Pour boiling water over them, let them stand 5 minutes, then drain thoroughly. Melt 2 tablespoons butter gently in frying pan and sauté for 3 or 4 minutes. Add 4 cups beef stock (or consomme or bouillon cubes made as directed on tin) or 3 bouillon cubes and 4 cups boiling water. Season if you want to with more salt and pepper. Serve piping hot, and pass the hot Cheese Balls to be dropped into the soup by your guests. (Another and better known method is to toast crustless round slices of bread. Float one on each bowl of soup and sprinkle with old grated cheese, preferably Parmesan.)

CHEESE BALLS

Mix together thoroughly 1-4 cup softened butter, 1-2 cup grated cheddar cheese, 1-2 cup dry fine breadcrumbs and the beaten yolk of 1 egg. Butter your patties and form these into little 3-4-inch balls, roll in breadcrumbs and fry in deep fat at 375 deg. Fahr.

BARBECUED BEEF ROAST

Unroll a rolled roast and spread the inside of the roll with Barbecue Sauce with Onions: Mix together 1-2 cup catsup, 1 1-2 teaspoons tabasco sauce, 1-4 teaspoon chili powder, 1 cup water, 1-2 teaspoon mustard, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1 tablespoon grated onion. Any that is leftover use for basting roast. Roast at 325 deg. Fahr. A medium-done roast weighing 5 lbs. requires 2 or 2 1-4 hours.

Quick cook broccoli with lid on and enough water to half cover, 12 to 15 minutes is plenty of time. Serve with

MOCK HOLLANDAISE

These amounts make 1 3-4 cups sauce. Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, stir in 2 tablespoons flour, and 1-2 teaspoon salt then 1 1-2 cups hot milk, until thick. Hold this hot in double boiler until serving time. Then add gradually 2 tablespoons melted butter, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, and remove from heat. Pour over 2 beaten egg yolks and pour over hot broccoli in serving dish and serve at once.

GARLIC ROLLS

Buy hard rolls. Slit them at the side and with pastry brush spread inside with melted butter to which you have added, 1 cut clove of garlic. Put rolls together again, return them to the bag, and heat through in oven.

TOSSED NOVEMBER SALAD

One cup very tiny raw cauliflower flowerets, 1 cup torn inner endive leaves, 1-2 cup each watercress chopped and parsley chopped, slivers of sweet red pepper, 1-2 cup shavings from unpeeled cucumber. Toss with French or Roquefort cheese dressing.

GINGER CREAM PUMPKIN PIE

Make your favorite pumpkin pie. (If you do not have a recipe that satisfies you write to me and enclose stamped envelope.) Just before serving top with whipped cream to which you have added a little powdered ginger. Make a depression in the centre of the cream and add a spoonful of honey.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

GATHERING OF RELATIVES AND FRIENDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My brother and I have always been very close companions, and since there is only a one-year difference in our ages, we have many mutual friends. Now he is going to join a religious order and will soon be leaving home. I wanted to give him a farewell party, inviting relatives and friends, but two of my friends have told me that this is not appropriate in this circumstance. —Marie.

It is entirely proper and appropriate to have a simple and dignified gathering of relatives and friends to say Godspeed to your brother joining the religious order. I am sure your brother will be happy at your plan, and of course your relatives and friends will welcome this occasion to see your brother.

WIFE CAN ACCEPT HUSBAND WHEN REGRET

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have just received a formal invitation to the church wedding and later formal reception of the daughter of very dear friends of ours. I can accept the function, but my husband cannot, as he is to be on a business trip to the West Coast. How do I write the reply to this invitation, under these circumstances?—Doris A.

This is a correct form:

Mrs. Thomas Lane accepts with pleasure the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Hall for Tuesday, the first of December.

Mr. Thomas Lane regrets that he is unable to accept (or: regrets that his absence from Chicago prevents his accepting)

RECEIVING GUESTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm following the suggestion you gave me in your answer to my question concerning entertaining for our son's fiancee—we are giving a tea (really a combination tea and cocktail party) for her on a Sunday afternoon in the middle of December. Does the fiancee stand next to me when we are greeting the guests? Does our son stand on the other side? Also is it necessary for my husband to stand with us, or may he do as he wishes, that is, mingle with the guests? He thinks that in this way he can act more as host, but I'm not sure he shouldn't stand with us.—Mother.

You, as hostess, stand first to greet the guests, next to you is your son's fiancee, who, as guest of honor, receives with you. And your son stands on the other side of her. I think your husband's point of view is right, very practical . . . that he, as host, mingle with the guests, making necessary introductions, seeing that everyone is comfortable and happy, seeing that everyone is directed to the room in which the refreshments are being served, and so forth.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

A BEAUTY ROUTINE FOR CAREER GIRLS

Canada's feminine wage earners have certainly earned the beauty laurels bestowed upon them by the rest of the world. They're smart as smart can be in appearance. And they have little time to spend at beauty parlors, most of them attending to their grooming needs themselves. To do this they have to plan their schedules carefully. And one often wonders how some of them manage at all—those who must also do a certain amount of housework.

Home girls can trail around in any kind of clothes during the day. They even go to market in slacks and blouses that are nothing to brag about. But the girl who brings home the bacon and eggs is constantly "on parade." Good grooming is necessary if she is to hold down her job. She must plan a pre-bedtime beauty routine. That is the time for a refreshing bath to take the kinks out of her nervous system. If she learns to relax, She will find it a wonderful let-down to lie in warm water, limp as a rag, the cares of her mind closed, eyes shut, thinking of nothing at all.

Before getting into the tub she should wash her face, and apply cream. A lubricant, combined with the steaming atmosphere of the bathroom, will tend to loosen dirt particles away.

A bath salt will not only provide fragrance, but will soften the water. If a shower follows, it should be a warm one. A cold rinsing is too stimulating, may interfere with sleep.

She must brush her hair to remove surface dust and to stimulate the circulation in the scalp. A five minute scalp friction is a good beauty investment.

Finger nails usually need attention. Instead of using an orangewood stick for cleaning the nails use a white nail pencil when washing your hands. Keep a point on it by using your pencil sharpener. If you have a nail that keeps on your feet, rub the soles with mineral oil and shake a little foot powder in your shoes.

Marie Dionne Turns Back On World to Enter Order

QUEBEC (CP)—A young girl who with her four sisters has been in the public eye all her life today spent her first day in silent work and prayer behind the cloistered walls of a Roman Catholic religious order.

Marie Dionne, 19-year-old quintuplet from Callander, Ont., Tuesday turned her back on the world to enter the order of Les Servantes du Tres Saint-Sacrement (Servants of the blessed sacrament) at their convent here.

As a "postulant," or beginner, she will be exempted from some of the "more arduous tasks of the order." Nevertheless, she will be expected to adjust herself quickly to a life of prayer, work and adoration of the blessed sacrament.

The life is severe. During the night, members of the order rise and leave their small cells for an hour of prayer in the chapel.

During the day they devote their time to community work, prayer and the making of vestments for priests.

PERPETUAL VOWS

Silence is maintained in the convent at all times, except for brief periods of recreation after dinner and supper.

Marie will be a postulant for six months. Then for two years she will be in the novitiate, after which she will have for three years an austral profession of vows—poverty, chastity and obedience. She may then take perpetual vows by which she would swear to devote the rest of her life to the order.

On her entrance into the convent of New Thabor, Marie leaves her sisters to follow different vocations. Three—Emilie, Annette and Cecile—are studying housebold science at a convent in Montlet, near Trois-Rivieres, Que. Yvonne is a fine-arts pupil at Montreal.

Annette, Cecile and Yvonne came to the convent with Marie Tuesday. Their mother, Mrs. Oliva Dionne, and two other sisters, Pauline and Mrs. Maurice Giroux, were also there.

They saw Marie in her severe garb—black with a long white veil that shields the sides of the face—and, after tearful good-byes, watched her step behind a grill to go to chapel for benediction of the blessed sacrament—and the start of a new life.

British Justice Relents for Romance

British justice has relaxed to permit Tommy Flynn, 23-year-old sailor, to marry the dark-eyed, Arab slave girl he smuggled happy to England. The lovers were freed from jail, where they faced sentences for violating the immigration laws. She had been smuggled from Basra, Iraq, where she worked as a slave. Tommy slipped her aboard ship, past the guards, dressed in men's clothing, and hid her in a cramped locker during the voyage home. Here are Tommy and his bride, Jean Kawahishi, 19, leaving church in Central Press Canadian. Durham after their marriage. —

Milady Can Look Forward To Beaver Coat Price Cut

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Milady can look forward to a slight drop in the price of beaver coats.

It's all due to the spread of a little-known disease among Canada's beaver population, particularly in northern Saskatchewan.

The Saskatchewan conservation board—in an attempt to stamp out the malady—has decided to put conservation into reverse and allow trappers to take extra-heavy quotas of beaver this season.

There will be no indiscriminate killing, however. Trappers consulted by the board will be told which areas to trap and which to leave alone.

The disease, tularemia, is caused by a germ which can be transmitted to humans by handling infected animals. It is not known how many beaver have died from it, but the experts predict it will force a drop in prices.

It's not expected the move will make itself felt at the retail level until 1955 at the earliest.

IVANHOE

St. Andrew's Club Visits Fuller M.C.

IVANHOE—St. Andrew's Presbyterian Club visited the Mission Circle at Fuller Presbyterian Church on Wednesday evening.

The meeting was opened by the president of the Mission Circle, Miss Mary Thompson who extended a welcome to the visitors.

The following program was given conducted by Mrs. John McInroy. The Scripture lesson found in the Psalms was read by Mrs. Harold Thompson, followed by prayer led by Rev. W. Walker.

Solo, "In the Garden", Mrs. Arthur Hannah. "The Little Church at the Corners", Bessie M. Fleming; solo, 'Must I Go and Empty Handed?" Mrs. Milton Shaw.

The guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. C. H. Walker, whose subject was "Jesus Our Pilot."

"I am going to take my thought from a Bevco painting which I saw unveiled a few years ago. The painting depicts a great ocean liner which apparently has entered the sea, but which while yet some distance from land, comes to a halt and takes on a pilot. As powerful and gigantic as the liner may be, she knows from experience that until she has taken on board a pilot, one who knows the channel leading up to the harbor, through the dangerous narrows and the treacherous tides and currents, it cannot arrive safely.

"Some day I believe we shall discover that all Jesus said about life, about attitudes and standards and goals and faiths are like well defined channels leading to the open sea and that life's ultimate goal. Its final harbor can only be reached as we make Him our Pilot. He whose chart and compass has never failed."

This was followed by a reading, "Interviewing St. Peter", Mrs. Russell Silis; duet, "It is No Secret", Harold Thompson and John McInroy; reading, "The Master is Coming", Mrs. John McInroy. A Bible quiz was conducted by Mrs. Barton Haggerty.

Refreshments were served by the Mission Circle.

Thanks and appreciation were expressed by Mrs. Harry Benson.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bray spent Sunday in Toronto visiting their daughter Karen who is a patient in the Hospital for Sick Children.

Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Steers of Belleville, were recent visitors with Mr. F. M. Wood.

81st Anniversary Observed At Mt. Pleasant United Church

By MRS. PERCY MacMILLEN

RAWDON — On Sunday last summer's weather prevailed and folks from far and near journeyed to Mount Pleasant United Church on Rawdon circuit for its 81st anniversary.

Long before the hour of service the church was filled to capacity with an overflow crowd in the Sunday School room in the basement and on the church lawn.

The worshippers included many who had returned home for the church of their childhood, as well as visitors from all nearby communities.

Rev. R. M. Savage, B.D., pastor of Bethesda United Church, Kingston, was in charge of the services which opened with that old familiar hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past."

Mr. Savage based his impressive message on the word "Remember" and during his address he always remember God's leadership in the past, with a challenge for material possession.

THREE FUNDAMENTALS

The speaker pointed out three fundamentals which make spiritual possessions secure.

The Ten Commandments, which are the great laws of God and are most essential if we are to have good citizenship. Mr. Savage gave illustrations of recent crimes which are a blot on the world of today and said these criminals flaunt the teachings of God and prefer to do as their pleases.

The cry of the prophets voices at this day the call for justice. We people of the western world are here urged to observe our education and our knowledge with the peoples of the world who have never enjoyed the blessings that Canada provides.

"The heritage of the Life of Jesus Christ. We all rejoice in singing "Churches One Foundation Is Jesus Christ Our Lord" dation is Jesus Christ Our Lord" and today the prime importance of life is to remember Holy Sabbath Day".

Mr. Savage reminisced about visits to the church of his childhood where he regularly sat in the pew with his parents, brothers and sisters, and gave a word picture of the Church in the Valley by the Wildwood."

He urged the present married folk in the audience to take their children to church Sunday by Sunday as their great contribution to the future heritage and to what your child may cherish 50 years hence.

The people of Mount Pleasant should give their children a worthwhile heritage of spiritual values that will glorify all the material possessions.

PAID TRIBUTE

The speaker paid tribute to the pioneers who built this church in 1871 and lived in such a much different world with fewer laborsaving devices, and yet they possessed a worthy heritage, which each generation has cherished forward, and now in 1953, it is the task of this generation to give their children a worthwhile heritage.

The choir of 24 voices with Mrs. Kenneth Weaver as pianist, rendered two anthems, "A Little Prayer," with Mrs. Marguerite McMullen and Mrs. Mac Sharp taking the special parts, and "Beautiful Garden of Prayer."

Mrs. R. -R. Bentzel, Misses Betty McConnell and Ruth Sharpe sang a trio, "Fairest Lord Jesus".

The offering was gathered by Messrs. Harry McAdam, Mac Sharp, Raymond McConnell and Bert Sharpe.

The church was resplendent with variegated mums and dahlias.

It was announced that a new oil burner had been installed and was a gift from the late George Young estate to the Rawdon and United Church, his boyhood home.

The service closed with the rendition of "Faith of Our Fathers, Holy Faith. We Will be True to Thee Till Death."

EVENING SERVICE

The church was well filled for the evening service with a large number of visitors in attendance. Mrs. Mac Sharp officiated at the organ and the choir rendered "God Will Take Care of You."

Mr. William Reynolds was the guest soloist and rendered two selections, "Open the Gates of the Temple" and "I Thank Thee, Lord," with Miss Betty McConnell as accompanist.

The pastor, Rev. R. R. Rosebeel, B.A., B.D., presided and the service opened with "O God, the Rock of Ages."

Mr. H. M. Savage delivered a forceful message on "Spiritual Adventure." He said: "God has a purpose for every life, which must be developed through prayer, worship and Bible study.

The speaker gave many illustrations regarding fellowship and friendship, and graphically pictured the evils of this world, and in contrast the things that make life worthwhile.

Churches are meant to be islands of friendship, where everyone feels free to sing the doxology and join together in mutual work.

Lord Montagu Will Return To Face Charges

LONDON (Reuters) — Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, 26, will return to England "shortly to face charges for which a warrant for his arrest has been issued, his lawyers said today.

Montagu, a bachelor, was in the United States when magistrates at Lymington, Hampshire, issued the warrant Oct. 15. He now is in France. His lawyers indicated he had deliberately stayed away until after last week's wedding of his sister, one of the year's big social events.

The magistrates said the charges against Montagu and a friend, Kenneth Hume, who also is out of the country, concerned boy Scouts who were camping near Beaulieu, Montagu's Hampshire estate, last autumn.

Montagu's sister, Mary Clare Douglas-Scott-Montagu, was married last Saturday to Viscount Garnock.

Montagu's own engagement to Miss Ann Gage, St. Hilary's, Cornwall, was announced today, was broken off last month.)

Young Couple Found Dead In Each Others Arms

PORT JERVIS, N. Y. (AP)—A "teen-age boy and girl were found dead in their parked autos today, shot to death in an apparent murder and suicide pact because their parents opposed their romance.

The young couple was found in the front seat of a parked car on a side road.

They were Joyce Fulmer, 17, of Sand Pond, daughter of Mrs. Irene Fulmer of Port Jervis, and Charles W. Jones, also 17, a factory worker, of nearby Montague township, New Jersey.

A note, signed by both youngsters, was said by a reporter who saw it to have indicated the girl was pregnant, that the parents opposed marriage and asked: "How do you feel now?"

Coroner Kenneth Marsh returned a verdict of murder and suicide.

Must Alter Tunnels

A Canadian Pacific Railway crew works on a curving tunnel west of Kamloops, B.C., altering it to accommodate new trains the railway will start using next year on its transcontinental service. There are 44 tunnels through the mountains in British Columbia that will need enlarging to handle the "scenic dome" cars. — (CP Photo.)

'View Dome' C.P.R. Trains Will Be in Service Next Year

VANCOUVER (CP)—Tunnels in British Columbia are being groomed in preparation for the introduction of streamlined, "view dome" trains by the CPR in its transcontinental service next year.

Work has started on the first of 44 tunnels in the CPR's British Columbia district for the accommodation of the stainless steel trains which will embody the latest in coach construction.

Minor sloping, or rock excavation, will be necessary in some regions of the tunnels' underpasses. The five-mile Connaught tunnel under Mount Macdonald, opened in 1916, and the famous spiral tunnels west of Field, B.C., are also undergoing inspection, but no modifications are anticipated for the handling of the new "blister" observation and lounge cars.

Explaining the work, T. W. Creighton, CPR district engineer here, said:

"It isn't that we cannot handle these trains with present tunnel clearances, but the cars will be so equipped with modern springs for the last word in riding comfort, that we are following through to provide maximum room for expected spring action, particularly on curves."

First excavation work was begun in a 200-foot tunnel near Cherry Creek, 14 miles west of Kamloops, B.C.

A template, or contour pattern of required tunnel dimensions, was first passed through, and rock projections which exceeded newly-specified heights and widths are being blasted and chipped away.

The 44 tunnels involved include a 4,579-foot line under downtown Vancouver from station to storage yards; the 1,459-foot "long tun" near Sicamon and the 101-foot "Cariboo Joe" near Ades, both in the cascades; and the 3½-foot "plank canyon" near Basque in Thompson subdivision.

We appriciate a diamond for the purity of the stone and the brilliance in a pawn shop, but just as you say, my dear, our admiration is distinctly rather than perzonal. A diamond isn't a self made stone. Its virtues were forced upon it by grate forces of nature, and it couldn't be a modest little creature if it tried, he said, and ma said, Precisely, and only an unborn saint could have acted differently in Hookbinders hostery department.

The public will be able to estimate the speeds and directions of the currents from the date and position on each card. If a large percentage of the envelopes are recovered from any one area it is likely that the current in that area is likely to drift ashore.

The cards will be printed in five languages and two shillings and sixpence (35 cents) for foreign equivalent—will be paid to each finder.

Britain Turning To Mails to Help Against Pollution

LONDON (AP)—Britain is turning to the mails in the campaign against oil-polluted beaches, scourge of commercial resorts.

Ocean liners and other tankers which discharge it at sea. It rules beaches which washed ashore. It also kills thousands of birds and fish.

The government plans to drop 10,000 plastic envelopes in the Atlantic in a rough semicircle within a 200-mile radius from the Bay of Biscay to a point half-way between the Hebrides and Iceland.

Each envelope will contain a stamped, addressed postcard. The finder will be asked to write on the card his name and address, the date and place it was found, and return it to the National Institute of Oceanography.

The institute will be able to estimate the speeds and directions of the currents from the date and position on each card. If a large percentage of the envelopes are recovered from any one area it is likely that the current in that area is likely to drift ashore.

MADOC

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

Services were held in Trinity United Church, Madoc, on Sunday, Oct. 18, with fine attendances at both services. The guest minister for the day was Rev. Stephen Bonnell, minister of Bloomfield United Church, Prince Edward county.

Mr. Spurrell brought inspiring messages to his congregations, both morning and evening, leaving the church food for thought with all who attended.

Special music was rendered by the senior and junior choirs at both services.

At the morning service the senior choir sang the anthem "Great and Glorious", the junior choir, unaccompanied, and under the direction of Mrs. B. Mercer, sang "Jesus, Saviour, I Pray Throne We Bow." The male quartette, Messrs. Bloomfield, Hughes and Aylesworth, sang "Crossing the Bar."

In the evening the choir again rendered an appropriate anthem "Seek Ye The Lord," with Miss Ann Nickle taking the obligato solo. The junior choir sang "The Lord's Prayer." The music and the fine messages from the visiting minister, who was assisted at the evening service by Rev. R. H. Bell of St. Peter's Presbyterian church, concluded a fine anniversary service.

Baskets of blooms and yellow mums were used for floral decorations.

The ladies of the congregation are preparing for a turkey dinner on Wednesday evening, Nov. 4.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

On Saturday a Hallowe'en party, sponsored by the Madoc Kiwanis Club, was held in the town hall for the children of the villages. From 4.30 to 5.30 the children were entertained and from 6.30 to 10.00 the senior boys and girls. Games, movies, pictures, candies, prizes and refreshments were served. Assisting the public school principal were members of the school staff, Miss Connor, Mrs. McCoy and Mrs. Bronson. Mr. and Mrs. Sherlock also gave of their time in helping out.

This is an annual event and a worthwhile effort, as it gives good entertainment for the children and provides a fair by quiet evening in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ashley, of Vankleek Hill, and his son, John, who is attending Queen's University, Kingston, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Ashley.

Mrs. James Irwin, Mrs. Morton, Mrs. R. Wellman, of Peterborough, visited friends in Madoc on Sunday and attended anniversary service at Trinity United.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Johnston and children, of Flankton, spent the week-end with Mrs. Johnston's mother, Mrs. J. Nickle.

Misses Ethel and Sylvia Richardson visited relatives at Redneysville on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Frank Dafoe left on Saturday to spend the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Miss Gladys Gehan, Napanee, spent the week-end with friends in Madoc.

Friendly With Germans

Cordiality between soldiers of the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade and the people of Hannover, Germany, seems genuine and mutual, observers say. The band of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, with the brigade, made friends with children at a German orphanage near Hohne. Band Sdr. R. L. Sheyward (left), of Ottawa and WO2 A. Few Canadian Soldiers Gave Whole Formation Bad Name But Deportment Better Now

By BILL BOSS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

HANNOVER, Germany (CP)—Hannover says it is sorry to lose the Canadian Army visitors even if their deportment during the last two years often was more exuberant than correct.

The barracks the Canadians vacate this month will be turned over to the German border police, which lends a certain poetic justice to cabaret quips that the Canadians are "pulling back to the Rhine and leaving the Germans to hold the front line."

The 27th Canadian Brigade, part of the NATO forces in Western Europe, is moving from Hannover to the Soest area. And while it developed slowly, the cordiality between soldiers of the brigade and the people of Hannover seems genuine and mutual.

REGULATIONS EASED

German municipal authorities say relaxing some months ago of restrictive Canadian regulations eased tensions, they had noted, earlier among the soldiers and contributed to a better association.

Brigade officers say the German may be right and agree the atmosphere has improved vastly.

Last May Brig. John Pangman of Toronto, the Canadian commander, allowed soldiers in good standing to wear civilian clothes off duty.

He also permitted overnight passes, and said soldiers could break down one of the year's three 14-day leaves into seven four-week-ends if they wished.

Last February and March when I last visited the brigade, the Canadian uniform was disgraced nightly on downtown streets and in night spots by a minority of brigade men, he said. There were a bad name that decent soldiers could not associate with good German civilians.

This time I met only one soldier in uniform whose conduct in a public place was objectionable.

Soldiers now take pride in their dress and many wear their uniforms in bars and cabarets. Most, however, wear civilian clothes and dress unrecognized unless they come up for a duty.

PLEASED AT PROGRESS

Says Oberburgermeister Wilhelm Weber:

"Many citizens have told me recently about making friends with Canadian soldiers. I think it was a good idea to let them wear civilian clothes. It gave them more opportunity to meet us. Germans have no special sympathy these days for uniforms, even those of the Allies.

"Maybe, too, your men now are used to drinking German beer."

Co-operation between the Canadian Provost Corps and civilian police always has been good, Weber said. The Canadian Army drivers have earned special appreciation from Hannover police by not serving traffic regulations.

"We've not been so lucky with the Americans. American soldiers behind the wheel behave like kings. They make it rough for the rest of us."

FEWER INCIDENTS

Police president John Westphal said the number of incidents between Germans and Canadians has dropped sharply.

"Alcohol and girls are the principal causes of the occasional disturbances," he said. "We can't very well handle either."

Even the usually hostile Norddeutsche Zeitung, a Hannover newspaper, appears to have caught the new spirit.

After reporting that a group of Canadians allegedly beat some German civilians and police with rifle butts, the paper said in mid-September in the newspaper added:

"The reason why such incidents are so very deplorable is that the relationship between the people of Hannover and the Canadians had greatly improved during the last few months, and troublesome incidents, which used to be so frequent some time ago, had abated considerably."

Brigade headquarters officers assert that serious crime figures also reflect improvement.

MELROSE

MELROSE — Quite a number of W.I. members attended the area convention held in Bellerville last week. Many enjoyed the visit to the County Home for the Aged on the last afternoon.

Mrs. A. Pringle has been visiting at the home of Mr. William McMechan.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Macfarlane and Mr. William McMechan recently visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Newton, Peterborough, on the occasion being the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Newton (nee Beatrice McMechan.)

Mr. and Mrs. John Beatty, of Belleville, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. R. Macfarlane.

The Tyendinaga township council met on Saturday in the township hall, where assessment appeals were heard and the regular meeting held. As this was a lengthy session members of the council had their meals at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Milligan.

Mr. Leslie McLaren accompanied his party to the hunting camp in the north early this week.

Melrose school and their teacher entertained mothers and preschool children at a Hallowe'en party in the school on Friday afternoon. Eighteen ladies and 21 children besides the 25 scholars made a fine attendance. The children paraded in costume and prizes were awarded. A short program was followed by a sale of cookies, cake, candy and pies, the proceeds amounting to $8.00 to go to the Junior Red Cross. The splendid co-operation of the mothers was much appreciated by the teacher, Mrs. McLaren, and the pupils.

Films were shown in the local schools on Monday of this week and an evening showing was put on at S.S. 11, Melrose, with Mr. Arnold Reilly projectionist.

Mr. George Mathewick has been familiar with Western Canada where he spent several months.

Rev. Mr. Scott made pastoral calls on the third line on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Fred Jeffrey is recovering from a severe attack of sinus trouble.

News of the sudden passing of Mr. Harry Potter was received with regret as he had spent many years about Melrose. His funeral was held from the funeral home and interment was made in Belleville cemetery last week.

Bean-Brewing Sites Few And Far Between These Days

By RON EVANS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Canadian visitors to this city, which once hosted 2,000 coffee houses, find the bean-brewing sites are few and far between these days.

And shocking is the discovery that most of the British brew looks and tastes like tar.

Today there's a single shop dedicated to the serving of the beverage in Trafalgar Square. With futuristic furniture and garish abstract murals on the walls, the Coffee House across from Canada house bears little resemblance to the 17th-century establishments where a penny purchased admittance and the smoke-laden air was charged with passionate discussion of politics.

Gone is Garraways, centre of great mercantile transactions, and with it slaughters, meeting place of painters and sculptors, and Cam house in Tower street where Edward I kept first posted lists of ships for his merchant patrons. A simple plaque on the wall of a wine house in St. Michael's alley, near the Royal Exchange, marks the site of the first coffee house, founded in 1652.

GREEK PROMOTER

Daniel Edwards, a merchant, first brought the strange brown berries to London and thanks to a Greek servant, Pasqua Rosee, to prepare the new drink. Pasqua set up shop "at the sign of his own head" and issued handbills proclaiming the drink:

". . . A simple innocent thing, . . . Good against sore eyes, the head - ache, dropsy, gout and scurvy . . . to prevent miscarrying in child-bearing women . . . and against the spleen, hypocondriack winds, or the like."

By the turn of the 17th century, more than 1,000 coffee houses were in operation in London and within a few years the figure was doubled. These houses, known as penny universities, became such forums of debate and criticism that in 1675 Charles II had them all closed. He charged they were the seats of "divers false, malicious and scandalous reports to the defamation of His Majesty's government." Such was the outcry over the king's proclamation that within 10 days it was withdrawn.

CONSUMPTION DOWN

But the proud history of coffee here offers little consolation for coffee men today. The average Briton consumes only 1½ pounds of coffee a year while his Canadian counterpart knocks off 6½ pounds annually and the average citizen of the United States can be counted on to brew more than 16½ pounds.

The coffee men are inclined to feel that the major reason for the unpopularity of coffee in Britain is the fact that few people here know how to make it properly. An opinion shared by most Canadian visitors. Britons inject boiled milk for one thing.

The major coffee trading companies have set up the coffee information bureau to spread the word on coffee-making. Last year they dispatched a small army of some 2,000 demonstrators to all parts of the country to show housewives and restaurant operators the proper methods of brewing.

Perhaps the most crushing sign of defeat is evident in the bureau itself. Every afternoon at four the men and women busy bringing the light to British non-coffee drinkers pause for a cup of tea.

LICENCE SUSPENDED

CHATHAM (CP)—Gerold Monk of St. Thomas was fined $100 and his licence to drive was suspended three years by Magistrate I. B. Craig Monday when Monk was convicted of dangerous driving. Police stopped the youth on No. 2 highway in Raleigh township Sunday night. Monk had had a driver's licence since Tuesday.

SENTENCED ON TWO CHARGES

CHATHAM (CP) — Harold Fryston of Ingersoll Monday was sentenced to jail for 30 days when he pleaded guilty to charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident. To a charge of having liquor in a public place, he pleaded guilty and paid a $10 fine and court costs. The charges arose out of separate accidents.

Troops of 15 Nations on Review in Korea

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—McGill University today told a Quebec royal commission on constitutional problems the federal government has every right to subsidize higher education and expressed disapproval of Quebec government moves to block federal grants to universities.

In a brief prepared for delivery before the commission, the 140-year-old institution maintained:

1. "Every university in Canada is of national, rather than local, significance."

2. "Quality of university work in Quebec must progressively fall behind the level prevailing throughout the rest of Canada, if such moves as those which Quebec universities do not receive federal grants paid to all comparable institutions in other provinces."

3. It would seem contrary to the interests of Quebec and Canada to "penalize" Quebec institutions while the Quebec government disposes and maintains reallocation tax sources with the federal government — A discussion that "would lead to sterile debate."

4. "Any policy that makes it impossible for a university to accept monies that are freely offered, with no strings, must inevitably diminish its freedom and the quality of its work."

5. There is no evidence that federal grants to universities infringe in any way upon the autonomy of the provinces in which those universities are situated."

GERMOM UNTENABLE

The Quebec commission, which named public sittings Tuesday was suggested in a brief of the Quebec Province Chamber of Commerce that claimed the federal government is making the financial situation of the provinces untenable by invading fields of direct taxation.

Although the commission's work will mostly deal with the taxation problem, it touched on municipal and school finances as well as constitutional questions in general.

The McGill brief comes at a time when the Quebec government is blocking federal grants to Quebec universities on the ground they encroach on provincial autonomy in matters of education.

The McGill brief argued:

History indeed, records that, far from objecting to financial aid for their education from outside the province, provincial governments themselves made grants to universities outside their borders. . . .

PRIGHT GIGUS

"The government of Quebec has recent years made grants to colleges and universities in Ontario, New Brunswick and Manitoba.

McGill said outright gifts of known monies are dependent of legislative jurisdiction and cited family allowances, old-age pensions and to municipalities, unemployment relief and housing assistance examples.

Military training and atomic research were federal matters and the work of universities in these fields was of federal concern.

"If Ottawa were not to provide universities with funds to carry these activities, each of them vital significance to Canada as a whole, it would be failing in its constitutional duties."

Paper Companies Continue Talks With Nine Unions

TORONTO (CP) — Wage talks between representatives of 12 pulp and paper companies and of nine unions continued today.

There was no announcement of the direction of the discussions Tuesday or whether any progress had been made toward settling the dispute which threatens to paralyze Ontario's pulp and paper industry.

Spokesmen for the unions, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, said the unions agreed Monday to stand pat on their demands for a five-per-cent wage increase and other benefits. Basic rate in the 19 mills in Ontario, Quebec, one in Manitoba and one in Quebec is $1.41 an hour.

The 13,000 pulp and paper workers involved have sanctioned strike action if necessary to enforce their demands.

Want Institution

WHITBY (CP)—Ontario county council Tuesday proposed establishment of a protestant reform institution for wayward women.

At present, the only place to send women aged 16 to 25 found leading idle or dissolute lives is Mercer Reformatory in Toronto. It said in a resolution submitted to the legislature's reform institutions committee.

The county council cited the case of a 20-year-old woman who has had six illegitimate children by five different fathers.' She now is in Mercer Reformatory.

Canada's Attitude Can Be Summed Up in Two Words 'Calculated Risk'

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Eight years after the collapse of Hitler's empire, West Germany has made a political and economic recovery which observers call a "miracle."

What is Canada's attitude now toward Germany after the billions of dollars and thousands of lives spent in helping to conquer her and in view of Germany's economic revival and probable imminent rearmament?

External affairs officials here sum up Canada's attitude in two words: "Calculated risk."

CANADA'S VIEWS

This is how they review Canada's views on the situation:

In the cold war, Germany occupies a strategic position although the European continent, it is far better that she be on the West's side than on Russia's or a powerridden vacuum, open to pickings by Communist infiltration.

The cold war, put it this way:

"We have to run two risks. One is that Germany's economic recovery might be bound into the other war machine if the government fell into the hands of the democratic forces, right or left. The other risk is that Germany be allowed to languish without Western support she might fall into the Russian orbit or into a dagger can design. In the present world situation, we must obviously support Germany."

NATIONALISTIC FORCES

There are nationalistic forces in West Germany waiting for an opportunity to wreck the democratic Konrad Adenauer's democratic government. Such forces are present in most countries. The real danger can be considered greater in Germany because of its past experience. This danger would be still greater if West Germany had no links with the West.

Another official said:

"Democracy is in the ascendancy now. If we can really strengthen the bonds between democratic forces in Germany and Western democracies, there is less likelihood of democracy in Germany being overturned or of Germany going off the rails again."

Canada is playing a small part to this end. It has taken 101,622 immigrants from the fields since 1946 and the government is studying proposals to increase the flow. The 27th Infantry Brigade and two RCAF wings in Germany are a symbolic gesture that Canada supports Western European, including German, defence against the Communist threat.

The German government has ratified the European Defence Community. It isn't in force because similar action has not yet been taken by France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. The Allies have said, and Canada supported the view, that EDC must be operating before Germany is freed from her occupation status. The Soviet threat would appear to make German rearmament inevitable and the United States is reported pressing for EDC ratification, by all countries concerned.

BELIEVE RISK

EDC would allow Germany to create 12 active divisions to form the spine of a European defence army. EDC is designed to prevent a resurgence of German militarism but there is the risk that the these 12 divisions Germany might become the core of a new military machine under control of the old officer corps. And the Ruhr, armed Germany again, could be quickly converted almost entirely to task. An overall war communication production if the government fell into the wrong hands.

Thus Adenauer's election victory last month was hailed by the West. The Canadian government said the victory endorsed the chancellor's western-looking policies and has greatly strengthened parliamentary democracy.

The risks in Germany remain large, officials say. However, the risks in not doing so are greater. many were neither democratic nor on the West's side.

20,000 Workers Out on Strike, Another 20,000 Ready to Quit

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 30,000 Canadian workers were still on strike today, unrelenting in their demands for higher pay and the union checkoff. Another 20,000 were preparing to walk out.

Uneasy hit are rich gold and copper mines in northern Ontario and Quebec, lumbering in British Columbia and construction companies at Windsor, Ont.

A Canadian Press survey shows the disputes threaten to erupt in still more areas. About 15,000 employees of 12 pulp and paper mills in Ontario, Manitoba and Quebec have voted to strike if wage and contract demands are not met.

Some disputes have been settled in recent weeks with wage increases the rule. About 1,000 seamen in Canada's deep-sea merchant fleet received a 40-cent-an-hour increase. Some 180 employees of a Vancouver fruit wholesaler went back to work at a 3½-cent-an-hour increase.

MOST SERIOUS

One of the most serious strikes involves 7,000 workers at gold and copper mines in northern Ontario and Quebec. There the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) is pressing for wage increases and the checkoff.

In British Columbia, about 6,300 workers are on strike and another 5,000 have voted to strike to enforce demands.

About 3,000 woodworkers have been out for five weeks, another 1,000 for two weeks. Some 2,000 metal trades workers, truckers and cafe employees are out.

About 4,000 pulp and paper workers have voted to strike in British Columbia if their 15-cent-an-hour wage demands are not met. Another thousand power workers have declared a strike if management increase over their present basic wage of $2.31 an hour.

Some 1,000 steelworkers at a Vancouver meat-packing plant went on strike a week ago in protest over the company's demotion of a trucker.

In Alberta, there are no strikes but disputes are under conciliation for 130 pipeline workers and 475 dairy employees.

Manitoba, about 720 men are out at Dominion Bridge plants. Negotiations have begun between the provincial government's refusal to arbitrate until errors in a formal request signed by both management and the United Steelworkers are corrected.

A strike of 750 carpenters which broke out in Windsor Oct. 27 made 1,000 more construction workers idle when they refused to cross carpenters' picket lines.

AFL carpenters want $2.18 an hour instead of the present $2.00. Eighty-five construction jobs in the Windsor district are closed.

In Montreal, about 375 paper mill workers have been out since late September for more money and shorter hours.

The gold miners' strike threatens to spread to Val d'Or, Que., where 600 miners have voted to strike.

Two Pickets Held As Violence Erupts on Lines

WELLAND (CP)—Two pickets were arrested Tuesday as violence erupted on the picket lines of 15 General Tire and Rubber Company plant.

Howard E. Holt, 32, and Gerald Sullivan, 28, were charged with wilful damage to property after stones and pieces of metal were thrown at two loaded trucks leaving the plant gate. Windshields and other windows were smashed but the drivers escaped injury.

Holt and Sullivan were remanded until Friday.

The plant has been on strike since Friday when some 300 employees, members of the United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America (CIO-CCL) walked off their jobs because 18 women had been suspended. The union said the women were given a week's suspension because they attended a union meeting during working hours.

Will Submit Report

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott said Tuesday that a report on the price spread of anti-freeze will be tabled in the Commons some time after the opening of Parliament Nov. 27.

The inquiry into the spread between production and selling prices was made last spring by the tariff board at Mr. Abbott's request.

However, since that time the price of permanent-type anti-freeze has dropped.

Some officials here feel, however, that the drop may not have been caused so much by a reduction in the price spread as a decline in the price of raw materials.

Duke Sees Danger In Specialization At Too Early Age

EDINBURGH (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh said today that schools below university level should prevent their pupils from falling into the trap of too-early specialization.

In a speech following his installation as chancellor of the University of Edinburgh, the duke stated:

"The necessities of a successful professional career are a broad mind and wide interests. Their foundations must be laid in school. If narrowness begins in school it cannot be cured at the university or anywhere else."

UNIVERSITIES DIFFERENT

The problem is somewhat different for universities, the duke said.

"With the growing complexity of modern life, an ever-increasing degree of specialization is becoming a professional necessity. The universities may decry the necessity . . . but specialization is here to stay. The real problem is to see that specialization does not become exclusive."

Algoma Area May Be Third Uranium Field

BLIND RIVER (CP) — Mines Minister Kelly says there is a strong possibility the Algoma area might soon become the scene of a third great Canadian uranium discovery.

He said Tuesday night that only time and future developments would prove him right or wrong.

Mr. Kelly was speaking at Ontario Day celebrations in this town midway between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie. The day was aimed at drawing attention to development and business mining claims in the district, marking a new phase in its economic development.

THREATENS GUARDS

KITCHENER (CP)—A 55-year-old new Canadian brandished a knife at guards Tuesday and fled from the Kitchener-Waterloo hospital where he was being treated for injuries suffered in an automobile accident. A man fined brought back 2½ hours later. The man, whose name was not made public, was taken into custody and will be mentally examined.

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Intends to Carry Out Mission In Face of Bitter Opposition

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ezra Taft Benson, United States secretary of agriculture, sees himself as a "man with a mission — and he shows every intention of sticking with it in the face of bitter opposition.

That mission is to have economic and political tides which he believes are carrying U.S. farmers to a position of being completely dominated by and dependent upon the government.

In Benson's view, his cabinet job is not far different from the one he held as one of the 12 apostles of the church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints before he was appointed by President Eisenhower as the agricultural post.

The goal of the Mormon church as well as the goal of his present job, Benson said, is to help build the kingdom of God, country and character.

Before consenting to take the cabinet post, Benson made sure that President Eisenhower understood what Benson stood.

"If I am left free to administer this office to restore the dignity of the individual in agriculture and the spiritual values left us by our founding fathers, I accept," Benson said.

GREEN LIGHT

Benson took over and struck out with zeal to accomplish his goal. It was a zeal that had marked his family for years. Benson's great grandfather and grandfather was one of the 12 apostles of the church who entered the Salt Lake valley in 1847 with Brigham Young.

The new secretary was well-grounded in agriculture. He had been trained in agricultural colleges, had served the state of Idaho as a farm marketing specialist, had operated his own farm and had been executive secretary to the National Council of Farmer Co-operatives.

Benson is against subsidies to farmers. He opposes use of government price supports as a method of assuring farmers a desired income. He dislikes government production and marketing controls. All of these economic instruments are mainstays of present federal farm programs.

UNDER HEAVY FIRE

But today, nine months later, he finds himself and his ideas under attack. Some farmers and farm leaders as well as many political leaders are demanding his resignation.

But Benson is standing firm. He says he will not quit under fire unless the president asks him to.

Benson's misfortune has been that he has sought broad changes in farm policies at a time when prices and incomes are declining and surpluses piling up.

Tobacco Sold At Good Price

DELHI (CP)—A reliable source estimated that between 40,000,000 and 50,000,000 pounds of flue cured tobacco were purchased in the province Tuesday, first day buyers were in the field to purchase the 1953 crop.

Top price reported was 48 cents a pound but several growers received 47 cents. Lowest price reported was 28 cents a pound.

Employees of the Ontario Flue Cured Tobacco Marketing Association estimated the total 1953 crop in the province at 112,944,941 pounds. About 50 per cent of the crop was sold.

Appeal Granted

STRATFORD (CP)—An appeal by Arthur Kendall of nearby St. Mary's against a conviction for cutting trees of less than 14 inches in diameter was granted here Tuesday by Judge Harold D. Lang.

Kendall was convicted April 16 of violating a Perth county by-law which prohibits the cutting of trees less than 14 inches in diameter for sale purposes. Woodlots were to be two acres or more.

Judge Lang ordered a $50 fine and $18 costs returned to Kendall as well as the $50 bond posted upon entering the appeal.

Severe Criticism of Graders, Grading of Tomatoes Voiced

PICTON — Severe criticism of graders and grading of tomatoes during the past season was voiced by speakers at the annual meeting of Prince Edward County Canning Crop Growers' Association, Monday night. It was charged that some of the graders worked in co-operation with the canners rather than independently, and that grading was lower than it should have been, instances were cited were loads had been refused owing to low grade yet accepted at high grade at other factories.

The meeting went on record as favoring centralized grading wherever feasible and that graders be moved to different stations each week, and that grader slips be acceptable at any factory.

The local association also expressed its disapproval of the plan to establish pilot factories, one in Prince Edward and one in the western part of the province. These factories would be more in the interest of research on problems relating to the canning industry.

The meeting decided to leave the matter of forming a Canning Producers' Co-op. to the Provincial Board, having previously voted in favor. It was felt by the provincial board that there was a better idea of the advisability of entering into such a scheme.

WANT PLANTS GRADED

A motion was also passed that grading of tomato plants be considered it being pointed out that many poor plants were being distributed.

Color charts as a guide to grades will be available next season, it was stated.

The meeting also suggested that growers in Quebec be organized along lines of the Ontario growers, so that low prices Quebec goods would not demoralize the Ontario market.

The association was empowered to engage a paid representative to look after the growers' interests where there is dispute. Many offers have been found that nearly full time has been required to answer calls during the past season.

President Roy Shorti termed grading this year as very bad, very severe and often unreasonable. He felt graders, who are appointed by the Ontario government, should use more common sense in their work. Though dissatisfied with the work of some graders, he felt the principle of grading had kept grading from becoming worse than it might. He urged members to be loyal to the association. "We've had our ups and downs and even failures, but we will triumph in the end" he said.

D. O. Reynolds, Picton, who is president of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Marketing Board, reviewed the work of the board. He said there was a much more uniform grade in Western Ontario than in the east. He read a long list of instances where graders were accused of not carrying out their duties properly. He felt the rejection clause would be amended from 8-40% to 8-20 and 10 and that acreage would be controlled by the supply and demand. He suggested a national committee to study the canning industry across Canada and to make suggestions to provincial committees.

MAY NEED NEW VARIETY

Mr. Reynolds regretted that experimental work on canning crops had not been continued in this county and told of steps being taken in an effort to overcome this lack. "It may be that we need a new variety of tomato," he said.

Citing official figures to back up his declaration that grading was unusually severe this year, Mr. Reynolds stated that in Eastern Ontario this year the average grade was 31 per cent first, 62 per cent second, four per cent culls. Out of 6497 loads graded 3700 had been rejected this year compared to 31 loads out of 6000 last year. Even when tomatoes were in short supply, Mr. Reynolds further urged growers to take advantage of soil tests and to practise rotation. Insect research is marketing is allied to production. Tfere should be greater selection of land. Some growers had found that a saving by not spraying one year cost them dearly later. Early blight removes foliage and both plant and fruit suffer. Lack of quality was the chief factor causing disputes this year, he felt.

Bruce Hyatt criticized canners who had contracted for large acreage when, he said, they should have known that there would not be sufficient demand for the canned product. We must cut acreage to the bone until we get rid of the surplus, he felt, and expressed the belief that there is a supply of tomatoes for the next two years already on hand, and growers would be unwise to seek to continue to produce on a large scale unless some unexpected market opens.

Directors elected for the various municipalities were:

Hallowell: Clifford Peck, D. K. Spencer. Hillier: W. Cunningham, Elmer McFaul. Hallowell: N. Latchford, J. Dick, D. O. Reynolds. Athol: Neil Parks, Alex. Mann. North Marysburgh: Arthur McCormack, John Wilkinson. Mary Marysburgh: Ackerman, Vernon Striker. Sophiasburg: Roy Shorti, Harold Tyler.

BY-LAW PASSED

A by-law prohibiting fires on the public streets of the town was passed by town council on Monday night. Infractions call for a $50 fine. Mayor H. McFarland pointed out that burning of leaves on the paved section can do considerable damage.

Council endorsed the Santa Claus parade on December 5 and voted a grant of $50 towards the treats.

Patrols for sections where children cross the streets to the school will be investigated further.

U.S. State Department Sees Russia's Note as Evidence Kremlin Desires Stalemate

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—State department officials describe Russia's latest note on a German conference as fresh evidence that Moscow desires a kind of diplomatic stalemate—at least for the time being.

There was no immediate comment today by the department on the Russian response to a Western bid for a foreign ministers' conference on Germany and Austria. But privately, officials used such words as "evasive . . . a severe disappointment" in speaking of it.

The note, delivered Tuesday, was a reply to the invitation which the United States, Britain and France issued Oct. 18 to the Russians to attend a conference on Germany and Austria at Lugano, Switzerland, Nov. 9.

Officially, the state department said only that the full text "will be studied at the highest levels"—presumably by State Secretary Dulles and his advisers.

TAKE TENSION

The gist of the note clearly appeared to be contained in a rearsection of these two points which the Russians had insisted upon in a message to the Western governments in September:

1. A Pre-Peace foreign ministers' conference, including Red China, which would seek to ease tension all over the world—apparently a free-ranging negotiation putting many problems on one table.

2. As a kind of second act of the big meeting, a conference of the foreign ministers of Russia and the three big Western powers, without Red China, to discuss the German question. The Russians contend that work on an Austrian peace treaty should go through normal diplomatic channels.

The general feeling at the state department here is that the Russians know they cannot "ram Red China down our throats" as one authority expressed it. Therefore, the Kremlin probably realizes that in proposing a conference with Red China it is setting an impossible condition while giving the appearance of willingness to negotiate.

CONCRETE PROBLEMS

The central idea in the Russian attitude is said to be that the Communists are plagued by a variety of internal problems which make it undesirable for them to deal now with the Western powers on concrete problems.

Another consideration which may actually be of the highest importance, but which officials here seldom mention, is this:

Russia has made steady progress in developing atomic weapons. In a few years the Soviet Union may be possessed of enough atomic weapons to do terrible damage to the Western powers. In such a situation, the Soviet government would be able to negotiate in a power position more nearly equal. Soviet officials may prefer to wait for that time.

THOMASBURG

UNITED CHURCH W.A.

THOMASBURG — The Women's Association of the United Church recently held a successful pot-luck dinner and quilting in the vestry. There were 17 ladies in attendance.

The devotional period of the meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. G. Baldrick. The program in the Missionary Monthly was used.

During the business session, Mrs. Brough and Mrs. Fretwell were appointed a nominating committee to prepare a slate of officers for the coming year. It was decided to hold a dinner next meeting, November 24th.

On Sunday the United Church Sunday School convened with 31 in attendance. In Ruby Bateman's absence, June Morton presided as pianist. Volunteers are still being invited to assist in the Sunday School.

There was a fair attendance at the United Church service on Sunday evening. Mr. H. Farrow conducted. In his interesting story to the children he took them on an imaginary trip to Dr. Gilchrist's hospital in Angola, Africa. He reminded them that their gifts of money went to pay the salary of this skilful surgeon as well as to equip and maintain hospital services on the Christian field.

There will be evening service at 7:30 in the United church next Sunday, November 8th.

Crescent Rebekah Lodge, No. 139 held installation of officers at their recent regular meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bateman and Ruby were week-end guests at the manse in Roblin. They helped celebrate their grand-daughter Shirley's birthday. She was six years old October 30th.

Several of the local bowlers have gone north. All join in wishing them good hunting.

Mrs. W. Adams was a guest on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. T. Enercon.

Residents of Thomasburg several years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Morton celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary in Belleville on Sunday. Old neighbors from here joined their many Belleville friends as they called to congratulate and wish them well.

Mr. Boyd Moorcroft took a party of masked young men on Thursday evening to a Hallowe'en entertainment given by Guy Thomas' son at his school at Plainfield. Judging from reports given, they all had an enjoyable evening.

The ghosts and pranksters, who walked abroad Saturday evening, confined their activities to the destruction than in previous years. The masked faces and comical costumes created much fun as they raced around for treats.

CONSERVATION

Ketch's Corner

by the ROVING SECRETARY of the CARLING CONSERVATION CLUB

You know, there are times when it's pretty hard to describe the admiration you feel for the unselfish deeds done by people in their hobbies. We have a chap in mind—and we know with the backing of his Conservation Club has devoted every free hour, his vacation, and lot to say money in furthering the cause of conservation education, which is his all-consuming hobby.

The unassuming modesty of this man, George Cooke of the West Toronto Fish and Game Association, differs somewhat from the established pattern of run of the mill conservationists. George, while entitled to (and recipient of) the support of his Club, is really a one-man army who has done a terrific job for the school section around Huntsville, in bringing the principles of conservation nearer to the sources of education.

Naturally, George has an axe in the hole in the person of James Scott, Principal of the school at Kearney. George makes the snowshoe and Jim supplies the creative force, and between them the children in the school at Kearney get a darn good idea of what it's all about. They're learning that there's a good deal more to conservation than the mere destruction of tent caterpillar nests. The kids of Kearney have destroyed millions upon millions of these forest pests—only because they were assisted to them by their teachers. Their latest project, however, rates as the most unique piece of perfect co-ordination. It represents a graphic record of the destruction of land and forest in their townships—the terrible record of fire-ravages of the past. A portfolio of visual evidence of destruction is really a gruesome thing when placed side by side with photos illustrating the best in conservation practices.

You can't really estimate the educational values of such types of work. After all there is a rising generation of kids who will be faced with earning a livelihood from these same natural resources, and their chances will be greatly increased if they apply the knowledge provided for them by such men as George Cooke and Jim Proudfoot.

Hats off, we must be really inspired by their chosen hobby when they undertake a task like the one they've been working on for the past few years. There's every excuse to drop the project (when lesser men view the magnitude of the thing), but it's pleased to know that the more difficult the job, the more intent are these two gentlemen to bring it to a proper conclusion. Reward . . . it's very doubtful if the word ever entered their thoughts or it hope of recognition ever spurred their labors.

Content through achievement is their only objective. No matter how long their journey, there will be a monument in the hearts of everyone in the Kearney area that time will never lessen.

STIRLING

P. S. Pupils, Staff Members Enjoy Musical Treat

STIRLING. — Last Wednesday afternoon the pupils and members of the staff of the Stirling Public School, a few parents and friends were delighted by a thrilling musical treat. It was provided by that noteworthy singing family, "The Davies," accompanied at the piano by the talented mother.

Their generous program embraced carefully selected arias from both grand and light opera, timely interspersed with modern musical numbers, and special songs for children.

Their beautiful voices were heard in solos, duets and trios, but ti was in the latter that they reached perfection. Their rich, mellow tones blended divinely into sweet harmony holding the rapture and attention of both parent and child.

The hour was most profitably spent and the echoes of those fine voices will live in the minds of the audience until opportunity again makes them a reality.

WELLINGTON

WELLINGTON — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tripp made a trip to Kingston one day recently to visit their nephew, who was ill in the general hospital there.

Mrs. Harry Hayden is in the Kingston General Hospital, having undergone an operation.

Mrs. Beverly Beales, Judy and Elizabeth, of Mossmee, are the guests of her mother, Mrs. Millard Way.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McCullough, of Utica, N.Y., are the guests of Mrs. Mildred Way; his mother, Mrs. Frank McCullough, is very ill at present and Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Way and family, of Simcoe, were also guests at the same home over the week-end.

Miss Betty Rutter, of Belleville, has been recuperating at her home here after having her tonsils out. Miss Beverly Hartwick, of Toronto, spent the week-end with her.

Mrs. Edna Pine, night supervisor of the Bell Telephone Company, is on holidays. She is the guest of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Cruickshanks at St. Catharines.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lloyd spent several days in Ottawa, the guests of their daughter.

Miss Patricia Keane, of Kingston, spent the week-end with friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hubbs, of Toronto, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Stewart spent a few days with his parents in Maynooth.

Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Joddrell, of Petawawa, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Joddrell. Little Michael Joddrell is staying for a while with his grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. James Denaro spent several days in Ottawa attending the Royal Winter Fair. Their son, Rodolfo, had an entry in the calf exhibits. Mrs. George Bailley and Mrs. Alfred Ogilvy accompanied them to Ottawa and visited with their sister, Mrs. W. Hirst, who is in the Civic Hospital there.

The Canadian Legion and the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary held a social evening in the Legion Memorial Hall on Wednesday evening. Cards formed the evening's amusement. Cribbage and euchre were played, with Bea Smith and Aletha Ogilvy euchre lady winners and Sam Tripp and Bill Thompson winning the men's prizes. For cribbage Fran Pine and Norma Greenwood were winners and Bert Tuttle and Gen. Gammel winners for the men. Refreshments were served after the card games were finished.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A handsome, clean-cut youngster strolled into the office yesterday morning, following one or two invitations to drop around, and introduced himself as Kelly Sarnelli.

Kelly is the latest addition to the ranks of the Memos and will likely take over the goal-keeping duties for the rest of the season.

Twenty years of age, the lithe youngster has had plenty of hockey experience despite his tender years, and comes to the Memos well recommended.

He was born in the shadow of the Peace Tower, down Ottawa way, and was between the posts practically before he could walk properly. He started his hockey at Rockcliffe School, Ottawa, when he was a toddler, later guarding the twins for the Lisgar Collegiate Academy in the city interscholastic league.

He was drafted to the Oshawa City League Junior "A" team before he saw his fifteenth birthday, and has never looked backwards. He played for the Ottawa Montagnards for two years and for the past three seasons has been the goalie for the Macdrew St. Charles team, a crack Ottawa Senior "A" club.

"Tex-Pat" Germain sold him in action and was attracted by the fine style of the youngster, with the result Kelly has been the sub-goalie for the Ottawa Senators of the Quebec League for the past two years.

According to Coach "Red" Doran, Kelly came up with a fine effort in his Memos' debut against Peterborough on Monday night despite the fact a half dozen pucks whistled past him. Doran is very much impressed with Sarnelli's style.

Apparently the Memos had a bad game off their chests in Peterborough the other evening since reports from the Limelight City say that neither squad came up with anything like the performance dished out here last Friday night with Marsden.

"Red" Doran, Peter Jones and Ted DeGray got in some neat billiard work in-a first period that saw the Memos with an advantage in territorial play. The trio bounced pucks off goalposts when an open net glared at them. The rest of the time was smart goal work by the new Peter 'goalie, Donlevy, thwarted the offensives.

Last night Doran sent the Memos through another stiff workout prior to the resumption for the seventh game of the Ontario Hockey League season on Saturday night. The Trochmen have won their first two starts, one against the Kingston Frontenacs, and they will be drooling for Belleville's gore come Saturday night.

Coach Ernie Dickens has gathered a potent aggregation of talent about him, and at the moment they are regarded as the strongest team in the league. The ace front line of Gerry Scott, Spagnolenko and Wilson, is an effective scoring combination, while the rest of the attacking divisions don't weaken the squad much when they are out there.

However, Doran is taking no chances. He'll whip the Memos through hard sessions Thursday and Friday nights, perfecting plays and ironing out other defects. The Memos haven't shown much scoring punch when in and around the enemy nets, while the defense has been slow in clearing at times. The scrui-up will concentrate on these weaknesses.

Besides the Memos have yet to hit the win column and they're still smarting under the initial setbacks. They should be in rare fettle Saturday night, and if they are, the Belle should be a real thriller.

Asked if he would reshuffle the lines, "Red" said he didn't think so, but would drive the present combinations hard in an effort to perfect their plays. Should be a hot time in the old town come Saturday night.

DIVE AND FORK"

This is the night for the peewee softball moppets to howl. Tonight at the West Main Street Fire Hall the youngsters will be feted by Chief Gerald Vance and his merry men, champions will be honored, and Lee Culhane, who coached the title winners, will be the proudest man in the city. The fun starts at seven o'clock, and all peewee players are invited.

Also on Friday night the Belleville Minor Baseball Association is holding its annual banquet at Kiwanis Centre starting at seven o'clock. Besides the feed the youngsters will see presentations of trophies and crests made to the winning club and players. Should be another rip-roaring good time for the kiddies.

Mercurys Cut Kitchener Win String; Maroons Hand Cataracts 7th Defeat

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen ended a three-game winning streak in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series shocked Tuesday night.

Sudbury Mercurys scored a 5-4 victory in the second frame and then held on their 5-4 victory over the Dutchmen.

Niagara Falls Flyers, the hickies, also dropped a 4-1 decision to Barrie Maroons for their seventh straight game.

But Northern Ontario Hockey Association leader Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Greyhounds dropped their seventh game in a row—a 7-3 trouncing by the Troppers in North Bay.

BAILEY TIES HIS BREAK

Penalty to the Dutchmen gave Sudbury the break they needed Friday win. Deadlocked 2-2 when Mercury's Howie Lee was sent to the penalty box for interference. The Mercurys got their two fast goals for a 4-2 lead that carried them to the victory.

Tommy Burlington and Al Forslund sparked the Mercurys, each firing a pair of markers. Bill McComb notched the other. Johnny Mauthich, Roy McKay and Lee clicked for last year's Allan Cup winners.

Carl- Liscombe, Joe Carveth, Jim Connelly and Ed Didora scored for Chatham. Wish Dubick spoiled Red Sassen's shutout.

Hamilton Tigers visit Chatham Maroons tonight while Stratford Indians are at Sarnia and Niagara Falls play the Mercurys in Owen Sound.

In the NOHA, Pembroke Lumber Kings play host to the Indians and Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds face Sudbury Wolves.

Former Sensational Rookie Unpopular With Gotham Fans; Chi-Hawks Suspend Vic Lynn

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The headlines made bitter reading today for Allan Stanley as the blonde defenceman relinquished his post as captain of New York Rangers for a new job with Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League.

Five years ago the Rangers gave up $70,000 in cash and players to get Stanley from Providence Reds of the American Hockey League and billed him as the most sensational rookie blue-liner to break into the National Hockey League in 20 years.

The next season he scored two goals and five assists as the underdog Rangers battled Detroit Red Wings in the wire in the Stanley Cup finals. But that was the closest the husky 31-year-old from Lindsay, Ont., ever came to living up to his advance billing.

HEARD BOOING

A severe shoulder separation two years ago hampered his effectiveness and Stanley began to hear booing in the galleries as he tried to play himself back into shape. The booing continued this year, although coach Frank Boucher said his defenceman's play was greatly improved.

When the ax fell Tuesday night, Stanley's replacement from Van couver was Ivan Irwin.

Irwin is a rough, 26-year-old Chicagoan, a lesser when the Rangers obtained from Montreal Canadiens last summer in a swap for veteran forwards Pete Babando and Eddie Slowinski.

PLAYER CHANGES

Chicago Black Hawks, in Toronto to oppose the Maple Leafs in tonight's only NHL action, also have made a couple of player changes.

Veteran left-winger Vic Lynn, who has been owned by all six NHL clubs and has played for five of them, has been suspended by general manager Bill Tobin and is reported on his way home to Saskatoon. Sid Finney, a part-time Hawk for the last two years, was recalled from Calgary Stampeders of the WHL to take his place.

The Hawks currently tied with Rangers for last place, have two victories and a tie in their last three starts. The Leafs are tied with Boston'll ruins for third place.

LONDON (AP)—Yolande Pompey, third-r a n k i n g light-heavyweight contender from Trinidad, knocked out Ray Barnes of Detroit in 2:03 of the fourth round of a 10-round bout Tuesday night.

Pompey, gunning for a shot at Randy Turpin, the British Empire and European middleweight champion, floored the lanky Negro for a nine-count in the second round and then put him away in the fourth.

Pompey weighed 161½, Barnes 165.

In a co-featured 10-rounder, Ray Famechon, former European featherweight champion from France, left-jabbed his way to a decision over Sammy McCarthy of London.

Sports Cliches Criticized By Managing Eds.

CHICAGO (AP)—Newspaper editors today took a fresh look at some old, familiar expressions.

A panel discussion at the annual meeting of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association dealt with "sports cliches."

The background: The APME committee on sports has set its sights on elimination of cliches from sports copy.

But what is a cliche anyway?

Ted Smits, general sports editor of The AP, offered an answer in a report given to the panel. Here it is:

"Here's a not a good a rule of thumb as we have found: If you use the word or words naturally in ordinary speech, but pounding in the realm of common usage, such as triple, homer. If you don't, they are cliches, such as circuit clout, confusion, inking a pact."

Smits said it would be virtually impossible to cull out all cliches. He added:

"Some are very bad. Others are still serviceable. It is their misuse or over-use that we must guard against. What is needed is common-sense application of the principles of good English."

The report listed the 10 most disliked cliches as selected in a poll of AP member-paper sports editors. Here, in the order of their detestation, they are:

Hamstring, baked pacts pay dirt, circuit clout, gonfalon, roaring back from behind, outclassed but game, clobber, gridders, cage or cagers.

Yankee Chances For Davis Cup Estimated Even

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—In a few days now the vanguard of the U.S. Davis Cup tennis team, the part that really counts, will wing its way off across the Pacific to challenge the Australians for the third straight year on their own soil. Their chances of winning back the international trophy this time appear to be about even, but no better than that.

The first planeload of challengers will include Billy Talbert, the new team captain, and Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert. Several other team members will trail along later, but only to gain experience. Seixas and Trabert, who will do all the playing both against Belgium in the interzone final at Brisbane and against Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad in the challenge round at Melbourne, providing they survive the first test should profit by having a veteran of Talbert's intelligence to advise them on tactics each time they change courts.

DOUBLES EXPERT

Billy, who was chosen 'tennis' man of the year, is among the world's ranking doubles players, having won four national titles partnered by Gardnar Mulloy. He also reached the singles final twice. Now 38, he may be presumed to know most of the answers, a quality which has not been conspicuous in all U.S. cup leaders.

The fact that Rosewall and Hoad, the 18-year-old wonders, were defeated by Trabert and Seixas in the semi-finals of the nationals at Forest Hills in September should cause no over confidence. The kids were tired.

In this next tournament, the Pacific southwest at Los Angeles, Rosewall trimmed Trabert and Seixas in successive matches to win the title. The Aussie pair will be favored to win the doubles in the challenge round.

Lower Brackets Football Nears Season Climax

WINNIPEG (CP)—Minor football may have bowed from the local sport picture for the 1953 season last Saturday when Winnipeg Weston Wildcats took a 34-5 shellacking from Saskatoon Hilltops in the first game of the two-game, total-point contest for the Manitoba-Saskatchewan Junior Football League championship.

The Hilltops are favorites to polish off Weston this Saturday at Saskatoon and go on to meet either Alberta or British Columbia for the junior western championship. The Canadian final will be played at the home field of the western winner.

Intermediate football is off the local for sure but Normwood-St. Boniface Legionaires are already marching eastward. Normwood trounced Winnipeg Rams 20-6 in the first of their best-of-three Manitoba intermediate final, gave up a 6-6 tie in the second and added a 25-7 victory to win the title.

The Legion, now with 25 undefeated games under their belt, tackle the Thunder Bay-intermediate winner in a total-point-total game Nov. 8. The winner plays the Eastern winner for the championship in the east.

Quebec City fans are loyal to their Citadelles no matter where they are in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings.

Tuesday night 4,400 of them watched the eighth-place Citadelles ake a 7-5 loss from Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts. The Kitchener victory halted a three-game, home-ice winning streak for the Cits.

In the only other game Galt Black Hawks fought back a three-goal deficit on home ice to earn a 5-5 overtime draw with Toronto St. Michael's.

Gaston Pelletier and Rookie Stan Maxwell pelted two each for Citadelles. Gilles Thibault and Richard Bouchard notched the others.

Greig Hicks and Bruce Jones fired two each for the Greenshirts, whose victory hoisted them into a two-way tie for second place with Galt. Doug Vaughn, Graham Joyce and Beryl Klinck rounded out the total.

LATE SURGE

Cellar-dwelling St. Mikes appeared to be heading for their third victory in nine games as they carried a 4-2 lead into the final period. But the Hawks outscored the Irish 3-1 in the last 20 minutes to send the game into overtime.

Bill Colvin, Ken Gribbons, Jack Caffery, Les Duff and Paul Knox shared the scoring for the Collegians. Ron Halstead napped in two for the Hawks. John Slevner, Pete Kowalchuk and John Mockler were the other Galt snipers.

HICKS TO AHL

OTTAWA (CP)—Cliff Hicks, Ottawa Senators' alternate goalie, leaves for Syracuse of the American Hockey League where Ottawa officials said Hicks, property of New York Rangers, played several games for the Quebec Hockey League Senators early in the season.

'Secret Weapon' Soups Up Football Players

A "secret weapon" soups up the players with ultrasonic rays that travel 1,000 feet a second.

The apparatus is the latest addition to the Maryland athletic clinic of trainer Duke Drew. He believes he is the first college trainer in the United States to use the machine to keep athletes in shape.

The fascinating machine is the result he says, of experiments during the last war by the Germans on British prisoners.

Its theory—that electric energy fed into a quartz crystal will emit mechanical energy in the form of vibrations—has many applications. The one applied to medicine is a new science known as pieso-therapy, explains the erudite trainer.

These vibrations are transmitted to the human skin by holding a cup-like attachment against it. The molecules in the tissues then start jumping around as they are agitated from 20,000 to 1,000,000 times a second.

The vibrations occur so rapidly that they can't be felt by the human ear, hence the ultrasonic description of the machine which technically is called "sound-energy."

Industry has found use of the ultrasonic waves in its equipment. The U.S. Navy uses the same idea to track down submarines.

Duke just wants it to speed up the healing of damaged tissues. He's had an enviable record in that respect during his seven years of training Maryland football players.

No regular has ever had to miss a game because of injury. Some have been hurt, and rather badly. But Duke always has them ready by game time.

"Cope" Gets Grounded For Pivot Job

Ivan Irwin said goodby to Vancouver Canucks Tuesday night—in just the way West Coast hockey fans liked best.

Irwin, playing his last game with the Canucks before leaving the Western Hockey League for New York Rangers, scored the winning goal in Vancouver's 2-1 victory over Saskatoon. Lou Fontinato scored the other Canuck marker while Chuck McCullough notched the Quakers' tally.

Eskies Hold Secret Workouts For Big Series

EDMONTON (CP)—Coach Darrell Royal sent his Edmonton Eskimos—still minus all-star halfback Billy Vessels—through a workout Tuesday night as the Western Interprovincial Football Union leaders prepared for the second of the finals here Saturday against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Royal said he plans workouts every evening this week behind barred gates.

Except for Vessels and all-star halfback Normie Kwong, the Edmonton club is in good shape.

Vessels, who suffered a fractured spinal muscle in the final league game Oct. 24 against Bombers has been released from hospital but must rerun daily for therapy treatments.

Kwong, who injured an ankle in the same game in which Vessels was hurt, still cannot run and Royal wasn't sure whether Kwong will be playing Saturday.

HOOPERS HOLD MEETING

GUELPH (CP)—The central Ontario branch of the Ontario Board of Approved Basketball Officials will hold their first meeting of the season here Thursday, president J. T. Burnett announced Tuesday.

The meeting will discuss plans for the coming year and prepare candidates for the national federation exams to be written Nov. 4.

Officials from Kitchener-Waterloo, Waterford, Brantford, Stratford, Galt, Preston and Guelph will attend.

Sport in Brief

QUEBEC (CP)—The possibility of a court battle between two Quebec Junior Hockey clubs was indicated Tuesday in their dispute over claims to 18-year-old goalie Jacques Marcotte.

Hon. Gerard Martineau, member of the provincial legislative council and honorary president of Quebec Frontenacs, said the club "is not satisfied we should go to the courts of justice to defend our rights."

"Since Marcotte has shown his wish to play with our club, we shall defend his right to do so."

Marcotte signed with Frontenacs, a new entry in the Quebec Junior Hockey League, with approval of the executive of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association. Last season he played with Quebec Citadelles, who were ousted by the QAHA and now are playing in the junior division of the Ontario Hockey Association, with QAHA approval.

Citadelles took the matter to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, which last week ruled in Citadelles' favor.

Martineau indicated Frontenacs will appeal the QAHA decision, which okayed Frontenacs' acquisition of Marcotte. Martineau said he doesn't think the QAHA can reverse its decision.

The outstanding three-year-old filly has won a total of $101,380 in less than two years of racing. She passed the previous record held by Kingarvie when she earned $5,000 for finishing second in the first division of the Coronley Handicap for fillies and mares at Jamaica Tuesday.

JAMAICA, N.Y. (CP)—Mrs. Marian W. O'Connor's La Corredora and Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Home-Made shared the honors in the $25,000-added Comely Handicap run in two divisions at Jamaica race track Tuesday.

Canadians, three-year-old filly owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, was second, two lengths behind La Corredora in the first division of the 1 1-16-mile event.

Coaches Not To Blame Says Campbell

MONTREAL (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Tuesday his report from referee Red Storey indicated neither coach Lynn Patrick of Boston Bruins nor coach Sid Abel of Chicago Black Hawks was seriously involved in a rumpus at Chicago Sunday night.

"I understand all that happened was that a couple of players started to fight and the fellow attending the gate at the Chicago box office panicky. He thought he might get hit and abandoned the gate. The players fell into the Chicago box office area and rolled about.

"There was some intervention by the coaches, mostly verbal.

"It's a question in my mind whether the major penalties to the players actually were warranted."

Jimmy Peters of the Hawks and Bob Armstrong of the Bruins were given major penalties of five minutes each. The game ended in a scoreless tie.

This deal was sent to me, saying: "North was in six hearts and made it. East led the diamond. Westy jack covered south's nine, and north took the trick with the ace. Nice play don't you think?"

Nice golng, yes, like kicking a strange mule and having him turn around and apologize. It takes foolish bldders to reach six hearts and unexpected action by the defence to let them get away with it.

South must have bid diamonds. So, the diamond lead was wrong. West must read by the rule of 11 that north has only two diamonds; both big. So, it was a gift for him to play his back.

The natural spade lead from east kills the contract fast. But whether the correct makes or not, here is how the bidding should go:

South	North
Pass	1 H
2 D	3 C
4 D	4 NT
5 S	6 D

Four no-trump is the aces and kings asking convention. Reply of five spades is the signal for one ace, and two kings. That, six diamonds rolls in, is not the point, either. This bidding is correct.

In match point duplicate play, north might consider six notrump as safe as six diamonds. Or worth the risk, for a higher point score. It would make with a club finesse.

Again, this is not the determiner. Correct bidding takes it to six diamonds. What else you do is guesswork, Swami!

Hawks Bring Up Three Rookies

Chicago Black Hawks announced Tuesday night that they will bring up three rookies for a try-out with the professional team.

Making the announcement as they skated in for tonight's game against Toronto Maple Leafs, Hawks said the newcomers who will receive a chance to make the NHL team are Fred Sasakamoose, a full-blooded Indian centre, Ken Wharram, last year with Galt Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, and Wally Hlsiledell.

Chicago will also recall Sid Finney from Calgary of the Western League it was announced. The Hawks, who have been unscored upon in the last 167 minutes and 45 seconds of play, have won two of their last three games. The other was a scoreless tie. In the first eight games of the season they could manage only one point, that coming on a 3-3 draw with Detroit.

Movie Column

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Next March 1 director Robert Leonard comes to the end of a 30-year association with one studio. That's something of a record in this business.

I had a chat with Pop, as he is affectionately called. I even managed to get him to name the actresses with the most sex appeal of all those he has directed. They are Greta Garbo, Joan Crawford, Lana Turner, Elizabeth Taylor and Greer Garson.

He went on to explain: "I directed Garbo's first test when she came here from Sweden and could not even speak the language. I also directed her in 'The Rise and Fall of Susan Lennox' with Clark Gable. She had an appeal that was unmistakable. She was a great girl with the crew, too; that shyness was strictly for publicity then.

TWO 'SEX PLAYERS'

"Joan Crawford certainly had sex appeal and still has it. I directed her in 'Dancing Lady,' which had a couple of bit players named Fred Astaire and Nelson Eddy.

"Lana, whom I directed in 'Ziegfeld Girl,' has plenty of sex on the screen and so does Elizabeth Taylor. Liz had it even as a young girl when she did a picture called 'Cynthia' with me.

"Some may be surprised that I put Greer Garson on the list, but I think she definitely exudes sex. To me, sex appeal like movies, is largely a matter of opinion. What appeals to one man may not appeal to another. I even met a service man the other day who said he didn't go for Marilyn Monroe!"

The March 1 date marks the maturity of the MGM pension plan, and he obviously qualifies for its benefits.

"I could stay on longer," said Pop, "but I think it would be fun to make my own pictures for a while and perhaps even get into TV."

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

SARNIA (CP)—Wilfred D. Gray, 24, of Port Huron, Tuesday was committed to higher court for trial on a charge of manslaughter. The charge arose from the death Oct. 16 of 13-year-old Stephen Frank Kuns. The youth was killed when struck by a car while cycling on a street.

TIGER PETS

TOKYO (Reuters)—Tiger-trainer Mrs. Mabel Stark, 39, arrived Sunday from the United States with the $35,000 worth of Indian tigers for the Sendai zoo in northern Honshu. One of the five tigers, which she calls her "pets," bit an Indian to death when caught last year, Mrs. Stark said.

AT THE BELLE

You'll cheer "the Fighting McChesney's of Ontario," M.G.M. presents "Scandal At Scourie" in Technicolor, co-starring Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon, starting today at the Belle Theatre.

The new M.G.M. drama, filmed in Technicolor, marks the 9th co-starring vehicle for Miss Garson and Pidgeon, who have teamed in some of Hollywood's biggest box office hits.

Their latest story casts them as a devoted husband and wife living in the small Ontario Canadian town of Scourie. Miss Pidgeon a candidate for a political office. When his wife impetuously adopts a little orphaned girl, a scandal sweeps through the town, which has both social and political repercussions on the couple. The manner in which they weather this storm and create a happy home for their foster child makes for a tender drama with a share of both tears and laughter.

The little girl of the story is enacted by Donna Corcoran. M-G-M's remarkable child find who was introduced to screen audiences in "Angels in the Outfield" and who more recently enacted Esther Williams as a child in "Million Dollar Mermaid." Also in the cast are Agnes Moorhead, Arthur Shields and Rhys Williams. It is a delight to have Garson-Pidgeon Hollywood's "Happiest Couple" back.

GAY OLD MINSTREL DAYS.

A very special attraction on the same program is Minstrel Days, introducing famed minstrel stars in a tuneful joy jamboree. A Walter Barney Bear cartoon, and the Belle News of the World.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, NOV. 5, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Whether your work, profession or business is confidential or open to the public, be alert, on guard for odd, unexpected changes. In financial, industrial activities, go slowly.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Give your loved ones and associates the benefit of the doubt. Assure them of your affection. Generosity shown now will be rewarded with appreciation.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — It will certainly be worth your while to keep alert to opportunities now. Mental, physical work; especially artistic and literary endeavors highly rated.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Dedicate your physical talents, mental powers and skilled services wholly to your business, honest professional matters and charities. Trading, building, engineers, mining strongly sponsored.

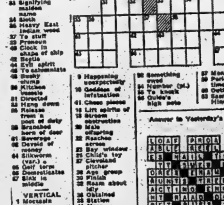
July 23 to August 22 (Leo) — Push ahead during this favorable period by planning an early start and keeping reasonably within your budget or ability to deliver. Deal with superiors, important personages, in business need care.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Excellent opportunity to sell your talents, ideas this encouraging day. Employer, employe, executive, student, teacher can move forward appreciably if fundamentals property.

September 23 to October 22 (Libra)—An opportune time to advance in your chosen endeavors and, whether in finance, a profession or domestically, there are pleasant surprises ahead for those putting forth worthy efforts. Balance favored now.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)—You'll find new openings, fresh fields to conquer if you are living up to your zodiacal characteristics. There is greater scope for personal attainment this day, and much that can be achieved in business.

November 24 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Heed advice to the golden rule and Lucra now. Don't neglect essentials for unimportant matters. Evening: things should brighten.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Tune down exuberance lest you overestimate your capabilities, thus making errors that really retard progress. Nature has wonderful plans to aid mankind in worthy endeavors, so abide by its laws.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Inward quietude will help you to see matters quickly, so make sound decisions. Be tolerant, consider the opinions of others and the day will roll along smoothly, successfully.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—An open day for each one to submit his or her particular ideas, proposals, plans. It will be the best to the best, the smart to the smart. Let no one lose to the fact that we all have a fine chance.

YOU BORN TODAY have the grit and know-how to put across clever ideas, figure ways and means to achieve. However you are likely to allow hypercriticism and skepticism to overshadow your better judgment. Your fine sense of reflection should enable you to reach the heights. All in all, you have a bright future if you remain true to your facts. You have a fondness for the good things in life, travel, social functions; can be entertaining, reserved or secretive, and quite economical if you choose. Watch a tendency to try too many tasks at once, which could impair health and progress.

FATAL ACCIDENT

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Allen Gilmour Dorr, 34, died Sunday night from what doctors said was an embolism which developed after an accident Sept. 29 in which both his legs were crushed. A coroner's jury which investigated the death of the employed him said that, while Dorr was working at a machine shop bench, someone stepped on the starter of a truck which was in his path. The truck jumped forward and pinned Dorr against the bench.

DIES OF INJURIES

HAMILTON (CP)—One of the 10 persons injured in a car-truck crash near Binbrook Friday died in hospital here Saturday. He was Peter Goertzen, 29, of Neamsville, a passenger in the truck. Hospital officials report two of the eight Grimsby high school students injured still in critical condition. They are Barry Bourne, 16, who police said was the driver of the car, and Marion Rushak, also

Maritimes Crown New Potato King for 1953

The Maritime Potato King for 1953, James E. MacNeill of Kensington, PEI, centre, is presented with the grand champion ribbon at the Maritime Winter Fair, Amherst, N.S., by "Her Majesty" the Queen of the Fair, Miss Barbara Woodside, also of Kensington. At the right is Fraser Ross, Halifax, who presented the "king" with a cash prize. — Central Press Canadian.

Labor Federation Seeks Conference On Mine Strikes

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Labor today asked Premier Frost for a chance to meet with him to discuss the gold mine strike situation in the Timmins area.

In a letter, text of which it released today, it criticized Mr. Frost's stand that the matter is one for the striking United Steelworkers of America (CIO) and the mine operators to settle by negotiation.

It said that, while the operators say they cannot afford wage increases, the 11 companies whose cases were heard by boards of conciliation had 1952 net profits of $4,179,958, an average net upturn of $1,565 a worker.

The premier had said it's a letter by C. H. Millard, national director of the union, that gold mining is a depressed industry.

"The position you take in this regard directly parallels the position of the operators before boards of conciliation," the federation said. "The boards, in almost every instance, rejected the plea of inability to pay and recommended wage increases ranging between seven and 10 cents an hour.

"Upwards of 6,000 men are idle at Timmins in a series of strikes called by the union since July.

Steel Industry Earnings Higher By 86 Per Cent

NEW YORK (AP)—The American steel industry's earnings for the first nine months of this year were 86 per cent higher than during the first nine months of 1952, Iron Age, national metal-working weekly, said today.

Third-quarter steel earnings were up 100 per cent over the same period a year ago, the magazine said in a compilation of financial reports of 21 companies which account for 90 per cent of the United States industry's ingot capacity.

All-time records in production, sales and shipments this year made the higher profits possible, Iron Age said. Industry was hardly capped by a 54-day strike during June and July.

Cerebral Injuries Found Cause of Death

WOODSTOCK (CP)—A post mortem examination revealed Thursday that John W. Petrie, 71, of Stratford, father of four children, died of severe cerebral injuries after a car plunged into Mud creek near here Monday night.

The driver, Mrs. Dorothy Petrie, 51, and William Kotyk, 23, both of Stratford, were injured in the crash. They were reported in fair condition.

Petrie, well-known district orchestra leader, died en route to hospital after the car plunged through the guard rails four miles north of here on No. 19 highway, turned end over end and landed on its side in the water.

SHOW PEACE INTENT

DARWIN, Australia (Reuters)—Richard Casey, Australian external affairs minister, today said Communist China must establish itself as a peace-loving nation before Australia supports its admission to the United Nations. Casey, just back from a 30,000-mile world tour, said there is no doubt the Indo-China and Malya conflicts are being directed from Peiping.

Student Party for Sen. McCarthy

When two University of Toronto Aris students decided they should express their opinion of U.S. Senator Joseph McCarthy, they didn't realize they would get the support they did. Within a few hours dozens of students were parading in bed sheets, Ku Klux Klan style, before an effigy of the senator hanging from a gibbet. Then to complete their "Down with McCarthy" movement they sent telegrams to President Eisenhower and the U.S. embassy at Ottawa. Their protest against McCarthy was that if his tactics in fighting communism were allowed to continue unchecked, "Canada, too, may be confronted with a fear of communism worse than communism itself." — Central Press Canadian.

Ross Macdonald Doing Business In Two Positions

OTTAWA (CP)—Ross Macdonald is halfway out of the Commons and halfway into the Senate. He holds down jobs for both legislative chambers, qualifying as one of Parliament's busiest men these days.

Although his appointment as a senator has been approved, he has been sworn in yet as a senator. He also holds the post of government leader in the upper chamber and minister without portfolio in the cabinet. These posts involve preparation for the session of Parliament which gets under way Nov. 12.

In addition to his Senate duties, he also still is speaker of the Commons, his post in the last Parliament. He doesn't give that up until a successor is picked by the Commons Nov. 12 and sworn in. The result of this multiplicity of jobs is that Senator-Minister-Speaker Macdonald, 63, spends part of his day in the office of government leader in the upper chamber then shifts to his old speaker's office. In that way, he keeps business going in both places.

CATTLE PRICES UP

LUCKNOW (CP)—The second annual Scotch shorthorn sale sponsored by the Huron-Perth Shorthorn Club was held Friday. Buying was brisk, with prices up slightly over last year. Thirty-two head of cattle sold for 39,740, an average of $904 each.

LYSENKO SPUDS

LONDON (Reuters) — Russian science this year brought about two crops of potatoes in the country's warm southern regions, the Literary Journal said Sunday. The journal said the idea came from Prof. Trofin Lysenko, chief of the plant - breeding and genetics institute, who suggested that potatoes could be planted in the summer as well as in the spring.

Women Ask Queer Questions Of Weatherman

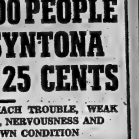
HALIFAX (CP)—Among a lot of queer questions given to the weather office here was one from the woman who asked "what's causing the crow's-nest on the moon?"

Weather forecaster Reid Dexter was puzzled for a moment, until he saw the light. "It seems kind of silly," he replied, "but are you looking through a screened window?"

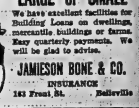
She was.

Forecasters are still trying to figure out why another woman called three different days at 2 a.m. to ask what the weather would be like at low tide, and the time of low tide.

Still another woman called an hour before dawn every day for a year to ask what the weather would be like for fishing off the harbor mouth.



Perhaps," mused Dexter, "she was a paragon of a woman and only wed her hubby if the fishing was good."



"In most distressing calls," he said, "are from women terrified by thunderstorms. We get the same call every storm: 'When will it stop?'"

I WANT 2000 PEOPLE TO TRY SYNTONA FOR ONLY 25 CENTS
SUFFERERS FROM STOMACH TROUBLE, WEAK KIDNEYS, LAZY LIVER, NERVOUSNESS AND GENERAL RUNDOWN CONDITION
EVERY PERSON who suffers can have special introductory trial of SYNTONA for only 25 CENTS.
Simply read the offer below. Do this in your own interest.
The new and scientific medicine known as SYNTONA is one of the most talked about women the ranges of years. Now personality. Thousands who are taking it say that at 25 cents, because we believe the people who are taking it say that at 25 cents, because we believe the people who are taking it should try it on using it. The offer is good for this week only, and Saturday of this week only.
WHAT IT IS!
This is not salts or pill, nor is it a powder or liquid laxative.
SYNTONA is an advanced medical compound of the finest ingredients of vital herbs, and in one a balanced mixture of which is to relieve stomach distress, the throwing off of poisons that cause constipation troubles. It acts within ten minutes after taking, and in a few days of regular taking SYNTONA gives the person who uses it every day from a feeling of constipation, bladder irritation and weakness.
Now, whether STOMACH, LIVER, KIDNEY or NERVOUSNESS or other troubles are causing you suffering, SYNTONA will relieve you in a day or a week—remains to be seen. But it will help you. That is a fact. It has done for others. It is sure it will help you. That is why we are offering you a free trial. That is why a free trial offer is good Thursday, Friday and Saturday ONLY, so read the rest of this advertisement and act at once. You have nothing to lose but yourself and your family.
WHAT IT WILL DO!
SYNTONA will cleanse your bowels (gradually—not drastic or severe), and, when you feel better, you will feel better.
It will bring out awful gases and impurities (frequently from the first dose) which may have been locked in the intestines for years. How many days or misery will banish? Many days of happiness and contentment will follow. Try SYNTONA.
SYNTONA will relieve acid conditions, sweeten the stomach, make sweet and clean, and give grand relief from acid indigestion, sour stomach, heartburn, shortness of breath and dizziness.
SYNTONA will help digestion and promote proper assimilation of food. It will relieve GAS, BLOAT and SOUR STOMACH.
SYNTONA will act as a diuretic to help the kidneys and bladder. It will counteract of impurities that may be causing backache, kidney pains and KIDNEY AT FAULT.

Science brings us methods which enable us to bring this formula to the people within reach of all sufferers. Formula heretofore to be had only by paying high prices for nerve-tonic-building kind of medicine.
It will make your liver more active, thus relieving spells of biliousness, headaches, dizziness, constipation and pruritis psalm, by ridding the body of poisons which cause sickly and irritable moods.
SYNTONA will put on skin eruptions and pimples, and, also in the eczema, will overcome the sallowness and make the skin clear, smooth and skin liver.
SYNTONA will make your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels more active, and you will feel good and happy. SYNTONA is a different MAN or WOMAN, younger than you have been for YEARS.
Compound cost only 25 cents. Get it today. Take it for a week. If not entirely satisfied, change or cold, within 30 days.

Britain And U.S. Commence Talks On Iranian Oil

Top-Level Talks Are Aimed At Solving Iran's Problem

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain and the United States today began top-level diplomatic and technical talks on problems connected with the return of Iranian oil to world markets.

Foreign Secretary Eden and American ambassador Winthrop Aldrich met at the foreign office with Herbert Hoover, Jr., the U. S. state department oil consultant, who flew here Wednesday after a two-week visit to Tehran.

They discussed diplomatic issues involved in the repair of the two-year breach between Britain and Iran, precipitated when the government of ex-premier Mohammed Mossadegh ousted the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company and seized its big Abadan refinery.

Also present were technical experts from the British ministry of fuel and power and the treasury.

NO IRANIAN PROPOSAL

Hoover, son of the former U. S. president, brought no specific proposals from the new Iranian government of Gen. Fazollah Zahedi.

Reuters learned that Britain is known to favor a restoration of diplomatic ties and trade relations and Tehran as a long step toward settling the oil dispute. Iran would be expected to agree in principle to the principle of an oil settlement before exchanging ambassadors again.

Technical problems include difficulties in putting Abadan back into operation after a long period of idleness, as well as the fact that the flow of Iranian oil would lead to a world glut. It is understood Britain is willing to see Iranian oil back in the markets at competitive prices, but John the United States in lending funds to Iran's financial crisis provided Zahedi will furnish proper compensation for the expropriated refinery.

Big Freighter To Be Launched On Saturday

MIDLAND (CP) — The 715-foot lighter, T. R. McLagan, largest ship ever built on the Great Lakes, will be launched at this Georgian Bay port Saturday.

The Canada Steamship Lines vessel will carry more than 600,000 bushels of grain a trip at a standard operating speed of 17 knots. If carrying coal or iron ore, she can handle a cargo of 26,000 tons.

The new 14-in-queen bears the name of the CSL president, Mrs. McLagan will sponsor the ship at the launching in the slipways of McLaid Shipyards Ltd.

A shakedown the full length of the cargo holds will enable crew members to go from one end of the ship to the other without stepping outside. Another comfort is television in two recreation rooms.

Power Project Construction Cleared by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today cleared the way for construction of the St. Lawrence river power project by the State of New York and the Province of Ontario.

The president signed an executive order designating the power authority of New York state as the United States partner in construction of the project.

The Canadian government already has designated the Ontario hydro-electric power commission of Ontario as its agency.

Eisenhower also set up, under today's order, the U.S. section of the St. Lawrence river joint board of engineers. He named Army Secretary Stevens as chairman of the federal power commission as the Canadian member.

Both, he said, will be under the United States' in lending funds to Iran's financial crisis provided Zahedi will furnish proper compensation for the expropriated refinery.

News Editor Of Varsity Resigns Post

TORONTO (CP) — Paul Bacon, news editor of The Varsity, University of Toronto undergraduate newspaper, has resigned.

Bacon said Wednesday night his resignation is caused by "a strong anti-American and socialistic political bias" in the editorial columns. A second year student at Trinity College, Bacon resigned after the Varsity published a letter protesting demonstrations against Joseph McCarthy, Republican senator from Wisconsin. The demonstrations followed the burning of an effigy of McCarthy on the University Campus last Saturday.

The letter, another editors frown on the methods used by McCarthy in fighting communism, and that any measures aimed at the destruction of communism are fair.

Metropolitan Toronto Green Belt Proposed

TORONTO (CP)—Establishment of a parks board to acquire 5,000 acres of green belt lands in the Metropolitan Toronto area was recommended Wednesday night to the metropolitan planning board.

Percy Ashley, Toronto planning director, said acquisition of the Don valley in the east and the Humber valley in the west for park purposes should come under the jurisdiction of the metropolitan council.

Solid Signs of Winter Seen In Most Parts of Eastern Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Solid signs of winter hit most of eastern Canada today as snow fell in some areas and cold winds and temperatures hovered in the 30s from Winnipeg to the Atlantic. However, the West continued to enjoy mild weather.

Seven inches of snow fell in the Sarnia area during the night. Up to an inch was reported from the London region. There were light flurries in the Ottawa area but no foundland got scattered snow.

The Dominion weather bureau said temperatures skidded to the low 20s during the night in most areas of the East with Sydney Arthur the coldest spot at eight above. Prairie points failed to hit the freezing mark and highs of 55 degrees were forecast for Alberta and most of Saskatchewan today.

Light rain fell in British Columbia today and the mercury hovered in the low 50s.

There were fewer skies in eastern Canada. Weather officials said they expect most of the snow to melt by nightfall.

RED STALLING BOGS DOWN, POW EXPLANATIONS

Two of 136 Interviewed Elect to Return Home

By JOHN RANDOLPH

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Communist efforts to coax home anti-Red Chinese and Korean war prisoners ground almost to a halt today as the stalling-Red "persuaders" dragged out interviews and walked out during even minor disputes.

Only 136 prisoners were interviewed all day. And only two of the 136* elected to return to Communism.

This was the smallest number of POWs to appear before Red explainers for any session of the talks since a fraction of the 492 prisoners the Communists asked to see.

Today's session was the resolution here that the Reds might be preparing to call off explanations which have won back only a handful of balky prisoners.

CHANGE SEEN

It was the second straight day of slow-down tactics by Communist delegates trying to change the lists of prisoners who have rejected repatriation.

Even though interviews average about one hour and 30 minutes each, the Reds have chalked up their poorest score in seven days. Wednesday's total was less than 1.5 per cent of the prisoners said they would go back to their Red-held areas again.

Only 61 of 2,020 prisoners interviewed to date have consented to go back.

Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the neutral nations repatriation commission, broke up the session's interviews with prisoners who obviously were anti-Red.

CLOSED SESSIONS

Meanwhile United States convoy Arthur Dean suggested today that the Allied and Communist diplomats abandon temporarily efforts to arrange a Korean peace conference and turn over to sub-committees disputes which have stalled the preliminary talks.

The Communists promptly said "no," then agreed to talk about it overnight.

Dean, noting that the high-level negotiators have got nowhere, told reporters he felt still advocated a "freer exchange of ideas." They presumably would be closed sessions.

Dean said the top delegates now "are just not ready to talk" and have "no give and take" in their deliberations.

The preliminary talks to arrange for the peace parley have been stalled for a week. They first got bogged down but neutrals be invited, and that this question lead the agenda for the Panmunjom discussions.

Mrs. N. Hodges Of B.C. Named To The Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today that Mrs. Nancy Hodges, first woman speaker in the British Columbia legislature, has been appointed to the senate.

The appointment of the 65-year-old Victoria MP to the senate brings to five the number of women senators. The strength of the female sex stands at 81 Liberals and eight Conservatives, with 13 vacancies.

Mrs. Hodges, a native of London, England, was Speaker of the British Columbia legislature from Dec. 13, 1949, until June, 1952. She was the first woman in Commonwealth history to be named Speaker of a legislature.

Division Quotas of Hospital Building Fund Announced By Chairmen Haig and Graham

Division objectives of the Hospital Building Fund have now been determined and have been accepted by the respective committees, it was jointly announced today by A. McLean Haig, general campaign chairman and T. C. Graham, of Tweed, county campaign chairman.

In a joint statement Mr. Haig and Mr. Graham said that objectives have been determined following a study of corporate and individual gifts which have been indicated and other potential sources of contributions.

The division objectives are divided as follows:

Special Corporations ... $250,000
National corporations in city and county doing business in the area the hospital serves.

Commerce & Industry .. $90,000
Local business firms and employees of larger companies in city and county.

Men's Division $180,000
Individual men, doctors and other professional people in Belleville.

Women's Division $65,000
Individual women, clubs and organizations and nurses.

County of Hastings Committees $25,000

Individual men and women, local business concerns, in key populated areas of county and service and organizations that are not being contacted by special names committees listed above.

Total $600,000

The public objective of $600,000 is in addition to grants amounting to $400,000 from the city of Belleville and County of Hastings and anticipated grants from provincial and federal governments.

The general public canvass of the campaign will begin Tuesday, November 24th but advance special canvass meetings of various corporations, local business firms, and individual men and women, is now taking place.

Rail Firemen and Enginemen Decide to Hold Strike Vote

MONTREAL (CP)—An official of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (Ind.) says a strike vote will be taken among 7,000 workers employed by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways.

W. E. Gamble, vice-president of the union, said a meeting between union and company officials was "unproductive."

He said negotiations for about two weeks before results of the voting were known.

The long-standing dispute stems from a representation clause in the union's contract. Until 1946 the union handled personal grievances of members and former members.

In 1946, the railways said they would deal only with the union by which the employee belonged. That meant a fireman presenting a grievance would be under the jurisdiction of another union and could not deal with the fireman's brotherhood.

The railways have described the dispute as a jurisdictional one between the brotherhoods to settle between themselves.

Two U.S. Air Lines Facing Canadian Reprisal Restriction

OTTAWA (CP) — Two United States air lines, Pan American and Colonial, have been asked by the Canadian air transport board to show cause by next Dec. 15 why they should not be restricted in certain operational practices on U. S.-Canadian routes.

The practices involved are Colonial's trans-border routes on the Atlantic seaboard and Pan American's west coast service to Alaska.

J. R. Baldwin, chairman of the board, said today the discontinuance of the practices referred to would not prejudice the board's interruption of the services.

The situation stems from the recent restrictions placed on Trans-Canada Air Lines by U. S. civil aviation authorities, interfering with their proposal to operate a Canada-Acapulco, Mexico service using a single aircraft for each flight.

ONE-PLANE PLAN BLOCKED

The U. S. civil aviation authority blocked the Acapulco service proposal to use a single aircraft to operate two services, in spite of the fact that there was no pickup of passengers in Tampa for the Mexican city flight.

When this action was taken the transport board said it immediately would review some of the existing operations of U. S. air lines in Canada.

The "show cause" order issued today is one of the actions carried out by the two air lines into and through Canada.

No Decision Reached

LINDSAY (CP)—An assize court jury Wednesday was unable to reach a decision in the trial of Arthur Eddington, 32, charged with rape.

Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven ordered Fairfield returned to jail to await either bail or the next court session.

The charge followed an offence in which a 20-year-old English immigrant girl last May 24 at the home of Eddington's mother. He pleaded innocent.

DULLES VACATIONING

WATERTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—State Secretary Dulles is spending a four-day vacation at his camp on Malo Duck Island in Lake Ontario. Mrs. Dulles and Allen Dulles arrived on Wednesday in a United States Air Force plane. They plan to return Sunday.

Winter's Near, Parking Meters To Hibernate

CHEBOYGAN, Mich. (AP)— Put this city along the straits of Mackinac down as lately born of the strangest landings of winter. It's the disappearance of parking meters.

City council has ordered them picked up Nov. 10 and stored until spring. Icy winds whipping between lakes Huron and Huron chill the oil, and they don't work properly in winter.

Police Doubt Any Connection Between Cases

TORONTO (CP)—Inspector of Detectives Archie McCaffie says it is doubtful that there is any connection between the fatal shooting last week of Fred Cameron and the beating Tuesday of Constable Frank Percy Gilters.

Earlier it was reported that youths had taken Cameron's Tuesday night in a raid on a downtown rooming house where Gilters was on both cases.

Gilters, 40-year-old special constable employed at Dufferin racetrack, told police he was driven to a deserted spot, robbed of a new car, then beaten and robbed of $45. He said one of the men spoke of knowing Cameron, 57-year-old investment firm manager whose bullet-riddled car body was found in a ditch 50 miles north of here.

SENTENCE REDUCED

SEOU L'AP)—The United States 8th Army forces commander has reduced the court-martial sentence of Lieut. George Schreiber, convicted of murder in the death of a Korean national, from life imprisonment to five years at hard labor. Schreiber was convicted by a general court-martial last August on charges of premeditated murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the fatal shooting of the Korean.

Eisenhower, Dulles Despair of Meeting Russia in Talks

Western Powers to Consult On Next Move To Be Made

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles apparently have despaired of negotiating major world problems with Russia any time soon on a basis acceptable to them.

The Soviet Union two days ago rejected the latest invitation from the United States, Britain and France to attend a foreign ministers' meeting on Germany and Austria.

The Western powers were due to consult today on their next move. Informed sources said they were told nothing whether any further bid would be sent to the Kremlin.

The Western governments are far more concerned about the impact of Moscow's latest message on opinion in France and elsewhere in Western Europe than they are about Russia's behavior in the present circumstances. The hope is particularly has been preserving for early approval of the projected European Defence Community.

ANOTHER MESSAGE

If, for reasons of Western European political unity, it is necessary to send another message to Moscow, it likely will be soon. But, as officials here hope, Russian opposition to negotiation will condemn any such message as unacceptable to the West now is sufficiently established to promote EDC ratification, then the long series of East-West exchanges will be ended.

President Eisenhower, in an extraordinary statement issued Wednesday at his press conference, accused the Soviet Union of blocking attempts by the U.S. and its allies to "get to grips with the Soviet" on major world problems."

The president said the Russians showed no sign of wanting to get together with the Western powers but, on the contrary, disclosed "an intention to create as many difficulties as possible."

Before the U.S., British and France is that Russia should agree to unification of Germany without killing EDC because, they argue, the defence organization is the strongest European stability and peace

NOT INTERESTED

At Bonn, Germany, the Christian Democratic party of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared that the recent Russian note "shows that Moscow is not interested in finding a solution to the problem."

The note is intended to encourage those elements in Europe which are unsympathetic to the European Defence Community."

Officials here regard the note as indicating the Russians want no part of EDC or of the rest of the Western defence system—a natural enough reaction since it is being built with the Soviet Union as the expansion in Europe.

The result seems likely to be a continuing diplomatic stalemate.

RITUAL MURDERS

JOHANNESBURG (CP) — Tribal ritual murders in the territory of Bechuanaland have risen sharply, according to reliable native sources to the utmost, an official here said Wednesday. Thirty-six ritual murders last year totalled 16, the highest figure since the record 2 in 1946.

Swedish Bishop Facing Charges Of Slander

UPPSALA, Sweden (Reuters)—A 51-year-old Protestant bishop was charged today with criminally slandering a rival candidate in a church election in anonymous letters to the clergy in his diocese.

The defendant in the case, called the biggest sensation of the century in the Swedish state church, is Bishop Dick Adolf Victor Helander.

He was charged before the Archdeacon of Strasegnaes, central Sweden, in October last year. He is a nephew of Mr. Hammarskjold, secretary general of the United Nations.

RIVALS ATTACKED

Shortly before the election, clergy in the diocese began receiving unsigned letters attacking them to vote for Helander and attacking a rival candidate, Provost Ivar Hylander, and an Uppsala clergyman, Rev. Erik Segelberg, considered to be present at Russian note "shows that Moscow is not interested in finding a solution to the problem."

The note is intended to encourage those elements in Europe which are unsympathetic to the European Defence Community."

Officials here regard the note as indicating the Russians want no part of EDC or of the rest of the Western defence system—a natural enough reaction since it is being built with the Soviet Union as the expansion in Europe.

The result seems likely to be a continuing diplomatic stalemate.

THREE DOUBLES

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP)—A third consecutive set of twins were born Wednesday to Mrs. Ralph S. Truscott, Jr., of Mt. Vernon, N.H., and the twin girls were reported in good condition. The twins arrived three minutes apart, weighed five pounds, 13 ounces, and five pounds, 12 ounces. The twins, both girls, were born in 1948, and the second set, both boys, in 1951.

To End Meat Rationing in Britain By Restoring Private Trading in 1954

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's government announced today it will restore Britain's vast meat industry to private ownership and management and simultaneously end rationing and price control of meat and bacon.

Control over the meat industry—including the selling—was imposed as a wartime measure. But it was continued by the Labor government whose leadership condemned rationing as a class device to get the most out of the country's limited resources.

The white paper said the annual turnover of the industry before the war was £300,000,000 home produced and more than £200,000,000 imported.

"Under any rationing and allocation system, the distribution and trade of this size and complexity to satisfy individual consumer demand to the extent that the large number of private traders did before the war.

"When control was imposed at the outbreak of war it was clearly understood that the private traders would have their businesses returned when the need for control had passed. And this obligation must be honored."

Hard to Discover Any Sign Reds Modify Hostility

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Eden said today, "It is hard to find any sign that the Soviet government has modified its fundamental hostility to the Western nations."

Their propaganda continues just as before," Eden told the House of Commons, "It is to be carried out through strikes, through the fomenting of anti-American feeling and exploiting colonial unrest.

"Nor is it encouraging to see what is happening behind the Iron Curtain. The policy of lighter control in eastern Germany, of which there was some evidence after the death of Stalin, has been abandoned and we see a new period of oppression."

SOME OPERATING CREWS ON C.N.R. ARE LAID OFF

Lack of wheat movement to the eastern seaboard has resulted in a cut-back in the number of freight trains being operated by the railroads with result that several operating crews in Belleville have been laid off, it was learned today.

It is reported that at least nine freight crews, affecting approximately 45 men, had been temporarily laid off.

TWELVE OF 22 CASES LISTED DIVORCE ACTIONS

A total of 22 cases were listed for trial at the non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court which are underway this week at the Hastings county court buildings before Honorable Mr. Justice Spence. Twelve of the 22 cases listed were divorce actions, and most of the balance being civil actions arising out of motor accidents.

WARDEN, SIDNEY REEVE, AWARDED CORONATION MEDALS

Two Hastings county councillors have been honored by the presentation of Her Majesty's Coronation Medals, it was learned today. Warden Jack Kincaid, reeve of Madoc village, and Fred Mitchell, reeve of Thurlow township, both have been honored with Coronation medals.

Seasonal Work About at End, 425 Unemployed

With seasonal work about at an end for another year, the number of unemployed in the Belleville area is on the upswing. It was reported today by Mr. H. H. Reed, manager of the local employment service.

The number of persons "on claim" at the present time at the Belleville office was said to be 425. The peak of employment was during the summer months when a total of 283 persons were "on claim."

Building activity in the Belleville area was not great during the past summer, it was said, principally to the erection of dwellings. Employment officials expect that when construction of the two new schools planned for Belleville and Trenton starts, the current slack in the construction trades will be taken up slightly.

Community Chest Still $6,018.61 Short of Objective

The Belleville Community Chest campaign is still $6,018.61 short of its objective of $28,000, which represents the minimum financial requirements of the 14 participating agencies. According to the latest report from campaign headquarters receipts now total $21,981.39 or 78.5% of the goal.

Most of the divisions have now completed their canvassing. There have been a total of 9,835 contributions as compared to 3,633 donations a year ago.

Mrs. Fred Vedress, a former near Brighton, has a number of these aircraft, which saw service during the Second World War, many of them heroes in their own right, now in civilian life. Two of these planes are Canso, amphibious aircraft used for anti-sub work during war years, that is to say, when they flew they could make a landing on either land or water. Popular name for the Canso and navy ship Catalina is, "Flying boat."

PURCHASED AT GUNNVILLE

Mr. Vedress purchased his Cansos from Dunnville, took them to his farm at Brighton and has been gradually stripping them down and making use of their parts to manufacture other items. He got the idea of turning one of the planes into a boat when he cut off the wings and tail, cut out a cockpit and following a few trial runs and Little Lake is now the hull down to Chappell's boat of that year.

Canso Plane Being Converted Into Lake-Going Cruiser

Many members of R.C.A.F. air crew, if they have an ounce of sentiment in their make-up, probably wondered what happened to the aircraft they served in during the Second World War. A great number of their planes met fields across Europe and Asia. Others they be found rotting in some aircraft graveyard scattered in England, Canada and the U.S.A. An exceptionally few of the number is heard from after undergoing a conversion period. One such place, now in the city, is presently in the process of being transformed from air to water travel and the work is being done in a Belleville boat yard.

Two of these planes are Canso, amphibious aircraft used for anti-sub work during war years, that is to say, when they flew they could make a landing on either land or water. UNIQUE VESSEL

Mr. Chappell said that when completed, the Canso will certainly be one of the most unique vessels on the lakes today, but she will not be lacking in comfort and will certainly give a fine account of herself. As estimated her top speed at 20 miles per hour.

The RCAF still has Cansos in use. The main reason they are not seen too frequently in this area is because most of them are on air force bases on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. They are presently being used for air sea rescue. Canada's main rescue unit, 103 Search and Rescue Unit, is stationed at Greenwood. Two of these Cansos in 1950. One crashed in a rescue attempt at sea. This is far north in August of that year.

Close to 1,300 Attend Run Of Blithe Spirit

Close to 1,300 people attended the two-night run of the Belleville Theatre Guild's production "Blithe Spirit" according to figures released this morning by Theatre Guild treasurer, Jules Abramsky.

Wednesday night's attendance approached 750. Attendance at the Tuesday night opening with attendance at Guild productions in the past, said Mr. Abramsky, expressing the Guild's satisfaction at the public's support.

H. B. Simpson, president of the Theatre Guild, stated that it was a satisfactory production from the Guild's viewpoint as he praised the work of director Syd Rose and the cast.

"A play such as Blithe Spirit requires a great deal of co-operation from the dramatic personnel," he said, "and it was evident that this co-operation had been achieved."

A list of the behind stage personnel which inadvertently omitted in Wednesday's edition follows—assistant to the director, Joy Wonnacott; production, Jonnie Mitchell; stage manager, Stuart Robb; stage design, Phillipe Faulkner assisted by Doris Chiles, Dolly Cain, Micky Thomas, Mary Deacon; lighting, Ed Richards; music, Jack Willard; sound; special effects, Bill Kellett; properties, Muriel Tombs, Mary Deacon; make-up, Mary Doyle, Milda Dandeneau; ticket sale and program, Jean Ryan, Nat May; and ushers Jean Abramsky, Pearl Mire, Nubia Dodds, Micky Thomas, Jean Sisler, Eva Benger, Mary Mouli, Winnone Lewis, Mary McDougall and Joan Rickards.

Businessmen Seem to Favor United Appeal

TORONTO (CP)—What should a company give to charitable causes, and to whom should it give?

A group of Canadian business men put these questions to a one-month huddle on the double-barrelled question.

They give it a specific answer, but they do give, in book form, information intended to help individual firms arrive at their own answers; and they do seem to favor the united appeal for funds, rather than the many appeals now made.

The information indicates that money given to the Red Cross has priority give in a haphazard fashion, although there is a move towards careful planning.

The book, to appear shortly, is entitled "Corporate Giving in Canada." A committee of 15 industrial and financial executives supervised the preparation. 105 corporations contributed to its cost; and 878 corporations and 97 individuals in health, welfare, education and recreational fields co-operated in the study.

George M. Black, Jr., of Toronto was committee chairman. A speech by Mr. Black in May, 1951, launched the discussions among business men. William H. Mustard of the Banting Institute, Dr. Mustard is also one of the top-ranking surgeons of Canada, Toronto and Children.

Dr. Stobie is the son of Dr. George H. Stobie and Mrs. Stobie, formerly of this city and now of Toronto.

Spot Survey Shows Y.M.C.A. Busy Building

A spot survey of the usage of YMCA club and meeting facilities today reveals that the "Y" is a busy building. The following figures are related to meetings of various groups which were held at the YMCA during the period from Wednesday, October 14 to Wednesday, October 22. During the first week or a period of six days, which the "Y" was closed on Sundays there were 18 different meetings held for a total attendance of 582 persons. Of these, 10-were activities involving membership. The YMCA alone; the other eight meetings were conducted by non-YMCA organizations or were "Y" sponsored events for people in the community.

The second six-day period accounts for eight meetings all involving 944 persons. Twelve of these were directly of community groups and the remaining involved members of the YMCA. Size of these groups ranged from meetings at which 330 people were served in groups ranging from 40 to 100 persons.

The following are some of the groups which met during that period: Pilot Club (YMCA); Public Speaking Course for Belleville residents; Belleville Y's Men's Club (affiliated with YMCA); Quinte District Forestmen's Club (affiliated with the YMCA); Public Speaking Course; this committee; Pre-Natal Clinic (sponsored by Belleville Y's Mettes); Girls' Hi-Y Club (YMCA); Field Evangelism Fellowship group; Public Speaking Course for Foremen; Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Firemen; Belleville Chamber of Commerce; Registered Nurses; Veterian Order of Nurses; Women's Christian Temperance Union and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The general secretary of the YMCA, Mr. Lloyd Skeaff, in commenting on this survey—stated "These figures are only related to meetings held in our club and meeting rooms and do not include persons using the facilities in our physical department. It will be noted that there are more than 300 people taking part in our physical program daily. Therefore, approximately 250 individuals a day are active in the building."

"We are pleased that more and more community groups are making to use our facilities," declared Mr. Skeaff. "Probably this is due to the fact that we have facilities for groups wishing to hold dinner or supper meetings."

33 Register For Clinic On Basketball

Di Diamantides, physical director of the Y.M.C.A., reports that:

Thirty-three candidates (17 adults and 16 students) have registered so far for the basketball officials' clinic, conducted by the physical education department of the Y.M.C.A. in conjunction with the Ontario Amateur Basketball Association, next Saturday, November 15th at the Y.M.C.A.

The candidates represent the RCYP; Alliscollege; the Royal Canadian School of Artillery, Picton; the O.S.D.; Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, Trenton; the RCAF, Trenton, and the YMCA. It is expected that other institutions, which includes basketball in their program of physical activities, will be represented.

Leader of the clinic is Stan Mickelford, from Toronto, eastern Zone secretary of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association, who will be assisted by Jack Keay, also from Toronto, an active referee and first vice-president of Toronto and District Basketball Association.

The clinic, which starts at 2.30 Saturday morning, will be both theoretical and practical, and has an opportunity for basketball players wishing to become active referees and for referees to refresh themselves on the new rules of the game.

Briefly, the schedule includes "discussion and explanation of the rules in the morning", a "Rules' Quiz" between 3.30 - 3.00 p.m., "Floor demonstration of various infractions and violations" at 3 p.m., following by "practical practice of referee in game situations" under the supervision of the two Toronto officials.

Speckled Trout Mystery Solved By Biologist

The mystery of the missing speckled trout has been solved.

Conservation officer John A. Shannon of Madoc was puzzled when he received a report from the cause of much discussion and argument.

It seems that although the stocking of speckled trout has been carried out for some time, the boys were not getting any results.

As a result, on only three speckled beauties had been caught since the stocking.

The biologist Ken Irizawa had an idea. He tested the lake with a gill net and what came up? In an hour-and-a-half he produced numerous suckers, five pickerel and one lone trout.

Someone apparently, with an eye to good pickerel fishing in the future, had introduced this type of fish into the lake, possibly in ignorance of the detrimental effect it would have on the trout population.

The Canniffton community and

Two Cannifton Families Homeless Due to House Fire

Sparks from a neighbor's burning brush pile were believed responsible for a fire which razed a two-storey frame dwelling at Cannifton causing approximately $7,000 damage and leaving two families homeless.

The two-family dwelling was a complete loss and all furniture and personal possessions were destroyed. Owner of the house is Mrs. Moore, Cannifton.

With Mrs. Moore lived 19-year old son Lawrence and two small girls, wards of the Children's Aid Society. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bell and their six-year-old son, Thomas, lived in another part of the house.

Mrs. Boyle was the only member of the two families at home when the fire took place. Using the family telephone she called Belleville as a shoe store clerk she was doing the family wash, when a neighbor pounded on her door, stating the roof of the house was on fire.

She raced a quarter of a mile to where her husband, Mrs. Moore was attending a W.I. bazaar, but by the time the two women arrived back at the house the fire had progressed to a point, where police have little chance of assistance to the burning house.

"If I had been at home I could have saved much of my furniture," Mrs. Moore tearfully stated today. Much of Mrs. Moore's furniture was antique, some of it well over 100 years old.

WELL QUICKLY EMPTIED.

Belleville firemen fought desperately to save the house but by the time they arrived on the scene the fierce blaze had burned down through the roof and fire-men were forced to fight by lack of water. A nearby well was quickly emptied and firemen were forced to draw their supply from trucks from the nearest city hydrants over a mile away.

Flames sie quickly through the dwelling and a fire wall prevented 25 feet into the air as they were fanned by a brisk wind, which blew embers to the roofs of nearby buildings. The roof of a nearby barn caught fire and a bystander killed the flames by tearing off shingles with his hands.

Firemen stayed on the job until 11 o'clock last night and returned to the scene early this morning when embers in the basement of the structure flamed up. Neighbors served coffee and refreshments to firemen standing on guard.

Polish Police Arrest Bishop

BERLIN (AP)—Polish security police have arrested the Roman Catholic bishop of Ermland (Warmia) in the Baltic area and taken him away in handcuffs, the Catholic diocese of Berlin reported today.

The church said in its weekly newspaper Kirche, that Bishop Adelbert Zink was arrested in his episcopal palace and his church records seized after a search.

Thirty agents of the Polish secret police broke into the bishop's headquarters, threatened him with pistols and then handcuffed him, the diocesan newspaper said, adding that neither the British radio nor press has been permitted to make the incident public.

the Elks Lodge in Belleville were quick to offer aid to the two burned out families and an unselfish appeal is being made for clothing, furniture and housing accommodation. Already four boxes of clothing have been collected and a meeting for one of the families has been offered. Anyone in the city who will can be accepted by officers of the Elks Lodge, or by Mrs. G. Blakely of Canniffton.

NEWSPAPER MAN DIES

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis. (AP)—Arthur Cleveland, 71, veteran midwest newspaper man and circulation field representative for the Milwaukee Sentinel since 1938, died yesterday in City and at the old Evening Wisconsin and Wisconsin News in Milwaukee in 1910, became affiliated with the Milwaukee Journal and later worked on the Chicago Tribune from 1926 to 1938.

Dr. G. Stobie Jr. Delivers Paper To Surgical Group

A new development in the repair of fractured nerves was reported in a paper at Montreal last week read by a young doctor well known here, Dr. George Stobie Jr., speaking before the Royal College of Surgeons of Canada described the results of long research in this important phase of surgical practice.

The problem that has faced surgeons has been the clotting of blood during the repair of arteries which have been badly damaged by accidents or war injuries. To overcome this difficulty, Dr. Stobie has developed a new type graft plan tube or cannula which, along with an anticoagulant drug and a heparin drip, keeps the blood flowing without clot blockage.

As a result, arms and legs which have had to be amputated in the past will now be saved through the use of this method.

Dr. Stobie, who is taking post graduate study in Toronto has been working for some time under Dr. William H. Mustard at the Banting Institute. Dr. Mustard is also one of the top-ranking surgeons of Canada, Toronto and Children.

Dr. Stobie is the son of Dr. George H. Stobie and Mrs. Stobie, formerly of this city and now of Toronto.

Two U.S. Experts Discuss Greek Air Bases Plan

ATHENS (CP)—United States Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, U. S. Air Force chief of staff, left for Turkey today after discussing a master plan for American air bases in Greece.

Greece on Oct. 12 signed an agreement allowing U. S. forces to use Greek air and naval bases. Talbott said before leaving that it will be three or four months before the air base plan can be implemented, but that American experts now are in Greece to work out the details.

Twining said the U. S. will supply advanced types of jet aircraft to Allied countries under the mutual defence assistance program "just as soon as they are available."

There were plans in Washington to begin replacing the F-84 Thunderjets, now being provided to open countries, with "more advanced aircraft."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed in active forenoon stock market trading today. Volume for the first hour was 851,000 shares.

Industrials slipped from a firm opening as refining oils, retail stores and utilities were slightly lower. Foods and liquors remained higher.

Base metals were mixed as International Nickel and Hudson Bay slipped and Noranda, Falconbridge Steep Rock gained. Most juniors remained steady.

Golds were higher as holding companies and seniors gained. Bellevue led juniors with a 10-cent gain.

Western oils were unchanged as Triad, Devon Leduc and Canadian Pipeline slipped, offsetting opening gains in Merrill Consolidated Williston and General. Trading increased.

Uraniums were lower as New Bidlamaque, New Dalhi, New Normetal and Parbec dropped pennies. New Normore was most active with a first-hour volume of 90,000 shares.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Trade was dull with prices too few to establish a price trend at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: Cattle 90; calves 20; hogs 120; sheep and lambs none; holdover total Wednesday 1,900 cattle.

Medium quality steers 15.50-17; a few good weighty 18; medium to good cows 9-10.25; good heavy bulls 11.50-13.50; plain light steers 12-15.

Calves were steady at 23-25 for choice vealers, with grassers 9-11.

Hogs were steady at 21 for grade A with dressed sows 22.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Trading was normal at the egg market. Prices were unchanged, checking recent weakness. A four-to-five-cent drop was recorded since Monday. Lowest retail quotations today were 63-65 for grade A large, 51 cents for A medium and 48-49 cents for A small.

Quotations for graded eggs in first hands: A large 45-46; A medium 35; A small 31-32; B 25; C 20. Wholesale to retail: A large 50-51; A medium 4; A small 36-37; B 40; C 35.

POLAR BEARS?

PORT COLBORNE (CP) — The temperature dipped to 42 degrees Wednesday and Port Colborne had its first snowfall of the season. Yet Jerry Belanger, 16, and Jim Ballin, 18, spent 20 minutes swimming in the Welland canal.

ASK REVISIONS

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Property Owners' Association Wednesday asked that a royal commission be appointed to revise the Ontario Municipal Act and the Ontario Assessment Act. The association's resolution termed the acts "out of date" and "out of keeping with modern communities."

Bishop Installs Rev. E. Johnston As Incumbent

BANCROFT — At an impressive Service of Witness at St. John's Anglican church, the Rev. E. Owen Johnston was installed as incumbent of Bancroft and Missioner of North Hastings by the Right Rev. Kenneth Evans, Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario.

More than 170 people, the largest congregation ever recorded at the church, attended the service. Among the large number of prominent churchmen in attendance was the Right Rev. Heber Wilkinson, Bishop of Amritsar, India.

LETTER OF INSTITUTION.

The Letter of Institution was read by the Ven. J. B. Creeggan, rector of Belleville, and Archdeacon of Ontario, and the lesson by the Rev. A. R. Bousfield, rector of Trenton and Rural Dean of Hastings.

Master of ceremonies was the Rev. Douglas P. Burns, assistant to the Dean of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston.

The Rev. Walter Smith, missionary to the Tyendinaga Mohawk Indian Reserve, acted as chaplain to Bishop Wilkinson and the Rev. Tom Harris, of the General Board of Religious Education, filled a similar office to Bishop Evans.

OTHERS PRESENT.

Other clergy present were the Ven. N. R. Stout, rector of Gananoque and Archdeacon of Frontenac; the Rev. F. O. Ware, Archdeacon of Lennox and Addington, and the Rev. Canon Beech, Rector of Stirling.

In the parish hall after the service, Bishop Wilkinson showed color pictures and told of his work among the natives of India.

Refreshments were served by the women of the church's churches of the Mission Field.

Bishop Wilkinson also addressed the High School Assembly, impressing upon the students the importance of having a worthwhile goal of service in their life's work.

New Organ Is Dedicated

FRANKFORD — The service last Sunday evening in the United Church was a memorable one for the members and adherents, who completely filled the church auditorium, when a new Hammond organ was dedicated to the glory of God and in memory of Mrs. Ethel Southworth and Mr. and Mrs. Spencer.

Following the dedication by Rev. Mr. Clarke, Mr. Dean Whalen, formerly of Belleville, and now with the Heintzman Company of Toronto, was introduced earlier in the service by Mr. G. S. Martin, played as his first selection "Bless This House." Mr. Whalen presided at the organ for the remainder of the service.

Mr. Clarke's sermon was appropriately based on the significance of music as a part of church worship.

The choir, under the leadership of Mrs. G. S. Martin, rendered the Thanksgiving anthem, "Praise Ye the Lord."

Following the benediction and at the invitation of Mr. Clarke the congregation remained for a fine musical given by Mr. Whalen.

The appt attention given the rendition of the various numbers showed the keen appreciation of the large audience which was expressed by Mr. Clarke at the conclusion of the recital.

Sen. Fraser, Ex-Mayor Couch Honored on Appreciation Day

TRENTON, (Special)—A British Trade Commissioner, the United States Consul at Toronto and a large group of out-of-town and local industrialists and businessmen lauded the achievements of Senator W. A. Fraser and Ex-Mayor Kenneth Couch as the men responsible for Trenton's industrial expansion during the last two years.

They were especially honored at a dinner climaxing "Industrial Appreciation Day" at the Quinte Way Hotel last night.

A large representation of British, American and Canadian industry listened attentively to an eloquent address by Cyril Lyle, director of the Trade and Industry branch for the province of Ontario.

During his talk which reviewed the growing prosperity of Canada province by province Col. Lyle predicted that by 1960 Trenton will have a population of 20,000 people and stressed that Trentonians must keep the development with a great deal of foresight. He recommended that Trenton planners earmark another 200 or 300 acres for industrial development. He advised them to act soon. Presently 75 acres of suitable land for industrial sites remains in Trenton.

For Trenton to grow from a one-half million dollar industry the importance of spending money on improvements and services shouldering today's Mayor and Council with the responsibility you have, in a tremendous future before you in coming years, he pointed out. It is outstanding itself. By location itself, I think the new companies located here will bear me out. Trenton is on the fringe of the 100-mile area made by Ft. Erie, Toronto, "The seaway when it comes through is going to have a terrific impact on the area," he added.

SEES NO LEVELLING OFF

Discussing business possibilities for 1954, Col. Lyle said, "Personally I can't get alarmed with talk of levelling off. There is nothing in sight in the States to be frightening."

Talking about the progress of Trenton he noted that the populations of two Trentons was added to the province every month. "Last year", he said, "126 new industries located in the province. He foresaw that they draw money from not only Canada but from the four corners of the earth. "Money reaching town coffers, he explained, meant lifebload to the community."

He emphasized that industry locates where it pay industry to locate. Much depends on raw materials, labor and markets, he said. Telling his listeners "you have to create confidence in not only the community but the individuals in it," the Senator said: "It is with considerable personal pride that I tell you about people, who had confidence enough to spend $1,500,000 in Trenton without a deed for the land they located on."

Ex-Mayor Kenneth J. Couch referred to as "the other half of our dynamite twins" paid tribute to the heads of industries locating in Trenton throughout the years. He brought attention to the old established industries.

Mayor R. E. Whitley welcomed the guests with the assurance he would continue to sell Trenton during his term of office.

SPEAKER HONORED

Senator Fraser and Mr. Couch shared the honors of introducing the new industrialists and the firms they represent. Those called on to take a bow were: Fred G. Ash and Don Whitaker, Quaker Oats of Canada; E. Gordon Davies and Tom Joycey, Frymetal of Canada; Thomas Sarl Williams, J. K Vivian and John Haggerty of Williams and Williams of Canada; J. T. Hearn of Canadian Canners; Harry J. W. Lawrence of Canada Packers; Ed Goldsmith and Les Elliott, Essex Electrics of Canada; J. Pfeffer of Erie Resistor of Canada.

Chairman O. W. Larry organizer of the Appreciation Day program received special mention sponsored by J. E. Vivian of Williams & Williams. R. R. Park proposed the vote of thanks to the invited guests, ter introduced by J. E. Turnbull of Toronto.

Presentations of scrolls to Senator Fraser and Mr. Couch were made by F. G. Ash, President of the Trenton Retail Merchants and Lions Club.

WORKING HOLIDAY

LINCOLN, England (CP)—Typists from London earned about £3 a day, picking potatoes near here. They said they were cheaper but they compensates for the backaches.

sents, the Lions' Club, the Canadian Legion and local merchants concluded the evening.

Refreshments were served by the lunch committee.

Child Upbringing Is Discussed

BANCROFT — Finding of various discussion groups relating to controversial subjects connected with child upbringing made interesting listening at Friday's regular meeting of the Home and School held at the school with president, Mrs. A. Hewitt, in the chair.

A group, led by Mrs. J. Brown thought that children should receive a regular spending allowance beginning at school age and increasing gradually, the amount to be decided in relation to the state of family finances. The spending of this allowance should be supervised by parents. The group thought also that teenagers should receive payment for work which would otherwise have to be paid for.

PARENTS' FUNCTION

The function of parents in child training was discussed by a group led by Mrs. G. Fresque which considered that, whilst the mother must play the primary role in child discipline, parental agreement on this subject was most important and that family conferences were the ideal solution.

Sleeping routine was stressed by Mrs. A. Smith's group. Children should retire at their regular time regardless of other family affairs. Variations of bedtime should not be used as a threat of punishment or promise of reward.

COMPANIONSHIPS

The part of adults in children's companionships was discussed by a group led by Mrs. K. Goodkey. Parents should guide their children in their selection of playmates but should not criticize. Children should be encouraged to bring friends home and to join organized groups.

Retiring president Gordon Fresque asked that a committee be formed to supervise skating at the school rink on three evenings per week when lights and music will be available. The following volunteered to serve on this committee: Mrs. A. Weiss, Mrs. M. Ray, Mrs. A. Hewitt and Mrs. Robinson.

Treasurer Mrs. W. Delyea reported a balance of $239.04.

MUST GET AT ROOT OF PROBLEM

Many gloomy Malthusians, aghast at the multiplying population of the past, have been predicting disaster as these hungry hordes in each generation bring eventual world starvation ever closer. They point out that the total population of the globe three centuries ago was 400,000,000. In the next 150 years the population rose to 870,000,000 and by 1900 it had nearly doubled again to one billion six hundred million. Today there are 2,400,000,000 people estimated to be in the world—five times the number three centuries ago.

Statistics released in a new book, "The Limits of the Earth" by Mr. Fairfield Osborne, reveal that only in Ireland has emigration provided a solution to the problem of an ever-expanding population. But he points out that in the 19th century famine and disease also played a significant role in reducing Ireland's population from 8,500,000 to its present figure of 4,500,000. In the past 100 years 35,000,000 have emigrated from Italy despite that Italy's population growth has been the highest in Europe.

The question of reducing population has been given serious consideration by the United Nations health organization. Also being studied are the practices of birth control in India. Without discussing the moral implications of such a program, we would like to state that such a policy is shortsighted because its planners have failed to grasp the true significance of the problem.

Self preservation is the first law of nature and everywhere there is evidence that nature is magically watchful when the existence of the species is endangered. The more precarious the existence of any member of the zoological world, insects, fish, birds, mammals and man, the more fantastic is the process of propagation. Where longevity of the species insures its continuance, the rate of reproduction is subsequently diminished.

In the case of the civilized man we have in our own generation evidence that material prosperity and economic stability—conditions that make the raising of larger families possible—have had the opposite effect in reducing the size of the average family.

The only sudden increase in the birth rates of the western world has accompanied the peak years of World Wars, lending more support to the premise that conditions of uncertainty and the subsequent endangering of the species as a whole is the only measure that nature has to impinge on population growth.

It would seem therefore, more reasonable to reduce population by raising the standards of living of the underprivileged groups and thereby lessen the emotional and physical climate of harassed populations. Telling people in a country such as India, where the average life expectancy is less than 30 years, to practice control is not realistic. The Indian seeks just as passionately to preserve his race as anyone else and when the prospect of elimination confronts his family for years the only blackspot he knows is a pyramiding birth rate.

The problems of population in the far east, becoming ever more acute in the conscience of the west, will not be solved overnight by any means. But they will not be solved at all when the basic reasons for their existence are not properly evaluated, and when corrective measures are aimed at the results and not the cause of the problem.

ADENAUER'S HAMBURG VICTORY

The victory of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's forces over the Socialists in the Hamburg state elections on Sunday was of international importance. Because Hamburg state governor was ousted, a supporter of Adenauer will have the power to appoint the state's three representatives in the upper house of the federal parliament. There is disappointment will give Adenauer's coalition the two-thirds majority it needs to win approval for the rearming of West Germany. The Socialists have vigorously opposed this amendment. Observant readers may by now, well aware of that fact. But it is not so certain that it has been made plain that this opposition by the Socialists to rearmament is the latest in a long series of lengthy political history, and is by no means to be taken as an indication that the Socialists lean toward the Communists.

Certainly will remember that it was the demands of the Socialists which forced the abdication of the Kaiser in November of 1918. Friedrich Ebert, leader of the Majority Socialists, formed the chancellorship of the Reich and, (in the words of William E. Lingelbach, professor of European history at the University of Pennsylvania writing in the January issue of American Mercury) "the first democracy dictatorship in order to prevent Bolshevism and prepare the way for a constitutional democracy in which capitalism and the socialism would peacefully coexist."

The moderation of the provisional government under Ebert angered the Independent Socialists, who revolted. Their rebellion crushed, "Unwittingly," observes Lingelbach, "the Socialists, after crippling their own strength by crushing the Left, prepared the way first, for the bourgeois parties to succeed, for the counter-revolution and the triumph of the reactionary Right," the National Socialists of Hitler.

It is evident from this that the Socialists come honestly by their opposition to re-arming Germany. It is not the product of any love of the Communists or distrust of the western democracies, but of a long history of struggle against Prussian militarism, which dates back to the earliest days of the party. The Socialists have been unable to overcome this deeply ingrained trust of the military. Critics charge that their policies stand must rest on as attack on that short-sightedness which is unable to distinguish between the expansionistic policies of the Kaiser and of Hitler and the defensive alliance envisioned by the states planning an European army.

FATHER FAILURE

If those I love would rather be What had I done (at fearful cost)
With others oftener than with me, That I their confidence had lost?
I think I'd failed them all, When help they need, how sad,
And I ... It be
Don't search myself to find out No longer they will turn to me?
why

Had I in an ill-tempered way Commanded them elsewhere to play
Had I such violence displayed To make them all of me afraid? Then of myself I'd be ashamed.

If they ranked others me above I'd know that I had lost their love,
If kinder men than I they named.

"Come out with your hands up!" is a traditional police order to a rascal who has been cornered. The afternoon brought in for holding one too many in a woman, however, clarified the order in different tactic.

A piece of incidental intelligence, passed on to Miss Sheila Tenn, has learned from bitter experience that a they women is more easily deprived of her high heels. Self-defence dictates the wearing 'em in with their shoes off."

DO YOU BELIEVE IN CHARITY?

"Go break to the heedy sweet charity's bread.

For giving is living," the angel said:

"And must I be giving and giving again?"

My peevish and pitiless answer ran:

"Oh, no," said the angel, his glance piercing me through;

"Just give till the Master stops giving to you."

Do you believe in charity? Can any fancy "ism" take its place?

A New Word

(Carswell Standard-Freehalder)

If you want to suggest in a nice way that someone's ideas are a little addled, refer to him as a "psychoceramic." It is a nice little word, coined by a couple in the United States, and its less acceptable translation is "crackpot."

This caution is defended on the grounds that women drunks, fuming over arrest and resenting questioning, tend to seize a shoe and quickly tap the offending officer on the head with it. This impulse, presumably, is not restricted to high-spirited southern girls or high-heeled shoe, enough with vigor and careful aim, get results and impression on any cop, and especially on his head. At this point the fair prisoner yields an urge to bop the lady right back, or charge her with assault, or something. Instead, being a suitable solution, procedure almost between gentlemen at least, is to remove the offensive weapon.

Besides, the cold, hard floors of police stations take a lot of the belligerence out of stocking-footed prisoners.

New York Now a Capital

(New York Times)

Unified Nations Day has special interest for New Yorkers, since the multi-action organization has made world capital of Our Town. Unique among the great cities of the world, New York was a political capital only for the briefest period, when the new United States Government was organized in 1789. Then on the first leg of a trip that was eventually to put it on the northern bank of the Potomac. From Imperial Rome to Victorian London the great cities have all been political as well as commercial and cultural centers. Even New Yorkers have had to travel north to Albany or south to Washington whenever they have anything political in their minds that goes beyond the municipal. It has been said that New York has been ended — and in New York's characteristically big way. For Our Town has become not a national capital but one that at current reading embraces eight nations.

This has put been a completely one-way deal. A certain transfer of sovereignty has taken places with the arrival within our gates of the United Nations. The 18 blocks bounded by Forty-second and Forty-eighth Streets, between First Avenue and the East River are no longer a part of the United States. They are, in effect, a part of the enclave of an independent entity. The United Nations is referred to as "this Government" but merely as the "host nation." The Belgian Delegation's First Avenue within the appointed area is no longer Belgium. It is a foreign country as if he had been whisked away by one of the airborne taxi-cabs John's International Airport, Idlewild. American newspapers and magazines are available at the fourth-floor newsstand in the Secretariat Building and the menus of the delegates' dining room features American dishes, but the member of the local consulatory is permitted inside the area without a nod from the Secretary General.

Has New York changed visibly as a consequence of the decision of the United Nations to set up shop here? It is easy to say no, to contend that New York in the Nineteen Fifties is a mighty city that doesn't even know United Nations within its stride. The evidence can be piled up. Our Town has more individual nationality groups than those represented by the new member nations. New York's 8,000,000 inhabitants gave it a population larger than that of quite a number of these members. The thirty-eight-story Secretariat Building already has been outmodernized by the glittery-green Lever House standing on the block on near-by Park Avenue. Even the sari of Mme. Pandit and the flowing robes of the gentleman from Yemen create hardly a ruste in the city's sweeping sweaters and the style innovations of the rest of the world.

Despite all this, the long lines of visitors who each day queue up in the lobby of the General Assembly Building to take tours of it are not taking the United Nations completely in stride. Guided tours have been such a hit that a guide is stationed during the height of the day as a "traffic cop" to see to it that tours retain their orderliness. Each guide must old standbys as the Statue of Liberty, perks up a bit. There seems no doubt are worrying about this upstart that already threatens to become the city's top tourist attraction. This has come as a surprise to the United Nations. The United Nations buildings who admit they made no advance provision for handling the large numbers. But the success of the world-capital idea has startled them. Now they know all the time that when somebody says "Let's go down to the United Nations" they will be expected to remain in the city in a special fund administered by the Secretary General.

Poppy Committee comprising representatives from the Canadian Legion, Army, Navy & Air Veterans, A.C.W.W., Auxiliaries and Red Cross. The Poppy Fund is available for emergency assistance to needy ex-servicemen of veterans who may be temporarily up against it. While it is the aim to help those under certain circumstances have the advantage of a good education, such as war veterans' allowances it should be remembered that it is emergency aid and up to any family, speed is the essential consideration in rendering assistance.

There are many cases on record with the "Poppy Fund where the necessary assistance has been instrumental in saving the home. It should be remembered also that there are many worthy veterans who hesitate to apply to any of the organized charities. Many of these have gone into uniform, and have given ten years from their prime of life to the proper care of their country. Through the committees of the veterans' organizations' their needs are learned and the assistance is forthcoming.

The Poppy Campaign will be on the streets on Friday evening, November 6th, and it is hoped that the citizens of Belleville please give generously to the cause. The poppy in order that this work may continue. We trust that the people will be generous.

Letter to the Editor

Everybody Should Wear Poppy in Remembrance

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Once again the Belleville Poppy Committee is asking the citizens of Belleville to wear a poppy for remembrance day.

During the years since Col. John McCrae wrote the challenging words "To Flanders Fields" the poppy has taken on a peculiar significance. It has come to typify in many countries of the world the debt which we owe to those who died in war.

One day in the year the people of each nation pause in their progress to show that they remember. One day in the year we are asked to pause briefly to honor the dead. That is little enough. While remembrance of the dead of the two wars is the spiritual aspect of the poppy fund, it has other important purpose of assisting the living.

The poppies and wreaths that are being ordered for sale again this year are the product of disabled veterans and those who are for the highly competitive labor market. Some are assembled in the homes of veterans too greatly disabled to seek normal employment, and provide a welcome addition to their income which they can earn their bread. All profits are expended on them.

This caution is defended on the grounds that women drunks, fuming over arrest and resenting questioning, tend to seize a shoe and quickly tap the offending officer on the head with it. This impulse, presumably, is not restricted to high-spirited southern girls or high-heeled shoe, enough with vigor and careful aim, get results and impression on any cop, and especially on his head. At this point the fair prisoner yields an urge to bop the lady right back, or charge her with assault, or something. Instead, being a suitable solution, procedure almost between gentlemen at least, is to remove the offensive weapon.

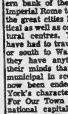
Besides, the cold, hard floors of police stations take a lot of the belligerence out of stocking-footed prisoners.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

There is no defence against parody. It is generally accepted as good clean fun. But there's money in it, too. Just as good money as in all the other arguments, rewriting bestsellers, stealing other movie makers' ideas. As with all the other activities, a considerable proportion of the garment industry, publishing business and motion picture industry have to insist on their right to their right. It subsists, and richly, on being very sizeable and very successful. Its creative ideas are from the few geniuses in these fields of endeavor, and the many copying for all they are worth. Let Dior launch a new line, and a dozen motion picture, and within weeks, not months, a dozen imitations of the trumpet-line theater as epoch making all over the world. The same with the best seller books. The same, of course, with clothes, dolls, even shoes.

Creative brains are few and far between. It took fine brains, real talent and a lot of money to create the television and radio feature show, Dragnet. Along comes a phonograph record parodying Dragnet. It is giving the teen agers all kinds of fun. Everybody is getting in on it, trying to visualize the characters who made the parody. Let us say three or four of them are assembled in a back apartment overlooking some warehouses down by the railway tracks, in Lower New York that costs 30 cents by taxi from Broadway and Forty-second. The apartment is furnished with Salvation Army and bleached imitation maple. (The landlord took it in lieu of rent.) The four pals are also dressed in their mode-loud, manly shirts, but have left off their collars and ties. Each is a plumpish young man in his middle 20's, who may even go on their hair, combed back thick. They haven't an idea between them, but haven't had one for months. They are desperate.

One of them, having avidly glued himself to the television set two weeks past to see Dragnet, as though to warm himself at a fire, has let slip that only a little free entertainment, addictively good, is available for everyday's farce, low mode of speech.



With wild cries, all four leap up and rush for the door, pile into a taxi for the 30 cent ride to the recording company. They breathlessly spill their idea, a parody of Dragnet. One of them imitates the Dragnet signature tune. Then the group assembles with his imitation of Friday.

Sold. And some fat boys eat for another month.

TEN MILLION CHILDREN ARE BEING CHEATED

The father of a nine-year-old boy complaining that the boy is undersize, bites his finger nails and wets the bed. The boy goes for cake and pie rather than ice cream and eggs. He has not eaten a good substantial meal in a long time. In school the boy hasn't a high IQ but gets medium and good grades. He is

Dr. Brady

The boy is typical of ten million "underprivileged" children—children who are not privileged to have adequate food and would have little or no interest in it if it were offered, because they are constantly gorged and surfeited with chocolate bars, candies, ice cream made mainly of refined white sugar and/or refined white flour.

Pure refined white sugar or refined white flour or cornstarch is highly nourishing (over 100 calories in the ounce), easily digested, quickly convertible into energy. Many children, some athletes, runners or soldiers on a long forced march, get refreshed, relieved of fatigue and get new strength to carry on, from a sweetened drink or other sweetened beverage, milk chocolate.

But precisely the same way one of the ten million cheated children perks up on a chocolate bar, play for a short spell—after indulging in a meal of pop or candy bar, or a cookie, but soon tires again.

How to tell a portion of the population the secret of good health, normal growth, functional efficiency, vim, the difference between raw and refined white sugar, and the difference between refined white flour and plain wheat freshly ground in your own mill or in a mill in your vicinity if there is one, is a simple place like this (might as well forget it if you have to tell it in installments, instalments, issues of today's installment merely conclude you are not willing to take up from where you left off) is one of the most baffling problems of my checkered (shady to some) career as an international quack. So many 100-calorie sentences nullify my best intentions.

Ever since Crown Elkhart days, it seems, I have been getting bogged down on detours. They don't build automobiles today that compare with the Crow-Elkhart for long, low, racy lines — why, with the top thoroughly battened down and everyone sitting calm his hat we hit 25 miles an hour several times on that long straight downgrade stretch between Dundee and Mile Lunker and swung north from Watkins Glen to Penn Yan and Canandaigua. One day we hit 30 miles. Was just sure we must have touched 30, but nobody had thought to take the time or the road to look at the speedometer.

Plain white bread, the ground to meal or flour in your own hand or power mill—is the natural food that should be eaten in our everyday diet. But how many times perks up a child when the couple required to maintain good nutrition, proper health and efficiency (for instance of the heart muscle and the muscle of the stomach and intestine) and build vite?

Just Who Adopts Who?

Mr. Robert Lothar Kendell, president no less of the American Feline Society Inc., located at 41 Union Square West in New York, asks us to tell our readers, if we doubt our ability for the word, that the period between "Adopt a Human" and their slogan. He says he was surprised at the number of people he is talking about. A personable young cat picked his back door and bawled lustily for food whenever a human appeared. Then he found his own pan just can't let a cat starve on your back doorstep and so thereafter he only had to feed the brute. Soon encouraged, the cat grew lightened, and almost before you could say Fish the stranger had become the master of all and was picking out the softest cushion for his winter quarters. He had adopted a meal ticket.

Now, he says, Mr. Cat protests, it's practically a tattoo are late. has grown fat and lazy and a bit arrogant and clearly he looks upon himself as a permanent fixture of the establishment. Our friend insists it was the cat that adopted the human and not the other way about.

THINGS WE INHERIT

Greater than any other inheritance that which is bequeathed to us all, at birth and throughout life—is that which we inherit as we step into the world at a time such as the present. Certainly it is the best of times, but these days have more of hope, inspiration, and achievement at our command.

Think of the discoveries and means by which we have more comforts than our forefathers. They would have laughed at the idea of ever being able to cross the oceans in comfortable beds, and at ease—or even to be able to speak to the country at the exact time of rendering, such as we are through television. They would have howled at such an impossible happening. Yet these are but a small part of our inheritance.

Take it in the realm of books. Every year adds to the knowledge of the world. No matter what the problem, there is a book available that people did not have a hundred years or less ago. Many a problem has been solved in the last few years that is a puzzle to all. Many a key to a triumph over disease has been found and is available to those who will read. All these things are part of our inheritance that those before us did not have.

We are all inheritors of the will, courage and spiritual beliefs of those who have made the impress of their character upon their time, and a contribution to history. Without realizing the fact, we are the inheritors of the spirit that shape our lives and contribute to every act of the will.

It is well for us now to all those who have gone before us—a debt that we can never repay directly, but we can contribute to the well-being and success of those who follow us, of those of our own time. We can share our inheritance, and there is no finer gift, and it is a gift to following generations. How much greater it is to inherit character, example, and knowledge than anything material! Thieves do not steal intangibles!

House Damaged In Collision

TRENTON, (Special.) —Arthur Monroe, 43, of 48 Leopold Street, Trenton was at the wheel of a car that went out of control yesterday and crashed into a house occupied by Mrs. H. Mitchell, 39 Leopold Street. The car was proceeding from Leopold to West Street, making a right hand turn.

Suddenly the car lurched across a lawn, over the east sidewalk striking the augment. "Distance travelled by the car from the point of where control was lost measured 53 paces," police said.

Estimated damage to the house amounted to $75, and the car damage was placed at $50.

BUILDING PERMITS

Trenton building permits issued during the month of October totalled $26,540 a spokesman for the town office reports. Fox Cartage took out a permit for a $5,000 building; Hinde and Dauch applied for a licence to construct a $5,000 addition.

Mrs. L. Carswell Shoots Wild Goose In Stinson's Pond

TRENTON, — Lou Carswell may be the breadwinner of the Carswell family but yesterday his wife brought home a fat nine-pound wild goose she shot herself.

Mrs. Carswell, a dental receptionist for Dr. J. K. Richmond, duck hunts in her spare time. Yesterday was her Wednesday afternoon off. With trusty 20-gauge gun under her arm she headed for Stinsons pond, south of the Wooler Road.

As she approached her favourite shooting spot she noticed a big bird circling the pond and watched it alight in the water. Stealthily she moved into a vantage point and put the gun to her shoulder. The goose hit in the head fluttered back into the water.

Related the pretty marksman: "I was frightened after I saw I'd killed the bird. I thought maybe I'd shot a swan and I knew there was a law protecting them."

Mrs. Carswell's next problem was how to retrieve the prize. Finally she found a boat and paddled out to the big bird lying still on the surface.

Commenting on his wife's luck Mr. Carswell explained: "I've hunted all my life and never so much as seen a wild goose let alone had a shot at one."

Officer Changes Hint U.S. Troops Stay in Trieste

TRIESTE (AP)—A United States army spokesman today said bachelor officers are replacing married officers now stationed in the disputed zone of Trieste.

Under orders apparently coming from Washington, the married officers are being replaced so they can rejoin their families who were moved out of Trieste in October.

Although the army did not say so, the decision could mean that American troops are going to stay much longer in the disputed zone than originally expected. Last Oct. 8 the U. S. and Britain announced jointly that occupying troops would be withdrawn "as soon as possible" and the zone turned over to Italian administration.

Yugoslavia's President Tito threatened to send his troops into the zone the moment the first Italian soldier entered.

VALUABLE STAMP

Trenton, BCI Win Volleyball Jamboree Titles

The Trenton High School last night won the senior Championship of the annual COSSA Girls' Volleyball Jamboree with an 11-9 victory over Tweed while B.C.I. Juniors downed the Trenton entry 15-7 to capture the Little Brother Jamboree was played in the OSD gymnasium.

The teams which competed for the Bay of Quinte championships were Napanee, Albert Col'gate Trenton, Campbellford, Wellington, Brighton, Tweed, Madoc, B.C.I., O.S.D., Marmora and Stirling.

Kingston and Cobourg played a number of exhibition games with the other teams but could not play in the regular schedule as they are not in this district.

O.S.D., Tweed and Trenton were tied with three wins each at the end of regulation play in senior play. Trenton met and defeated O.S.D. 16-7 in the semi-finals before meeting Tweed for the title. In Junior play it was B.C.I., Trenton and Tweed with a 16-10 win for the champs in the semi-final over Tweed.

All the schools were well represented with cheer leaders and teachers as well as a good turnout of students cheering on their team.

A few one-sided games were turned in such as 53-3 over Campbellford for the Trenton Seniors and 61-18, Marmora Juniors over Napanee. Some close games were, Brighton 17, Madoc 13, 11-9 in Senior finals, B.C.I. 25, O.S.D. 22 and 19-16 with Tweed over Madoc.

In exhibition fixtures, the Cobourg teams won four games while Kingston had carry a win. A 26-25 win over Kingston Juniors by Napanee was the best Kingston could do.

The Jamboree was held under the supervision of COSSA convenor, Miss Martensen, the girl's athletic director at B.C.I.

New Anti-Polio Toxoid Now Being Developed

TORONTO (CP)—Gamma Globulin has helped in the fight against poliomyelitis this year, but researchers hope eventually to develop a more powerful Health Minister Phillips said Tuesday.

Such a toxoid, which could be administered in the same way as children are given toxoid to protect them against whooping cough, is expected to be available in the United States within two years, he said in an address to the central Ontario area Women's Institutes.

"But our scientists say it will be from two to five years before we have it here."

Firm Resigns As Operator Of Jet Plant

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. is resigning as operator-manager of the government's big jet engine repair and overhaul plant in suburban Toronto and the government is negotiating with De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd. to take over the plant Jan. 1.

The defence production department today announced Canadian General Electric's decision arising from government policy to concentrate on production of the all-Canadian Orenda jet engine and use them to power Canadian jet aircraft.

Canadian General Electric was principally interested in the J-47 jet power unit, produced by its parent company, General Electric, in the United States.

This was the engine that Canada imported at the start of its post-war defence build-up to power the Sabre jet fighter built at the Canadair Ltd. plant at Montreal.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Robert of Royce Thalin of the Intelligencer staff, Pinnacle Street, will be sorry to learn she is a patient in Quinte Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hannah of Brighton, Sask., are spending two weeks visiting Mr. Hannah's brother, R. Mooney, Mr. Mooney and family.

Clarence William Gill, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gill, 140 1-2 West Bridge Street, returned home Saturday after spending six months in Korea.

Mr. James Reid, 28 Cedar Street, retired C.N.R. engineer, quietly celebrated his 91st birthday yesterday. Mr. Reid is a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Robert Robinson, 46 Sheahan Street, who has returned from Memorial Hospital, is following a major operation, is now convalescing at her home.

Film Shown At H-S Assoc.

The regular meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association was held on Tuesday evening. Since the programs were in charge of the Nations, the president, Mrs. Melville, opened the meeting with a prayer for the U.N.

The cartoon film, Illustrating good health habits was shown to introduce the discussion of the project of a model home. Displays of an audio visual aids room.

At the conclusion of the film, Mr. R. Lennox reported that the Board of Education had approved of the project and assured him of their co-operation in every part. He then made an appeal to the parents to help in the woodworking and sewing necessary to provide the room with drapes, a closet for clothing, and suitable drapes.

Mrs. Melville presented to the parents a statement of the approximate cost of the project and gave a brief discussion on how the money was moved and passed that the project be carried out as soon as possible.

FILM INTRODUCED

Mrs. Toshe introduced the film "It's in the United Nations" with a brief, but informative account of the reasons behind the formation of various divisions of the U.N. She said that the finger of criticism should be pointed at that one organization striving for peace, for it is not operating as an organized world living in peace.

The film recounted the history of the atomic bomb from the day in August 1945 when all the world received the terrifying destruction that one A Bomb could cause until now through the Atomic Energy Commission the world powers are striving to control the use of atomic energy.

CHILDREN'S FUND

The narrator of the film explained the work of the United Nations' Children's Emergency Fund. One third of the world's people are children and they are the world's responsibility. Therefore "the war is not over until all of the children's does say so."

The room count was won again by Miss Ketcheson's room.

The meeting came to a close with a friendly cup of coffee and sandwiches provided by the mothers of Grade 1, under the direction of Mrs. Robb and her social committee.

Club Activities

HALLOWAY MISSION BAND

Halloway Mission Band met at the home of Don and Jean McMullen with an attendance of 13. There were some donations to the birthday box.

Shirley and Maureen Kennedy led, charge of the remainder of the meeting.

St. Thomas' Parish Guild Sponsors Christmas Bazaar

It has been said that "coming events cast their shadow before," and judging from the spontaneous applause that filled the Guild Christmas bazaars, it is to be inferred that Christmas is just around the corner. So it appeared yesterday afternoon as the entered St. Thomas' Parish Hall with its silver tinsel baskets decorating each window and a tree in the corner with its plumes of glistening pines, and the multi-colored lights, the hall supplied the outer fringe of this spacious place. On the walls and tables as well, exhibit depicting many scenes from sunny Mexico as well as scenes of still life, of pastoral and gay. These were by Phillipps Faulkner, whose exotic brush has lightened many a dull, drab corner with glowing tints.

The bazaar was officially opened by the new rector, the Reverend W. Bryce, who in his address wished the undertaking every success. Mr. Bryce was assisted by Parish Guild upon its fine demonstration.

DOLLS, CHILDREN'S CLOTHING.

One of several fine booths was that of the dolls and children's clothing in charge of Mrs. J. E. Bird, assisted by Mrs. Lorne Ivey, V. Seibert, B. Feather, A. Simpson, Mrs. Ben Hall and Mrs. Pringle. Here were dolls, some in plastic, others in rubber, and still others of ordinary doll material, dressed in many shades, styles and patterns. Each doll represented a registered nationality, some in kilts, some in white cap, and red-lined blue cape; baby dolls in sunbonnets, baby silk; tiny, wee dolls in limousine carriages; and many dressed in pretty outfits to suit the heart of any doll.

Besides the dolls, and their clothes, there were some lovely handmade articles, such as aprons, smocked; dainty mitts in colors of pink, blue, green, and red; pyjama bags; night dresses, with tiny, cute animal blocks — elephants, cats and bears. Also, pin cushions, pincushions, coasters, corduroy pants, and a number of blue sweaters. Mrs. Thomas' Guild cook books. Mrs. G. T. Manning with Mrs. R. A. Pringle, E. Lapham and R. Wesse, had charge of these pretty items.

The sprays were of many designs, and as many materials, as well as plain and fancy. One of deep pink had a border showing two Dutch girls and a little Dutch boy; some were in gay little squared material with navy organdy frills, pocket and ties. Mrs. J. R. Barnes, assisted by Mrs. L. Foster and Mrs. W. Davies, were busily wrapping and making change for these fine articles as nice for Christmas, among which was an overall factory cotton apron, nicely made and so durable looking.

FANCY ARTICLES.

The fancy goods and knitted article table, in charge of Mrs. E. Jones with Mrs. J. P. Clarke, Mrs. W. Bray, Mrs. J. Lewis, Mrs. E. S. Lyons, Mrs. A. Gonin, and Mrs. N. D. McNish, was like a dream with its lovely table decorations and centrepieces mounted on artificial snow; some white cone shaped evergreen trees; some with glistening pivot sprays and clusters of silver cones, others showed little choir boys in red surplices and another the "Littlest Angel"; there were Santa Clauses, too; and churches, Christmas bells, candles in silver and silver, and another tree-shaped piling up riches and mentioned the Templeton Mission. She also brought many helpful thoughts.

A contest, "Pioneer of the Community," conducted by Mrs. G. Stratton, was won by Mrs. B. Port, consolation going to Mrs. D. Atkins.

The November business meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Douglas Atkins, with Mrs. Harry Thomas, Consolation, the election of officers.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

EXQUISITE LACE CLOTH.

The tea table, with its exquisite Chinese lace cloth was centred with colorful sprays of pink and deep wine tones, flanked by tall branched silver candelabra with tall pink tapers, and the silver service presided over by Mrs. James A. R. Ketcheson, Mrs. Chant, Martin Smith, J. W. Davidson, M. J. Clarke, F. Patterson, S. E. Mortimer, Charles Lyall and Miss Mac Thompson.

Those assisting at the tea table were Mrs. W. A. Stone, Mrs. G. Hosang, Mrs. T. H. Gibson, and Mrs. S. S. Bundy, while those who arranged the plates in charge of Mrs. R. A. Singer and Mrs. T. H. Kelly were Mesdames F. Clarke, T. Jeffrey, J. Sherwood, J. W. Lawrence, S. F. Goodwin, H. Carruthers and A. Feather. Those who arranged the relishes were Mrs. C. N. Nicholson and Mrs. J. Mcdonald.

SERVING.

Those who served and supervised included, Mrs. J. T. Lewis and Mrs. N. Carbutt, Mesdames L. Kelly, H. Hurst, F. Moyna, A. Gonin, W. Bray, W. T. Meagher, T. V. Willis, J. E. Purdy, G. Porter, W. J. Sanford, T. E. Graham, Jr., J. K. Buchan, A. W. Corbett, W. A. Van Dusen, A. Wolfenden, S. Morton, J. E. Bateman, H. E. Willis, Martin Smith, Burton, S. T. Leggott, Misses Anne Forrester, D. Lewis, Peterson, Allin and Josephine Hurst. In charge of the kitchen and making the delicious cups of tea, were Mrs. J. R. McKenna and Mrs. Johnston and group D.

The little guest tables were arranged in two rooms, each table in the latter room having a white cloth centred by a dainty plate of tiny shaded candles, each divided by an orange sprouting many pointed fir plates on colored toothpicks. The servieties also lent a pleasing bit of color, being in one room pink and green, while in the overflow room they were pink and yellow.

HOSTESSES.

The tea room hostesses were: Mrs. H. J. Code and Mrs. J. T. L. Harkins, Mrs. Norman Edwards, cream puffs and chocolate brownies, as well as scones and tea biscuits. These delicacies were convened by Mrs. R. T. Potter, assisted by Mrs. J. Field, Mrs. A. Gonin, Mrs. Mastine, Mrs. H. R. Gibson, Mrs. Hinch.

PRETTY TEA ROOM.

The tea room was most tastefully decorated with baskets of autumn tinted chrysanthemums interminded with sprays of pine which filled the windows, accented the serving table, and added a lovely spot of color at the far end candle with star-sprinkled branches, dainty silk plaid purses or fancy-work bags, angel ornaments surrounding Christmas bells; dollies, fancy work, including those seen years ago, and looking so warm and cozy; lovely lace-edged pillow slips and handkerchiefs, and decorated fancy trays, and many other items too numerous to mention.

COSTUME JEWELLERY.

The white elephant table was in charge of Mrs. R. Keel with Mrs. W. Gault, Mrs. W. Hutchison, and Mrs. Austin Smith assisting. Here one might purchase, for a fraction of their value, pretty costume jewellery, necklaces, beads, bracelets, rhinestone ornaments and earrings; ivory elephants, jewelled rimmed toothpick holders, red and yellow jelly molds, Spanish china mat bowls, vases, cups and saucers, purses, powder puffs, little plants, foliages, begonias, African violets, wandering Jew, and a pretty Japanese vase.

The candy table was filled with a assortment of fudge, maple creams, chocolates, divinity, rice krispies, and candied apples, all tastefully boxed or done up in red and green cups and little boxes. Mrs. H. Widdifield and Miss M. Blakelee had charge of this.

ROAST CHICKEN.

The homecooking table was filled to over-flowing with all manner of good things, including fruity pies, and cakes, richly browned, decorated with sprigs of parsley, and amazing in very appetizing, pies with lighty, flaky crusts, apple, peach, raspberry, lemon, tartlets, cream cakes, loaf cakes, hermits, gems, cookies, angel cakes, some plain and others iced; a little basket trunk containing six little blue-topped jars of jam, jellies, and marmalades; chocolate cakes, pineapple cakes, cream puffs and chocolate brownies, as well as scones and tea biscuits. These confections were convened by Mrs. R. T. Potter, assisted by Mrs. J. Field, Mrs. A. Gonin, Mrs. Mastine, Mrs. H. R. Gibson, Mrs. Hinch.

PRETTY TEA ROOM.

The tea room was most tastefully decorated with baskets of autumn tinted chrysanthemums interminded with sprays of pine which filled the windows, accented the serving table, and added a lovely spot of color at the far end

Preventive Dentistry Topic at H-S Assoc.

The regular monthly meeting of the Home and School Association of M.C.I.V.S. was held in the gymnasium of the Collegiate on Monday. The vice-president, Mrs. W. R. H. Gander had charge of the early portion of the meeting.

During a business meeting preceding the introduction of the speaker, it was announced by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. G. Williams, that Mrs. R. O'Connor had found it necessary to resign as president and that Mrs. J. Lennox Smith had agreed to officiate in that position.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Lawrence Kells welcomed the guest speaker, Dr. John Clarke, a graduate of R.C.I.V.S., and of the Royal College of Dentistry, Toronto. He is the officer in charge of preventive dentistry in Belleville and district public schools.

Dr. Clarke, by way of introduction, explained that preventive dentistry is of more value than repair or teeth after decay. The program is approved by both the Department of Health and the Dentistry Association of Ontario.

The greatest scope for preventive dentistry occurs in age below eight and-one-half years, and particularly in kindergarten and pre-school ages, accompanying this care a course of education in dental care for the parents is found most beneficial, inasmuch as children so young cannot be expected to appreciate either the need or the value.

The following a brief description of the working of the clinics.

DENTAL HYGIENE

Influences bearing on dental hygiene were listed as heredity, good health, proper diet and careful cleaning of the teeth after every meal. The bad effect of refined sugar in the diet was emphasized.

Fluoridation was considered, by dental authorities and scientific bodies to be most beneficial in the prevention of caries. The pseudo-scientific and ill-informed propaganda programs carried on by certain newspapers and magazines against fluoridation were deplored.

Two sound films were shown in which the remarks made by Dr. Clarke by Mrs. Williams and by the new president, Mrs. J. Lennox Smith who conducted the closing exercises.

Kingston Road United Church W. A. Holds Autumn Bazaar

Kingston Road United Church presented a most pleasing appearance yesterday afternoon with its pastel green and yellow interior, decked by colorful baskets of brome, red and yellow chrysanthemums, and bedecked also with gifts for the autumn bazaar and tea held under the auspices of the church's Auxiliary.

Mrs. Connors and Miss Logan, who acted as receptionists, as well as treasurers for the afternoon, welcomed the guests with most infectious smiles, who then, after depositing their dimes, wended their way along the aisle, selecting the articles displayed.

COLORFUL CERAMICS

The first display was that of the ceramics, and included colorful wall plaques of fruits, strawberries, Indian heads, birds, Dutch boy and girl, wall pictures depicting a pretty water lane and red-clad boy in either a black frame or green, there were also wild geese in flight, a nice assortment. These were in charge of Mrs. Storms.

The fish pond had a variety of packages in varying shapes which attracted many fishermen and children, under the watchful eyes of the game warden, Mrs. Brooks.

KNOWING GOODIES

The novelties, in charge of Miss Redner, Mrs. Dusseberry and Mrs. Hall, had many guests who knowingly cookie holder, pretty green crocheted baskets as pot holders, shopping bags, dainty tea towels, knit bootees in pink and white, squirrel and pepper, plastic doilies, cretonne cushion top with huge colorful chrysanthemums, a cute, little wool dog, and an ornamental wild horse.

The candy booth drew many customers with its luscious looking creams, chocolate topped, rich nutty gems, plates of stuffed dates, fudge in little pink and yellow cups. Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Mac Mrs. Wilson were in charge here.

RECIPE APRONS

The apron booth, as always had a fine collection of pretty prints fashioned in all-over style and in the popular half style. One apron that caught the eye was the "recipe apron" which was in ground with squares setting forth various recipes, quince jelly, grape jelly, pineapple marmalade, were some of these noted.

There were also aprons with pot-holders attached thus saving away with looking for one when something is boiling over. Other aprons were in Paisley pattern, and in old-fashioned design. Mrs. in charge of these were Mrs. C. MacDonald, Mrs. Cauley and Mrs. Hall.

The homecooking table had a fine selection of homebaking of tea buns, cup cakes, apple and pumpkin pies, raspberry tarts, cocoanut balls, currant bread and nut-topped cake, chocolate squares and chocolate cakes. Convening these were Mrs. Reid, Mrs. K. Reid and Mrs. Gerow.

PRETTY TEA TABLE

The tea table, which was situated on the platform, was prettily appointed with a lovely Scotch lace cloth, centred by a silver basket of bronze chrysanthemums. Those who presided over the pretty water lane and red-clad Ridley, Mrs. F. Parrott, Mrs. B. Beasley and Mrs. F. Farnsworth.

Those who served included: Mrs. B. Littles, Mrs. Messer, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Mary Lee Rose, Mrs. J. Parrott, Mrs. Creelman and Mrs. Hall, while those who replenished were, Mrs. Conboy, Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. Emmett, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. J. Garbutt provided the delicious and tasty cups of tea.

Every pew was filled to capacity by many guests who were thoroughly enjoying the delicious refreshments.

Appreciative words are tendered those whose talent and unlimited assistance made the bazaar and tea an outstanding success.

Women's Activities

ST. MARGARET'S GUILD

At the regular meeting of St. Margaret's Guild was held in the church on Saturday with 11 members and two visitors present.

The president, Mrs. Arthur Watson, opened the meeting with prayer, after which the usual business was dispensed with.

The meeting under the direction of the project convener, Mrs. F. R. Clarke, broke up into groups, and the afternoon quilting took place in preparation for the bazaar in November. The

Quinte Field Naturalists Enjoy Travelogue

Having enjoyed a five weeks' trip to the west coast this summer, Mrs. Maude Hagle, shared enjoyment of the trip with the members of the Quinte Field Naturalists by means of a short travelogue, illustrated by View Master slides.

First was seen the Yellowstone National Park, oldest and largest in the United States, with its hot springs, paint pots, canyons, falls and bears.

Then Miss Hagle took her audience along the beautiful Columbia river highway with its many falls, the Bonneville Dam, and Fish Ladders, and Vista House, from the roof of which, one can see for 35 miles up and down the river.

Then the beautiful lakes, Louise, Moraine and Peyto and the glacier at Jasper Park in the Rockies, which draw tourists from all over the world.

The Butchart Gardens, out from Victoria, with their rose gardens, sunken gardens, and formal Italian gardens and drew many visitors.

The president, Miss Lillian Hart, extended sincere thanks to Miss Hagle for a most enjoyable evening's entertainment.

Miss Joy Nichols gave the report of the nominating committee.

Past president, Dr. Morris Smith; president, Miss Lillian Hart; vice-presidents, Hedley Lewis, Miss L. Burnell; secretary, Miss K. Daly; treasurer, Miss Fay Young; membership, Miss Ruth Tucker; Social, Miss F. Down; transportation, Miss J. Mcintosh; press, Miss Grace Houston.

Members were sorry to learn that the well-known naturalist, Dick Bird, will be unable to give his lecture here.

conveners for this bazaar are as follows: handicraft, Mrs. D. Leeming and Mrs. W. Meens; aviety, Mrs. D. Angus and Mrs. R. Davis; dolls' table, Mrs. R. Van Everdingen, Christmas cake, Mrs. R. Bowerman and Mrs. W. Spring; home baking, Mrs. C. Brown and Mrs. L. Moore; candies, Mrs. R. Daniel; decorating, Mrs. C. Partridge; tea room, Mrs. J. Ritchie.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. D. Saunders, and Mrs. R. Daniel.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. HEATHCOTE

THERE'S A DEFINITE RULE FOR NAME-PUTTING ON PRINTED ON CHRISTMAS CARDS!

The following letter sets forth exactly the 3rd question with which we are faced when we consider our names imprinted on our Christmas cards:

Dear Mrs. Heathcote:

I need your help, please! For I've never been more confused. Yesterday I went to order Christmas cards for my husband and me. We had decided that, as we are going to send out many more cards this year than formerly, we would have our names imprinted on them. My heart sank high when I began to look through the books of sample cards (aren't the cards particularly lovely this year?). Finally I chose the card I wanted to order. But I was certainly confused as to the proper form for our names to be printed on them.

Some cards that I looked at were very informal, had the formal names—Mr. and Mrs. John Smith—imprinted on them. Others with no difference in kind that I could figure out, were imprinted with the first names, John and Mary Brown. Still others were imprinted Mary and John Brown.

I asked the saleswoman what the rule is, and she, quite hotly and with complete assurance, told me that it made no difference which form you used. It was just a question of preference. This didn't make sense to me, and still I don't know which is the correct form, and why. I decided not to place my order then—decided to ask my Mrs. Heathcote's if there is a definite name-rule I should follow.—Mrs. Faithful-Reader.

Well, Mrs. Faithful-Reader, I know just how confused one can get trying to figure out the why-and-wherefore of the name-form imprinted on the Christmas cards in the sample books on the counters. Also I can understand that the salesperson certainly hasn't the time (and perhaps not the knowledge) to explain the correct form, and really hasn't the right to attempt this. She's selling cards, not etiquette-information.

So to you and to everyone else starting forth to order imprinted Christmas cards: Yes, there is a basic rule concerning the correct form of name to be imprinted on these cards. It is this:

When your name is to be imprinted after the message on the cards—as is usual—the informal name should be used. The reason: your name after the message is your signature to the message, and your signature is your informal name—Mary and John, and John—Mary and John Bill.

There should be no title before a signature; no "Mr. and Mrs.", no "Mrs."—no "Mr."—no "Miss."

Cheerio,

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her Boy Friend Wants A Livelier Girl

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My boy friend, who is 19 while I am 18, tells me that I act like an old lady instead of a young girl, because when I go to a place of amusement, I don't seem to be able to laugh and joke and enter into the fun like other girls my age. I like the boy very much, and I am afraid if he doesn't find me lively soon he will start going with some other girl who knows how to laugh and make him enjoy himself.—

Patricia O.

Dear Patricia:

I never knew a girl of the quiet type who didn't envy girls who were gay and lively and wish she could be like them. Unfortunately, each of us has to accept the kind of personality with which we were born, but if we make the most of that personality, and just be ourselves instead of trying to be some kind of person, there will always be those who are attracted to us.

Not every boy wants a girl who will giggle and joke, for there are quiet boys, too, who feel just as you do—that they wish they were able to let around and wisecrack, and so they feel uncomfortable and inferior with the lively kind.

Try to remember that even though you may not be the lively type yourself you can show you are having fun by a bright smile, a look of keen interest in what is going on and by taking part in your own way in any of the activities. If you do, I think you'll be surprised to find how well things go.

If you keep in mind that the real secret of popularity is just to be your natural self on all occasions, provided you make that natural self the nicest, friendliest, most thoughtful and kind self you can, you are certain to have a great many friends who will like you just because you are that way.

Mary and John Hill Incorrect:

Greetings for Christmas and the New Year

Mr. and Mrs. John Hill

BABY'S COLDS

Help Nature To Fight Them Off

Medical Science finds there is one sure way to relieve a cold. Rub Vicks VapoRub on baby's throat, chest and back at the first sniffle or cough. Watch your baby's cold disappear like magic!

See that baby is kept warm, not overheated. Then rub Vicks VapoRub on baby's throat, chest and back. Its double action starts working at once to relieve baby's cold. Its vapors are breathed in with baby's every breath. Its ointiness soothes baby's sore throat. Remember, Vicks VapoRub is the only Baby's Own Tablets. Mild, yet not a single baby's own tablet has been found that is more effective. Ask Mother about "Baby's Own" Tablets. Follow the directions in the folder packed with Baby's Own Tablets and the throat and chest rub will be unnecessary. Baby's Own Tablets are also good for restlessness at teething time, for constipation, digestive upsets and for those minor ailments that get a package baby at drugstores.

Green Tomatoes Get Their Turn

By Mary Moore

After I visited my farmer friends I realized why I was receiving so many letters for green tomato recipes.

From Bert's small farm garden she had gathered something like four bushels of green tomatoes. Other baskets were in varying stages of ripening.

When I asked her how she would ever use them all up she airily said "Oh, I'll make mincemeat and pickles and fry 'em. Maybe I can save some and ripen them for Christmas dinner."

Help with recipes for all of these things are what you are asking me for in your letters, so here they are, with my blessing. Personally, as soon as this is typed, I'm going off to a football game.

GREEN TOMATO MINCEMEAT

About 15 lbs. (a generous 6 quarts) green tomatoes, washed, cored and chopped, 2 lbs. brown sugar, 2 lbs. raisins, 1 cup finely chopped suet, 3 tablespoons salt, 3 teaspoons ground cinnamon, 1-3 cup water, 1 teaspoon cloves, (ground), 2 teaspoons nutmeg, grated rind 1 orange, 2 cups chopped apples, pulp and juice of 3 lemons or 1-3 cup vinegar. Sprinkle salt over chopped and sliced tomatoes and let stand for 1 hour. Drain and discard the juice. Cover with cold water, bring to boil and boil 5 minutes. Drain off liquid. Now add the 2 cups sugar and 1-3 cup water, and simmer 20 minutes. Stir in sugar until dissolved. Add all remaining ingredients and boil rapidly until thick—about 30 minutes, stirring almost constantly. Pack into sterile jars and seal. When this is used for mincemeat pies some cooks add 1 cup of fresh chopped apples to enough filling for each pie.

GREEN TOMATO PICKLES

About 15 lbs. (a generous 6 quarts) green tomatoes, washed, and sliced, 1 oz. coarsely ground black pepper, 4 cups sugar, 1 oz. whole allspice, 1-4 oz. ground mustard, 1 dozen medium sliced onions, 2 oz. whole cloves, 1 oz. mustard seed, 8 cups vinegar, 2-4 cup salt. Mix the tomatoes in layers with 1-3 cup salt. In another container layer the onions with 1-4 cup salt. Let these stand overnight, then drain them well. Put them together and add the vinegar and sugar and mustard seed, and the spices all tied in a bag, bring to boiling and let simmer—after boiling point is reached—for 30 minutes. Pack into hot sterile jars and seal.

FRIED TOMATOES—GREEN OR RED—IN CREAM GRAVY

In frying pan melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine. Mix together 4 tablespoons flour, 1 or 2 tablespoons sugar, 1-2 teaspoons salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Dip slices of tomato—unpeeled—in this flour mixture then fry in fat until golden. Do not overcook or tomatoes will break. Carefully transfer to hot platter. To the residue in pan add about 2 cups milk and stir until thick. (Any flour mixture that is left over should have been added to pan before milk is stirred in.) If necessary add a little salt to this cream gravy. Pour over or around the tomatoes and serve hot.

QUESTION:

I would like a recipe for grape wine. I have put three baskets over. Is the water a couple of weeks ago in a covered crock and I don't know where to go from there.—Mrs. H. B.

ANSWER:

I am a weak reed when it comes to wine-making. The best help I can give is a formula that is a method similar to the one you have started on:

GRAPE WINE

Put 20 lbs. of ripe grapes into a stone jar and pour on 6 qts. boiling water, when cooled sufficiently squeeze by hand but do not break seeds. Cover with cloth, let stand 3 days, then press out juice. Add 10 lbs. sugar. After standing one week, skim off scum, strain through double cloth and bottle corking loosely. When fermentation is complete strain again and bottle, corking tightly. Age on side in cool place.

Wife of Swiss Minister Thinks Canada Vast Country

By DON HAWORTH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — When Mrs. Maude Nef, wife of the Swiss minister, Dr. Victor Nef, first came to Canada 'Five years ago she visited western Canada and the Yukon.

Since then Canada has meant vastness. She had never before seen earth that went on so far and so flat and so unchangingly as the western Prairie.

Her own mountainous country is about the area of Newfoundland. Five million persons live there in small cities and villages.

Mrs. Nef, a middle-aged woman with two grown children, comes from the lace-manufacturing town of St. Gallen in northeastern Switzerland, but for 25 years her husband was with the consulate in New York and she speaks English from an American as well as from a European background.

QUICKER IN CANADA

In the Canadian mode of life she finds a compromise between European conservatism and American ebullience.

Here, she says, people take things a little easier than in the United States; they are less eccentric, more conservative in their tastes. Life here seems to be more leisurely and spacious — though Mrs. Nef thinks the difference between bustling New York and Ottawa—"where you get to know everyone"—exaggerates the difference between the two countries generally.

On the other hand, she says, Canadians join more clubs and do more organizing for the enjoyment of their leisure than in Switzerland where a close family and community life persists.

She thinks that women work harder here—partly because it is still possible to get domestic help in Europe. She notices the Canadian preference, especially in the West, for a small family house instead of an apartment.

YEAR-ROUND TREAT

Mrs. Nef says it is wonderful to be able to buy fresh vegetables all the year round. In the Canadian centres here is only one thing she misses—the Bundner fleish specialty of eastern Switzerland.

The specialty is filet of beef which is dried until it hardens and goes a deep red color. It is then cut like a ham, almost paper thin and eaten without further cooking. At one time it was dried by sunlight in the hard, dry Swiss air, but now it is usually smoked.

Mrs. Nef was married in the United States and both her children were born there. Irene, 23, a graduate in journalism of Columbia University, is married to Henry Schutte who also studied journalism at Columbia and now works in Minneapolis. Edward, 20, is at Harvard.

Mrs. Nef herself was educated at Lausanne and Berne.

Move Canadian Troops

Canadian troops in Germany are being moved from Hanover to Soest where they will have new barracks. Meanwhile they are kept in fighting trim by field manoeuvres. Sgt. Norbert Mesnier (right) of Montreal and L/Bdr. Leblanc, Quebec City, of the Fusiliers Mont Royal of the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade, check field rations.—(CP from National Defence.)

$25,000,000 Barracks Ready For Canada's NATO Forces

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOEST, Germany (CP)—A new $25,000,000 barracks for Canada's NATO force in Germany are almost ready for arrival of the new brigade this month.

Advance parties have come from Canada to take over the camps, built at no cost to Canada near the Ruhr towns of Soest, Werel and Iserlohn. All are within easy motoring or cycling distance of scenic Lake Mohne.

New units in the 27th Canadian Brigade will move directly into the camps on arrival from Canada. Units returning to Canada will start home from Hanover where the first unit has been based until now.

Of cream stuccoed concrete with green concrete roofs, the new barracks blocks are designed like modern bungalows.

MODERN FACILITIES

The grounds have still to be landscaped but each camp has paved and lighted roads and sidewalks. Each building has hot and cold water, central heating and electricity. The 4 of 11 standard buildings, barrack blocks and messes are finished and a gymnasium and movie theatre for each camp will be completed in December.

The official opening Nov. 9 will be attended by Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of the Canadian general staff.

Moving barracks stores—3,000 truckloads of beds, bedding, lockers, desks, mess tables and so on—from Hanover to Soest has been carried out progressively as soldiers of the retiring 27th brigade left for Canada. Some British Army transports were used.

Each Canadian infantry section will have its own dormitory, its NCO in an adjoining private room. Col. H. A. Phillips of Victoria, in charge of the project from the start, said this arrangement will make it easier for NCOs to control their men and keep the quarters clean.

CAMP LOCATIONS

Two camps are near Soest. One, four miles south, has a view of Lake Mohne. It is a summer resort, and will house brigade headquarters and the 2nd battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment. The southeast of Soest in a rather bleak, treeless area will be brigade service units including the army service and ordnance corps.

In wooded country a few miles west, near the town of Werel, will be the Royal 22nd Regiment. This area was chosen for the Van Doos because their neighbors will be French-speaking units of the Belgian forces of occupation. French-speaking Belgian elements are in Soest.

In an equally pretty area southwest of Soest, near Iserlohn, will be the 2nd Princess and the 2nd regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

Each unit's lines, including its canteens, garages and vehicle parks, will be self-contained.

Transportation is by bus. The operators have promised to make sure the troops can get to and from the towns when off duty, but entertainment will be a problem. None of the towns has night life of the sort likely to appeal to soldiers. Cafes and restaurants close at 8 p.m.

KENT TYPE HOTELS

To help meet the situation, the army has rented two small hotels near Lake Mohne, one for other ranks, one for sergeants. Each has a main room with dance floor and tables for dining and wine service, a snack-bar and soda fountain, and reading and writing rooms.

The army also is renting clubs in Soest and Werel, where there are no suitable facilities for Canadians. In Iserlohn, British clubs can be used.

Each club will have an orchestra. Ottawa plans to keep Canadian Army bands in the brigade area on six-month tours of duty.

Married quarters, planned as suburbs of the neighboring towns, are projected for each camp.

Besides bringing Canadian wives closer to shopping and other facilities, the communities are intended to redolve the German housing shortages if NATO forces can be moved out later.

APARTMENT BLOCKS

Most housing will be in 12-apartment buildings, the first 708 suites ready in May, another 894 in October. There will be a limited number of semi-detached and detached homes for senior officers. The houses will be let furnished.

Families may be moved immediately to Germany at government expense if soldiers can satisfy authorities here that they have suitable accommodation on the continent or in the United Kingdom.

Residents of Soest seem friendlier toward Canadians than were the Hanoverians. The Soest newspaper Soester Anzeiger an der Haar, emphasized in an article:

"The Canadians are not occupation troops maintained out of occupation costs, but are supplied and maintained by the Canadian government. Most of them, however, also purchase extensively on the German market."

MALAYA REPORT

LONDON (AP)—Gen. Sir Gerald Templer, British high commissioner in Malaya, arrived here Tuesday night for talks with the government. He told newspaper men "I'm fairly happy about the situation out there."

Attempt to Settle Week-Old Strike Will Be Made

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — James Hutcheon, a labor board conciliation officer, said Tuesday night he will try to arrange a second series of meetings soon in an attempt to settle a week-old strike which has kept about 4,750 men away from work on 85 construction jobs in the Windsor area.

The strike was called last Tuesday by Local 494, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (AFL) to back up wage demands. Later, some 4,000 other building trades workers refused to cross picket lines set up by the carpenters.

A series of meetings Monday night between Mr. Hutcheon and officials of the union and major construction firms failed to bring about an agreement.

The conciliation officer attended to other business matters Tuesday and said he hopes to bring the two parties together to discuss the dispute further before he returns to Toronto later this week.

The carpenters, who now get $2 an hour, are seeking an 18-cent hourly pay increase to be granted between now and next July 1. The contractors have stood firm on their offer of a 15-cent boost.

Recently the majority report of the conciliation board recommended a 17-cent increase.

Showers Help To Speed Up Fall Plowing

TORONTO (CP)—Showers, general throughout most of the province during the early part of last week, have helped to speed up fall plowing in many sections of Ontario.

The weekly farm report of the Ontario department of agriculture, says that plowing is progressing well in all counties. Light rains have wet the soil, but many farmers are still concerned over dry cisterns and empty wells.

Flax and clover yields are variable in Dufferin county. The turnip harvest in Huron is complete. Almost all the corn in Essex county is in. The sugar beet yield in Kent is the best in years.

LIVESTOCK SALES

The Simcoe county shorthorn breeders' fall sale saw $380 paid for the top bull and the top female bring $410. Some 118 head of cattle were sold at the Southwestern Ontario Livestock Producers' Association sale in Kent county. Open classes went at 3-cent cattle, calf classes at 21 cents.

Winter wheat is making good progress in Oxford. Corn picking is general in Middlesex.

Local potatoes are not moving in Algoma, but several carloads of lambs and cattle were shipped out last week. Flax will not be cut until the ground freezes in Kenora. Manitoulin reports plenty of winter feed and seed supplies on hand.

CROFTON

CROFTON — The Hallowe'en social held at the hall on Friday evening was well attended by witches and all kinds of hobgoblins. About $25 was taken in at the door.

POTLUCK SUPPER

The ladies of Salem W.A. held a potluck supper in the new garage of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Clements on Wednesday evening of last week. Approximately 130 people sat down to the well laden tables. After supper Rev. Mr. Glover, of Marmora, acting as chairman, called the gathering to order, welcomed everyone and expressed thanks to the ladies for their worthwhile efforts. Musical selections were given by Marion and Shirley Broadworth, Linda Sine, Joe, Glen and Grant Hagerman, also Mr. and Mrs. Tom Broadworth. Barbara Twiddy gave a recitation. Mr. Bill Claus of Stirling, showed slides, which were most interesting and thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. Mrs. Mayo, as president thanked everyone who had helped to make the evening successful, with special thanks extended to Mr. and Mrs. Clements. The proceeds of the evening were most gratifying.

Mrs. Bill Warren, of Kingston, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred McDonald were tea hour guests on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Jenkins.

St. Thomas' W.A. held a dinner and quilting at the home of Mrs. Everett Silss on Thursday of last week.

Pupils, Parents Friends Enjoy Hallowe'en Party

SHANNONVILLE — On Friday evening the school pupils with their parents and friends enjoyed a Hallowe'en party in Shannonville school.

Prizes were given for the best and the funniest costumes, with prizes going to: adults; Mrs. F. Howard, Mrs. D. Doyle; senior boys: Billy Brant, Douglas Dafoe; junior boys: Rickie Cook, Donnie Dafoe; senior girls: Rena Patrick, Linda Marlon; junior girls: Sandra Reid, Treva Barbertsch; pre-school girls: Carolyn Howard, Sandra Louie; pre-school boys: Andy Sword, Kirk Reid.

Contest prizes were awarded to: apple eating: Douglas Dafoe; drawing contest: Lorraine Shelly; milk bottle contest: Mrs. J. Harrington; coke drinking contest: Mrs. S. Hill; Mrs. R. Todd; soap contest: Ruth Angevine, Shirley Green, Rummy Green.

The children also played games and did purtize to the treats of Hallowe'en goodies, cookies, candies, apples and drinks.

Much credit is given to Mr. Ronald Stewart, principal, and Mrs. Henderson, junior room teacher, also to the members of the home and school association for planning this party.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

A large congregation attended the anniversary service in the United Church Sunday evening. The church was tastefully decorated with baskets of mums.

An earnest and challenging message was delivered by Rev. L. S. Throop, of Cannilton, who was the guest minister.

Miss L. McDougall and Mr. D. Irwin, members of Albert College choir, each rendered a lovely solo with Mr. Hoare accompanying them on the piano.

Mr. R. E. Kuntze, of Belleville, loaned a Lowery organ for the occasion and the music played on this instrument by Mrs. Harry Stine, pianist, was found to be most pleasing and added much to the service.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Cook and sons, Don, Bob, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cook, of Aurora, spent a recent week-end with the former's mother, Mrs. E. A. McFarlane.

Several ladies from the village attended the bazaar and tea, sponsored by the ladies of the Front Road United Church on Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Olive Grestrix and Mr. Bert Grestrix, of Buffalo, N.Y., have returned home after spending a week with their aunt, Mrs. Allan MacDonald and other relatives.

Mrs. Kincaid, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and Mary were Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Kincaid, at Cannilton.

Miss Marie Emmons, Belleville, spent the week-end with Mrs. J. Vincent.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doolittle, of Belleville, were supper guests on Sunday at the home of Mr. James McFarlane.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Stratton were Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Strathy.

Among the local sportsmen to go north to the hunting camps were: Messrs. Frank Doxtator, Ed. Dens, John Weese, Gerald Stratton, Gordon Johnson, Gordon Green and Bert Burgess.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cummings and family of Corbyville, spent the dinner hour on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Wilson.

At the home of Mrs. R. E. Vivian on Friday the ladies of the United church met for an all day sewing bee.

A Dresden plate quilt was completed and other sewing done in preparation for the W.A. bazaar, which will be held in the church hall November 18th.

Mr. Russel Wescott is spending a few holidays with his sister, Mrs. Charles Munro, husband and family, at Havelock.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ray and son, Franklin, and friend, spent Sunday with Mr. and Frank Doxtator.

Mr. E. R. Vivian is suffering with an injury to his foot he received when he fell from a scaffold.

Mr. Percy Moore, reeve of Tyendinaga township was the recipient of the Queen's Coronation Medal.

The members of the L.O.L. had a bee on Saturday, and put new shutters on their hall.

Pirates, cowboys, Indian, witches, clowns, hobgoblins and many other weird creatures were on the loose Saturday night, for the annual Hallowe'en frolic. All had fared all right as their shopping bags were all filled. Although there were many prowlers, the evening was fairly quiet and no serious damage done.

QUEENSBORO

QUEENSBORO — Mrs. Will Rollins, Peterborough, is spending the week with her daughter, Mrs. John Thompson.

Miss Marilyn Greene, Peterborough, spent the week-end with Miss Jessie Greene.

Several of the "Young People" spent the week-end in Peterborough attending the Young People's convention.

NATO Symbol Means Unity Peace

Lord Ismay, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, has an explanation for the official emblem adopted for NATO. Its symbolism, he says, is as follows: "A four-pointed star representing the compass that keeps us on the right road, a path of peace, and a circle representing the unity that binds together the fourteen countries of NATO." The emblem is white on a navy blue background. — Central Press Canadian.

EXPENSIVE PARTY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A jury has awarded a hotel detective $187,000 damages for injuries sustained during a melee which he said started when two wealthy wholesale grocers tossed ice cubes at band leader Xavier Cugat. The judgment was won Tuesday by William Howard Tobin Sr., 55, from Alfonso and Victor de Cassus, brothers. Detective Tobin's suit charged the brawl climaxed a football celebration. Tobin says he still is partly paralyzed from a kick in the groin.

DEMORESTVILLE

DEMORESTVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cole and family were Friday tea-hour guests with Mr. and Mrs. Will Anderson.

Mrs. Gladstone Purtelle spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Russel Howell and family.

All the ghostly figures were out on Hallowe'en. Ghost, witches and everything that goes with a good celebration. It was trick or treat evening and the youngsters enjoyed it to the utmost. Their school party was held on Friday evening at the school.

RAWDON

RAWDON — Mrs. Sid Williams, Mrs. Everett Cook, Mrs. John Morrison, Mrs. Edna Wright and Mrs. Florence Hough accompanied Mrs. Ralph Yeo to the home and the installing team of Laurel Lodge, Stirling, to Thomasburg recently.

Born—at the Rise Maternity Home, Rawdon township, on Thursday, October 29th, 1953, to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dunham, Harold R.R. 2, a son— a brother for Ralph and Lloyd.

At Carmel United Church on a recent Sunday afternoon four students from Albert College spoke briefly. They were Miss Edith Hay, of Bolivia, U.S.A.; Mr. George Chase, of Toronto; Mr. Albert Hartman, Virgin Islands, and Mr. William Wong, of Hong Kong, China.

The group were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Prear. One of the boys is a candidate for the ministry and one described his father's farm which consists of acres of cane sugar. The Carmel congregation thoroughly enjoyed having the privilege of fellowship with these young people.

A large number of the men folk travelled north to the annual autumn hunting expedition.

Rev. R. R. Bonsteel, B.A., B.D., of Rawdon circuit, officiated at the morning service in Queen St. United Church, Kingston, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Emerson, of Moira, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Sid Williams and Ronnie, to Peterborough on Sunday, where they visited relatives and enjoyed a birthday party.

On Sunday evening, November 8th, a young Scottish piper from Toronto, who is a member of the Fairbank choir, will pipe a Highland Lament entitled "The Flowers of the Forest" at the special Remembrance service for the war dead in St. Paul's United Church. This young piper had the honor of playing before the Queen in Scotland last year at the Braemer Gathering.

Mr. Jack McEathron spent the week-end with relatives at Brighton, Ont. His uncle and aunt accompanied him to Rawdon where they are visiting at several homes.

A large number of visitors from Kingston, Belleville, Markham, Salem, Malvern, Phillipston, Rylestone, West Huntingdon, Stirling, Stockdale, Carmel, Bethel, Hoards, Wellman's, Oshawa, Port Hope and other points were entertained at various homes in the Mount Pleasant community on the occasion of the 81st. church anniversary.

Many people, who had worshipped here in their early days and now live elsewhere, came home on Sunday for the morning service. Among these were: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Button and Marie, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Holmes and Marilyn, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Don Rose, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Zufelt, Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowe, Hoards; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw, Ivanhoe; Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Sills, West Huntingdon; Mr. and Mrs. Don Holbert, of Moira; Mr. and Mrs. Will Heath, Bethel, and others.

Liberal Peer Raises Cry Against British Immorality

LONDON (Reuter) — Viscount Samuel, 83, Liberal statesman and philosopher, crashed the front page of most British newspapers today with an attack against a vice wave he says is undermining the country's morals.

The famed Liberal started his fellow peers Wednesday night by launching into his "clean up Britain" campaign in the middle of the throne speech debate.

He declared: "The vices of Sodom and Gomorrah are rife amongst us.

"If that becomes common, then the retribution will not be found in earthquake and conflagration. The retribution will be found in something much more deadly—the insidious poisoning of the moral sense."

STATISTICS SHOCK

His speech coincided with public outcry over the disclosure two weeks ago by a London magistrate that in his court alone he dealt with 600 morals cases a year involving males.

Lord Samuel said in the House of Lords that the moral state of the nation, the character of the people, is something more important than all "political, economic, financial and even international questions."

DEEP ANXIETY

"In these days there is, among many, careful watchers, a deep anxiety," he said. He applauded the public virtues of patriotism and courage evident in Britain, but added:

"Where we are at fault is in the individual characteristics of a section of the population, not a very large section but large enough not to be negligible."

Violent crime had greatly increased, and there were cruel and ruthless murders which "in an age of education and enlightenment are a disgrace to us all."

MUCH SEXUAL LAXITY

"Further, there is no question that sexual laxity is much more than it has been in earlier generations.

"Adultery is regarded as a jest, and divorce is a mere unimportant incident."

Moral law had weakened partly because the old dogmas of heaven and hell no longer gripped and controlled conduct, partly because science brought strange new doctrines in physiology and psychology.

"We are told each man's actions are the result of his genes and what he does is merely the result of the genes he is born with.

"I believe a great deal of nonsense is talked of this quasi kind of psychology. We should return to common sense, which is nothing else than the requirement that rules of conduct should be based on the universal moral law."

Indian Delegate Postpones Plan For Parley Call

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Current cold winds in the international climate have convinced India's delegate V. K. Krishna Menon the time is not ripe for his idea of a United Nations Assembly call for a top-level Big Four conference.

Menon told the Assembly last September that he might propose a resolution in which the 80-member organization would appeal to the chiefs of state of the United States, Russia, Britain and France to get together personally in an attempt to solve present world tensions.

Now, however, sources familiar with his views say he has decided to wait for more favorable conditions.

The sources said he has no desire to push his suggestion in the face of the present U.S. opposition and the stand-off attitude of some other powers. The sources said Menon would prefer to be assured of unanimous praise of any such proposal in the assembly.

WORKS DEADLOCK

As of today, Menon was represented as being pessimistic about convening a conference. But he still believes it would be helpful. He noted with interest Prime Minister Churchill's statement to the House of Commons Tuesday that a Big Four conference might be "useful" but that there was a risk it might end "in a still worse deadlock than at present".

Indian sources said Menon has not consulted the American delegation but that he has learned the views of the U.S. through other delegations and the press.

President Eisenhower has stated several times he does not believe a top-level conference would be worth while until the Russians prove their good faith with concrete actions to end world tension.

The three Western allies already have invited Russia to a conference of Big Four foreign ministers to discuss the future of Germany and Austria. The Soviet Union snubbed that invitation in notes delivered in Moscow Tuesday. Reaction in Washington, London and Paris generally has been that the Kremlin is stalling, and Premier Malenkov doesn't want any kind of Big Four conference at the present time.

Mossadegh Will Face Court Next Wednesday

TEHRAN (AP)—Mirror Hall in Saltsatabad prison will be the scene next Wednesday of the treason trial of former premier Mohammed Mossadegh. Conviction can bring the death sentence.

This was disclosed Wednesday night by a high government official who said preparations for the military trial include seating for 30 Iranian and foreign reporters to cover the proceedings. The room will hold 200 persons in addition to the judges and other officials.

Mossadegh was ousted in the August uprising which put Premier Fazollah Zahedi into office and brought the shah back from brief exile in Italy. Mossadegh is charged with failing to obey the shah's decree for his removal.

Booklet Assists Small Investor

The small investor — the man or woman who can save a few dollars a month or already possesses a small amount of capital — never had a better opportunity to share in Canada's growth. To attract these people into properly designed savings-investment programs, the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada is now distributing free across Canada a booklet entitled "To Help You Share In Canada's Growth."

Clearly defining the differences between speculation and investment, and laying out the principles which must guide a successful investor, are the main purposes of the book. The Investment Dealers' Association hopes it will make people who now buy stocks "with a hope and a prayer" change into investors.

Common stocks, in the view of the Investment Dealers' Association, need be just a rigid list of requirements before they merit consideration by a small investor. Even then, the book emphasizes, this type of venture must not be allowed to interfere with the development of the planned savings-investment program. "No matter how attractive they may appear."

TERMS HARD RULERS.

"Three rules of the road to investment success form the backbone of the pamphlet; protect your money against dips and dives in the market; make your money earn a steady income for you; and make your money grow as the country grows. This investment dealers' slogan of "safety-income-growth" is applied with varying emphasis on each of the three purposes, depending on the means and needs of the particular investor, the book explains.

The investment plans for four people—a storekeeper, a young doctor, a widow with a little above average inheritance, and a young woman who could save $25 a month — are described in the booklet. Each of these people needed a slightly different stress laid upon the safety factor, the income factor, and the growth factor in their selection of stocks and bonds.

In addition to outlining the fundamentals of successful portfolio management, the book contains essential information on the types of securities available and how to assess them, the legal protection afforded investors by provincial regulations in Canada, and services available to the public through members of The Investment Dealers' Association of Canada.

Anyone may obtain free copies of the book from the office of any member of the Association, or write to the Association at 170 Bay St., Toronto 1.

Newspapers Improve Says Editors' Leader

CHICAGO (AP) — Norman E. Isaacs, president of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association, declares "newspaper knowhow, objectivity, fairness and responsibility have increased steadily."

Isaacs, managing editor of the Louisville Times, made the statement in his report to the organization of editors of AP newspapers.

He recalled that since his election to the APME presidency a year ago he had traveled to various parts of the United States and had "pleaded everywhere for a high ethical concept of journalism."

Little Benny's Note Book

I came down to breakfast with one shoe on and one off, saying, Ma, my I cant undo the knott in this shoelace, it's impossible. There's no such word as impossible, ma said, and I said, Well I bet I can take this knott out. If it was possible for me to get it in, it's possible for me to get it out. So the heck with impossible, I said.

Now' you're talking, pop said, and ma said, That's the proper attitude, just make up your mind, and the battle is half won.

I'll keep working at it till there's nothing left of it, I said. I dont care if it takes me hours, ma can give me an excuse note for the teecher, I said, for being late. Just look at the time, he's almost late already. Give me that shoe, ma said.

And she got the knott out with out half trying.

Proving things may be impossible but not to your mother.

July Imports Outpace Exports To Leave $7,200,000 Deficit

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's imports again outpaced exports in July, resulting in a $7,200,000 trade deficit—the sixth monthly deficit for 1953.

This brought the total seven-month adverse balance for 1953 to $204,400,000, a reversal from the $303,400,000 surplus in the similar 1952 period, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Imports during July rose to $405,400,000 from $343,300,000 last year, bringing the seven-month total to a record $2,622,000,000, a gain from $2,293,500,000 in 1952.

Exports the other way showed a rise but to the same extent, increasing to $398,300,000 in July from $375,100,000. However the seven-month total dropped to $2,418,600,000 from $2,467,100,000.

Canada increased her 1953 buying heavily in the United States market, with the deficit in U.S. trade rising to the highest level in six years.

Imports from the U.S. rose in July to $286,500,000—a $40,000,000 jump from $246,500,000 last year. The rise pushed Canada's total purchases from the U.S. to a peak $1,958,800,000 for the seven-month period—a $250,000,000 increase from $1,704,400,000 a year ago.

Canada managed to sell a little more in the American market, but her exports fell far behind imports. In July shipments to the U.S. rose $212,700,000 from $190,000,000, bringing the seven-month total to $1,422,300,000, up from $1,322,700,000.

The big surge in imports widened Canada's seven-month adverse trade gap with the U.S. to $536,100,000 from $381,600,000 last year.

Imports from Britain increased and exports also rose, Canada's surplus in U.K. trade dropped in July to $34,300,000 from $36,100,000 last year, paring the seven-month total to $136,600,000 from $277,600,000.

EGG PRICES DROP

KITCHENER (CP)—The price of grade A large eggs has dropped to 64 cents a dozen from 81 during the last two weeks. Egg dealers said such a sharp drop at this time of year is unusual. One grader said recent warm weather may have started pullets laying earlier than usual.

Quebec Must Oppose Federal Interference in Education Commission Members Told

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—A Montreal college today claimed before a Quebec royal commission on constitutional problems that the Quebec government "must oppose and resist any direct or indirect interference of the federal authority in matters of education and teaching."

In a brief College Mont St. Louis said the provincial government should meet with groups all colleges which contribute to education in the province.

Founded in 1896 by the Christian Brothers, the college offers science, commerce and art courses.

The brief was one of six scheduled to be heard today by the commission, set up last March by the Quebec government.

WILL TRAVEL

The Automotive Transport Association of Quebec Province, the College of Optometrists and Opticians, the Quebec Real Estate Board, the Federation of English-speaking Catholic Teachers and the Secretary of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate were also to present briefs.

Following adjournment today, the commission will travel to northwestern Quebec where it will begin Tuesday a two-month tour of the province.

Mont St. Louis made no reference in its brief to federal grants to universities and institutions of higher learning, cut off from Quebec universities and colleges this year by the Quebec government.

The grants are a subject of controversy in the province as the government has claimed they constitute an encroachment on provincial autonomy as far as education is concerned.

The college brief said it believes the Canadian constitution accorded the provinces exclusive rights in matters of education and teaching.

The brief claimed the Quebec government should have the revenues needed to enter its power, right and duty to assist those who contribute to education in the province.

Football Star And Seven Others Killed in Crash

PLATTE CITY, Mo. (AP)—Two automobiles collided head-on on a highway near here Wednesday night, killing eight young people including Vince Belshing, former college and professional football player.

Christmas Fair At Walkerton

WALKERTON (CP)—The two-day Walkerton Christmas fair opened Wednesday with judging of commercial cattle and purebred sheep and lambs.

In the commercial cattle show, 61 entries were listed. The championship went to H. S. Lorce and Son of Rockwood, and reserve championship to O. Wilkin of Harriston, both with Aberdeen Angus steers.

Top winners in the sheep classes were Henry Rose, of Elmwood; Peter Deering, Exeter, Tasker Grant, Stayner and Ephriam Snell, Clinton.

Reinking, 37, and his wife, Camille, 35, were in one car. Six young men were in the other.

Authorities blamed excessive speed for the crash. They said the speedometer of the car in which the six men were riding was stuck at 85 miles an hour.

Reinking played pro football with New York Giants.

No Agreement

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A second meeting, called by Mayor Arthur J. Reaume, failed to bring about any agreement between major construction firms and carpenters who have been on strike for the last eight days, it was announced Wednesday.

Work on 85 jobs in the Windsor area has been halted since the Carpenters, members of Local 494, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (AFL) went on strike to back wage demands. Meanwhile more than 5,000 other building trades workers also are idle, having refused to cross picket lines set up by the carpenters.

The carpenters, who now get $2 an hour, are seeking an 18-cent hourly boost to be granted gradually between now and July 1. The construction firms have offered a 15-cent hourly increase.

10 Boys Rescued From Burning Bush at Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Ten boys ranging in age from seven to 13 years were rescued Wednesday by police after they became trapped by flames which roared through a section of Yawkey bush, a wooded area near west-end Windsor.

While directing traffic along the nearby highway which was covered with heavy, black smoke, Constable James Rowley heard cries coming from the fire area.

He made his way through the burning bush to find the 10 boys huddled in a group and ringed by flames. Because of the smoke cover they were unable to make their way out of the area.

Rowley organized the group and led them to safety.

Two boys and their dog had been playing in the bush and were trapped when they attempted to put out the fire. None of the boys was injured.

Atomic Energy Act Revisions Studied in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times today says the United States atomic energy commission is drafting a series of important amendments to the Atomic Energy Act.

A Washington dispatch to The Times by James Reston said the amendments are designed to increase the participation of private industry in the program at home and to liberalize the exchange of atomic information among the Allies.

(In Washington, the AEC had no comment on the reported draft legislation.)

FOUR OBJECTIVES

The amendments would do these things, the story said:

1. Enable private industry to own or rent fissionable material and to own and operate power reactors under proper controls. They can't do either at present.

2. Give the commission greater discretion in the exchange of atomic and thermonuclear information. This is strictly limited by the act, though it is subject to various interpretations.

3. Liberalize the rigid patent system that now governs all developments in this field so that private industry will have greater incentives to put its dollars, manpower and brains into these projects.

4. Revise the security system so that it is not necessary to get or evade the high clearance for labor on atomic energy projects.

Rudolf Roessler Jailed for Year For Espionage

LUCERNE, Switzerland (AP)—Rudolf Roessler, Russia's wartime master spy, was sentenced today to one year for reviving his espionage service for Red Czechoslovakia after the war.

A Swiss federal court also handed his contact man, Dr. Xaver Schnieper, 9, nine-month term.

The eight months both men have been jailed awaiting trial are to be deducted from their sentences.

Roessler, a Russian German exile, and Schnieper, a Swiss who served mainly as his messenger, were convicted of spying on Allied and Axis defence measures in Germany and elsewhere in Western Europe. They operated from 1947 until they were arrested by Swiss police last March.

Both worked for the Swiss intelligence service during the war; Roessler also worked for the Russians.

SENTENCED FOR THEFT

WOODSTOCK (CP)—Henry Elliott, 36, of Lucknow was sentenced Friday to three years in penitentiary after pleading guilty to 10 charges of theft and of breaking and entering. He was remanded a week on a charge of shooting with intent to do grievous bodily harm and of armed assault. Biggest theft charge was that of stealing a safe containing $1,500 at Teeswater.

Assurance Firm Head to Complete Term in February

NEW YORK (AP)—Directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Company of the United States Wednesday night announced that Thomas I. Parkinson, involved in a controversy with state insurance authorities, will end his term as a board chairman next February.

Alfred H. Bohlinger, New York state superintendent of insurance, has accused the 70-year-old Parkinson of "speculating" in $850,000 worth of the firm's advertising to an agency controlled by his son.

The directory met in a special session that dragged on for 12 hours. The meeting was called by Bohlinger after Parkinson refused to resign his $100,000-a-year job. Bohlinger did not question the financial soundness of the company.

Parkinson has served as chairman of the board and a director of the company for 36 years. The directors' announcement a s a result of the meeting said the society has grown to third place in the life insurance field."

M. J. Coldwell Terms Malan Fascist Dictator

SASKATOON, (CP)—CCF leader M. J. Coldwell described prime minister D. F. Malan of South Africa Wednesday night, as "a fascist dictator whose policies in his own country are "bringing disrespect for the white race all over the world."

The Socialist leader, a member of a CCF delegation to the United Nations General Assembly, came here from New York to attend the three-day annual convention of the CCF's Saskatchewan section.

In a speech at a convention banquet, he criticized UN delegates for "not saying publicly what they are saying" about Malan.

The CCF leader, who spoke in praise of socialism, said "the greatest act of history performed in the last half century was the British Labor government, to give India her independence of Britain."

"If the colonial powers would do likewise, there would be no uprisings in Asia and Africa like there is today."

Man in Hospital With Broken Neck As Thief Charged

HAMILTON (CP)—Police have charged Joseph Harbourg, 36, of Toronto with stealing two kegs of uranium-bearing concentrates from a Port Colborne express warehouse platform. They said they also hold the theft warrant for Edward Blair, 29, of Toronto.

Sergeant Clair Ralston of the Canadian National Railways investigation staff said the metal is worth approximately $250,000.

Earlier, police placed its value at about $13,000. It was recovered.

Harbourg is in hospital with a broken neck police say he suffered when an automobile crashed out of control on a roadway 11 miles south of here.

A farmer brought Harbourg and another occupant of the car to hospital Tuesday night. Harbourg was admitted but his companion, who apparently suffered minor cuts and bruises, disappeared.

SPECIAL TRAP

Ralston said the theft charge after a special trip from Port Colborne to Harbourg's hospital bedside late Wednesday.

He said the kegs were part of a large shipment being made by the International Nickel Company.

Seven drums of the concentrates containing platinum, gold, silver and nickel-copper ore be shipped to Copper CLIff for further refining.

Plant officials at Port Colborne said the concentrates were useless in the average person.

"It looks as though someone told the thieves the stuff was valuable, but they'd have a tough time making any money on it," they said. "It had to be refined."

FIGHT RESTRICTIONS

OSHAWA (CP)—The annual publishing convention of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Canada Tuesday asked the church to fight "restrictive municipal by-laws that virtually constitute an infringement of religious liberty." Delegates said the church should oppose such legislation by legal action if necessary. It was decided to hold the next convention in Ottawa in April, 1955.

Canadian Transport Dispute Now Before Privy Council

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The background of a Canadian transport dispute was outlined Wednesday to five lords of the judicial committee of the Privy Council.

At stake is the question of whether the provinces or the federal government control highway traffic crossing provincial and international boundaries.

Three provinces — Ontario, Alberta and Prince Edward Island — have appealed a Supreme Court of Canada decision handed down in October, 1951. The decision upheld the principle of federal control. A second appeal, consolidated with the first, has been brought by a Maine Bus Company, the Canadian Pacific Railway and Canadian National Railways Company and the federal government.

Nova Scotia wants both appeals dismissed.

Legal arguments by 11 Queen's Counsel is expected to last two weeks or so.

The case arose from an injunction brought against the United States-owned Mackenzie Coach Lines by a New Brunswick bus company called the S.M.T. (Eastern) Ltd. The American transport line had been granted permission in 1949 by the New Brunswick government to pass through the province on a run from Boston to Nova Scotia.

However, it was not given permission to take on or unload passengers or goods in the province.

In contesting the injunction, the American bus line argued that its operations conformed to the British North America Act and that New Brunswick restraining legislation was exceeding its powers in passing restraining legislation.

The main point at issue, Attorney-General Dana Porter of Ontario said, is the extent of limitation on provincial legislation for carriers seeking to use provincial highways as part of an interprovincial service.

Alberta and Prince Edward Island have had similar legislation, he said.

Wage Offer Brightens Hopes Of Staving Off Paper Strike

TORONTO (CP)—A wage offer by the pulp and paper industry has brightened hopes of averting a strike of 15,000 Ontario workers.

Talks were scheduled to continue today between representatives of 11 companies and three unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. They started Tuesday.

The offer of an increase of three cents an hour was presented late Wednesday, along with proposals of concessions on overtime and welfare provisions. Present basic rate is $1.41 an hour and the union has been seeking a general increase of five per cent, along with other benefits.

Earlier this week the unions said they planned to pull out on their demands. They have already voted in favor of a strike if they consider one necessary.

PARALYZE ECONOMY

Such a strike would further paralyze the economy of Northern Ontario; already hard hit by goldfields strikes. Upwards of 4,000 men have been made idle by the strikes called by the United Steel workers of America (CIO-CCL) to enforce demands for wage increases and the check-off of union dues.

Some woods operations in the north have already been recalled as a result of the mining dispute. Mines closed by the strike are not buying fresh supplies of timber, timbers and woods workers are not called upon to cut them.

Developments in the pulp and paper negotiations in Ontario are expected to set a pattern for discussions between the industry and unions in Quebec and in Western Canada.

In British Columbia's pulp and paper industry, more than 4,000 workers have voted in favor of a strike if they cannot agree on increases. They are awaiting further instructions from their union leaders.

PEARSON FLIES TO UN

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson flies to New York tonight to bring himself up-to-date on latest developments ff the United Nations. Mr. Pearson, chairman of the Canadian delegation, is expected to return to Ottawa early next week.

Pair Separated For 44 Years Wed in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — A pair of Scottish sweethearts, separated 44 years, were married in Victoria Presbyterian church here Wednesday.

Jim McLaren and Sally Farmer, both 68, picnicked on the hills of Scotland 20 years ago. Then Jim left for Canada, never expecting to see Sally again. In Canada he married and had a son. His wife died last January.

When he was at the Coronation last June, Jim decided to look up a few friends. Among them he found Sally, still single, operating a hairware store in Glasgow, his home town.

The happy couple will honeymoon in New York City.

YOUTHFUL EXPERT

WOODEND, England (CP)—John Marshall, 8, youngest entrant in a sea angling contest off the Warwickshire coast, hooked a conger eel weighing 11½ pounds but was disqualified when he accepted help in landing it. Judges however gave him a new reel as a special prize.

Wins Speaking Contest

GUELPH (CP)—Joan Hemskam 11, of Moskton, Wednesday won the district public school speaking finals.

The finals, held in conjunction with the seventh annual convention of the western Ontario township area school boards, had representatives from Bruce, Perth, Grey and Wellington counties.

Miss Hemskam spoke on training dogs for the RCMP. Lynne Taylor of Egremont, Grey county was second prize and Jim McLahan of Mount Forest, Wellington, was third.

CENTENARY

37's Mission Circle Presents Gift To Retiring Leader

CENTENARY—Mrs. Colin Bain was hostess for the October twenty-fifth meeting of the Centenary 3 7's Mission Circle. President Mrs. Fred Edmondson, was in charge of the meeting. Secretary, Elaine Bain gave the report of the previous meeting, which was followed by the roll call, showing an attendance of 12.

GIFT PRESENTED

An attractively wrapped gift was then carried in by Elaine Bain, and presented to retiring group leader, Mrs. Gordon Garrison on behalf of the Mission Circle. The accompanying card was signed by those present. Mrs. Garrison expressed grateful thanks for the beautiful china cup and saucer.

Shirley Hall and Eleanor Roblin, members of Mrs. Garrison's group, are to have charge of the next meeting. It was decided that a nominating committee consisting of president, Mrs. F. Edmondson, advisory president, Mrs. William Mavlin, and group leader, Mrs. Keith Sills and Mrs. Orvil May are to put in a new slate of officers for the new year. Plans were also discussed concerning the special meeting to be held in late November.

Recording secretary, Mrs. Ralph Losey, read a thank-you letter from Miss Missionary for prayers. Maude Gollan, concerning the lady's estate.

The meeting was then turned over to group leader, Mrs. Orval May. Scripture readings were given by Mrs. Lloyd Pearson and Mrs. Fred Edmondson, after two of the Study Book "Where'er the Sun" was read by Mrs. May.

While the hostess and her assistants served refreshments, Elaine Bain was in charge of a scrambled name contest concerning famous historical figures.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Bain for her kind hospitality by Mrs. May on behalf of those present.

Mrs. Vida May accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ivan May, Gary and Marilyn, of Tracey Street motored to Kingston last Sunday to visit the former's brother, Mr. Charles Bewsey R.R. 1, Hillier, also her brother-in-law Mr. Harper Broad, Wellington, who are patients in the hospital there.

A meeting of the ratepayers of Centenary school was held in the school on Monday evening last, concerning the location of the new school, and it was decided to purchase some land from Wm. Calvert for this purpose. The new two-roomed school is to be completed by September first of new year.

Police Ambush Drug 'Pusher' Right in Station

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three police officers battled a suspected narcotics "pusher" into unconsciousness in an ambush laid in a police station washroom.

The suspect, unnamed by police who said charges were pending had been released on bail from Oakalla prison farm in suburban Burnaby where he had been taken on a previous charge of drugs possession.

Police said the man took exactly 34 minutes to get from Oakalla, 10 miles east of here, to the main Vancouver police station.

Detectives Angus McDonald and Frank Hill, with RCMP constable Steve Bunyk, jumped the man as he picked up a package containing 10 capsules which had been hidden on a washroom ledge. In the struggle, the suspect attempted to swallow the parcel, but was grabbed around the throat.

The struggle ended when the suspect became unconscious. It took inhalant crews 25 minutes to dislodge the package from his throat.

MORE BEAVER

WINNIPEG (CP)—An open season on beaver south of the 53rd parallel for licensed trappers was declared by the Manitoba government, first open season in more than 25 years in southern Manitoba. Increase in number of beaver allows an open season from Nov. 15 to April 24.

Police Charge Italians Trying To Raise Flag

TRIESTE (Reuters) — Police with batons Wed. charged a crowd of Italians who tried to raise their flag on the town hall of this disputed city in defiance of Western Allied orders.

Several hundred Italians, marching with an Italian tricolor reached the city centre in the late afternoon and headed for the town hall.

They shouted anti-Allied slogans as they approached the building.

The Italians—some of them war veterans who had just returned from Armistice Day ceremonies at nearby Redipuglia—were incensed over orders that no "Italian flags should be flown from public buildings during two-day celebrations marking Italian acquisition of Trieste in 1918.

FLAG SEIZED BY POLICE

The Italian mayor, Gianni Bartoli, tried to defy the Allied order Tuesday by raising Italian flags over the town hall. They were hauled down and confiscated.

Spokesmen, which enraged local Italians, touched off today's scuffles.

As the Italians tried to raise their flag on the town hall today police attempted to move them on the crowd stood firm. Police then acted with drawn batons.

The howling crowd picked up bottles and chairs from a nearby cafe and began hurling them at the British police officers in charge of the riot squads.

Radio calls brought reinforcements in a few minutes.

Crouching behind the wire meshes encasing their jeeps, the police officers leaned out and with flailing batons broke up the mob.

Red Dean Repeats Bacteriological Warfare Charge

LONDON (AP) — The "Red" Dean of Canterbury, Most Rev. Hewlett Johnson, has repeated accusations that United States forces "conducted bacteriological warfare in North Korea and China."

In a letter to Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard, the Anglican churchman questioned the accounts of American airmen that they were tortured by the Communists in an effort to force false confessions."

The dean wrote in reply to an editorial carried in The Standard Oct. 26. The editorial said the Americans' stories of torture constituted "conclusive proof that the Communist accusations of germ warfare were a carefully planned and ruthlessly executed propaganda move; that there was not a word of truth in their fabrications."

THE DEAN CHALLENGED

The newspaper recalled that a year ago the "Red" dean was busy writing articles and addressing mass meetings. It asked why he was silent now and answered its question: "His honesty and integrity have been challenged . . . by the returned prisoners of war from Korea."

The dean denied he had been silent in recent months. Referring to the torture charges, he wrote: "Have they (the American airmen) been sent with others to the Valley Forge mental hospital to undergo 'brain-washing' at the tender ministrations of McCarthy "psychiatrists?"

HUNTING SCENERY

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The Gander tourist board has asked authorities to enforce regulations prohibiting cutting of trees on highway limits. Some residents have been cutting down the birch trees that constitute a scenic attraction on the trans-Canada highway near Gander lake.

Canadian Govt. Wants Clearance For Air Service

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government will make early and probably stronger, diplomatic representations to the United States government for an air service between Canada and Mexico by way of Tampa, Fla.

Transport Minister Chevrier said today that the external affairs department, which has had informal discussions with the U.S. state department on the issue in the last few months, will act again in an attempt to obtain removal of a U.S. block to the proposed service.

Another informant said diplomatic moves would reopen almost immediately and might start with a formal note setting out this government's objections to U.S. policy that has held up the negotiations for 21 opening of a Montreal-Toronto-Tampa-Mexico City run.

The service has been blocked by insistence of the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board that Trans-Canada Air Lines use different planes on the Toronto-Tampa and Tampa-Mexico City legs.

SERVICE TOO COSTLY

TCA holds that this rigid interpretation of international air procedure would make the service too costly. Mr. Chevrier last week announced, federal authorities here are "reviewing the position" of some American carriers operating through Canada.

Canada permits some of these to engage in the procedure followed by the CAB for Trans-Canada. U.S. operations that are being reviewed, it was learned, include those of Pan-American Airways into Alaska by way of Whitehorse, Yukon, and Colonial Airlines' Montreal-Ottawa-Washington run.

TRAINING MARKSMEN

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—In the hope of reducing hunting accidents in future, fish and game officials here opened courses for boys between 12 and 17 years on the proper handling and care of firearms.

NARROW MARGIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Daniel Jube won by 112 to 21 over Mayor Stan Bowery in the Brooklands village municipal election. One of the voters for the winner was cast by his brother Stephen Jube, who had won a seat in the provincial legislature last June.

RARE BUCK

PIERCE POND TOWNSHIP, Me. (AP)—A deer hunter returned Tuesday, with the body of a buck with 23 points on its antlers. Fish and game officials said Spencer Cage's kill was a rarity. Most bucks shot in Maine have 10 or 12 point antlers at the most.

POPULAR SPORT

COBOURG, Ont. (CP) — Some stores here are operating with short staffs this month because employees delayed their annual holidays so they could spend them hunting deer in the north. The mild autumn resulted in increased numbers traveling this year.

Poor Man's Atom Smasher Being Built in California

By BENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Reporter

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A poor man's atom-smasher, called a swinging-wire accelerator, it seems to get something for nothing, is being built at University of California.

This relatively small instrument will produce a beam of atomic particles at energies of 1,000,000 volts each, even though it uses only a 200,000-volt power source.

It is intended to do work now done by larger and more expensive apparatus.

A full-sized 4,000,000-volt proton accelerator now built for $10,000 to $20,000 while the other machines of that calibre cost $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, said Dr. John S. Woodyard. The 1,000,000-volt model now is being built under his supervision.

The pilot model consists mainly of a tube six feet long with a few gadgets surrounding it.

It uses hydrogen atoms for ammunition. A hydrogen atom is composed of a negatively-charged magnet, called a proton, and a single negatively-charged electron. This makes the normal atom electrically neutral.

NEGATIVELY CHARGED

At the starting end of the tube the electron is burned off the atom with heat. The resulting positively-charged proton is started through the tube with a modest 30,000-volt belt of electricity.

First the proton pushes through a thin sheet of aluminum, foil which it picks up two negative electrons and thus becomes negatively charged.

Further down the tube is a second sheet of aluminum bearing a 500,000-volt positive charge. The negative particle is attracted to this positive one with a 500,000-volt burst of speed.

As it goes through the second aluminum sheet it is robbed of its two electrons and becomes positive again. Because the second aluminum sheet and the particle now are both positive, the particle is repelled. Already travelling at a 500,000-volt clip, it picks up another 500,000 volts of energy because of the repulsion. Then it bangs into a target at the tube outlet with a total energy of around 1,000,000 volts.

Technically called a charge-exchange accelerator, the new gadget already has shown its builders some new things about electrical circuits and has pointed the way toward new uses for plastics in electrical insulation, Dr. Woodyard said.

Duke Appears In White Tie, Striped Pants

LONDON (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh, notoriously conservative in his dress, created a minor flurry in sartorial circles today by turning out in a white tie with striped pants and dress-uniform coat.

"Most unusual," was the reserved comment of George White, skeletal editor of the Tailor and Cutter magazine. "Hardly to be taken seriously.

"Anyone who believes he can dress up like that for Ascot or a garden party, has another think coming.

"The grey silk tie will continue to be worn."

A Buckingham Palace spokesman later straightened things out by explaining the Queen's husband was merely conforming to a local custom for a visit to Edinburgh University.

"I just admit it looks a little odd," he said, "but up at the varsities they do the most frightful things."

"I can assure you it's only for today. The duke is not attempting to set a new fashion."

DETECTIVE ROLE

LONDON (CP)—Alec Guinness, British stage and screen star, will return from a summer season in Shakespeare at Stratford, Ont., play G.K. Chesterton's famous detective "Father Brown" in a new film to be shown here shortly.

KED AMBASSADOR JOINS CAPITALISTS FOR PHEASANT HUNT

Soviet Ambassador to France, Serge Vinogradov, is the picture of a happy man at the end of a pheasant hunt at President Vincent Auriol's estate at Rambouillet, near Paris. It was the first time a Soviet representative accepted an invitation to join the rest of the Paris diplomatic corps in the annual president's pheasant shoot.

SCHARIE

SCHARIE — Mr. Clarence Brooks and pupils entertained parents and friends at a Hallowe'en party at the school on Friday night. Games were played and bountiful refreshments served, and a pleasant evening enjoyed.

Mr. John Lloyd, Toronto, and Miss Lorraine Phillips, Oshawa, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lloyd and family.

Mr. William Mercer has gone back north deer hunting.

Miss Norma Foster attended Chapter at Trenton on Tuesday evening.

Prince Edward County boys did well at Ottawa Fair in club competitions. Ross Foster was highest man of all entrants in both dairy cattle judging and seed judging and Leslie Jones was the highest man in horses. As a team they placed second in seed judging and fourth in dairy cattle.

In all, the four boys had a wonderful time but would have liked to have brought the honors back to Prince Edward as the farm was lucky enough to do last year.

Mrs. Elaine Foster and Darlene were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. William McWilliam.

NORTHPORT

NORTHPORT — Mrs. Ross Clow, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Clow accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Clow, of Brockville, on a delightful motor trip and visited Mrs. Clow's brother, Mr. Frank Buck, New York City and a cousin in Schenectady.

Messrs. C. Gordine, B. Greenwell, L. Crowe, T. Potter, H. Mallett, D. Reichepaw, M. Foster, J. Huckleson, Hugh and Duff Folkard are spending the week north during the deer hunting season.

The young people, and a few adults, enjoyed their Hallowe'en prank and invaded all the homes in their masquerade costumes. Very little damage was done.

Major and Mrs. George Baldwin and sons were Friday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Rabble and Mr. and Mrs. A. Baldwin.

Mr. Charles Read left on Saturday to take up his duties with the RCAF at St. John, Quebec. His mother, Mrs. Read accompanied him as far as Kingston. He has already served three years in the army.

Miss Mae Weatherill spent several days last week guest of her niece, Mrs. Donald Rutherford and family, Campbellford.

Sought by Police In Platinum Theft

Edward Blair, Toronto, is sought by police in connection with the theft of two drums of platinum, valued at $250,000, from the Port Colborne, Ont., refinery. Two drums of the metal were stolen and a portion later recovered following a car crash. Joseph Harborway, Toronto, though suffering from a broken neck, was reported to have been shifting a 240-pound drum of metal from a car to a hiding place under a bridge.

Govt. Rejects U.S. Request On Gouzenko

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Canadian government has informally rejected a state department request that it help the Senate internal security sub-committee interview Igor Gouzenko, former Russian embassy code clerk at Ottawa.

The state department, in a note to the Canadian government, Oct. 29, asked Canada's co-operation in helping Robert Morris, chief counsel for the Senate group, question Gouzenko about possible new leads in the committee's spy hunt.

The committee asked the state department to make the requests after Gouzenko was quoted in a newspaper interview as saying he would be glad to talk to the subcommittee headed by Senator William Jenner (Rep.-Ind.).

FORMAL REPLY SOON

Canada, embassy officials said, has not yet formally replied to the U.S. note. But it will do so shortly, informing the department that it sees no point in arranging the interview because Gouzenko has nothing to add to what he has already told the Canadian government.

Gouzenko broke with the Russian embassy in 1946 in Ottawa and told Canadian authorities of a huge spy network directed from the embassy. As a result, nine Canadians and one Briton were convicted of espionage.

The Canadians will notify the state department, diplomats said, that there has been a "misunderstanding" and that Gouzenko never has said he has additional information.

Negotiations On Trade Pact Are Continuing

OTTAWA (CP)—Negotiations toward development of a new Japanese-Canadian trade pact are continuing, despite mounting protests from Canadian industries, federal officials say.

However, several "safeguards" are to be developed along with the tariff-lowering pact, which, officials said, will prevent a recurrence of the 1936 when Japan poured goods into Canada at rock-bottom prices, forcing some Canadian manufacturers out of business.

One of these safeguards likely will be an exchange of notes between the two countries under which Japan will agree to discontinue sales in Canada of any goods which cause "acute distress" to Canadian manufacturers.

Indications are that the notes will be exchanged at the time the agreement is signed, probably early in 1954. Under the pact, Canada will cut tariffs on Japanese goods, giving Japan the same kind of tariff treatment as Canada gives to member countries of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Another proposal now uder discussion is the tightening up of Canada's dumping laws to prevent large-scale disposal of surplus goods in Canada at fire-sale prices.

Tower of London Guards Jailed

LONDON (Reuters)—Two guards of the Tower of London, centuries-old fortress where the crown jewels are stored, were jailed Wednesday for dereliction of duty.

The men are members of two elite regiments — the Grenadier Guards and Royal Fusiliers—which maintain strict watch over the tower every night while the Tudor-arched Yeoman Guards are off duty.

They were convicted on separate charges at two courts-martial and had his pay stopped until he repaid £20 for uniforms he lost while absent without leave.

The other, Guardsman John Francis Marshall, was sentenced to 84 days' detention for falling asleep on sentry duty.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

OPENING SEASON!

Now that the boys are tramping the leaf-carpeted floors of the forests in search of the elusive buck (four-legged variety, they have 11 months and two weeks of intensive search for the latter type) you can expect the hunting accidents to be likewise in.

A lot of these accidental mishaps are unavoidable but there are plenty that could have been averted had hunters used common sense or studied the simple rules of the sport.

Hunting accidents are on the increase... From 125 killed eight years ago in 35 States of the Union and two Canadian provinces, the total swelled last year to 200 killed and more than 1,000 wounded.

Two hundred and twenty-nine accidental shootings were self-inflicted while 564 were killed or injured by others. There were fatalities for game by hunters and 71 were hit by bullets fired by excited hunters.

A further breakdown of the accidents revealed that 66 shooters stumbled or fell; 19 had their triggers catch in the brush; 7 tried blowing game to cover; 23 while removing cover; 18 while reloading; 18 while resting gun on fence; 11 while loading; 8 while unloading their guns were loaded; 12 while handling; 8 while unloading and 164 unknowns.

Figure it out yourself how many of the above-mentioned accidents could have been avoided with the application of a little common sense.

A well known guide has provided a solution to the hunting casualty problem which has turned out well up to the present.

After breakfast on opening day he gathers together the sportsmen of his party. "Gentlemen," he says, pointing to an eight-point deer-head hanging over the fireplace, "take a good look at that deer. Now then take an equally good look at me. There isn't the slightest resemblance between the two of us. Before you go hunting I want you further to mark: If any of you should decide to take a shot at me today for your own sake, I suggest you do a good clean job. If you don't, rest assured I'll return the fire. And gentlemen, I WON'T MISS!"

The guide has never "lost" a single hunter.

The story runs of a hunter who flirted with death when he dropped his eyeglasses in the bush. But for the alertness of his friend who had his gun trained on him and the bright, new flannel shirt, he would have been a dead "duck." He was even worried about a thicket on all fours searching for his "specs", grunting loudly under the weight of a heavy pack. But when his pal noticed the disturbance. He levelled his gun, thinking it was a bear, when he noticed a peculiar movement not applicable to brute. That movement saved his friend's life.

The hunter who will fire without identifying his game is one of two major hunting hazards. The other is the nimrod who pops away at anything that moves or at a snapping twig.

A major league baseball player, noted for his "between games" long stretches of position, was once like a kid when he went hunting. The camp owner introduced him to a perpetual cabin-mate, whereupon the baseball star went into prayer about the hunting possibilities.

"Great spot for deer," he enthused. "Not 15 minutes ago I had a helluva shot. There I was, parked on a red hot stand when silverwonders the pine trees moved. I thunked. Clean miss."

Then he stared in amazement as his potential pal grabbed his dunnage, heaved it into his car and hit 75 on his way to the next county.

Here are the Ten Commandments of Hunting Safety:

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun.
2. Never point a gun at anything you don't intend to shoot.
3. Carry only empty guns, taken down, or with the action open, into your automobile, camp or home.
4. Always be sure the barrel and action are clear of obstruction.
5. Always carry your gun in such you can control the direction of the muzzle if you stumble. Keep the safety on until ready to shoot.
6. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.
7. Never leave your gun unattended unless unloaded first.
8. Never climb a tree or fence with a loaded gun.
9. Never shoot at a flat hard surface or at the surface of the water.
10. Don't mix gunpowder with alcohol. One of the "shots" might prove fatal.

There are other suggestions offered by a well-known American hunting authority which the average sportsman would do well to remember. First, know the men with whom you hunt. If there is a first class idiot in the crowd, get rid of him. Second, know your weapons. Make sure every hunter unloads his gun at the end of the day. Third, know the terrain in which you hunt. Know how to read a compass. Know how to bring out a deer, and above all how to conduct yourself.

As a veteran Maine guide says: "There's nothing in the woods that'll hurt you—except yourself."

And he offers the same advice that when bringing out a buck put a large patch of red on it. And sing, whistle, shout—do anything but do it loud so that the guy sitting in ambush knows it is a man and not a deer pussyfooting in the brush.

The owner of a hunting cabin we know sums up the whole hunting situation in one word. Above the fireplace is tacked a large sign. On it is the word "think."

BALK RULE CHANGED

NEW YORK (AP)—The batters got another break from the baseball rules committee when the balk rule was changed.

Under the new rule, the offensive team will have an option of taking the balk called on the pitcher or the result of the batter's swing—possibly a home run.

Often a pitcher continues his delivery and throws to the plate, even when an umpire has yelled, "Balk."

In the past, it was possible for a batter to hit a home run, under such circumstances, and have the hit nullified by the umpire's call. It was mandatory that the base batter resume his place at the plate.

Harry Watson Scores Winner, Sets Up Armstrong for First; Smythemen Hug Wings, Habs

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Perhaps Harry Watson was born 25 years too late.

When Nels Stewart was known as "Old Poison" in National Hockey League circles in the 1920's nobody complained about his lack of speed.

The old Montreal Maroon, first man in NHL history to score 300 goals, got most of them by crashing at a leisurely pace into—but never an opportunity, then driving in behind the puck—a reminder never what had happened.

Watson, who scored the winning goal in Toronto Maple Leafs' 3-1 victory over Chicago Black Hawks Wednesday night, might be a bit closer to Stewart's 324-goal total if he could play the same style of hockey now. But every time he forgets to backcheck, Toronto forward writers start mentioning him as a candidate for the minors.

EARNED NOD

The big, good-natured left-winger currently is sharing the puck-nod in goal-scoring with Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens at 10 apiece. In his 10th season in the big time, with a couple of years out for service, he needs only 16 more tallies to become a 200-goal man.

But Watson never has earned a nod from the star-studded sports writers' corps for his flawlessly-executed scoring plays as a backwater which he spent on a club not noted for gentlemanly tactics has spelled up 207 penalty minutes in penalties over a full season.

Actually, Watson's goal Wednesday night was not one of his more stylish efforts. Late in the second period, he picked up a short pass from Ted Kennedy a few feet from the Chicago goal and slapped it home.

THREE POINTS BEHIND

Earlier, Watson already had made life miserable for Al Rollins by setting up George Armstrong for the first-period goal that ended the Chicago goalie's streak of scoreless hockey at 120 minutes and 20 seconds. Ted Kennedy fired the insurance tally in the second and Frank Mahovlich scored the only Chicago goal less than a minute after Armstrong's marker.

The victory moved the third-place Leafs within striking distance of the top two, still three points behind the Canadiens, who entertain New York Rangers tonight, and one point behind second-place Detroit Red Wings.

The Hawks, tied with the Rangers for last place, move to Boston tonight. The Bruins need a victory to regain their third-place tie with Toronto.

Andrews Scores Split Decision Over Chuck Davey

DETROIT (AP)—Newcomer Al Andrews is good enough to have beaten Chuck Davey twice, but his manager doesn't think he's good enough to beat Billy Graham once.

Ike Bernstein, 76-year-old sage of the ring, said this today after Andrews had beaten Davey for the second time.

"I don't think my boy is ready for Graham," Bernstein said. "He's too green. Graham is a veteran. He's too smart."

Andrews, a promising welterweight from Superior, Wis., scored a split decision over the fading Davey in a close 10-rounder Wednesday night. That, it was generally understood, earned him a December shot at the veteran Graham.

But now it appears that the fight won't come off at all.

Andrews, at 181, injured his right hand in the first round, and Bernstein is giving the impression that it wouldn't make much sense to send Andrews, who has been fighting as a pro only 17 months, against the ring-wise Graham.

And what about Davey? Is he through?

"No," says trainer Izzy Kline. "He'll fight again. That's definite."

But Davey, who fought at 149½, himself is not too sure. It was his third loss in his last five starts, and the ring seems to be missing from his punches.

Quebec Aces Take Over League Lead

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Aces broke up a three-way tie for first place with Ottawa Senators and Chicoutimi Saguenaens Wednesday to take over possession of first place in the Quebec Hockey League.

With Chicoutimi idle, a 3-1 victory over the Senators put Quebec out front.

Springfield edged Valleyfield 4-3, and Sherbrooke whipped Montreal Royals 9-4. The victories enabled the Sherbrooks into a third-place tie with Valleyfield and Montreal, but left the Saints one point behind and still in the cellar.

Two goals in the second period gave the Aces their win over the Senators, with Ed Harrison and Rags Raglan the marksmen.

At Sherbrooke, Bill Salisbury goalie Dave Gatherum and Ray Gendron answered or assisted in the nine Sherbrooke markers. Ed Bruneteau rapped in two of the Sherbrooks tallies, while Larry Kwong connected twice for Montreal.

Marlies Ground Barrie Flyers By 10-3 Count

BARRIE (CP) — A third-period scoring outburst Wednesday night gave Marlboros Juniors a 10-3 victory over Barrie Flyers in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game.

The win moved the Marlboros into sole possession of second place, two points behind the league-leading St. Catharines Teepees. Barrie is in seventh spot.

Dave Dunphy spotted Barrie the opening goal in 26 seconds of the first period and then took command, leading 3-2 at the end of the first and 5-2 at the end of the second before slamming in five goals in the third.

Late in the third, tempers flared and Jim Robertson and Barry Purdon of the Flyers and Wally Maxwell and Dave Reid of the Dukes tangled in a furious verbal session that resulted in 30-minute misconduct penalties.

Charlie Burns paced the Dukes with three goals, Jim Lorentz scored two and Jack Blonda, Reid, Maxwell, Bob Gartrity and Billy Harris counted the rest.

Arnold Smith, Robertson and Bob White tallied for the Flyers.

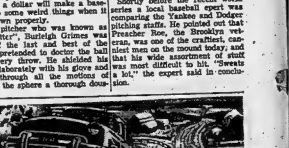
Suggestion to Restore 'Spit Ball' Gets Rules Committee Cold Shoulder

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—An unidentified member of the baseball rules committee proposed at that body's meeting here this week that the spitball, which was thought to be underground more than 30 years ago, be restored to the list of legitimate pitches.

While he got nowhere, the unnamed magnate deserves commendation for having at least given the outlawed ball a final chance to regain respectability.

One of those weird seasons in return of one of the most effective pitches the game ever knew explained "it's a horrid word," and that always was the principal rap against the delivery. Even a more noble-sounding name it might well have survived—but it, survived openly.



Those who fought originally for abolishing the spitter claimed it was unsanitary, though it never was entirely clear who might have suffered from the small amount of moisture involved. Every old-time spitballer ever talked to said bitterly that the whole thing was a plot to favor the batters, and that the rule banning the pitch coincided all too significantly with the owners' discovery that the rabbit ball and mile-high scores packed their parks.

There is a whole new generation of fans which never has knowingly seen a spitball thrown. For their benefit it should be explained that a spot of moisture about the size of a dollar will make a baseball do some weird things when it is thrown properly.

The pitcher who was known as a "spitter", Burleigh Grimes was one of the last and best of the tribe, pretended to doctor the ball for every throw. He shielded his face elaborately with his glove and went through all the motions of giving the sphere a thorough douching. He did not, of course, use his specialty on every pitch and the opposition sought desperately to detect some mannerism that would tip off when the spitter was coming.

Properly speaking, the current model is a newsball. It having been discovered that honest perspiration will make a ball do tricks, too. The batters howl indignantly, but there's nothing harassed umpires can do except speak pointedly to a pitcher now and then. They know the habitual offenders, but they can't prove anything.

Shortly before the recent world series a local baseball expert was comparing the Yankee and Dodger pitching staffs. He pointed out that Preacher Roe, the Brooklyn veteran, was one of the smallest, cagiest men on the mound today, and that his wide assortment of stuff was most difficult to hit. "Sweats a lot," the expert said in conclusion.

Mercurys Hand Cataracts 4-0 Blank, Divide Top Tie With Cats, Maroons

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

There were no easy pickings in Ontario senior hockey Wednesday night as five games in the two-league A league the difference between the highest teams and the last one was only one.

That was the 4-0 shutout Owen Sound Mercurys handed Niagara Falls Cataracts in their Ontario Hockey Association meeting in Owen Sound.

The OHA league also had its first tie since the season started as games ago. Stratford Kroehlers scored a second-period goal in Barrie to carry them to a 1-1 overall deadlock with the Eskers.

In the other game of the big-eight circuit Chatham Maroons gave a 4-3 road decision over Hamilton Tigers to pull into a three-way tie between the Tigers and the Mercurys.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior southern group Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Indians moved over sole possession of first place by dropping Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Greyhounds 5-3. Pembroke Lumber Kings defeated Soo (Mich.) Indians 5-4 in Pembroke.

Bill McComb, Buck Fursland and Gerry Neal of Roy Leckie fired the Mercurys to their shutout.

Cal O'Leary under the Cats, sidelined through the first period of duty, finish with Trevelyan. But Billy Flick came back for the Indians in the second season with a goal that tied the score 2-2.

Chatham slammed in two third-period goals to win the decision over Hamilton. Carl Liscombe, Joe Carveth, Ed Dickson and Bill Lesuk starred for the Maroons. Jack Taylor banged all three for Hamilton.

Bobby Clarke netted two goals for Pembroke. Bruce Gamble, Jim Maxwell and Lionel Barber rap out the string. Gordie Melle, Lloyd Hinchberger and Danny O'Connell shot for Indians.

Defenceman Don Johnston of Soo in the last period gave the Sault Greyhounds the victory. Eddie Mallon, Hec Poran and Matt Mosich banged the others for Soo. Jim McLeod and Eddie Sreed two for Sudbury with Mauno Kangas netting the other.

Both leagues take a breather tonight but Wednesday is at it again Friday night. Stratford goes to Hamilton and Sarnia is at Chatham in the OHA loop Friday.

Curling Body Announces Plans For Season

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Curling Association has announced that its grouping for this year's competitions among 256 clubs to be eligible for the four main events — two doubles and two singles.

Thirty-seven hospitals are on top of the coming curling schedule. Gait Early Bird, which opens its season next week and is the Midland mixed spiel which ends March 24-26 at Midland.

The four main events are the Tankard and Governor-General's Trophy for men, both doubles-trial competitions — and the Ontario championships and Colts Trophy tournaments, both singles play.

The four group winners in the double-rink competitions must be decided by Jan. 22 and the four group-winners' playdowns by Jan. 28—The four semi-finalists of the Tankard, Governor-General's, Burden and Globe and Mail trophies will play off in Toronto Jan. 29.

The Ontario championships and Colts will be played in eight divisions. The division winners in the Ontario playdown, who must be decided by Feb. 1, will join in a round-robin at Grills Feb. 10-12. The winner to represent Ontario in the Canadian finals at Edmonton March 1-5. The eight division winners in the Colts must be decided by Feb. 26. The finals will be played in Toronto March 11.

Sport in Brief

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Shortstop Eddie Joost was named playing-manager of Philadelphia Athletics Wednesday to succeed Jimmy Dykes who hadn't been informed of the switch.

Roy Mack, vice-president of the Athletics, said Dykes was summoned for a morning conference with the club owners—but failed to appear. He still hadn't shown up when the announcement at Joost's appointment was released.

Joost, however, told a press conference he had been notified of his appointment Monday and had agreed to a one-year contract. Terms were not disclosed but it was believed he will get more than $25,000.

Dykes reached at Norristown, Pa., where he was scheduled to address a meeting, said:

"I knew absolutely nothing about the switch. It came as a complete surprise."

Joost, 37, is the third man ever to be named to manage the A's. Connie Mack was field boss for 50 years, and was succeeded by Dykes in 1951.

Roy Mack said he felt it was important to make the change after the A's showing last season. Philadelphia finished seventh in the American League.

LONDON (AP) — Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles defeated Wednesday for the London professional international championship in Wembley Stadium Nov. 15-20.

The London promoters made Australian Frank Sedgman, 1952 Wimbledon champion, second seeded to Gonzales. Gonzales, three-time winner of the tournament, and Sedgman will meet in a professional final for the first time.

WINNIPEG (CP) — John Henry Johnson, halfback and halfback of Calgary Stampeders, has been awarded the Jeff Nicklin Memorial Trophy as the most valuable player to his team in the Western Interprovincial Rugby Union for 1953.

The 210-pound, six-foot two-inch Johnson scored 42 points on nine touchdowns for the league champions this season, his first in Canada, to rank seventh in the individual scoring.

NEW YORK (AP)—Don (Bones) Raleigh was named captain of New York Rangers Wednesday by coach Frank Boucher. Raleigh succeeds defenceman Allan Stanley, sent to Vancouver of the Western Hockey League.

Bears Vault Cleveland Barons; Bisons Up Lead

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hershey Bears vaulted over the idle Cleveland Barons to the No. 2 spot in the American Hockey League Wednesday night, as Buffalo Bisons thundered further ahead of the pack.

The Herd overwhelmed Providence Reds 6-1 while Bears whipped the luckless Syracuse Warriors 4-3.

The Bisons scored three times in the first period, added one in the Second, and fired home two more tallies in the last stanza. A goal by veteran winger Paul Dudash at 11:22 of the third saved the Reds from a shutout.

At Syracuse, the Bears pumped home three unanswered markers in the opening period and stalled off the Warriors the rest of the way. The win left Hershey six points behind the league-leading Bisons.

Canada's Riders Finish Fourth

NEW YORK (CP) — Canada's equestrian team could do no better than tie for fourth place in the International military jumping event at the National Horse Show Wednesday night which wound up by Col. Harry Llewellyn of Britain.

Llewellyn guided Prehister, a high-stepping gelding, perfectly around the eight-obstacle course in the jump-off against his teammate, Pat Smythe, to win the event, the third big international at the show.

The United States team got a share of third place when Arthur McCashin and Mrs. Carol Durand tied with Britain's William Hanson.

Two of Canada's riders, Shirley Thomas of Ottawa and W. R. Ballard of Toronto, shared the tie for fourth place with Capt. Colin O'Shea of the Irish Army team.

'Flingin' Frankie Riders Coach For '54 Season

REGINA (CP)—Frankie Filchock will be back with Saskatchewan Roughriders in the Western Interprovincial Football Union's 1954 season.

Rider officials announced Wednesday the 37-year-old Filchock had his playing-coach job waiting when he returns to Regina from a trip to his home in the United States.

Terms were not announced. No papers were signed.

"I just told him he has a job—the same as I told him last year," club president Bob Kramer.

Filchock has been one of Saskatchewan's top guns since he slipped ties with Edmonton Eskimos last winter.

He and the Riders departed from the 1953 WIFU scene last Saturday after losing the two-game, total-point semi-final 60-23 to Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Welland Wins COSSA Title

WELLAND (CP)—Welland high school scored an 18-16 win over St. Catharines collegiate Wednesday to win the Central Ontario Secondary School Association senior football title.

Peewee Softball Champions Honored At Fire Department's Annual Banquet

It was Peewee Softball Night at the West Moira Street Fire Station yesterday and the upper part of the building rang with the boyish exuberance of some seventy moppets.

Booth T.V., Hotary, Boyce and Bisland Sports, the four teams comprising the Peewee League, were guests of Chief Gerald Vance and his merry men in blue, and they were all out to show their softball proteges the time of their young lives.

The kudos of the evening naturally went to the champions. And the Booth T.V. team which won not only the OASA Eastern crests and will receive other awards from their sponsor in the near future.

WINDBREAKER GIFTS.

The surprise of the evening came when Coach Culhane lined his champions against a wall and presented them with handsome black, white and red windbreakers, the gift of Fire Chief Vance on the sponsoring firm of Booth Radio and Television. The boys deserved a lot of credit for the interest he has taken in the team for the past two years, his generosity in presenting it's championship trophy and windbreakers.

To the winners of the city championship, Peewee League, went the Walters' Trophy, presented by Bill Vantassel, chairman of the Belleville Recreation Committee. Captain Ronny Stonehart received the trophy on behalf of his team.

The batting trophy was won by Larry Soden, Booth's captain, who had a season average of .666. Third baseman Gordon H. Carver, Other teams of the league, it was announced, will receive suitable crests at a later date, the gifts of their sponsors.

The Warden Dick Allan Trophy emblematic of the championship of the Quinte Penitentiary Softball Congress, won last season by the Weary Willies, Lifers Boys, and made by the institution carpenter shop, signalled and evidenced a lot of interest on the part of the young medallists.

Don Lee, Quinte district convener, presented the OASA crests to the champions Booth's team, and produced a letter from OASA secretary Frank Turner, which was read to the party by Jack Devine.

Mr. Weaver offered his sincere congratulations to the champions and to the other teams" for the fine competition which developed in the western Ontario championship. He forwarded the thanks of his executive to Chief Vance and his men "for the fine work your department is doing with this softball league. The Fire Hall Softball Field and Playground is an example which might well be followed in other cities, large and small."

He also sent best wishes to coaches, managers and players, for next year's season. "We can visualize the fine intermediate players coming from your league in a few short years", he said.

Chief Vance acted as chairman and congratulated the boys on being good sportsmen. "When you become too old for Peewee softball we'll get another league for you to play in," he said.

Coach Culhane, the youngest man in the room, and this was the second year in three that his team had won the title. He expressed his appreciation of the work done by Chief Vance and his colleagues of the department, Captain O'Brien and E. Soden.

Mr. Vantassell, president for the Recreation Commission, said that while his organization provided the facilities for sports in the city, it could not be successful without the co-operation of the people. In this respect, he said, Fire Chief Vance and his department has done a magnificent job.

Chief Vance, in turn, expressed his appreciation of the efforts of the umpire, George Fordyce, who did such a fine job of keeping the records, the OHSAA, officials for their co-operation in providing their grounds and to all who in any way assisted in making the season the fine success it proved to be.

The boys enjoyed hot dogs, sandwiches, ice cream and soft drinks, with members of the department under Captain O'Brien adopting waiters' roles.

BLUES DEFEAT AGGIES

TORONTO (CP)—University of Toronto Blues defeated Ontario Agricultural College Aggies of Guelph 4-2 Wednesday to win the Hardwood Cup in the senior division, intercollegiate senior soccer championship.

Aggies defeated Toronto 4-0 in an intermediate game.

The win for the varsity seniors kept intact their unbeaten record for this season.

Editors Differ On News Values

CHICAGO (AP)—Like many people who read their newspapers, American editors have widely varying opinions on handling the news.

This was demonstrated Wednesday when news executives attending the annual meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association discussed news coverage of Senator Joseph McCarthy's activities and the Kinsey report on "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female."

The evaluation of the Kinsey report ranged from a page one news story to a publicity plant not worth newspaper space.

McCarthy was described as a "cheap demagogue" by one editor, while another said the Wisconsin Republican has made significant revelations which all newspapers have not fully treated.

NOBEL AWARD

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda today took a dim view of the awarding of a peace prize to Gen. George Marshall by the Nobel prize committee. In a cartoon it lampooned the former United States Secretary of state as a wolf in sheep's clothing. The official Communist newspaper said: "This decision is so absurd that even the American reactionary newspaper Chicago Tribune called it a bad joke."

In a forest scene of Walt Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" re-issued full-color cartoon musical to open by Technicolor today at the Capitol Theatre, Snow White tells of the forest. On the same program in Technicolor is "Redhead from Wyoming" starring Maureen O'Hara. Both films open tonight at the Capitol Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL — Maureen O'Hara and Alan Hale share star billing in Universal-International's Technicolor "The Redhead from Wyoming", a rugged story of the Western cattle range. The film opens at the Capitol Theatre tonight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program Walt Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs".

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, NOV., 6, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — An unusual situation this day; Uranus is the only planet in really benefic aspect but there are no unfavorably aspected planets—mostly just inactive. You are "on your own", but you can make good.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Confidential matters, investigations, secretarial work, activities connected with chemicals, oils, beverages, travel and shipping in high favor. Pleasant day for other interests.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — It pays essential to keep keyed up to a high pitch mentally and have bright ideas constantly. Some days are intended for reflection, checking for errors, for planning calmly, wisely.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — MIM tendencies now but very stimulating and benefic ones due this evening and Saturday. Attend today's tasks calmly, not forcing anything, and speed ahead tomorrow.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Control emotions, think calmly and you should have no trouble with duties, confidential work. Investigative activities, dealing in liquids, scientific experiments especially favored.

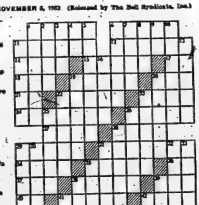
August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Day may not be all you'd like but it is an agreeable one for delving into science, analysis, research. Unexpected gains from regular occupation possible.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—The study and application of sound psychology and kindred subjects favored this day. Intuition and imagination will be sharp. A responsive day if you give it your best.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—You should feel at ease, calm in disposition, hopeful of achievement in day's activities. Don't rush; it pays. Study, application, ingenuity and your natural talents will win.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—A test period for your ingenuity, knack for selecting the right things to attend to first, and for your smart management and know-how in dealing with clients, customers, superiors, etc.

December 22 to January 21 (Capricorn)—If you have time, you could decide from usual routine and delve into something different. Day favors new ideas, inventions, deep study in science, mechanics and music, etc.



January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Need notations to Libra and Capricorn now. Day holds promise for the unusual; for occult studies and for religious training. You can advance; gain prestige.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Splendid Neptune and Uranus vibrations. Fine outlook for your activities and interests allied to them. Don't be different; do get busy and express your fine ideas, display talents.

YOU BORN TODAY are just, fair-minded, should do exceptionally well in scientific or other intellectual fields. You are artistic, too, and if in industry or a trade, your fine mind should prove a great asset. You are loyally steadfast, capable and seek knowledge and learning all the time. Correct a tendency to procrastinate (a Scorpio trait).

Birthdate: John Philip Sousa, noted music composer, conductor.

What Do You Look for in a Used Car?

Some people look for price—if the price is low enough they buy it. Others look for appearance—if the car looks fast to them they make up their minds.

Only a qualified mechanic can tell accurately the condition a car is in—and no matter how little you like to spend, you should have the car you buy checked by a mechanic. That's what you'll get when you buy a car from us.

You know everything there is to know about the car you buy here at Webb Motors.

When it comes to used cars you can't go wrong if you buy right 'till you buy here.

Labor Critical Of Churchill's Food Policies

LONDON (CP)—The Labor party Wednesday night declared its opposition to Prime Minister Churchill's policy on food prices and moved a want-of-confidence motion against the government.

In the traditional amendment to the reply to the throne speech, Opposition Leader Clement Attlee expressed regret that the speech contained "no reference to or provision for dealing with the high cost of food, which is bearing an heavily on households with small incomes, and particularly on the old-age pensioners."

A second Labor amendment dealing with farm policy is expected to be moved later and others are likely to follow.

EXPECT WHITE PAPERS

The throne speech dealt with proposed government legislation only in general terms. Details will be provided in a series of white papers on government bills which will be submitted to the Commons.

The first white paper, dealing with housing, was presented and drew immediate fire from the Labor benches. It described the new "operation rescue" which eases Britain's 15-year freeze on rents to permit necessary repairs by landlords and providing for sweeping new slum clearance.

Left-winger Aneurin Bevan said that the Conservatives had brought "havoc" to Britain's housing program. He denounced the government's new housing proposals as "just wind" and said amid Labor cheers, "bet only slum clearance and reconditioning but all rent restricted houses must eventually become the property of local authorities."

Archbishop Says U.S. Jewish Vote Paralyzes UN

YORK, England (AP) — The Archbishop of York today said "the Jewish vote in New York has had a paralyzing effect on the United Nations in dealing with Palestine."

The Anglican archbishop, Most Rev. Cyril Garbett, said in an address prepared for the York diocesan conference:

"Unless some strong line is taken, the issue which exists will smap and the Middle East will be ablaze.

"As long as the future of Jerusalem remains uncertain and there are tens of thousands of embittered Arab refugees on the other side of the frontier, there can be no real peace.

URGES STRONGER PATROLS

"The failure of the United Nations to intervene will affect its prestige throughout the world.

"An immediate step there should be stronger neutral patrols on the frontiers, but in the longer important that another attempt should be made to negotiate an agreement between the Arab states and Israel."

He did not enlarge upon his remarks about effect of the New York Jewish vote on the situation.

Soldier Given Hearty Welcome In Home Town

MIDDLESBOROUGH, Eng. (CP) A 25-year-old soldier whose conviction for cowardice in battle set all England arguing, got a hero's welcome on his belated return home from Korea Wednesday night.

Hugs crowds turned out to cheer Pfc. Patrick Loden, who volunteered for Korea three years ago and then cowered helplessly at the bottom of a trench as his buddies fought desperately to repel a heavy Chinese attack.

Police reinforcements had to be called out to control townspeople as they shouted that it is "too cruel" to be afraid."

Loden was arrested in September on the troopship bringing him home from 18 months in an enemy prison camp.

Townspeople hastily organized a reception after receiving word of the soldier's release. The army Tuesday had confirmed his dishonorable discharge but remitted a one-year prison sentence and sent him home.

WINTER'S HERE

TORONTO (CP) — Snowflurries were reported Wednesday in many areas of southern Ontario. A light sleet falls were in Toronto, London, Ont., Camp Borden and Stouffville. Flakes melted almost as soon as they hit the ground.

Concentrated Milk Producers Hold Banquet at Allisonville

PICTON—The manner in which dairy products are publicized and popularized through the Dairy Foods Service Bureau was revealed in a sparkling address by Marie Turner, Food Editor of the Bureau, to more than one hundred persons attending the annual banquet of the Prince Edward Concentrated Milk Producers Association. Held in Allisonville hall Tuesday night, the meal itself almost stole the show, prepared and served by Hillier and Shillsburg Junior Farmers. It was a real country style feast ranging from roast beef, mashed potatoes and brown gravy, with a profusion of trimmings down to the quarter pieces of pie with numerous helping of ice cream and cheese as well.

VARIED PROGRAM

President Barton Crook presided, Secretary Harold Noxon gave the minutes and treasurer's report, Clifford Barber introduced the guest speaker who was thanked by Mrs. Crook. The Junior Farmers' male quartet gave two selections in fine harmony and Carson Scott led in community singing. Miss C. Cleave was pianist.

A brighter future for the concentrated milk industry was seen by Mr. Crook. An attempt is being made to have all dairy products under one act, so that eventually all milk will be pooled and paid for at one price regardless of the products into which it is manufactured.

D. Chinn, chemist with Quinte Milk Products at Wellington, told of new equipment being used with success there. A new milk powder is being sold as fast as it can be made through a broker in Mexico. An experiment in condensing whey into a chicken feed has proven satisfactory.

COMMENDED FARMERS

Agricultural Representative D. A. Taylor commended the Junior Farmers on this banquet project. He cited the results of a survey made on 29 farms to show how income had declined almost fifty per cent.

Greetings from the Provincial executive were brought by J. Jenkins who told of efforts being made to improve the industry.

Provincial secretary of the Ontario Dairy Farmers, Charles Millard referred to the one cent per hundredweight butterfat levy in addition as making an advertising and publicity campaign possible.

He felt that this had contributed to the 30 per cent increase in the use of unlisted (almost) milk solids, the 30 per cent increase in use of evaporated milk and 5 per cent increase in butter, the latter equal to a million pounds a month. He spoke in praise of assistance given by Agricultural Representatives.

These are product promotion and public relations, Miss Fraser said. While publicity in the press and radio is stressed, Miss Fraser believed distribution of leaflets giving recipes were a big factor. Last year, 600,000 such recipes were distributed. "Women are recipe crazy", she declared.

Directors elected for Prince Edward Concentrated Milk Producers Association were: Clark Sprung, Ameliasburg; H. Corsary, North Marysvburg; H. Noxon Sophiasburg; Milton Brooks and Lloyd Parks, Athol; Lyle Branscombe, Ross Parks, Hallowell; Rae Fergusson, Hillier; Harold Dulmage, Donald Thompson, South Marysburg.

BODY FOUND

LIVINGSTONE, Northern Rhodesia (Reuters)—A body believed to be that of Mrs. Phyllis Levey of Washington was recovered Tuesday from a ledge 200 feet down from the lip of the Devil's Gorge, act. part of Victoria falls, the world's highest. A former United States state department employee, she came to central Africa in May on a scholarship from the Social Science Research Council of New York.

First Snowfall Of Season Hits Parts of U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—The first snow of the season fell over wide areas in the northeast quarter of the United States today. Falls were light in most sections and snow melted as it hit the ground.

Adding to the touch of winter were freezing temperatures over most of the northern half of the country between the Rockies and the Appalachians. It was near zero in northern Wisconsin.

Cold air from Canada blowing across the warmer waters of the Great Lakes resulted in the snow flurry activity in the lakes region and in the northern Appalachians. One of the lowest readings today was six above at Gramsborg, Wis.

Paratroopers Dropped to Forest To Protect Indians

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian paratroopers have been dropped into the forest wilderness of Assam to protect Indians from bloodthirsty assaults from Dafla tribesmen, the government has announced.

Two weeks ago more than 500 Dafla made a treacherous attack on a 70-man mountain expedition-ary party.

They killed all 70 with daggers and poisoned arrows. It was reported from Gauhati—and backed off the victims' heads for trophies.

RIVAL TERRENCEMEN SLAIN

Many of those killed were members of a rival tribe, the Galongs, who under Indian supervision were carrying badly-needed salt, cloth and medicines to tribesmen in the northeast frontier wilderness.

The paratroopers were dropped in the Abor Hills to reinforce the Indian garrison at Qusar.

An Indian spokesman here said the Daflas were warned that "stern measures" will be taken against them if they fail to surrender hostages and prisoners before a deadline this week.

U.S. Flyer Dies Guiding His Jet Away from City

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A young pilot, killed Thursday night after he stuck with his crippled fighter jet, aircraft to the unoccupied area of this city, was identified today as 2nd Lieut. David E. Axelson, 23, of Fairfield, Ia.

The body of the United States Air Force pilot was found near Belle Island district a short distance from the spot where the rocket-laden craft plunged into 20 feet of water in the Canadian section of Lake St. Clair about three miles east of here.

A spokesman at Selfridge Field in U. S. Air Force base several miles north of Detroit, said the body's parachute was partly open when the body was found.

Axelson was returning from a training flight shortly before dusk when he radioed that his engine went dead.

Selfridge officers said they thought Axelson overshot the base and found himself over Detroit's east side when he came down.

Little Hope Held For Eight Miners Trapped by Fire

BONANZA, Utah (AP) — Two rescue workers, in a giant metal bucket, descended into the coal mine disaster area early today but found no trace of eight missing miners.

Little hope was held that the men, trapped 300 feet below the surface by an explosion and fire Thursday, were still alive.

Fellow miners thought they heard faint cries coming out of the debris Thursday night. However, George Collins, day shift boss, said the sounds were made only falling rocks and sagging timbers broke the silence when they were lowered to the 300-foot level.

Former Polish Diplomat Seeks Political Asylum

WINNIPEG (CP) — A former Polish diplomat who broke with his Communist masters and now fears reprisals from Russian agents, a three-day hunger strike to focus attention on his plea for political asylum in Canada.

Michael Krycun, 42, his wife, Hedy, and daughter, Judy, 14, have been granted a six-month permit to stay in Canada, but Mr. Krycun refuses to pick it up from the immigration department here. They went without food to bring their case to the attention of the department of external affairs.

"All we want to become a Canadian citizen," he told a newspaper reporter. "I want to remain a Polish citizen. All such as the Communists want, and I'll be the first one back to Poland."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Rain and snow ahead of a cold air mass to dominate the eastern half of the continent today. Thursday night's temperatures fell to below freezing all across Ontario ranging from 18 at Windsor to just four above at White River. Skies were clear over the province except for some patches of cloud along the shoreline of the Great Lakes. Forecast: Some pictures will remain unchanged today and Saturday except for moderately lower temperatures in Northern Ontario today and the southern part of the province Saturday.

ST. LAWRENCE R. POWER FOES LOOK TO COURTS

Controversial Seaway Not Directly Involved

By JAMES C. MUNN

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the wake of affirmative action by President Eisenhower, American opponents of the seaway in the courts as only means of halting or delaying construction by New York state and Ontario of a huge St. Lawrence power project.

The last formal requirement for the state to participate in the estimated $400,000 development was met Thursday when Eisenhower signed an executive order designating the power authority of the state of New York United States partner in the project.

The controversial St. Lawrence seaway is not directly involved, but the power project is regarded as a necessary preliminary to that great waterway.

Opponents have already petitioned the U. S. Court of Appeals to rescind or have reviewed the federal power commission's order granting New York a 50-year license to construct and operate the huge St. Lawrence power project.

Speedy court action seems certain. State Secretary John Foster Dulles has told Canada that the Eisenhower administration will cooperate in expeditious handling of the litigation.

HEARING IN JANUARY

Present indications are that the court will hear arguments probably in mid-January, if such a date is set,—a decision could be expected some time in January and, should the court affirm the power commission's action, the opponents then could appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court as their final hope.

A decision by the Supreme Court in the event the case goes that far, might be made before it adjourns in mid-June for the summer, but another authority spokesman said that should the decision be favorable to New York, it would be sufficiently early in the season to begin construction of the power project at that time.

Charles M. Spofford, counsel to the authority, said that even lacking a final court decision, New York in January can go five-years' preliminary work in the meantime.

Opponents of the project participated through petitions to the Court of Appeals are the Pennsylvania Water Carriers Association, the Lake Ontario Land Development Association, Lake Champlain Association and the Public Power and Water Corporation of New Jersey, Inc.

Public Power, a private firm, unsuccessfully applied to the power commission for the license granted New York.

NEW YORK PARTNER

The Canadian partner in the project, expected to produce more than 2,000,000 horsepower of electric energy a year, is the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

If New York clears the court hurdles, the way will be open for the state to carry out its long-standing intention of building, by itself, the proposed 130,000,000 kilowatt project on its own side of the river.

Ottawa says it would still welcome U. S. participation in the seaway project but, should congress again refuse to act favorably on pending legislation authorizing the U. S. to join in building the waterway, that it intends to proceed alone.

He Will Receive $50,000 in 4 Years For Collecting Taxes from Employer

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Joseph Tomaszovich, 39-second Cleburne, Pa., tax collector who supports his wife and three children on $85 a week, says he has no intention of quitting his job 2003 in the next four years, as maybe I can pay off the mortgage on my house and give my wife and kids a good many of the things we can't afford now." Tomaszovich, a wounded veteran of the Second World War, was elected Tuesday to one of the highest offices in Cambria County. He lives in Franklin borough, a community of about 2,000, where the tax collector hasn't much work. Bethlehem just mails in a $400,000 tax cheque to him, and Johnstown Steel Co. pays a 10 per-cent commission. Other taxpayers pay about $1,000 a year.

G. A. FREEMAN, chairman J. W. DEACON, deputy chairman

G. A. Freeman, J. W. Deacon Head Special Corporations Committee of Hospital Fund

G. A. Freeman has been named chairman of the Special Corporations Committee of the Hospital Building Fund and J. W. Deacon has been named deputy chairman of Special Corporations Committee. It was announced today by A. McLean Hale, general campaign chairman. Mr. Hale made the announcement on behalf of the members of the management committee of the fund.

In conjunction with the announcement Mr. Freeman stated that the Special Corporations Committee has an objective of $250,000 of the $800,000 public goal which is now being raised from business firms and corporations, company employees, organized groups and individual men and women in Belleville and the County of Hastings.

Mr. Freeman said that his committee is responsible for those large national corporations in both the city and County of Hastings who do business in the area the hospital serves.

SEVERAL GIFTS RECEIVED

To date, he reported, several large corporation gifts have been received. One corporate gift amounts to $25,000 and at least two others of this level are assured. Several others, in the $15,000 to $2,500 bracket are being solicited. He said that only this morning he had been notified by a large company that their gift would amount to $20,000.

It is expected that the events of corporate giving must be kept high in order to reach the over-all objective. "Gifts received from corporations, which are payable over a five-to-five-year period, obviously have an important effect on determining the levels of contributions from other corporate and individual men and women," he said.

A major factor which has resulted in this urgent need for hospital expansion has been the growth of industry in the community. Manufacturing production in the Belleville area has almost tripled in the post-war period. Employment is up, and consequently population has increased substantially.

GREATER PARTICIPATION

"With the trend to industrialization, per capita income has increased appreciably, raising the standard of living of people in the community and bringing hospitalization within their means. This has greatly increased the number of employees who are now participating in Blue Cross and other prepaid hospitalization plans. But in best hospitalization will be in the world won't guarantee a hospital bed when it is needed urgently if one is not available.

"Industry has a great stake in the community hospital. The hospital protects directly and indirectly the investment of every of its employees and their families. I know that companies in Belleville who have seen the leadership which is being provided by outside corporations who do not have plants here, will give our campaign the highest possible support. This level of giving must be high so that our objective in this first appeal for capital funds be reached and that this will be the only appeal for Hospital Building Funds for the foreseeable future at least!"

Specialists Are Being Trained For Defusing A-Bomb Duds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The military is training specialists for one of the most hazardous jobs in the whole dangerous profession of arms—defusing atomic bombs or shells that fail to explode.

Since the program started in 1949, about 2,150 commissioned and non-commissioned officers from the United States Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force have gone through the "special weapons disposal course" conducted by the Army at Indian Head, Md.

Authorities insisted that secrecy prevents any open discussion of the bomb defusing.

By the time of the next purpose of the school is to prepare specialists for disposing of "any atomic explosives which might be dropped or fired at the United States.

Should a dud show up in tests of American weapons, the Atomic Energy Commission would have its own staff to cope with it.

But it is also committed to a case of an actual dud A-bomb. However, such bombs have so far been at least one instance in a which a defective fuse in a electronic equipment in wiring of a remote control resulted in failure of the fire. The job there presumably was one for an electrician, not a bomb-disposal squad.

Disengaging the trigger of an atomic bomb, particularly one of foreign design, could be far more delicate and dangerous than even the uncertain business of disarming a standard high - explosive bomb. An atomic bomb really contains two trigger assemblies—one to bring together its "critical masses" of fissionable materials, the other to set them off. Even with both triggers removed, explosive charges are required to remove the individual masses without bringing together accidentally and producing either an explosion or a fire.

Federal Loan Of $1,012,999 Granted Company

OTTAWA (CP)—A Cobourg, Ont., company has been granted a $1,012,999 federal loan to build a new plant housing project for the Canadian Army.

The public works department said the loan was granted to Cobourg Housing Limited Homes Ltd., for the erection of 132-unit project for married Canadian Army Ordnance Corps depot in Cobourg. Rentals will be $70 a month for two-bedroom and three and four-bedroom units respectively.

The department said the project will include 18 two-bedroom houses, 108 three-bedroom and 18 four-bedroom units. Construction is to begin immediately.

The term of the loan is 40 years and the interest rate is three and three-quarters per cent.

HUTSON TO HANG FOR SEX-SLAYING OF LITTLE GIRL

Second Time Accused On Trial for Life

NORTH BAY (CP) — Mervyn James Hutson was sentenced Thursday night to be hanged Feb. 9 for the sex-slaying after a 13-day trial of three-year-old Susan Hutchins.

It was the second time the 28-year-old cook had been on trial for his life.

He was tried and acquitted in the hatchet-slaying of his mother, Mrs. Lucy Victoria Hutson at Timmins, Ont., in 1951.

Chief Justice J. C. McKeor, in his charge to jurors after a 13-hour jury deliberated three hours and 25 minutes, said the penalty "if you say so without any disrespect to the jury, you have arrived at a fully reasonable verdict."

The trial lasted four days. The child's body of Susan Hutchins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutchins, was found on the rocky shore of North Bay two days after she disappeared last May 20.

The Crown charged that Hutson, a family friend who had been asked by the child to take care of Susan, half-dragged her to the outskirts of the city and attacked her sexually. The child died from shock and haemorrhage. She had been beaten 20 and 30 lacerations on her body.

CLAIMED EPILEPTIC SEIZURES

Hutson's defence was that the girl ran away from him in a city park. He said he could not catch up to her because of a limp he was suffering. He said he had suffered a bullet wound in the head in 1951 and suffered epileptic seizures since the bullet-wound slug was removed.

He claimed he had two epileptic fits when he was alone with the girl, and after the second one he was "all muddled up" until his arrest.

Crown attorney T. F. Forrestal said in his address to the jury there was no evidence Hutson was an epileptic.

Six witnesses submitted evidence that they had seen Hutson or a man with a little blue-coated girl at various points between the city and the spot where Susan's body was found.

Whitby Jail Is Antiquated Says Committee

TORONTO (CP)—Inspections by the legislature's reforms committee have resulted in recommendments in Ontario's jails, the committee's report tabled today in the legislature said.

Following a visit to the Ontario county jail at Whitby, the committee suggested a standard be set for Ontario jails. The jail at Whitby, it said, had become too antiquated. Ontario Deputy Attorney-General Oliver Stanley suggested the reminstitutions department set a minimum standard for the province's county jails accordingly. If the jail did not measure up to the standard and the county did not take action to improve it, the provincial grant to the jail should be cut off, he said.

Improvements at various jails included an order sent out last week that all institutions use their own laundry after two disastrous fires at the Whitby jail.

U.S. Troops in Full Field Gear Try To Quell Riots

City Gripped by General Strike; Many Are Injured

By WEBB MCKINLEY

TRIESTE (AP) — Pro-Italian rioters and local police clashed in Trieste today in this disputed Adriatic port city. Police gunfire killed four persons before British and American troops moving into the riot area with fixed bayonets, restored order.

A hand grenade tossed from a building killed one policeman. The British chief of Trieste's British-American zone of occupation, Major-General Winterton, ordered his troops, reconditioned reports said one had died. That left three dead in two days and seven dead and 28 to 30 injured. Two were killed and 18 injured Thursday.

FIRST USE OF GIs

It was the first time American troops had been called in to help quell the bitter demonstrations. British and American forces, which occupy this city, had previously been content to patrol the streets around buildings where their personnel were working.

Police fired tear gas and fired over the heads of the rioters, but the crowd was undeterred and were forced to give ground.

Rioting broke out Thursday's bloody events in which the British-trained territorial police fired on demonstrators, killing one and wounding another 18. Scores were injured by club swinging police.

The Trieste riots were followed by similar outbreaks in other Italian cities, particularly industrial Milan and Rome.

In the Italian capital, thousands of demonstrating students began attacking the Allied military government, they stoned the British consulate in downtown Rome.

BLOODY OUTCOME

The strike, tightly enforced in Trieste, threatened to spread throughout Italy as labor leaders sweated over the bloody outcome of the pro-Italian demonstrations.

The bitter struggle arises from the British-American decision last month that their troops will be withdrawn from most of the Trieste territory — long a source of contention between Italy and Yugoslavia—and its administration returned to Italy.

Since then Yugoslavia, which controls the territory's zone B, has attacked the Allied decision and threatened to move its troops into zone A the moment Italian troops enter.

The subsequent Yugoslav and Italian reaction caused a delay in the proposed move by the Western powers.

The Trieste general strike was called in protest against the Allied and two persons by police in Thursday's riots.

Meanwhile, the citizens of this largely Italian-inhabited city put their lives at stake at dawn.

Kingston Must Pay $46,540 In Damage Suit

TORONTO (CP)—John F. Elder of Kingston has been awarded $46,540 from the City of Kingston as result of a fire which destroyed his soft drink factory.

In a judgment released here Thursday, Mr. Justice J. M. King said a fire in a city dump July 11, 1952, spread to Mr. Elder's adjacent factory and destroyed it.

The judgment said evidence showed city employees were responsible.

The case was heard at Kingston. The city said the building could have been saved from the fire but a result of children making fires or a passer-by throwing a cigaret butt.

chanted: "British soldiers killed them. British soldiers killed them."

This was not true, but it was an index of the high feelings that have built up since the British-American announcement.

One throng of demonstrators massed around the U. S. embassy and shouted "Assassins, assassins."

At the foreign ministry students placed an Italian flag, trimmed with black ribbons in a sign of mourning in a balcony.

Penelope Platypus Is Racketeer, Faked Motherhood to Get Treats

NEW YORK (AP)—Penelope the platypus has been labelled a little racketeer who faked appendicitis and motherhood just to get delicacies and tender treatment.

Zoo officials, certain she was expecting, provided the duckbilled, beaver-tailed native of Australia with special rations and also eucalyptus leaves in hold a little nest for the anticipated newcomer. Then she produced—nothing.

Zoo workers learned this Thursday after they gingerly shovelled for hours through an earthen bank the 18-inch long animal had tunnelled into.

Gossip about Penelope spread after she was courted last June by her mate, Cecil.

Zoologists were excited because platypus mating never has been born in captivity, and none in the United States.

LOST AD BRINGS BACK LOST PURSE

Prompt newspaper advertising plus an honest man brought back a young lady her purse with its valuable contents.

Miss Kay Galbraith had the misfortune to lose her purse containing her company credentials, wallet, money and those things a young miss usually carries.

She hurriedly inserted an ad in this newspaper and the next morning a gentleman called to inform her he had found the missing purse.

About nine in twenty-five lost wallets are returned to the owner and Miss Galbraith is congratulating herself on the fact she was the 25th person in this case.

HERBERT McCABE AND HAZEN STAIRS RETURN WITH COUNT

It is "good hunting" in the Chalk River district of the Ontario "Wild West" according to two Belleville hunters, local members of a party of eight, who returned this morning with a full count.

Belleville members of the party 4-H club night hunt Thursday night, who shot a 226-lb. 10-point buck, and Hazen Stairs who brought home a nice doe. Other members of the party were from Barrie and Walkerville.

Seven Deer, Three Bears Downed By McNevin Party

The bucks are plentiful up around Milbridge way, and so are the bears, according to Alderman Jack McNevin, who is back with a large party in that district.

Alderman McNevin took time out from his hunting activities to return to the city with seven handsome deer, the bag of the party since the season opened.

He stated that already three large bears have fallen to the guns of the party. He returned almost immediately and will remain in camp until the season's close.

Included in the party besides Alderman McNevin are Dr. W. Beatty, Amos Briscoe and Jim Yanlon, of Belleville, Gordon McNevin, Napanee, Dick Kinnan, Hamilton, and Willie Lee, Gerald Vacett, and Fred Kennedy, all of Trenton.

Plainfield Girl, Trenton Boy Named Outstanding Junior Club Farmers for This Year

A Plainfield girl and Trenton district boy were named outstanding junior club members for 1953 at the third annual Hastings county 4-H club night held Thursday evening in the Stirling community hall.

Outstanding girl among county homemaking clubs was Mary Reid, member of the Plainfield Homemaking Club, while top boy among the junior farmers was Bob Malleyer, R.R. 7 Trenton. As top girl Miss Reid was presented with the Bank of Commerce silver tray, while Bob Malleyer received a handsome wristwatch presented by the same bank.

Approximately 250 county boys and girls attended the presentation night sponsored by the Hastings County 4-H Club Leaders' Association which saw Miss Flora McLaughlin of Tamworth, former Leeds and Addington county club girl who told of her impressions of a Coronation visit.

The Tamworth 4-H club member was chosen as one of 15 Ontario girls to visit the old land. Garfield Weston, famed biscuit maker, on a trip to England and the Coronation last June.

TELLS OF TRIP

Miss McLaughlin gave a detailed account of the trip from the time they left Montreal until they arrived back in Canada. Her visit to Weston tours were arranged by Mr. Weston to better acquaint the friendship between Canadian and English girls.

Coronation Day was the most important day of the whole tour, according to Miss McLaughlin, "it was simply wonderful," she said. She had a good view of Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh as they passed in their state coach on the way to Westminster for the Coronation ceremony.

She thoroughly enjoyed the day despite the fact it was cold and rained for a while. It was a long day. The girls had breakfast at 6:30 and 4 a.m. and did not get to bed until 3 the next morning.

She told of visiting all the famous London sites, including the Tower of London where she saw the Crown jewels; Windsor Castle for the changing of the guard, Westminster and St. Paul's Cathedral; Eton College and the zoo.

PLACED WREATHS

They even went to Paris where they visited the palace of Louis the 14th and also visited the Canadian Embassy where the girls were given luncheon. They visited Dieppe where they placed wreaths on the memorials and on roses on graves of Canadian soldiers.

Later the party visited Scotland and the cities of Edinburgh and Glasgow before the boat to Belfast where they visited Irish linen factories.

For the young Canadian girl, who travelled 10,000 miles during the tour, Scottish appealed to her most. But she was glad to get home.

Ray Mallory as president of the county club leaders' association, outlined the activities of county juniors during the past year which saw the boys' clubs had operated in addition to the girls' homemaking clubs.

Hastings County Juniors had done well at the Ottawa Winter Fair where the Belleville Calf Club had come second, Madoc fifth and the Stirling club seventh. In all there had been 56 calf clubs showing.

"We found that Hastings County boys and girls need not take a back seat to any in the province," he said. "Their showmanship was as good as any seen at the fair." Reg. he paid tribute to J. Allen Francis, assistant agricultural representative for his keen interest in junior club work.

HAD GOOD TEAM.

All in all it feel that the county juniors had had a good year," he said. "Club members get payment for work done to the complete satisfaction received."

A vocal duet by Marlene and Boyd Moorcroft was well received, as were piano selections by Betty McConnell of Stirling and there was paid to the late Miss Eileen Ness, county home economist who lost her life early this year in a motor accident.

Earl Baker of the North Hastings 4-H Forestry club won the Forester's trophy for the third straight year, while Ambrose Hickey of the North Hastings 4-H Tractor Club won the wardens trophy for his club for the third year. Both trophies were presented by Warden J. Kincaid.

Provincial junior pins went to Shirley Kerr, Mary Reid and Jean Ness, county home economist who in send judging, winning the Bank of Commerce and the swine trophy to Doug Burnside. The warden's trophy for championship judge went to Fred Burkitt.

JUDGES PRESENTED.

Judges presented by Lillian Maracle won the C.N.E. shield; Gerald Kerry won the dairy trophy; the horse judging trophy went to Doug Harry, beef trophy to Gordon Bracken and the swine trophy to Doug Burnside. The warden's trophy for championship judge went to Fred Burkitt.

MODELS PRESENTED.

Three type cattle models donated by Gerald Kerry won the dairy section, Ottawa, went to Grant Kelcheson, Harry Moorcroft, Jack Vermilyea and Lillian Maracle. Jack Vermilyea also won the Belleville Kinsmen trophy presented by Mrs. McComb won the T. Eaton special.

The Hastings county hog producers trophy was won by Gary Mitz; the Charles Davidson trophy to Ross Bateman and the tractor driving trophy presented by the Ontario retail farm equipment dealers went to Ross L. Park.

The club night was held under the direction of the Ontario department of agriculture with A. O. Dalrymple as agricultural representative, Hastings 4-H clubs, their presidents and leaders are as follows:

Belleville Kiwanis 4-H calf club Muriel Swan and Douglas Harry; Madoc 4-H calf club, Betty Kitchelson and Ross Moorcroft; Stirling calf club Robert Chamberlain and Carl Bateman; Mohawk 4-H calf club, Gerald Jackson and Donald Cassie; South Hastings Swine club, Harold Harris and Ray Mallory; grain club, Ross Bateman and Robert Chamberlain; dairy club, Joe Bummer and Harold Detlor; tractor club, Ross Moorcroft and Ambrose Hickey; North Hastings Potato Club, Ambrose Hickey and Gordon Davis, and the North Hastings Forestry Club, Earl Baker and Gordon Wragg with W. E. Edwards as zone forester.

Ted Batchelor New President Of 'Y' Group

Ted Batchelor was elected president and Don Smith as secretary-treasurer at a recent meeting of the newly-organized "Intermediate Leaders Corps" of the local YMCA. This group is the intermediate counterpart of the junior leaders corps which was organized last fall and has functioned successfully ever since.

The aim of YMCA leaders corps is to train boys for leadership in boys' gym and swim classes, and

Team of Three Women to Hold Special Meetings

On November 11, 12 and 13, inclusive, a team of three women from the Kingston Presbytery of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada will arrive in the city to hold meetings of particular interest to Presbyterians. During this series of meetings, which will take the women to various centres, the team will attempt to show what the church is doing and proposes to do in promoting lay leadership such as in training leaders and women in leaders.

This project of the Presbytery training institute is a progressive undertaking, involving extensive plans for training women and laymen. Miss Ruby Walker is captain of the team and in charge of adult work. The others include: Mrs. J. M. Bell, children's work; Miss Helen Bricker, girl's work; Miss Freida Matheson, missionary work.

POLICE BLOTTER

Two minor break-ins, one at the Foy and Gherson bottling works and the other at Lee Grill's Dairy, were reported to city police this morning. The offenders got little for their efforts in either case. At the dairy only a few bottles of chocolate milk were missing while nothing was taken from the other place of business.

Aaron Hopkins, driver for Dafoe's Taxi, reported finding a box of tools in the vicinity of the Upper Bridge. Police are of the opinion that the tools may have been stolen.

IN MEMORIAM

WRIGHT — In loving memory of a dear husband, Harold Charles Wright, who died November 6th, 1951.

Two years have passed since that day,
Two years we've had with you.
Though death has taken you away,
Still missed, still loved and ever true.

Your memory is our keepsake,
Your heart for your family was true,
God took you in His own way,
But why we could not tell.
What could a husband and father do
But leave a memory dear
Sadly missed and ever remembered by wife, Mary Wright and sons Bobby and Allan.

BEALL — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Mosier Beall, who passed away November 6th, 1951.

Two years have passed, since that sad day
When God we loved was called away,
God took Him home, it was His will,
Within our hearts he liveth still.
Sadly missed by daughter and son-in-law,
Larry.

BEALL — In loving memory of my husband, Mosier A. Beall, who passed away November 6th, 1951.

I have lost my son's companion
A life linked with mine,
And day by day I miss him more
As the years pass by.
—Ever remembered by wife Mary.

GREEN — In loving memory of Carmen Green, who passed away November 6th, 1951.

The world's parting with
Your loss we all deplore,
And breathed in your ear
Our sad parting word,
Only those who have lost
Can tell the heart pain
Or tell to our heart
At rest saying farewell,
Sadly missed by daughter, Peggy and Barbara.

BRIMACOMBE — In loving memory of our dear son, Douglas, who passed away November 6th, 1950.

His innocence here without pain, now
Is with God in heaven again.
Dear son, you were called away,
Your loss we all deplore,
Our eyes shed many a tear,
Our hearts are sore, since we came to know
As the years (eight) and years,
Sadly missed by Dad, Mom, Dad and sister Linda.

STAPLES — In loving memory of a dear husband, brother, Douglas who passed away November 6th, 1950.

Dear God, will you take a message,
To my husband in the sky,
And tell him how much I miss him
As the years go by.
Sadly missed by dear Vera.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Cattle prices were steady on a few choice steers and about 25 cents lower on most others at the Ontario stockyards this week. Calves were steady. Prices took a sharp drop of $3 on hogs, while others' sheep and lambs were steady. Trade was dull and there was no great demand even for the small percentage of choice cattle offered.

A heavy cattle run of 8,979 head was added to 900 carried from last week. The run included 1,400 western heifers and stockers mixed. Small lots of choice light and weighty steers $18-18.50; a few $20; good $17.50-18.50; mediums downward to $15; common to medium steers and heifers $17-17.50; a few $18; cows mostly $10-12 a few $13; canners and cutters $7-8; good heavy bulls $13-13; plain lights down to $8; choice fed yearlings $21-22.50; mediums downward to $18; good light steers $17.50-18.50; a few stock calves $19; plain stockers $12-17.

Calves totalled 4,228 head, including 1,900 heavy westerns. Vealers were steady at $23-25 for choice; mediums downward to $15; grassers mostly $9-11; a few heavy calves and bulls around $18.

Hogs were 3,725 head. Grade A hogs down $3 at $20.50 with dressed sows $22.

Sheep and lambs totalled 2,250 head. Lambs were steady at $20-21 for good light ewes and mixed; heavy lambs and heavies mostly $2 discount; good light sheep $8-10; culls downward to $4.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were lower in quiet dragging stock market trading today. Volume was 518,000 shares, lightening since early October.

Industrials weakened in utilities. Banks, insurances and liquors started strong but slipped later.

Base metals were down after a strong opening. Canada Nickel, Noranda, United Keno and Opemiska dropped more than 10 cents. Kristine Copper, admitted for trading today, sold at around 21½.

Golds were almost unchanged as holding companies were stronger and juniors and seniors took a few points each. Prospectors' interest was up.

Uraniums continued lower with Rix-Athabasca strong issues, New Siddamaque, New Normac, New Hedamaque, New Delhi and Pacific dropping pennies. Volumes were large. Dobrey 20,000 shares. Gunnar dropped 15 cents in light trading.

Western oils slipped slightly on the exchange's index but gains and losses were well balanced. Biggest price change was a gain of 20 cents by Peace River.

Canadian Legion To Hold Banquet Remembrance Day

The members of the Canadian Legion, Belleville, No. 56 of this city will honor their dead at an Armistice and Remembrance Day dinner in their clubrooms on Coty at Street on Wednesday evening.

Members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Legion will prepare and serve a delicious dinner to the more than 150 expected to sit down around the banquet table. The banquet chairman will be William Bailey, president of the Branch.

In the morning at eleven o'clock the Legion members with other veterans will parade from the Armouries to the Cenotaph on Station Street to deposit their wreaths and bow in memory before the memorial to the glorious dead of this Great World Wars.

A varied program has been arranged for the banquet with J. Alex Edmison, assistant to the Principal of Queen's University as the speaker. Mr. Edmison is well known in the city, having spoken here on many occasions and he no doubt will have a special message for the veterans.

Mr. Edmison is a native of Ontario and was educated in Arts at Queen's University in law at McGill University and was president of each student body. He practiced law until his enlistment with the Black Watch in 1940. At the time he was an Alderman on the Montreal city council and a member of the Board of Health. Mr. Edmison is a writer on penology and criminology and is in constant demand as a guest speaker. A fine evening is promised for all veterans and a chance to meet their old buddies in the night of Remembrance.

Canada Is Facing 'Wheat Crisis' Coldwell Asserts

SASKATOON (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, national CCF leader, said Thursday night Canada is facing a "wheat crisis," and will have almost 800,000,000 bushels to dispose of during 1953-54.

Addressing a public meeting in conjunction with the annual convention of the Saskatchewan section of the CCF, he quoted the latest figures on the current wheat crop and said he had checked all possible figures with the federal departments of agriculture and trade and commerce. He said the figures "belie the optimistic statements coming from the government in its attempt to play down the oncoming crisis."

'My California' Thrills Large Audience at BCI Auditorium

"My California," second travelogue in the World Travel Adventure series presented by the Rotary Club of Belleville, thrilled the fine assembly of travel devotees last evening at the Collegiate auditorium, with its sparkling beauty and spontaneous humor, as Stan Midgley, well-known lecturer and noted photographer took his audience on a sight-seeing through southern and northern California.

LAND OF VARIETY.

Accompanied by delightful narration, Mr. Midgley showed "sunny" California to be a land of great variety; from "its highest mountains to its lowest depths; spring flowers to autumn colors; lazy beaches to thundering waterfalls; cactus to huge redwoods; sun to smog; hectic cities to desert solitude; old missions and ghost towns to present day industry and heavy snow to orchards in bloom."

Mr. Midgley, a graduate in chemistry from Princeton University, and winner of a $1,000 prize for his "Bicycle Tour Through Utah Park," who was introduced by Mr. A. Dixon, of the Kiwanis Club, began his delightful trip at Hollywood taking in the coastal cities around the southern tip of the peninsula in the first portion of the travelogue, and the northern portion in the second division.

SNOW-CAPPED MOUNTAINS.

Scenes were shown depicting snow-capped mountains, having the seasons of the year, depending how far up one advanced, and more snow than in any other of the States. He showed the strange snow images along the desolate stretch of road, caused by the action of the elements, many resembling human features; the peach orchards newly pink; and orchards white with prune blossoms; orange orchards heavy with delicious fruit; and traveled on additional colving; vast fields with glowing poppies; flower farms in shades of mulberry and mauve; Hilltop tangles in mauve nestling among tall trees and beautiful flowers; white pigeons eating from children's hands; Mount Palazaar, where the large observatory is situated; gorgeous sunset, lovely autumn scenes, and Miguel's Mission, the oldest in California.

TALL REDWOODS

Other lovely scenes included the tall redwood forests with winding roadways; date palms, with clusters of dates; barren deserts with wandering stones or rocks, leaving trails behind them; how or why they move, no one knows; shifting and dunes, and salt plains showing the sizeded formation.

There were turtle races fanning out in a circle. Those turtles which stopped or turned to the right were given to the owners and sent on their outward way, and the jumping frog races, in which the frogs leaped for several feet, some as much as 14.

Among the flowers shown were mountain lilacs, of a lovely blue color; the cactus flower; the yellow yucca and monkey flowers, and the red tree cactus with sprays of brilliant red and the desert primrose.

The cities visited were Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, San Diego, Palm Springs, San Francisco and others.

The coast line showed the rugged rocks, the seal rocks, along with many little flocks of birds, similar to the sandpiper, but these were gregarious. The Golden Gate bridge, longest single span in the world, and many beautiful lakes, as Mirror Lake and Mona Lake.

ROSE PARADE

Climaxing a most delightful travelogue, Mr. Midgley showed as an extra treat, the Rose parade in Pasadena, a glorious and colorful spectacle, having over fifty different floats entirely composed of flowers, without aid of any other material. Each float represented a melody or song, as "My Wild Irish Rose," and were exquisitely lovely in their portrayal.

These floats were interspersed with various bands, each in its own color, led by the band's colonel. These bands were again interspersed with figures on splendid horses, handsomely coutired in silver trappings, some representing famous comic strip characters as "Hop-along Cassidy," and others, completing and complimenting a most enjoyable presentation.

Fire Destroys Large Barn In Seymour Twp.

CAMPBELLFORD — Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a large barn on the farm of Cas Owens on the tenth concession of Seymour Township, about eight miles north east of this town on Wednesday evening.

The Campbellford fire department responded to the alarm but were unable to do anything to help by the time they arrived. The fire had gained considerable headway before it was discovered. Firemen stood by to prevent the spread of the flames, but due to the fact that the barn was located some distance from the house they had little to do.

The barn had not been used to store grain or to house cattle for about five years, and had been used only as a storage shed. Neighbors said Owens had moved almost all his farm machinery in to the building shortly before the fire. Everything in the building was lost, but the damage has not yet been estimated.

Cars by the score raced over dusty country roads to the fire scene, and it was some time before the traffic tie-up at the spot could be untangled.

TO HONOR DEAD, AID THE LIVING

Next Wednesday will be Remembrance Day. That is Canadians, at cenotaphs in great cities and sleepy village, bustling towns and cosy hamlets, will bow their heads in tribute to men who gave their lives in two world wars in an effort to safeguard liberty and make possible the day when peace would reign throughout the world.

That few of their hopes have yet been realized, that war and injustice still flourish in many parts of the globe, is beside the point. It was not they who failed, but we who are living who must shoulder what blame there may be for mistakes made in efforts to build a brave new world.

If we have failed them in some things, if we have been guilty of errors in judgment and of lack of vision, let us not fail them in one thing. Let us pay them the tribute of real remembrance, not alone by bowing our heads but also by opening our hearts and caring for those of their comrades who, while escaping death, still paid a heavy price for their devotion to the country's cause.

Let us remember the living, as well as those dead. There is a simple way to do that. Buy a poppy. We are not suggesting that you pay what it is worth, for that much money few of us possess, but at least pay more than the cost of the materials which comprise it. Give generously of those who, ten or forty years ago, themselves gave with such great generosity and such nobility.

TRAFFIC PROBLEMS WILL MULTIPLY

Canada's car and truck output to date this year has already equalled the total of any previous year. That is an achievement not without its problems. It almost certainly means that the increase in the number of trucks and cars on the highways will be considerably greater this year than in any previous year. At the same time it is unlikely that we have added sufficient miles of new roads to adequately cope with the increased traffic load. At the financial conclusion, borne out by the personal observations of most of us, that traffic congestion is steadily becoming an increasing problem.

Residents of the Quinte district are fortunate in many respects in that they seem to escape their share of some national problems. Tornadoes and subterranean quakes are rather unusual up here. But there is every reason to believe that we shall not escape our full share of traffic headaches. Located as Belleville is, at the junction of the nation's highways, connecting the two major cities of Montreal and Toronto, it is inevitable that future years will see an ever increasing number of trucks and automobiles flowing past our doors. Some will call for new highways provide a complete solution for the crowded conditions of city streets.

Progress hurdened with the task of making travel on those streets as safe as possible have many problems, with one of the more popular solutions being the establishment of "no-parking" zones in the more congested areas of the streets. One may be pardoned for wondering whether either of these measures is a satisfactory solution unless the motoring public provides suitable co-operation.

No-parking regulations just serve to push back parked automobiles from the more heavily travelled thoroughfares onto side streets which, in time, also become congested. Strict enforcement of them may make it possible to keep traffic flowing smoothly and safely on main arteries, can actually create new traffic problems if those motorists on through streets do not show courtesy and consideration for drivers wishing to enter these streets.

West Bridge Street at Highland Avenue is an excellent spot to make the above observations. Both attitudes are shown by the men and women at the wheel. Sometimes an unfortunate driver will sit at the stop street for minutes at a time, endeavoring to break in the line of traffic. At other times a motorist on this main thoroughfare will deliberately halt to permit the car on the side street to come out into the main thoroughfare.

Belleville residents will remember when there were no traffic lights at the intersection of Coleman Street and West Bridge Street. Traffic on Coleman Street was congested. The obvious solution was the installation of traffic lights, which was undertaken in spite of inexplicable opposition from officials of the Department of Highways. Traffic on Coleman Street was made safe, too, by the stop street to be an adequate solution. But, even on streets where a stop sign will serve admirably if motorists on the through street discharge their obligations to assist motorists on the side street into the line of traffic, it may be sometimes necessary to erect traffic lights if such courtesy is not shown. Of course, we all have to put up with the lights, but most of the taxes paid by all of us—not by just those of us who are motorists and not, alas, only by discourteous motorists.

So, the next time you see a line of traffic blockaded on a side street, pause and let these cars enter the main thoroughfare. You may save yourself money.

MAN'S REQUIREMENTS

All living creatures food must seek;
He's the law for strong and weak.
Human beings to their care
Must add the need of clothes to wear,
And shelter stout against the storm
And fire that through the winter warms.

The home he builds must stay
Secure;
And fair, both in and out, to say;
Aglow with love from day to day;
A spot where children freely play;
Where, when the tasks are done, he's fed
The comfort sweet of peace of mind.

'Tis not enough to eat and drink.
Of others he must often think;
Must share his neighbor's time of need;
Be steadfast to his chosen creed;
Serve God and country best he can.
Do these he must to be a man.

Purchased site for the city hall in 1871. The answer to an old and often asked question with regard to the probable date authorization was made by the town council for the purchase of the city hall site many years ago, was given in an old by-law found in the office of City Clerk J. H. Denike Monday last. On July 3 in the year 1871 at a meeting of the town council a motion was passed that the town be authorized to borrow the sum of $30,000 with interest at the rate of six per cent. for the purchase of land and the building of the city hall. The by-law passed was No. 343. The assessed value of the property at that time was $3,662,786.50. The building was completed late in November, 1873.

Mrs. H. Thompson and Mrs. L. Monkhest spent the week end with relatives in Picton and Marlbank.

Miss Lecox Walmsley, nurse-in-training at Kingston General Hospital, spent the week end at her home on Coleman Street.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

We had a dentist friend to supper. There were tender little pieces of chicken, fine radishes and olives. There was onion in the potato salad. It had a whisper, a mere whiff, of garlic in it.

The poor fellow! We had to go out and cook him up some scrambled eggs.

"Dentists," he said sadly, "can't eat onions, garlic or any of those scented things. I love them. I look forward to Saturday all week, because Saturday is the only day I can eat 'em. Saturday is onion day, garlic day. I haven't eat on Monday because they still cling around to Monday."

We enquired about his patients — women fans as considerate of him as he is of them?

"They don't have to be," he pointed out. "I have to be professional. They can be themselves. There is a certain percentage of men who can't come to a dentist without forcing themselves with a drink, or maybe two or three drinks. It is quite a job for us to do a good piece of work whilst peering through an alcoholic fog. These drinkers are a considerable problem. It is very difficult to put them under anaesthetic. They are half anaesthetized to start with. And the fight they put up while going under ether is remarkable, considering with the chair's assistance they accept a drink."

This dentist does not smoke; but even if he did, he would refrain except after hours, probably at night. But the nervousness associated with a dentist's office inaugurates a startling demand for pals and female, to stoke up furiously before settling back in to the chair.

"We get used to it," sighed the dentist. He finished off the scrambled eggs and cast a malancholy eye on the green onions being passed around the table. "It's a one-way traffic. We build up a sort of resistance, I guess."

So if you are having a dentist to dinner, make it Saturday, and stoke him up with all the rarest concentrates of the lily family.

USSR Torture Methods Used On Cowardice

(New York Times)

To the tale of death marches, massacres and wanton murders added by Communists on their helpless prisoners in Korea has come the first authentic story of the account of human degradation. This is the report of Dr. Margo in the United Nations on the torture of more than one hundred American citizens by methods "carefully" drafted according to prior specifications in the Soviet Communist book about American "germ warfare."

Based on the sworn testimony of those who returned, this report reveals how the Communists obtain such "confessions" by methods which put the methods of ages ago to shame. For the Communists have developed, in combination with old-fashioned brutality with modern scientific techniques to reduce their victims to the level of the perfect "Soviet man." In this stage mind and body are paralyzed and reflexes so conditioned that victims have become nothing as human beings and become performing robots and seemingly willing accomplices in their degradation. Signs. After months of filth, starvation, and torture, the minds of the victims are offered the alternatives of food and medicine for certain confessions to the point of being stood up repeatedly for hours on end without food. Only the most rugged individuals survive intact. But the fact that they do survive and refused to "confess" is, as Dr. Margo says, a great testimony that the spirit of man rung deeper than the reflexes of Soviet scientists.

The method used on the American flyers was the invention for which Soviet Russians can claim credit. They have put in their own people, including Communist Chinese, who have undergone brainwashing and they are now exporting this product of their culture to other countries. In addition to anything else, the Soviet Russians and their Chinese pupils have not only trained the Chinese and North Koreans in torture but supervised the application of their method in Korea and advised in the "confessions" of the victims. They continued doing so after they returned to China. Signed, and in some cases up to forty days of torture.

As the North Koreans, more perhaps even than the Chinese, have been subjected to the effects of the refusal of the North Korean prisoners to take Communist "interrogators" becomes understandable. But that after this revelation the Soviets can still be regarded as "peace loving" Nations members as being "neutral" in Korea passes understanding. The issue there is not primarily one of whether they "confessed" or not, whether they were starved or not. But the United Nations still faces the question: What is it going to do about this? We hope that it will arise to more than silence which gives consent.

Tale of Tito From Tyrol

(By Henry W. Lawrey in the Montreal Gazette)

I cannot hear of Tito without recalling a tale which I was told in one of a succession of lovely evenings during vacation we took up residence in a Penzione there. The proprietor, a tall, handsome individual was always courteous, but never talkative and remained somewhat reserve in everything. This attitude was altered on a seemingly young man.

One day we were admiring photographs of girls which were framing the dining room wall in the proprietor's handsome young wife. To show an appropriate interest we asked their opinion of each one. Some of these pictures. One was of an alpinist, a tall handsome individual. We asked—And Madam. Who is she? Our host seemed taken aback then replied—"My husband."

There was an ominous silence for a moment. Then told us a tale of horror.

Her husband was a common soldier in a vanquished army which the Germans disliked. He became a prisoner of the Yugoslav guerillas. He and his comrades were compelled to walk miles on a forced march. They were stripped naked and the guerillas, with their knives, split on them and kicked them. Those who finished the march were led into an enclosure which contained water tanks. They were then pushed by a pistol the water reached groin level. Then they were ordered to stand on the stringers overhead while some other member of the victorious army walked on the stringers and threw live wires in the water.

At this juncture the proprietor entered the room. His wife raised his trouser leg. There was not flesh there. It was a pitiful and deformed purple covering, a horrible sight. The man is now fascinating. Most animals shed their color in order to assume another in season.

Pictures of the other without really discarding any.

And too, all that happened before this shook many of the mightiest hands in British and French politics, the scene of a high-level military talks in Washington.

We should fear to shake his hand, lest there might remain some blood. Blood which could never be removed, but by the loss of my dear ones.

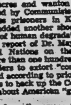
JUVENILE OR ADULT DELINQUENCY

We hear a great deal these days about juvenile delinquency and the fact that most of it stems from adult delinquency. Some of the worst cases of two contributions which tended to confirm the belief that young people are not adults make them.

A friend of mine met a 16-year-old girl on the street and in the course of conversation the youngster remarked that she was suffering that day from a terrific hangover. She had been to three cocktail parties the afternoon before. "Does your mother know you attended these parties?" inquired my friend. "Know it?" said the girl. "Why she took me." A few days later this girl's mother was wringing her hands and sobbing about the way girls like to do with a 16-year-old daughter who had been arrested for drunkenness in drunk by her escort.



The other circumstance related to me was this: A boy was picked up last New Year's morning at five o'clock for drunken driving. The officer followed him to his home and arrested him there. The officer said he wanted to talk to the boy's parents, and the youth replied, "You can't do that because they haven't come home yet."

The next time you read about juvenile delinquency just say to yourself, "I wonder."

GIVE THAT FRACTURE A REST

Dr. Brady

This reason why the bones of an elderly person or a person who has been long confined to bed or

Here we go again—
—calcium deficiency.

I keep preaching this, but to no avail, for when I do persuade some one to eat his daily ration of Ca and D also, following removal from her two weeks "check-up" by the bone specialist all-RICE with the warning that an adequate daily intake of Ca and D will cause "dissolved" calcium in the arteries, joints and innards . . . I never had the pleasure of seeing the simple treatment devised by Dr. Mons and recommended by Dr. Park for uncomplicated Colles fracture. If you have ever had one the tandem suspension treatment for fractured femur, in view of the total lack knowledge of the Hodgen principle in the medical profession at this time, I'm sure somebody out of step but Johnny.)

When I had Colles' fracture it was impacted—that is, the lower fragment was firmly driven into the upper, with the hand turned in what displaced inward the thumb. The doctors hitched my shoulder to a hook in the wall and tried to pull the fragments apart in order to correct the slight deformity, a painful exercise which was under local anesthesia. So I said it is good enough deformity to bother about.

A day or two later they suggested another attempt. They were going to anesthetize the arm again but I said never mind the anesthetic—go ahead. This time I don't mind admitting it hurt. But again the fragments remained firmly bracketed.

The hand is still slightly disfigured, but the scarcely noticeable deformity does not interfere with the use of the hand in any way. My best is to keep the hand and arm supported in a sling and let me go in comfy? No the—I get madder every time I think of it when I put my arm in a shoulder cast, and what's worse, they upset the whole business directly on the skin without any padding whatever. For several nights I was extremely uncomfortable from pressure of the cast, not on the bones, but on the soft tissues between bone and there. How can doctors be so stupid as to suppose the treatment was far worse than the disease.

Old Time Breakfasts

(By Hoyt Alden in the St. Louis Post Dispatch)

I had to go back to 1855 to find a cookbook which displayed much interest in the breakfast meal. It included a little verse which went like this:

Dinner may be pleasant,
So may social tea;
But only think about the breakfast
Is best of all the three.

Many modern cookbooks have begun to show concern over the matter, but breakfast menus are still pretty themselves at breakfast.

However, I'm not as interested in the nutrition angle as I am in restoring the breakfast to its proper status as a thing of beauty and joy to start the day with. There is no better way to make sure of appetite, something the little woman is never going to do as long as she continues to serve a cupful or rubbery fried eggs in front of tired husband.

Just to show you what breakfast used to be, here are some sample menus of the nineties, which I dredged up in the course of research:

Corn omelet, boiled halibut with butter sauce, calves liver with bacon, sweet potato souffle and hominy croquettes. Those are menus for one meal. Today's housewife would think she had moved mountains if she fixed just one of them some morning.

Here's how. Eggs a la tripe, porterhouse steak with watercress, cold boiled ham, fried potatoes au gratin, brioche fluties.

Or kidney omelet, oysters a la poulette, hamburg steak, cobert sauce, stewed sweet corn, creme de menthe sauce.

And, eggs a la payzanne with bacon, broiled lamb chops, black sausage with mashed potatoes, carrots and cream, stewed apricots.

Now I'm not saying that a meal like that to start the day isn't going to put it a little, but the fact remains that any man worth his salt ought to manage to sit down to a ham omelet, or some calves liver with bacon and some stewed corn. So we suggest omelet, or sausage and potatoes—now in the days when we were deserted to the fruit juice, toast and coffee level!

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MEMORIES

I am a guest in the state of Michigan, in which I was born. I have been driving about the country and there little changed since the time that I was a boy among them. The same old farms that I knew are still there. I worked on them as a boy and I know the ways of great happiness, for I worked for most intelligent people who taught me much that I failed later to find in books.

I have called aside to ask for a ride into the golden-clothed Autumn. It isn't well cooked apples, however, on the beautiful homes, hills, and perfect highways, for our thoughts were in a pitiful farm where so much new life for me was born. Here I learned to hunt and fish, to plow and feed the stock, to milk cows and to love the dumb creatures.

Those days I would plough corn with a team of horses, back and forth. There would be a fence at the end of the furrows, and there would be a jug of cool water with the corn-cob pipe in it. I often rested in the shade and was fascinated by the buzz of corn eating vines or wild flowers nesting about the rails.

I drove to the little village where I was born and went to the school and where I was the janitor of the church. The old home looked so little and so much a farm that I had painted red several times over. There was the garden that I used to help plant and hoe. And a little farther on was the old school I used to attend. When I graduated from the Eighth Grade there were seven graduates and I proudly took the platform and received my diploma—certificate—titled "Pluck!"

On one of my walks I stopped to pick up some fallen black walnuts and beech nuts. Black squirrels were common about the land, gathering nuts and putting them away for the long winter months. I understand these black squirrels were imported from Australia, but, anyway, for a time one in my New York yard, nearly a hundred years old, lived and now am. How very wonderful is this gift of memory! Again I looked upon the place where I was born—and wondered.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

'Buy a Poppy, Mister'

By DOUGLAS W. SMITH
Staff Reporter, Intelligencer

Georges was mad. He was hopping mad. Volunteers for the poppy drive in the Belleville business district, he complained, were getting the cold shoulder from many passers-by.

Some were downright rude, he added, in the way they refused to contribute. Others just ran into George during a busy campaign for funds and were in a hurry to get them.

George did not take the members of his committee to task for their attitude. "Let George do it," And George, chairman ever since the drive began, wasn't at all alarmed at yesterday's rage. I had seen him mad before and he always got results. Even George's district every store has a poppy in its window. The owners of the stores are no more patriotic than the storekeepers in Mr. Gold's district. But, busy men as they are they find ten minutes to talk with George each year. He never takes no for an answer. Now, the budget annually for the Remembrance contribution.

Perhaps George isn't very tactful at times and he speaks his mind. But the result, though, is that the man he accosts like sincerity and are seldom offended. They know in their hearts that what he says is fundamentally true. And they do.

A publicity chairman I tagged along with George on his rounds. "Why don't we get her be hauled in for indirectest" businessman. No, the lady didn't want to buy a wreath. She followed to someone in the back room. "Hey, Charlie, haven't we got one of those poppy wreaths left over from last year?" Charlie came, after blowing the dust off a faded looking wreath. "See?" says the chairman gup. "We already have one. We need another."

I thought that George was going to blow his top. He flushed, then he got control. He was quite calm and deadly as he looked the man in the eye. "Mister", says he, "you don't treat Remembrance wreaths like Christmas decorations. They have to be replaced fresh each year. When you buy a wreath, it shows that your appreciation is fresh and that you haven't forgotten the sacrifices made by a lot of good men. You haven't forgotten have you?" George came away with a ten dollar order.

Several calls later he ran into a grocer. "What is it now?" he grumbled. "Every day, every day, I have to dig down and give some thing to this or the other thing. There's no end to it."

"Mister", says George, "I don't like having to ask you any more than you like giving me money. But someone has to do it." Then, all the time looking the man in the eye, he continued, "You know, you can't class this poppy campaign in the category of charitable donations. When a mother or wife loses a son or husband, sometimes it is important that they get a decent upbringing. And you know how and why that sort can't be. Lives, don't you?" The man knew quite well. He dug down.

Rough methods, say some people. Perhaps it is. But it is not half as rough as trying to make a living unless your limbs, sight or full fingers. It is not so rough as slaving it out scrubbing floors to support a father less family cooped up in some bed-bug-ridden tenement. George might seem rough, but George has a soft spot in his heart for helpless people if more Legion members took a tougher approach to our problems.

Listen to George, at a poppy rally: "You got nothing to be ashamed about when you ask a person to buy a poppy. You are not asking for charity. Every man, woman and child in Canada owes their free and comfortable existence today to the sacrifices made by our unfortunate comrades.

$227 Millions Contributed By Canada to United Nations

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has paid more than $227,000,000 into the plange to contribute more millions United Nations and its agencies since then, finance officials said today.

Within the 1945-46 fiscal year, Canada has contributed $208,250,000 to the UN in emergency relief, rehabilitation and technical assistance, $18,547,000 for administration and $1,317,000 for international navigational facilities, including the country's share of running a weather ship.

Besides this, Canada has loaned $297,000,000 to the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and the International Monetary Fund.

In the 1954-55 fiscal year, officials said, Canada will contribute some $3,000,000 toward running the UN and its agencies, roughly the same sum each of the last two years. The sum to be contributed to relief, reconstruction and technical assistance has not yet been determined.

For running the UN itself, Canada will put up about $1,400,000 next year, or around 3.3 per cent of the total UN administration budget of $41,000,000. This is about the same percentage as in previous years.

Canada will outrank the United States in per-capita contributions to UN administration next year, approximately 25 cents to 4½ cents—although the U.S. has the highest per-capita income in the world. Canada has argued that no country should be asked to make a higher per-capita contribution than the U.S.

Canada ranks seventh among contributing nations, behind the U.S., Russia, Britain, France, China and India, in that order. The U.S. contribution has been lowered from 39.89 per cent in 1946 to 33.33 per cent next year and Russia's has been increased from the original 6.42 to 16.33 per cent.

Given Permission To Leave Jail

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Two men from nearby Reserve Thursday were sentenced to a month in Cape Breton county jail, from which they were convicted Tuesday of being at large.

John MacKie, 34, and John Wilson, 36, also have to serve about half their one-year terms for earlier conviction under Depot control and excise acts.

Magistrate indicated the two were given permission to leave the jail May 6, after MacKie told turnkey Thomas Wells that his mother was ill.

Wells testified he called a taxi for the prisoners and told them "not to be too long." He said he re-admitted the prisoners around 1:30 a.m. next day.

On another occasion, according to evidence, Wells MacKie and another prisoner visited a "bootleg joint" at Reserve while on a hunting trip.

MARMORA
Stirling Edges Marmora 6-5

MARMORA — Stirling High School rugby team secured a narrow win over their Marmora rivals at Deloro on Wednesday afternoon, the score ending in their favor by six points to five. The large crowd present included two bus loads from the southern village.

The game was even throughout and was decided by breaks.

In the first quarter Hadley scored a touchdown for Stirling with Ray adding the extra point.

In the fourth quarter, Marvin Walker registered a touchdown for the home team which was not converted.

Next (today) afternoon will see the end of the schedule with Madoc at home to Marmora and Stirling visiting Trenton.

Will Bancroft Become New Site Of Uranium Find?

(Financial Post).

Will the Bancroft area of Eastern Ontario shortly turn up with other uranium finds as good or better than the original Centre Lake uranium Mines discovery which first brought real attention to this area?

Work hasn't progressed sufficiently far on any other properties in the area to make definite predictions but some recently secured results are serving to kindle new interest.

According to field information, Macassa Mines has apparently been getting pretty fair results in its ground adjoining to the north of Centre Lake which is now held through a subsidiary, Croft Uranium Mines. New discoveries have also been made by Rare Earth Mining Corp. which the management considers definitely superior to any of their previous findings.

Tyngsten Corp. of Canada is reported active adjoining Centre Lake Uranium and Aumacho recently reported interesting uranium assays from south of Centre Lake.

Numerous other exploration programs are in progress in the General Bancroft area including that on the Kemp ground southeast of Wilberforce which is reported financed with U.S. funds.

In the Studio—cameras pick up perfect image. Diagram represents the television wave pattern as it appears on an engineer's oscilloscope.

But man-made interference—a passing truck, a neighbour's vacuum cleaner—can distort TV waves. Such interference scrambles the wave pattern like this.

Scrambled TV waves ruin reception. Image becomes streaked, distorted, or starts to roll over. Crosley tackled this problem—developed Picture-Sentry.

Crosley Picture-Sentry (an electronic circuit using a transistor-like germanium diode) guards against scrambling. Image stays clear, sharp—as in the studio.

Magistrate Will Decide if Cream Is Imitation

OSHAWA (CP)—Magistrate F.E. Hoke will give judgment Monday, Nov. 16, in the case of George Schilling, accused of selling an edible oils product manufactured to such a way that it "is an imitation of or resembles . . . ice cream." The product, a frozen dessert, is not described by the manufacturer as ice cream.

The charge is laid under Ontario law, passed in 1952 and amended in 1953, which bans sale of edible oils products, except oleomargarine, manufactured so as to resemble dairy products.

The Canadian Press, in an Oshawa story Thursday, erroneously referred to Mr. Schilling's frozen dessert as "imitation ice cream." Whether the dessert is an imitation of ice cream is a point to be settled in the magistrate's Nov. 16 judgment.

Weddings

CROSS—SMITH

A pretty fall wedding took place, Saturday, October 24, in Alfred Street Church, when Betty Jean Smith, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Smith, became the bride of John Harold Cross, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cross of Roslin. Ferns and fall flowers formed the setting for the double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. R. E. Wilson.

Mrs. Gerald Clancy of Rawdon, rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. J. McMurray, who sang "Count Your Blessings" and "Because".

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of white net and lace over satin was in full length style with lace bolero fastened with long sleeves pointed over the wrists. The small collar was edged with pearls to match the headdress which held her full-length embroidered net veil. She carried a white Bible crested with red rose and orchids knotted in trailing white satin ribbons.

The maid of honor, Miss Doreen Cross, sister of the bridegroom, wore blue taffeta and net with matching headdress of net and small flowers. She carried a bouquet of baby mums.

The bridesmaids, Miss Barbara Smith, sister of the bride, in pink net and taffeta, and Miss Vanita Moon, of Belleville, in yellow net and taffeta, were matching headdresses and carried nosegays of baby mums.

The flower girl, Miss Linda Sagerman, of Colborne, wore a blue taffeta ankle-length gown with a blue floral wreath and carried a small nosegay of pink mums.

Master Dicky Skelly, of Plainfield, was ring-bearer.

Mr. Donald Smith, brother of the bride, was best man and the ushers were, Mr. Douglas Haggman of Campbellford and Mr. Angus Haight, of Roslin.

The reception was held in the Alfred hall.

To receive the guests, the bride's mother wore grey-pink taffeta with black silk velvet trim and shoulder accessories and corsage of American beauty roses. The bridegroom's mother was attired in navy with matching accessories and corsage of red roses.

The happy couple left on their honeymoon amid showers of confetti for Buffalo, the bride wearing a brown suit with matching hat and accessories with a corsage of yellow roses. Mr. and Mrs. Cross will reside at Roslin, Ontario.

Harmony Studio Club Presents Awards

The regular meeting of the Harmony Studio Club was held recently at the home of Mrs. Emily Veley, R.M.T., Harriet Street, when those pupils who had obtained highest marks in each grade were awarded prizes presented by Mrs. Veley.

Those receiving awards included: Grade one, Patricia Chisholm; Grade two, Doreen Rush; Grade three, Lois Bailey; Grade four, Sharon Flindall; Grade five, Marilyn Jones; Grade eight, Anna Corinne Gray and Carol Stewart (tie).

Mrs. C. Scott, on behalf of the Harmony Studio club, presented cards of congratulations to all grade eight pupils who were successful in the recent piano examinations.

OFFICERS APPOINTED

Mrs. Veley announced the officers appointed as follows: director, Mrs. E. Veley; studio assistant, Mrs. C. Scott; hostess, Mrs. E. Cornish; assistant hostess, Mrs. C. Ling; treasurer, Mrs. G. Reid; secretary, Miss Janet Stephenson; pianist, Miss Grace Veley.

Mrs. Scott was appointed chairman for the following program.

Marilyn Hunniley, passing from grade one to grade two, played two pieces for the club from memory and gave an oral test on technical requirements.

This was followed by piano selections rendered by Betty Hubbs, playing "Sonatina" by Kuhlau; Carol Thompson — "Waltz", by Brahms; Anna C. Gray—"Nola" by Felix Arndt; Carol Stewart—"Serenade" by Mozart; Mrs. E. Cornish—"Clave de lune" by Debussy; Lois Bradshaw—"A Monastry Garden" by Albert Ketelby and Grace Veley—"The Cygsy Rondo", by Haydn.

Refreshments were served during which Mrs. Cornish cut and served the cake of congratulations made especially for the grade eight pupils, which brought an interesting evening to a close.

District Council of Christian Education Meets in City

The first annual convention of the Belleville Council of Christian Education was held in Tabernacle United Church on Wednesday afternoon, with the first session in the ladies' parlor. A large number were present from city and suburban churches.

The president, Mr. J. G. Demeza opened the meeting with prayer and welcomed all present, particularly those who had introduced the guest speaker, the Reverend H. R. Culley Hinchey, rector of St. Elizabeth's Church, Queensway, Toronto, member of the executive of the Ontario Council of Christian Education.

The theme of the convention, "The Bible, Our Bible, My Bible" was introduced by a most interesting story told by Miss Jade Noble, of Albert College. Mr. Hinchey gave an instructive talk on methods of teaching used in Sunday schools.

BIBLE INTEREST

Mr. John Ruley, superintendent of Tabernacle Sunday School, illustrated how to promote interest in Bible reading through games, contests and quizes.

Mr. Hinchey explained that the theme was divided into three sections, the Bible, which pictured its effects on the world in art, literature, music, movies and programs; the "Our Bible" through its action on the family life and the home; the best methods of use in the home and Sunday school.

GROUP LEADERS

Leaders of these groups were: Superintendents' group, Mr. G. Chalmers, St. Thomas' Anglican Church; Young Adults, Rev. R. Hinchey; Miss Hilsgen, senior intermediates, Mr. A. D. Archibald, Tabernacle United Church; junior intermediates, Mrs. Rigby, Victoria Ave. Baptist; primary, Mrs. A. J. Clare, Bridge St. United Church; beginners and nursery, Mrs. T. K. Franklin, Bridge St. United Church.

When the groups reconvened they were asked to submit their conclusions and suggestions concerning a training school to the president or secretary after the meeting.

EARLY BIBLE HISTORY

An address was given by Mr. Hinchey, "The Bible Lives Again".

Those present were told something of the early history of the Bible, how its message is being carried by missionaries to all the world, and also its personal benefits. "The Bible is like a telescope. It is not only for us just a Bible, but if you look through it you see the world beyond."

It is the duty of Sunday school workers to train their students to use their Bibles so that they must see and know the holiness, the glories, the love and mercies of God and that they may come to realize that they are His children.

The closing worship service was conducted by Mr. T. K. Franklin.

Parent-Teacher Association Meeting Held

Recently a monthly meeting of the St. Michael's Holy Rosary and St. Joseph's Parent-Teacher Association was held, Mr. Robert-son Collins presiding.

The recording secretary's report, together with the minutes of the executive meeting of the Archdiocesan Council of P.T.A., were read by Mrs. Morrell. Sister M. Augeline's letter of thanks for flowers received while she was ill was read.

The treasurer's report was read by Mr. Collins in the absence of Mr. J. Colligan.

An attendance plaque is to be purchased for St. Joseph's School since it was felt that these plaques encouraged a good number of members to attend.

The association will send Mrs. L. Callaghan, as its representative, to the Christian Curriculum conference to be held in Toronto on December 5 and 6.

St. Joseph's School's classrooms will be open for the parents' inspection on co-ed night, immediately before the next monthly meeting in December. Many parents present felt that this was necessary to make the work of the association possible. Unfortunately, however, Holy Rosary School cannot be opened for inspection until the new addition is finished.

A most interesting talk describing the founding, organization and aims of the Cub movement was given by Mr. W. Street, Cub Master at St. Michael's.

Mr. D. D. Allen, assistant commissioner of the Boy Scouts of Belleville, told the story of the founder of the Scout movement and impressed the assembly with its aim of building better citizens, men and Christians through a motto of "Service."

Attendance plaques were won by the classes of Sister Mary Rose, Sister Mary Dominic, Mrs. C. Murphy and Miss K. Morrell.

Catholic Book Week was observed this week, and the display was open for the parents' inspection.

Refreshments served by the members of grades 8 and 9, were enjoyed by all.

All parents, teachers and those interested in Catholic education are cordially invited to attend the association's meetings, the first Monday each month, and become interested themselves for the children's welfare.

St. George's Guild Holds Colorful Autumn Bazaar, Tea

Vari-colored chrysanthemums, ferns and golden pumpkins made a pretty background for yesterday afternoon in St. George's chapel, Station Street, for the autumn bazaar and tea, under the sponsorship of St. George's Guild.

The numerous guests were received by Mrs. F. R. Welch, Mrs. W. Pepper and Mrs. G. Beare, the treasurer, and welcomed most cordially into an atmosphere of social camaraderie.

The tea table, prettily appointed with autumn flowers and candelabra, was presided over by Mrs. Willis Jackson and Mrs. Everett Smith, Mrs. C. Calling and Mrs. J. B. Creegan, and convened by Mrs. J. Rowbotham.

Mrs. F. Askey, Mrs. W. Cullman, Mrs. McFee, Mrs. M. Quirt, Mrs. L. Donnelly and Mrs. Dunning.

Making tea and assisting in the kitchen were: Mrs. M. B. Sutton, Mrs. McCloud, Mrs. Markle and Mrs. Gulliver.

DECORATIVE BOOTEE

The various booths were decorated in orange and black, reminiscent of the recent Hallowe'en, and consisted of the home-cooking, the candy booth; the parcel booth; and fancy work and aprons.

In charge of the home-cooking were Mrs. W. Beare and Mrs. W. Parry who presided over some fine samples of confectionery including a beautifully iced and decorated, white birthday cake, showing a cluster of pastel-tinted flowers; currant buns; fairy tarts; date squares; cup cakes, iced in yellow, pink and green, and sprinkled generously with shredded coconut; loaf cakes with white and chocolate icings; vanilla cookies centred by a half maraschino cherry, and little fruited gems.

PACKAGED SWEETS

The candy booth was centred by a little doll with voluminous blue skirts, and at either end of the table, a tall Sansvari plant accented by a salmon-colored geranium. Fine creams, chocolates, mutted fudge were temptingly packaged in lollipops and in little cup-like holders decorated in orange and black, and consisted of the home-cooking, the candy booth; the parcel booth; and fancy work and aprons.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

CASE WHERE MOTHER IS PERFECTLY RIGHT

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For the past eight months I have been very much interested in a young man of 25 to the point that I feel I am in love. Everything except when I might be able to see him. I've given it to my self-satisfaction, even though, I am only 15.

The trouble is that this man has never shown any sign of interest in me, and recently I discovered that he has been married for two months. My mother knows about all this and has told me that I would get over it.

Please tell me what you think.—Dear Jig-Saw:

What sort of help is it you're looking for? Help in trying to get the man to notice you, even though he somebody else's husband? Or help in giving your self-respect? My mother knows!

Don't you think it's pretty silly to have no interest in anything but mooning a man ten years older than yourself, who is very much married? But who you admit is no longer single? Wake yourself up by "seeing" him. I don't mean by actually meeting him, but catching a glimpse of him as he goes by, or something of that sort.

If you actually have no interests but the one, you must be daydreaming you had better get some! Look for a hobby that will partially fill when she says you will get over this infatuation—which is inevitable, whether you think so or not. You've bought the ticket for the ride, even though you do nothing to help yourself, so why make your life miserable in the meantime? Why not be a wise girl and start what you have been told and start getting over it right away? You can do this, if you will by, resuming your normal activities, gaieties and not allow yourself to live in your imagination which, incidentally, is a very dangerous thing to start doing.

You may think your present feelings indicate that you're quite mature, but in reality quite the opposite is true.

A WARNING: DON'T TAKE THIS YOUNG MAN SERIOUSLY

Dear Miss Fairfax:

At 16, I am in love with a man five years my junior.

When he and I are alone, he makes violent love to me, but when his friends are around, he completely ignores me.

Do you think he is really in love with me but self-conscious in front of his friends because he had a previous married marriage, or do you think he has no real feeling for me and is just heading me along?—C. C.

Dear C.C.:

I would have very little confidence indeed in the sincerity of any young man who can love to a woman when they are alone, and ignore her at all other times. If the young man were really interested in you, he would not only be anxious to win you, know it under any circumstances, but he would be proud to have others know it.

I rather sust that you have made him aware of your interest in him, which naturally flatters him, and so he plays up to you and tries to flatter you in return. It makes him feel like quite a fellow to be noticed by an older woman.

Don't delude yourself by taking seriously any attention he gave you, but him see that you are sophisticated enough to understand just how little it really means. Otherwise, you'll only make a fool of yourself.

FOXBORO LADIES' GUILD

The November meeting of the Ladies' Guild of Foxboro Presbyterian Church was held in the Sunday School room on Wednesday with seven present.

The ladies quilted all day and held a short program during the afternoon with Miss Hall as president in charge.

After the devotional exercises, reports were heard and discussion followed. Plans were made for the Christmas meeting in December to be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Anderson. Another quilting is to be held next Wednesday at the church.

Readings were given, and the offering taken after which Miss Watt closed the meeting.

BEAUTY

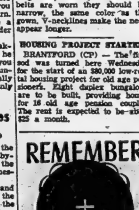
Soft materials draped in long lines, are best for you.

Overweight women are constantly bemoaning their fate but they have nobody themselves to blame. For big spread, bulky arms and fatted calves did not creep upon them like a thief in the night. On the contrary, it was a case of half a pound one week, a pound the next, in six months ten or fifteen pounds—until the gentle, slender line of youth disappeared and bulges took their place. And, alas, and alack, one that is all too common, obviously, since reports from insurance companies say that the majority of middle-aged women are overweight.

There is no getting around the fact that adding pounds is excess is due to too much food—and too little exercising food. Useless calories are burned up by physical activity they are stored away on the body. Refusing is no great hardship if one has a will. The trouble is that those heavyweights have only a theoretic will won't forego the cream puffs, the extra pat of butter, the bonbons. Their exercise fat, cherish, and cherish. Cut down to the minimum and rejoice at the favorable report of the bath room scales.

For the sake of her health a woman should shed every unneeded pound. Fatty tissue serves just on the surface. They also crowd around the internal organs. With a heavy load to carry, activities slow up and a woman acquires that "certain look." Terrible!



If she doesn't, can enough doors health and appearance put up a fight against tonnage, he can at least pay a little attention to dress. Dress designers who specialize in "stylish stouts" have plenty of tricks up their sleeves, and are a great help to plump women in selecting frocks, blouses and coats.

The rule is: no cross lines. They detract from height, add to the appearance of width. All artistical effects should be as plain as possible. Decorations or any trimmings call attention to more than-ample proportions.

Wide fur bows under which her head seems to sink are out of order. Heavy fabrics are a mistake. Soft materials, draped in long lines, are her best bet. If she wears them they should be narrow, the same color as the gown. Shoulders make the neck appear longer.

HOUSING PROJECT STARTED

BRANTFORD (CP) — The first of 200 houses to be built here for the start of an $80,000 low-rental housing project for old age residents. Eight duplex bungalows are to be built, providing homes for 16 old age pensioner couples. The rent is expected to be about $25 a month.

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I have learned to depend on your column every week, if you would have a chart on weight control . . . while, on my holidays I gained some pounds as I had been eating 3 slices of bread at lunch, one at dinner, and a thick salad between . . . on my salad I use 1-3 teaspoon corn oil. . . . I eat very few sweets . . . I eat a lot of raw fruit. Is that good? Also in a restaurant we were served apple pie which was light and flaky . . . would it be egg or milk that was on the top and did they use baking powder to get it light and flaky . . . please let me know if what I am eating is fattening . . . a neighbor has asked me if I knew how to make Metropolitan cake . . . would you have the recipe.—Mrs. E. C.

ANSWER:

The reason for my delay in answering you is because I have been trying to locate the Metropolitan cake recipe. I have not been successful. I will have to ask our readers to come to our rescue please if one of them has the recipe for Metropolitan. When it arrives (and someone always does) I will print it so watch for it.

I am mailing you calorie chart and a list of reducing meals. Count your calorie intake every day by watching the chart and keep them 60wn to 1000 par day. If you lose even one pound per week in that regime you should be content. Eat fresh fruit three times per day.

FLAKY PASTRY

Two cups sifted but not sifted pastry flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup best quality shortening or lard. Mix and sift flour and salt. Cut in 3 tablespoons of the shortening with a knife. Add barely enough cold water to make a stiff dough. Roll out on board in oblong then dot it with 1-3 of the remaining shortening. Fold over ends to centre and fold again to make four layers. Press ends together and roll out. Dot again with shortening, fold and roll. Repeat this process a third time. Chill dough four hours. Then roll out half for crust pie. Glaze on top could be mixture of 1 tablespoon sugar and milk or sugar mixed with a little beaten egg. If desired 1-2 teaspoon baking powder may be added to the flour and salt mixture.

QUESTION:

Could you kindly send me recipe for Oatmeal cakes. We used to make these a few years ago. I know they contained fine oatmeal, flour, salt, shortening, soda, sour milk. I cannot remember the quantities—but no sugar please.—Mrs. Wm. W.

ANSWER:

Neither of the recipes I am giving you exactly meets your requirements, but I think you could easily limit the sugar from . . .

OATMEAL BISCUITS

One and one-half cups flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder (or 3 teaspoon baking powder and 1-2 teaspoon soda), 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1 1-2 cups rare rolled oats (ground), 4 tablespoons shortening, 3-4 cup milk (if soda is used use sour milk). Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt together. Add rolled oats and milk. Mix shortening in with fingertips. Add milk slowly and mix to soft dough. Roll out on floured board to 3-4 inch thickness. Cut with biscuit cutter. Brush tops with milk and bake in quick oven of 450 deg. Fahr. for 15 or 20 minutes.

SCOTCH WAFERS

One cup fine oatmeal, 1 cup rolled oats, 2 cups flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1-4 cup butter or lard, 1-2 cup hot water. Mix dry ingredients. Melt shortening in water and add to 1st mixture. Toss on floured board, pat and roll as thinly as possible. Shape with cutter, or knife. Bake on buttered cookie sheet at 325 deg. Fahr.

If neither of these is right write again and give me more details.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

ADDRESSING LETTERS, PACKAGES AND CARDS TO MEN AND WOMEN IN SERVICE

Legibility. . . this should be your watchword as you address your Christmas letters, packages and cards to men and women in the service. Remember, be sure to remember. . . every letter and every figure in the name and address, "has a meaning all its own." Be, wise. . . write or print or type every letter and figure more carefully, most distinctly. Then . . . three cheers . . . your package or letter or card will bring the happiness you intended it to bring to the person to whom you are sending it. . . instead of, alas, bringing gloom by not being received, or by being delayed unnecessarily until after Christmas. Think of your addressing-job as one of the many, many millions that must be deciphered by the post office, which is swamped by Christmas packages.

HOW TO REPLY TO "I AM VERY PLEASED TO HAVE MET YOU"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Yesterday afternoon at a meeting of our sewing club the discussion happened to get on this question: When someone says to you, after an introduction or perhaps after a short talk together, "I am very pleased to have met you," just what should you reply? Several of us were insisted that it is enough to reply "Thank you." But to me and several others this seems rather curt, as "thank you" enough!—Reader.

No. . . "Thank you" is not enough of a reply. Let's figure out why it isn't. When you acknowledge this pleasant comment . . . "I am very pleased to have met you" . . . your acknowledgment should have two parts: (1) your "Thank you" for the gracious words; and (2) some words to show that you had pleasure in the meeting. (Otherwise, how would the other person know that you too enjoyed the meeting?)

For example: "Thank you, Mrs. Allan. I am so happy to have met you, too." "Thank you. It was a very special pleasure to meet you too, Miss Foster." And you may add if you wish, " . . . and I hope to see you again (or 'soon' or 'very soon')." Or you may even further personalize your acknowledgment by saying "Thank you, Mr. Thompson. I enjoyed so much our chat (regarding) about California. . . I hope we can continue it sometime."

DON'T CALL THE WAITRESS "MISS"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When you want to call the attention of your waitress in a restaurant, should you say "Waitress" or "Miss"?—Sally C.

"Waitress" is the word to use.

2,000 Actors, Attracted by Boom In Canadian Theatre, in Toronto

By JOHN PATERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Director Sylvio Narizzano hunched tensely forward in the big television control room, his eyes on the three tiny screens before him. He was piloting at that what one of the three cameras in studio "A" was shooting.

An assistant at his right murmured "168 is next."

The young director said, "ta-a-a-ke two," and a mobile camera creeped forward for a closeup of a young, darkly attractive girl, face twisted with emotion. She was holding a telephone in her hand as she tearfully told the Hollywood producer all the other end that she couldn't take the part.

ONE OF MANY

The camera swung away and, after 30-second part finished, Joan Blackman of Montreal went to the dressing room to change her pan-cake make-up. She is one of an estimated 2,000 actors who have converged in this city, attracted by a boom in Canadian theatre.

Joan at 20 is a veteran of three years 'in her chosen career, the professional theatre. Before coming to Toronto last March she had done considerable radio and home stage work in Montreal. She spent several summers at Brae Manor, in a stock company and Theatre.

Now there's a big flow of scripts in Toronto, mostly imported from England and Europe.

Besides the television live television shows and about 25 radio network shows each week, dining rooms, there are two professional stage companies, Jupiter Theatre and the New Play Society, producing regular shows. About 25 film companies make shorts of one kind or another, mostly industrial, commercial and TV advertising.

The actor is drawn to some extra money modelling for newspaper or magazine ads.

Joan is one of the 300 who holds a card in the Association of Canadian Radio and Television Artists (AFL). Another 1,500 are hanging around the edges, doing bit parts and working as sales clerks or truck drivers until they can get established. To hold an active card it is necessary to do six shows a year.

Miss Blackman lives in a large midtown business girls' club. She figures she can live on $25 a week. Until she gets regular work her parents are helping finance her career.

Her motto is "Something's got to give, if you keep trying hard enough."

Such newcomers have several examples of success to encourage them. One is Lorne Greene, former CBC announcer who later established his own counies for acting and producing. Greene landed parts in New York TV which led to a part in a forthcoming Broadway play in a leading role opposite Katherine Cornell.

Don Harron is another. He worked in Canada, went to England and he landed a number of good parts and toured the United States in a Christopher Fry play. He is back in London.

Meanwhile, Joan makes the rounds and with the busy season coming on should do well this winter.

PRODUCTION CURTAILED

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The introduction of new models and the attendant changes in tooling and schedules will necessitate a curtailment of operations at General Motors Diesel Limited, it was announced Wednesday. About 475 production and service employees are affected. Plans call for operating three days a week during the remainder of November, pending earlier delivery of parts and material.

Holloway Street Church W.A. Holds Scintillating Bazaar, Tea

To be met with bugs white poppies with blue centres on the entrance door, Wednesday afternoon at Holloway Street United Church Women's Auxiliary annual bazaar and tea, and on entering to see them winding around and round the large, tall pillars and ending with big bows of grey, was most appealing to the aesthetic taste. Then, too, colorful chrysanthemums bloomed in every window, and lent a pleasing color background for the platform, as did the various booths with their pretty decorations of blue and white, and here and there the additional yellow, all combining to accentuate the colors of the W.A. A tall Christmas tree, bedecked with gleaming globes, silently mentioned the fact that there were but 41 shopping days to Christmas.

RECEIVING

Receiving the guests were, Mrs. H. W. Lamman, Mrs. C. Smith, president of the Woman's Auxiliary, and Mrs. G. Outinglyn, who graciously welcomed the many patrons and friends.

After the official opening of the bazaar by the pastor, the Reverend S. E. Lamman, who, when he had commended the W.A. on its year's work, thanked the conveners on their fine display, wishing them a most profitable day, he dedicated the occasion with prayer. Following this, the assembly broke up into groups of two and threes, and singly, who wended their respective way to the attractively arranged tables, seeking some gift for a cherished friend.

LOVELY TEA TABLE

The tea table was exceedingly pretty with its lovely Scotch lace cloth-in grape design centred by a silver bowl of yellow snapdragons, white and blue tinted 'mums, and flanked with silver candelabra with blue, yellow, and blue candles, again denoting the colors of the W.A.

Those who poured were, Mrs. G. Woodley and Mrs. Gare Dobbs; Mrs. J. Twiddy and Mrs. Talbot Ketcheson, inviting to the tea room, Mrs. G. Cadler and Mrs. C. Lowther. Serving were, Mesdames J. Joblin, C. Tweedle, R. Mooney, A. Kerrulak, J. L. Yome, F. Dickens, H. Rogersburg, E. Ricketts, L. Ayers, A. Hitchon, T. E. Potts, W. Baiseman J. Cowell, W. Lee, A. Reid, D. McNevin, Miss B. Robertson, Miss Hazel Smith and Miss Helen Smith.

REPLENISHING

Replenishing were Mesdames O. White, L. Forward, A. Austin, L. Adams, C. Brethour, W. Johns, C. Dellbe, A. L. Greatrix, E. Fitzgibbon, K. Edgecombe and Miss M. Jones.

Conveners of the bazaar and assistants were Mrs. H. Outinglyn, Mrs. K. Laughlin, Mrs. M. Hick and Mrs. C. Smith.

Mrs. O. Denyes, Mrs. M. Templer, Mrs. S. Westover and Mrs. G. Meyers, acted as treasurers for the afternoon.

Those convening the kitchen included Mrs. C. C. Holmes, and Mrs. E. Bush, assisted by Mesdames A. Bartlet, H. Quinney, W. Oliphant, F. Bayfield, M. Hick, C. Gibson, H. Reed, Casey, G. Sayers, L. Reid and V. Lough.

TINY TOT NURSERY

The nursery where the tiny tots might enjoy themselves during the tea, was under the direction of Mrs. H. Armstrong, and the tea room under that of Mrs. A. Campbell and Mrs. H. Townsend.

The doll and dolls' clothes booth, convened by Mrs. D. Richardson, with Mrs. C. Waxmanaker as co-convener displayed a variety of dolls some like little Red Ridinghood, and others in ballerina skirts made of crochet in red wool, while also there were many little dresses, both plain and fancy; a woolly dog in green, no doubt an Irish terrier; bunting bags, organdy party dresses, and washcloth dogs.

PRETTY APRONS

The aprons were of pretty prints, green checks bound in red, yellow backgrounds with Paisley pattern, pink backgrounds with chrysanthemum designs; half aprons, all-over aprons; yellow and green tea-pot designs; pink aprons sporting pot-holders attached; and dainty prints in white background with tiny blue roses scattered about. These were conveyed by Mrs. R. C. Andrews, assisted by Mrs. W. J. Symons, Mrs. W. Joe, Mrs. J. Pearson, Mrs. C. Vader and Mrs. A. Smith.

The booth of plain sewing was a mis-nomer, as nearly every article was accorded either by fancy embroidery, or lace-edged, and those which were 'plain' were neat and beautifully executed. Mrs. T. Taylor was the convener, and Mrs. D. Cook and Mrs. T. A. Tucker, the assistants. The articles displayed embroidered pillow slips, crocheted edged terry towels, dainty lacey doilies, some round, other oblong, saying, "Bread" in the centre, with knot-stitch edgings; tray cloths, tea towels, pot-holders in crochet and in cretonne.

KNIT GOODS

The knit good booth, under the convenership of Mrs. F. Simpson, assisted by Mrs. A. Burrows and Mrs. W. Towsen, displayed some lovely baby articles, pretty bootees in pink, white and blue, little mitts in red, grey, blue; cardigans, knitted feather-bone in heather mixture scarf; a quantity of socks in various shades, and a lovely yellow knit sweater with matching sockets.

The jewellery and stuffed animal booth was quite a drawing card with its display of costume jewellery, and various oddments; brooches, earrings, pictures, plastic dual egg-cups, crocheted holder in turtle shape for soap, and little plants, cacti, and others. This was convened by the C.G.I.T. group under Nancy Oliphant and Sandra Outinglyx.

HIGHLIGHTS

In the alcove off the main assembly room were the two highlights of the bazaar, the home-cooking table and that of the delicatessen. On the homecooking table, were cakes, cookies, chocolate and cherry cakes decorated with silver and minced nutmeats; cherry-topped layer cakes; rice cripples, pumpkin and apple and raspberry pies, luscious looking; jam-jams, date breads and raisin doffed berries. Mrs. A. McMillan convened, assisted Mrs. F. Scott, Mrs. F. Moore, Mrs. B. McMurray, Mrs. C. Harrison, Mrs. T. McMullen and Mrs. T. Ketcheson.

The delicatessen table, a new innovation had prepared pineapple jelly, so deliciously tempting, salad plates containing potato salad, cold meat, jelly, macaroni loaf; vegetable jellies, baked apples, tinned soups and honey, as well as mint jelly to mix with that roast leg of lamb. Mrs. Fred Wilson was the convener here, with Mrs. K. Hanna, Mrs. R. Robertson, Mrs. W. C. Potter, Mrs. E. Liddle and Mrs. R. Morgan, as co-workers.

The candy booth had a fine assortment of sweetie-pie including maple creams with cherry tops; fairy-like meringues, nut fudge, divinity fudge, all nicely packaged in little green baskets, and in Christmas colored cups. Hanging high above these was a huge, artificial Christmas cane, without which no Christmas would seem perfect. Of these toothsome confections, Miss Dorothy Craighead was convener, assisted by Mrs. H. Fraser, Miss R. Hanley and Mrs. F. Elgie.

Last, but not least, was the tall and stately Christmas tree, gleaming with silver tinsel, and with luminous globes in blues and greens, and gold. Here, were various parcels, of various sizes, containing unknown articles. These were for sale, and the conveners were Mrs. B. Moorman assisted by Mrs. C. Fredericks and Mrs. Mildred.

Much credit goes to the conveners, and to Miss L. Muldoon for the decorations, also to all who assisted in this outstanding event.

HELEN KELLER "SEES" THE PRESIDENT

Helen Keller, 73-year-old humanist who has been blind and deaf since birth, is shown as she "saw" President Eisenhower for the first time during a visit to the White House. Miss Keller asked if she might run her fingers over the president's face to get a better impression of him. The president smilingly consented. Said Miss Keller: "I felt a fine face. I felt courage and thought that carried him through such great years in the world's history." Mr. Eisenhower was the tenth president Miss Keller has met during her long and colorful career. Thimayya Warns Communists To Speed PoW Interviews Or He May 'Throw Up Hands'

By JOHN RANDOLPH

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Indian chief of the Korean war-prisoner commission indirectly—but pointedly—warned the Communists today to speed up their dragging interviews with antifled PoWs or "I may have to throw up my hands."

The warning by Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya came as the Reds appeared ready to call the whole program quits.

Thimayya indicated he may use Indian troops to conduct the interviews if the present tortuesig procedure breaks down.

He called the recent dragged-out interviews with anti-Red prisoners "inhuman," and added: "I can't stand any longer to go into the heats and sit in it myself. As long as India is responsible I cannot permit this to grow."

He spoke after a last-minute Communist demand resulted in cancellation of the day's scheduled explanations.

NEAR COMPLAINTS

Earlier Thimayya had visited the camp holding the 22 Americans and one Briton who have refused repatriation to the United Nations side, and he reported the 23 had held the Indian commission for more than four hours to hear complaints against the UN Command and the Indian custodial force.

The Allied PoWs handed Thimayya a long, typewritten protest denouncing delivery of mail, newspapers and magazines from the United States which the PoWs considered counter-propaganda to "intimidate, slander, coerce and bribe" them to come home.

The protests were signed by an American who appeared to have written his name Richard Cordon; the British prisoner, Andrew M. Condron, and a South Korean.

The main demand, Thimayya said, was that the neutral nations repatriation commission "send such mail" to filter out all material urging them to return.

"I asked them what we should do in the case of a letter from a man's wife who writes 'o, darling, please come home to me' and they seemed a little unclear on that point," said Thimayya.

"We may work out some arrangement to read off the names and addresses and let them pick out the letters they want."

The prisoners complained they had received a lot of "stereotyped letters" from people they did not know.

PROPAGANDA LOSS

In his warning statement, Thimayya did not name the Communists, but there was no question whom he meant.

The Red interviews have dragged from the start. Almost half way through the set 90-day period, they have talked to only 2,038 of the 22,400 Chinese and Korean PoWs.

Only 61 of the anti-Red PoWs interviewed have consented to return home, a propaganda loss galling to the Reds that it has caused increasing speculation that they will quit the talks in an uproar to stop it.

Thimayya had down a sharp condition for continuing the interviews indefinitely and handle a pound of 500 prisoners a day beginning Monday or agree to forget those who don't meet the Red explainers.

Meanwhile, Allied and Communist diplomats today handed a team of staff advisers the tough job of ironing out disputes which have stalled efforts to arrange a Korean peace conference.

U. S. envoy Arthur Dean and top Red negotiators have recessed indefinitely while their aides try informally and probably in secret to break the deadlock.

India Is Staking Her Prestige On Mission in Korea

By HAROLD K. MILES

NEW DELHI (AP)—India, staking its international prestige on the success of its mission in Korea, shows no sign of budging from its official idea of neutrality despite the recent Communist harrassment of its prisoner-guardian forces.

A survey of informed opinion here there also that the Communist failure to win more than a handful of repatriates in two weeks of explanations has not seriously shaken the official Indian belief that most of the prisoners would elect to return home if given a free choice.

Officials who will discuss the situation still contend that threats of violence by South Koreans and UN "agents" within the prison compounds, and pro-armistice shooting, are halting the flow of ex-Communist troops back to the northern line.

Indian officials still are convinced the bulk of these prisoners have no political loyalty, therefore the question of pro-Communist or anti-Communist does not arise.

WANT TO ESCAPE ARMY

They are supported in this belief by the newspaper Times of India, which said in an editorial:

"The mass of illiterate, ignorant peasants are concerned only that they escape military service, which they obviously have no chance of doing if they are sent back to North Korea. To suggest that these prisoners choosing to go to South Korea—and so far they are in the majority — have objectively surveyed and assessed the merits and attractions of democracy and Communism before making a choice is to idealize what is in reality a situation that is distasteful, irksome and unnecessary."

Officials here feel they have staked India's international position and reputation on the success of its Korean mission. Their anxiety that the mission succeed and bring added prestige to the young republic is overshadowing all other thoughts.

Republicans Real Test Will Come in 1954

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Eisenhower endorsed all Republican candidates in last Tuesday's United States elections, some political experts said the results would show how the voters feel about his administration.

The results, mostly victories for the Democrats, probably showed no such thing although Democrats cheered and some Republicans moaned. The real test for the administration will come in the 1954 elections for control of Congress.

To suggest Eisenhower was the issue in Tuesday's elections is to ignore three main points: The kind of endorsement he gave his party's candidates; voters' independent judment, and local political issues, including scandals.

Eisenhower backed his party's candidates but generally. A voter could not be expected to close his eyes to issues and the character and promises of the candidates and vote Republican simply because Eisenhower said he wanted Republicans elected.

The election results, which certainly jolted the Republicans, may benefit the United States as a whole. Fear of the same treatment in next year's congressional elections may spur the Republicans into more activity in Congress and more leadership in the administration.

Prisoner Says Soldiers Not Mentally Equipped

CHICAGO (AP)—An Associated Press photographer held prisoner for 33 months in North Korea said Thursday that the United States did nothing to educate its troops to withstand Communist mental or physical pressure.

Frank (Fapp) Noel, 43, who was captured early in the Korean war, said U.S. soldiers acted by the Reds during the first 18 months of fighting were "babes in the woods."

"They were not mentally equipped or fortified in any way as how to take care of themselves against this intense indoctrination that was poured on day after day and hour after hour," he added.

For this reason, Noel said, he is "very proud" that only 22 Americans elected to stay with the Communists.

Noel and two other Associated Press staff men who spent years behind the Iron Curtain—William N. Oatis and Eddy Gilmore—related their experiences at the annual meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

BROADCASTS EFFECTIVE

Oatis, 39, who was released earlier this year after spending more than two years in prison in Czechoslovakia, said many persons in Prague "live by" the Voice of America broadcasts. He said he thought these broadcasts had real effect.

But he added that he had the impression more Czechs are sympathetic to the Communist regime than many people in the United States realize.

Gilmore, 43, chief of the AP bureau in Moscow for 11 years, said he believes Russia has 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 troops under arms, excluding police forces, but added that Americans tend to overestimate Soviet strength.

Gilmore, who was permitted to take his Russian-born wife and children from behind the Iron Curtain this year, said the Soviet government is weak, but that the Russian leader is bluffing while playing for time to consolidate his position.

Fund Approves $100,000 Grant

TORONTO (CP)—James S. Duncan, Ontario director of the Canadian Disaster Relief Fund, announced Thursday the fund has approved a $100,000 grant to aid in damage last May.

The grant will be given to local tornado fund committees after taking into consideration the funds which have been raised through public subscription and mer-ci grants from municipalities and the province of Ontario.

The fund was set up to administer the residue of the money subscribed for relief in the wake of the Winnipeg flood, amounting to $1,485,331, and any additional funds that may be made available for disaster relief.

RECORD FREIGHTER

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—A new freighter being built at Port Weller for Colonial Steamships Limited will be 684 feet long and will have the greatest carrying capacity of any ship in the Canadian Great Lakes fleet, Capt. R. Scott Misener, Colonial president, said on Sunday. It is expected to carry 800,000 bushels of grain.

IVANHOE

Beulah United Church Holds Anniversary Services

IVANHOE—Anniversary services were held in Beulah United Church, Ivanhoe, on Sunday were largely attended both morning and evening.

The services were conducted by Rev. John E. Glover B.A., of Marmora, who delivered inspiring and thought provoking messages.

At the morning worship the subject of his discourse was "The Peril of Listening in" Matthew 3 16-27:

"Jesus warns against the peril of being a mere listener. His emphasis is upon doing. No sermon is complete until the truth has been incorporated into life. A strong character is largely the result of right habits established by action upon right impulses and principles.

"Listening in at life is perilous because it may easily become an unconscious attempt to separate ourselves from life. When a person indulges constantly in sentimentalism a sense of futility overtakes him, The wise and happy soul is the one who lives out the truth he perceives. The abiding truths of life are livable.

EVENING SERVICE

TWO ASPECTS OF LIFE

At the evening service the guest minister based his message on Galatians 6:2-5. These texts seem contradictory but in reality they refer to two aspects of human life and character—personal commitment to God and one's duties towards one's fellowmen—the God-ward and Man-ward sides of life.

"The solitary side, the side where and life touches God, no one can carry for us. Our personal witness for Jesus Christ and our service for Him, we can delegate to no one. Everyone, too, must bear his burden of personal account ability to God.

"But there are burdens we can share with others. We can sympathize with others as they stumble and fall, and when they are in sorrow and affliction, we can share the burden of need.

SPECIAL MUSIC

Special music under the direction of Mrs. Stanley Frost included at the morning worship, Anthem by the choir "Ring Out the Sweet Message"; solo, "I Know I shall not Pass Again This Way."

Evening, anthem by the choir, "I Come to Thee"; duet taken by Mrs. G. McInroy, Mrs. George Wood; solo, "Wonderful Rest" Mrs. Milton Shaw.

UNITED CHURCH M.B.

The United Church Mission Band met recently in the new hall and opened with choruses. The children all repeated the 23rd Psalm and then had more choruses. The children played games and had refreshments, as this was their Hallowe'en party. Next meeting will be on Monday, Nov. 7.

3-M CLUB

The monthly meeting of the 3-M Club was held in the United Church Lower Lecture Hall on Monday. Mr. Eugene Lohnes presided over the meeting, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Claude Morgan. Rev. Mr. Clarke was the speaker for the evening.

The rest of the meeting was taken over by the Vosborough Group. A work night was planned for to finish the floor in the new hall. Election of officers takes place next month. Refreshments were served by the Vosborough group.

SHANNONVILLE

H-S Assoc. Holds Children's Hallowe'en Party

SHANNONVILLE—The Shannonville Home and School Association gave the children their expected Hallowe'en party on Friday evening.

Over 100 children and adults attended in costumes of everything imaginable: little brides, Barbara Ann Scott, old-fashioned ladies and tramps of no end made up the gay parade around the school room.

Prizes were awarded as follows:

First prize to Mrs. Percy Howard for best dressed, and to Mrs. Douglas Doyle for the funniest. Senior girls' first, Rena Patherick; senior girls' funniest, Linda Marion; junior boys' best, Richie Cook; junior funniest, Donald Defoe; junior girls' first, Sandra Reid; junior girls' funniest, Teresa Barkerlick.

Pre-school tots, girls, first, Carolyn Howard; funniest, Sandra Louis.

Pre-school boys, first, Andy Sword; funniest, Kirk Reid.

The children and adults then enjoyed a lovely treat of cookies, cakes, apples, candy, peanuts and coke.

A big "thank-you" goes to Mrs. W. Stewart and Mrs. M. Lillie, who acted as judges as well as the ones who made all the games possible. The games were supplied by Mrs. Carl Fuller and helpers.

An executive meeting will be called soon and the next euchre will be Friday evening.

BUSINESS MEETING

At the first meeting of the season held recently, vice-president, Mrs. Kilburn, took the chair in absence of the president. It was decided to have two euchres in each month. Plans were also made for the Hallowe'en party. The committee picked Mrs. Fred Lewis for buying candies and apples.

Mrs. William Conley was appointed secretary. Mrs. C. Hill, for sick convener, reported she had sent out four sick and get-well cards.

Mrs. Percy Howard and Mrs. Fred Lewis were appointed buyers for the euchres.

The treasurer gave his report, showing a substantial balance on hand. It was decided that executive members for the meeting programs for each month be appointed.

Social convenors for the season are as follows: November, Mrs. Kilburn; December, Mrs. Spencer; January, Mrs. Lewis; February, Mrs. Hill; March, Mrs. Howard; April, Mrs. Stewart; May, Mrs. Johnston; June, Mrs. Conley.

An executive meeting will be held in the near future to make arrangements for the bazaar and to appoint a committee.

4TH SIDNEY

4TH SIDNEY—Those who attended the travelogue in Stone Church hall on Wednesday evening enjoyed an interesting program.

Mrs. E. E. Folwell of Belleville showed pictures and told of her recent trip to the Coronation and European countries.

Miss Helen Sulman delighted the audience with several readings.

Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Messrs. Jack Vermilyea and Ivan Phillips spent a few days in Ottawa last week where they attended the 4-H Club day at the Ottawa Winter Fair. The boys exhibited the Holstein calves; Jack was placed in the first group and Ivan came in the third group. The boys, accompanied by L. Cummings placed second in the county competitions.

Rev. R. McCleary Will Be Speaker At Stirling Church

Major, the Reverend Ray McCleary, M.B.E., B.A., B.D., a World War II chaplain and chairman of the Toronto East Presbytery, will be the guest speaker at a special Remembrance Day service being held November 11th in St. Paul's United Church, Stirling.

Rev. McCleary is founder of the Woodgreen Community Centre and pastor of Woodgreen United Church, Toronto.

Members of the Canadian Legion, the O.C., R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, and many ex-service personnel are expected to attend.

A feature of the service will be the playing of the lament, "The Flowers of the Forest" by Piper Reay MacKay, a first form student at Oakwood Collegiate, Toronto. Piper MacKay played for the Queen at the Braemore Games in Scotland last year. He will be in highland dress.

Attends Concert

Queen Elizabeth, wearing a crinoline-type evening gown with the ribbon of the Order of the Garter, attends a special concert given by Australian and New Zealand artists at the Royal Festival Hall in London. The concert was a farewell gesture to the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh (second from right) before their departure on the commonwealth tour. — (CP from U.K. Information.)

Little Benny's Note Book

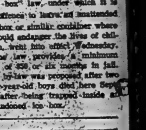
I was talking and arguing with Pudd Simkins, and he said, Oh boy, talk about green with envy. Messed-up Reddy Merry starting to come up, the street in a new Hawayan shirt with great big green flowers all over it, and I said, Oh boy, I got an idea. Let's kid him about it, and pretend we think it's great at the same time, so then he won't have any excuse to get mad, I said.

Oh boy, Pudd said, and just then Reddy started to go past, and I said, O, Reddy, that's a swell shirt, it would make a lot of grass jellies, it's such a good imitation.

Oh yeah? Reddy said, and Pudd said, Sure, Reddy, it's a perfect imitation. If I was a little more near sighted I bet I'd be looking for a 6 foot clover rite now, he said.

Say, if you guys got any objection to this shirt, just say so, Reddy said, and I said, G, we think it's grate. It's such a natural green, the cows would take bits at it if you were in the country, I said.

Say, Reddy, if you were laying on the sidewalk you'd need a size on yo uto keep the kids off the grass, Pudd said. Gosh, we like the shirt, he said, and Reddy said, I'll stop taking it and mind your own bizness with your mouths shut.



With we did and he kept on going, Pudd saying, Heck, what he needs is a size saying Wet Paint, and me, saying, He needs a size saying Poison Ivory.

Roving you cant stop freedom of speetch, especially when nobody is listening.

KEE BOX LAW IN FORCE

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The city's "kee - box" law, under which it is an offence to leave an unattended ice box or similar container where it could endanger the lives of children, went into effect Wednesday.

The law, providing a minimum fine of $25 or six months in jail. The by-law was proposed after two four-year-old boys died here Sept. 30 after being trapped inside a abandoned ice box.

Longest Covered Bridge

This is the longest covered bridge in the world. The 1,282-foot span crosses the St. John river at Hartland, N.B., one of 10,000 bridges in the province, 300 of which are covered with wooden structures. Five of Canada's provinces have covered wooden bridges still in use. — (CP Photo.)

N.B. Still Builds One or Two Covered Bridges in a Year

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Steel and concrete haven't entirely replaced wood in bridge construction.

New Brunswick still builds one or two covered bridges a year, though it is the only province to do so.

Five of Canada's provinces have covered wooden bridges in use today but only in New Brunswick and Quebec are there lots of them. Each has more than 200.

In New Brunswick lumber is plentiful for bridge-building though in some cases, for long bridges, British Columbia Douglas fir is imported.

LASTS MANY YEARS

An ordinary wooden bridge, without cover, lasts from 10 to 15 years, a covered bridge about 30. Both, of course, are much cheaper to build than a steel-and-concrete structure. The roof of the covered bridge protects the floor from the weather.

In winter, many farmers need no grouse about the bare floors but in some cases contracts were awarded annually for "mowing" the floor for sleighs.

The covered bridge across the St. John river at Hartland, N.B., is the longest in the world, nearly 1,200 feet. Its nearest rival is a 1,063-foot bridge nearby. There is a 1,000-foot span at Cap Chat, Que.

The Hartland bridge carries traffic on route 2, part of the trans-Canada highway, some 90 miles above Fredericton. The original bridge, built in 1897, had no roof but it was replaced in 1920 by the present covered span. It also has a separate covered footwalk, built in 1943.

However, Hartland residents have no sentiment for the longest covered bridge in the world. In a recent local improvement poll conducted by the Hartland Board of Trade, most residents asked that the bridge be removed as a traffic hazard and replaced by something more modern.

OLD QUEBEC BRIDGES

One of Quebec's oldest covered bridges, built in 1861 at Powerscourt over the Chateauguay river, is unique in that it has a curved roof. Another old Quebec bridge spans the Coulange river at Fort Coulonge some 30 miles northwest of Ottawa. It was erected in 1885.

Only two covered bridges remain in Nova Scotia, though scores were in use a few decades ago. The two are the Upper Kennetcook in Hants county and the Weeks bridge crossing East River St. Mary's near Aspen in Guysboro county. The former was built in 1871; the latter is some 70 years old. The Horton bridge near Wolfville, built in 1878, is a combination of ancient and modern. A few years ago, the wooden beams supporting the floor were replaced by steel girders but the bridge is otherwise unchanged. It is only one covered bridge left in Ontario. It crosses the Grand river at West Montrose in Woolwich township and was built in 1881 by John and Sam Bear.

There are no covered bridges in Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. There are none on highways in British Columbia, but there is a covered timber railway bridge over the Skaneen river near Ashcola on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

Canadiens Rally To Overcome Rangers Lead; Boston Whips Hawks 4-2

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

LUCK FELLA!

Don Barclay apparently is the "hard-luck" guy of the Stanley cup series. Injuries received in hockey practice is responsible. The other night in practice with the Maroons the "Turk" suffered a facial gash that necessitated at least seven stitches.

Barclay, it will be remembered, suffered severe injuries to his upper jaw a season or two ago while practicing with the Leafs "B" squad. He went around for some time with his jaw wired, but it did not in the least make the youngster puck shy.

As a matter of fact, it memory serves us correctly, the "Turk" came up with the best season of his career between the pipes.

A short time previous to Barclay's jaw injury, Bobby Orr even suffered abused the same type of hurt. He, too, had his jaw fractured and was forced to talk through clenched teeth for a lengthy period of time.

Meantime the Canoes are drilling hard for that all-important game with the Oshawa Truckmen here tomorrow night. The Motor City crew have won all three of their starts, the last by an impressive 10-3 score over the Orillia Terriers. They have defeated Kingston and Peterborough in their stride and are not the least bit averse to adding a Belleville scalp to their growing collection. They "powder-puffed" last year, Gerry Smith, George Sanzalone and Ted Willess, are still a powerful scoring threat but to the contrary that goal-tending thrasher has been stolen by Frank Bonnell. The Maitland Mauler is the property of the Montreal type the group's point-getters with three goals and four assists while Holden has two goals and four helpers.

However, Coach "Red" Doran and the Maroons are not the least bothered about the Oshawa contingent to-date. They have to hustle and if it is humanly possible the Maroons will go out there tomorrow night and turn the trick.

Doran is sending his attacking lines through stiff practice workouts in an effort to perfect goal-getting plays, and he is also concentrating on defensive methods which should result in better work around the nets. Fandom will get its first glimpse of the Maroons new goalie, twenty-year-old Ralph Bevard, when the teams go into action tomorrow evening.

TENTION PEE-WEES, BANTAMS

All peewee hockey players registered or otherwise are requested to be at Memorial Arena at eight o'clock tomorrow morning, for the purpose of team selection. Do not bring your skates or equipment. Those not already registered can do so tomorrow morning.

The same applies to bantam players who are asked to be on hand at ten o'clock. Remember, no skates or equipment.

If you cannot believe what is put placed with a team, better be on hand at the appointed times.

ASKETBALL CLINIC!

The physical department of the YMCA, in conjunction with the Ontario Amateur Basketball Association, is conducting a basketball officials' clinic on Saturday starting at approximately 10 a.m. and running through to 3 p.m.

Two of Toronto's outstanding leaders in basketball will be in charge of the clinic. They are Stan Mackford, eastern zone secretary of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association and Jack Reid, first vice-president of the Toronto and District Basketball Association who is also in charge of all Toronto city playground basketball. Both are active referees and have officiated numerous clinics of this type.

The clinic is open to any one interested in the promotion of basketball. - High schools and other institutions which have basketball in their program should be particularly interested. Potential referees and players who are called to officiate in inter-house games, referees of inter-school games should not miss this opportunity. Official referees, too, will find the course a refresher as there will be a great deal of interpretation and clarifying the new 1953-54 rules.

The "Y" House Basketball League for members 15 to 18 years of age gets under way Tuesday, November 10 at 7.30 p.m. Two games will be played every Tuesday evening. To the champions will go the Men's Trophy and crests which will be presented at a post-season banquet.

ELCOME, PAL!

They always come back. For the past few years we thought Harry Moore, former publisher of the Trenton Courier Advocate, had the printer's ink jinx broken. Eight years ago he reluctantly turned his back on the field of journalism, but even the virus of retirement could not offset the potency of the "ink" that had flowed in his veins for many a year.

Yep, "Uncle Hy" is back in the newspaper field. 71 years of age and in the "stink," Harry will write editorial comments, sports and features for the Kenneville Leader, an up-and-coming weekly 23 miles out of Harry's home town of Frankford.

Not that the sportsman, writer, author has lost touch with the writing game, for he has turned out no less than four book-length novels since he "moth-balled" the newspaper typewriter. And you can bet that his prolific pen will be kept busy one time or pungency. Harry will swing back into harness like a cutting-age Dobbin, but with a lot more wim and vigor.

So from here in the good burghers of Kenneville will get some colorful readins, no matter what time the versatile Harry chooses.

And in between knocking off columns of editorial matter, sports and special features, Harry will take time out to look after his baseball interests. He is the president of the Ottawa Valley Baseball Association.

More power to his "Underwood."

'Rocket' Blasts Home Winner After Habs Cut 3-1 Deficit; Bruins Lose Veteran Schmidt

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Like many a good man before him, Johnny Bower is learning that life in the New York nets is a goaltender's nightmare.

The Rangers, on their good nights, can scare the daylights out of most powerful National Hockey League opponents. Fast-breaking opportunists, they like to strike for goals while the other team is still concentrating on an offensive of its own.

When it works, it's wonderful stuff. Whether it works or not, it's hard on your goalkeeper.

When the Rangers dropped a 4-3 verdict to Montreal Canadiens Thursday night, it left Bower with 26 goals scored against him in 11 starts, the heaviest yield in the NHL. Yet he stopped 40 shots in Montreal while the Canadiens' Gerry McNeil kicked out only 19.

TWO SCORE

A couple of quick goals gave the Rangers a 3-1 lead at the end of the second period but the league leaders kept up their fire on the 28-year-old rookie from Prince Albert, Sask., and finally whittled the margin.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard finally caromed the winning goal—No. 1 of the season—off Gerry Cheevers' chest Bill Gadsby shoveled and Bernie Geoffrion had tied the score.

Geoffrion also scored the first Montreal goal in the opening period.

Ry Bulley, Wally Hergesheimer and Max Bentley were the Rangers' markmen.

The defeat left the Rangers in a fifth-place tie with Chicago Black Hawks, who lost their second game in as many nights as Boston Bruins defeated them 4-2.

NINE GAMES

Eddie Sandford top scorer of last year's Stanley Cup playoffs, found his scoring eye for the first time this season as he tallied twice for the winners after nine games without a goal. Real Chevrefils and Jim Kinkay also counted for Boston while Jim Peters and Bill Gadsby accounted for the Chicago goals.

The victory moved the Bruins into a third-place tie with Toronto Maple Leafs, one point behind Detroit Red Wings and five back of the race-setting Canadiens.

Boston's victory Thursday night cost them the services of Milt Schmidt, their veteran captain and playing coach. The Kenmill centre retired with a strained knee ligament in the first period.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Head coach Frank Leahy returned to Notre Dame's football helm Thursday after an absence of 23 days because of illness. Four Runaways Feature Yonkers Harness Race

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—For the first time in Yonkers Raceway's four-year history only three horses finished in an eight-entry field Thursday night as a result of a six-horse mixup.

The accident also involved four runaways, including one which jumped the rail and raced around the infield for several minutes until captured by track attendants. None of the horses or drivers was injured.

The race, the featured Cold Spring Pace, was won by Merle Hoge, followed by Bernard Hanover and Tyler Hanover. The latter was handled by Bill Haughton, who was thrown from the sulky in the mixup and quickly remounted. The winner clocked in 2:02.3, paid $18.

FILE UP ON FAR TURN

The accident occurred on the far turn the first time around when True Kitty, taking the lead with Bill Hudson, fell down, causing the others to pile up. The six-year-old mare turned around, dashed to the backstretch, and then leaped over the rail into the infield. The other four horses, which ran around the track without their drivers and did not finish, were Mighty Boy, White Mountain Boy, Casanova and Water McKlyn.

Since only three horses finished, fourth and fifth purse money was given to the victor, increasing his purse of $2,000 by $400 and $200.

Official Nod Given Fight

QUEBEC (CP)—The Canadian Boxing Federation has sanctioned a bout for the Canadian lightheavyweight title between defending champion Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, Que., and Gene Harper of Edmonton, it was announced Thursday by national commissioner Frank Sullivan.

The 15-round bout will be held sometime this month or in January.

Letourneau said a special clause has been inserted in the contract providing that if Harper wins the title he will have to defend it "within 90 days against any leading contender named by the federation."

He said the same clause could not apply to Durelle, since the champion has already defended his title successfully against Gord Wallace of Brantford and was forced by his second defence well within the prescribed period of six months.

Frontenacs Take Hockey Case To Courts

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Amateur Hockey Association will appear in court today following a request by Quebec Frontenacs for an injunction attempting to prevent the QAHA from suspending the club for using a player.

The Frontenacs and Quebec Citadelles both claim 18-year-old goalie Jacques Marcotte.

Marcotte signed this season with the Frontenacs, a new entry in the Quebec Junior Hockey League, with approval of the QAHA. Last season he played with the Citadelles, owned by the QAHA and now playing in the junior division of the Quebec Hockey Association, with QAHA approval.

The Citadelles took the matter up with the CAHA, which last week ruled in their favor. In turn, president Albert Marcotte Carew of the QAHA notified the Frontenacs that if they used Marcotte they would be in defiance of the CAHA ruling," the club would be suspended.

The Frontenacs defied both governing bodies by using Marcotte in a game with Montreal Canadiens Wednesday night.

Former Leaf Gets Job With White Sox

CHICAGO (CP)—Bob Boyd, former first baseman and outfielder for Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League, will be used as an alternate on first base with Chicago White Sox next season.

Manager Paul Richards said Thursday Boyd and Conny Ryan will replace first baseman Ferris Fain, winner of the 1951 and 1953 American League batting titles, who moves to left field.

Boyd left the Maple Leafs during the early stages of last season for Chicago.

St. Mike's Down BCI Juniors In Close Game

By PETER UPTER

St. Michael's senior COSSA entity downed the Collegiate juniors 8-4 at B.C.I. Wednesday evening in a closely fought tilt.

B.C.I. drew first blood three minutes after the first whistle with a rouge kicked by Jack Jones. From there on in it was St. Mike's game.

At the end of the first quarter St. Mike's tied it up with a single point kicked by Fox. Jones fumbled for B.C.I. on the first play after a singleton and St. Mikes recovered. On three running plays they pushed the ball over for a T.D. The convert attempt was blocked and the score stood at 6-1.

Late in the fourth quarter St. Mike's again scored on a safety touch to make the score 8-1, which turned out to be the margin of victory.

Stan Jackson played a beautiful offensive game for the juniors after being out with an injury in the last game.

B.C.I. fumbled three times inside the hands of an alert St. Mike's defence. These three fumbles were directly responsible for the St. Mike's scores.

Wayne Fox was the star for St. Mikes, passing and running. St. Dennis did the kicking for the winners and stood the Collegiate on their ears with some of his kicks.

It was the last game of the schedule for the Collegiate juniors. They take to Oshawa on Saturday for a sudden death, first round COSSA junior "A" championship.

Split-T Or Not Split-T, That Is The Question Bothering Coaches, Fans

ecret Practices, Skull Meets eynote East, West Football; rgonauts Must 'Do Or Die'

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

ecret practices, skull sessions and keynote speech highlight conference football tomorrow as Eastern and Western Canada football fortunes blended with the all-the-somewhat-altered theme, "Do or Die."

This is just another of those trite "crucial" week-ends in the football season, with playoff implications in two leagues—the Western Conference race in the Canadian Football Union—and what the fans may come to know as "key" games in the Big Four and Intercollegiate.

In the west, the split-T Edmonton Eskimos, with a 12-4 won-lost record over the 16-game schedule, get back into action Saturday night after a two-week layoff in the first game of the WIFU playoffs.

The WIFU final against Winnipeg Blue Bombers is scheduled for the finals with a 60-23 trimming over Saskatchewan Rough Riders in their home-and-home, two-point semi-finals.

Both clubs have been practising and locked doors every night after a solid week of drills at Commonwealth Stadium is expected.

SELL-OUT CROWD

In the east, another sell-out crowd is looked for at Ottawa Saturday when the Rough Riders host Toronto Argonauts, eighth-place Big Four champions who have to win to maintain their chance of ever getting into the Big Four playoffs.

Ties to Argonauts definitely will put them on the sidelines on Sunday, league-leading Hamilton Tiger-Cats and the Alouettes at Montreal. Victory for Argonauts would narrow them of Big Four playoff berth.

Hamilton Imperials and Toronto Argonauts have been playing a total-point ORFU semi-final, with the second game set for Saturday and the second Toronto Sunday. The winner of the series meets Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen for the right to play host and meet the WIFU champion in the Nov. 21 Grey Cup final.

The Intercollegiate union brings together Western Ontario Mustangs, defending champions, and University of Toronto Blues at London and Queen's Golden Gaels at McMaster Marauders. The Mustangs clobbered Blues in their two outings over the runner-up.

The split-T formation, made famous in Canada this year by Coach Lloyd Royal of Edmonton Eskimos, with unexpected forces in the east last November when Royal used it for 60 minutes to help Argonauts beat Toronto Balmy Beach Beachers in the east finals—then the split-T has been the subject of conversation in football circles.

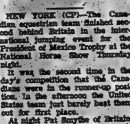
Coach Clem Crowe of the Riders is angry about whether he'll use the formation against Argonauts this week-end. Coach Frank Clair of Argonauts, probably the most surprised person at Tuesday's practice session last week when the Riders' split-T was revealed, will ask whether he should meet it.

The split-T has hit the college ranks. Coach Johnny Metras of Mustangs said his club would meet it against the Blues, but it will be different than the Edmonton Eskimo-Ottawa Rough Riders version. "We have made it few times in bed but I'll tell the rest," Metras said.

The quarter runs along the line of scrimmage takes the option of running through himself. I don't like to take chances on losing it."

addy Young eets Giulani

NEW YORK (AP)—Paddy Young (right) by Bobo Olson for the vacant middleweight boxing title on June, opens a new drive tonight against Sammy Giuliani of Hartford, Conn.



The 10-round bout will be broadcast and televised.

Giuliani, a 4-to-1 underdog, has a 28-11-1 record in 39 pro fights. The 31-year-old boxer has won four of five this year, losing only to Young on a 10th-round technical knockout at Detroit in April. Young, St. Joseph native in 1953, scored victory over Ernie Durando in a 10-round decision this year. He defeated Durando in a 15-round decision bout in March to earn his title shot. Young, then he lost to Olson on a unanimous decision.

KEEP FINISHERS TRAINING

SUMMIT, N.J. (AP) — Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan Thursday completed his eastern training chores for his title defense against Johnny Bratton in Chicago Nov. 21.

Gavilan will wind up his training at Hot Springs, Ark.

ROLLY SARAULT

Former Ottawa Junior "A" goalie Rolly Sarault will be a Canadian Rider tomorrow night when the Senior "B" team clashes with the powerful Ottawa Trucktown. Rolly was sub-goalie for the Ottawa Senators for the past two years. He is twenty years of age and comes highly recommended.

Admit Giving Injections To Race Horses

NEW YORK (AP) — A leading harness trainer-driver and his assistant admitted Thursday they had given hypodermic injections to three horses before races this year but said they didn't know it was against the rules.

The trainer, Wayne (Curly) Scott, who was the sport's leading driver in 1952, and the assistant, Carl Lauzon, both of Delaware, O., "appeared before the New York state harness racing commission to answer charges of using the needle.

There was no verdict.

The pair had been suspended by the commission Sept. 29 following a similar action by the Michigan commission.

Canadian Riders Finish Second At Horse Show

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian equestrian team finished second behind Britain in the international jumping event for the President of Mexico Trophy at the National Horse Show Thursday night.

It was the second time in the forty competition that the Canadians were in the runner-up position. In the afternoon the British team had just barely beat them out for first place.

At night Pat Smythe of Britain, the only woman to compete in the evening performance, rode her mount Flanagan to 32 faultless rounds—Price had to jump twice around the difficult night course—to post a total of four and 15 faults to win the top honor.

Lt.-Col. Charles Baker of Toronto first appeared in the arena on Starlift and Lucinda Green of Britain over every jump except the difficult double-bar sixth. That gave him four faults. However, on the second time around on Anchors Aweigh Baker had more trouble controlling the bay gelding. He knocked down the sixth, fifth and fourth jumps for 12 faults. In all he had 16 to give the Canadian team a total of 20.

HORSE BALKED TWICE

W. R. Ballard of Toronto, the Canadian Senator for the past two years, had trouble with Rebel on the sixth and eighth jumps for eight faults on his mount, who refused. The second time, riding Skip Across, Ballard topped the fence on the second, fourth and seventh obstacles, and his horse refused both the sixth and eighth jumps. Ballard was charged with 12 jumping faults and 154 time faults for 254. His total for both rides was 314.

In the afternoon the Canadians missed first place by 1 4-5 seconds in the first of two contests for the low-score competition challenge trophy, given by the U.S. Army for the American Master time of 112 4-5 seconds decided the competition.

'Case' Can Have Life Job

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—Casey Stengel apparently can keep on managing the chaotic New York Yankees as long as he wants the job.

Co-owner Del Webb said as much at a testimonial dinner given Casey Thursday night by his home-town Chamber of Commerce. Webb called Stengel "baseball's one of the grandest guys in baseball but the finest manager," and added "I hope Casey stays with our ball club as long as he wants to."

NARDICO WINS KO

MACON, Ga. (AP)—Danny Nardico, world's third-ranking light heavyweight, knocked out Jackie Bernett midway through the first round of their scheduled 10-rounder Thursday night.

Bennett, a New York light heavyweight, stretched Nardico 1st pounds to 183.

Imperials Not Worrying About ORFU Honors

SARNIA (CP) — Hugh (Red) Douglas, coach of Sarnia Imperials, said Thursday that the imps will "be out to take each game as they come" and not worry ahead of time about ORFU honors.

Discussing Sarnia's chances this Saturday against Balmy Beach, Douglas said his boys were in good shape and had, "the fighting spirit that rubbers victories."

The Imperial mentor thought that the three-way tie for top berth over the season "which necessitated the semi-final, home - and - home total points series was unfortunate. "If the fellows had just been on their toes on one or two occasions, we wouldn't have happened," he said.

Cocky Klein Says Beaches Will Oust Imps

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Chuck Klein of Toronto Balmy Beach is confident his team will eliminate Sarnia Imperials from the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union semi-final series this week-end.

"We'll beat them up in Sarnia Saturday and again back here on Sunday . . . if we continue to perform like we have all this week in practice," he said Thursday night.

"Kitchener - Waterloo can't help but be the tough one to beat," he said. "The Dutchmen reacted the same way to the Sarnia reputation toward the end of the season and those guys just aren't playing the kind of ball that's got any right to beat either Kitchener or us."

The Beaches will be strengthened with the return of Norland Moll to the backfield. Moll said the torn calf muscle that put him out of action for the last three weeks gave him no trouble Thursday night.

Forts, Norwood Meet For Football Title

WINNIPEG (CP) — Norwood-St. Boniface Legionaires, will hold their final practice tonight before leaving for the Lakehead where they will tangle with Fort William Kinsmen for the western Canada intermediate football championship Sunday.

Legionaires, defending Canadian titlists, are in good physical condition, hitting only one serious injury, Paul Hrynchuk, their starry half. He is with a dislocated elbow.

Coaches Harry Fitzgibbons and Ernie Adolf have been whipping the boys through nightly workouts. They will take 32 players on the trip led by captain Bill Azar and will have Saturday night. They will return to Winnipeg Sunday night.

Legionaires now have gone 24 games without defeat. They haven't been beaten since they were downed by Hamilton Panthers in the 1951 Canadian final.

Stampeders Trim Leading Canucks

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Stampeders Thursday night worked to within three points of the league-leading Vancouver Canucks when they trounced Edmonton Eskimos 3-0 in a Western Hockey League game.

Pat Lundy sparked the Calgary attack with two goals and George Pargeter got the others.

Named For Russell Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—Defensive half Royal Copeland and guard Freddy Black have been chosen by Toronto Argonauts as Argo candidates for the Jeff Russell memorial Trophy, coach Frank Clair announced Thursday night.

The trophy is for the player most valuable to his club in the Big Four as well as the most sportsmanlike.

FEEWEE STILL A PLAYER

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Pee-Wee Reese has decided to eliminate himself from further consideration as the new manager of Brooklyn Dodgers.

Reese, scout out the National League baseball champions, told reporters here Thursday he had never been offered the managership formally, but was generally considered that. It at a secret meeting with Buzzy Bavasi, vice-president of the Dodgers.

"I still think I can play a couple of more years," Reese said. "Maybe I have made a mistake—I will know that in a couple of years. I think I have done the right thing. Anyway, that's the way it is, and I'll never be sorry, no matter how things might turn out."

West Coast Major Baseball Clamor Zooms Interest to Near-Fever Pitch

BY ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The rising clamor over a plan to bring major-league baseball to the United States West Coast—and which incidentally would take in two Canadian cities—has reached a fever pitch. Club owners are wondering just how they will approach the problem at the minor-league meeting at the end of the month and the major-league sessions in December.

Until International League president Frank Shaughnessy recently presented his plan for two 13-team leagues, the moguls were in a dither. They wanted to expand, but they didn't know just how to do it.

Shag's plan would take in at least a couple of West Coast cities. They will take 32 players each section would play off to meet in the world series.

INTEREST KEPT ALIVE

This, of course, is what most of the minors have been doing since Shaughnessy introduced his "Shaughnessy playoffs." It kept interest alive even when one team ran away with the pennant, because in the playoffs any of the first four clubs could win.

"It would give the majority another program for expansion," said Shaughnessy, "instead of the present uncertain, painful process of taking of minor-league territory. At the same time it would stabilize the minor leagues."

When and if the leagues are expanded, four cities seem almost certain of being included—Los Angeles, San Francisco, Montreal and Toronto.

Vessels Sits On Sidelines

EDMONTON (CP) — Halfback Billy Vessels, leading ground gainer in the Western Interprovincial Football Union this season, has to sit on the sidelines while his Edmonton Eskimo teammates battle Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the conference title.

"I'll be ready if we get to the Grey Cup and I think we will," said the galloping youngster from Oklahoma who injured a spinal muscle against Winnipeg in the final regular-season game.

The Grey Cup game for the Canadian title will be played in Toronto Nov. 28.

The 31-year-old back is attending Eskimos' practices this week. "I'm just watching the plays. I still have some pain in the waiting. I can't run yet."

He goes to hospital daily for heat treatments and his daily scakings in the club's whirlpool bath.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Beware of bridge opponents who offer gifts. Foxy grandpas in this game are full of little disarming sidelights. They set traps for the innocent; honorable ruses, of course.

A deal came up with these cards:

NORTH
♠A Q 10 3
♦J 10
♣6 7 6 4 2

WEST
♠7 5 4 3
♥A Q 9 5
♦9 7 6 5
♣K

EAST
♠K J 6
♥J 10 4 3 2
♦K 8 2
♣A Q 10

SOUTH
♥K 7
♦A Q 4 3
♣A K Q J 10

The bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 C	Pass	1 S	Pass
2 D	Pass	4 C	Pass
5 C	Pass	Pass	Dbl

East had as much cause to double five clubs as I have to sing opera. But west took it to be a signal for leading the suit bid by dummy. So, the opening west lead was a spade.

If east gave in and returned a heart through south it will ruin the contract right there. Fearing this, declarer decided to finesse diamonds for the ace of two ways for shifting a heart.

This prompted him to run at once with his spade ace. Realizing what declarer intended to do, east flung his spade king on the ace. This was to make south think west had the jack. That it did.

South changed plans accordingly. With no assurance that it was safe to finesse diamonds he decided on what he now thought was safe; a finesse of spades through west whom he pictures with the jack.

So, after two trump rounds he led his last spade toward dummy and finessed the ten. Imagine his rage when east calmly won this with the jack and returned a heart. The contract went down with a splash.

This is an old trick that has fooled players for centuries. It will fool them for centuries to come. It might be fitted on your case. So, don't say you were not warned.

Did you say you wouldn't fall for such bait? Oh, yeah!

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, NOV. 7, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Generous aspects prevail until 3 p.m., but you will have to be alert, later to do right in order to gain desired goals. You are capable, but inclined to impulsiveness. Curb that trait.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Benefic rays abound in your chart today. Well-executed tasks could produce fine results. New opportunities and news from unexpected sources will help you.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — If you use your best efforts you may accomplish the unusual. Use your natural gifts, ingenuity and knack for grasping at opportunity, but don't be careless or rush things.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Domesticity, romance, children's interests and other serious matters favored. An excellent period to start anything next week's undertakings. Be consistent, thorough.

July 23 to August 23 (Leo) — Social affairs, artistic activities, dating, things where accuracy is essential are on this day's highly favored list. Designers, teachers, students, workers have fine benefits to gain.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Most professions, law, agriculture, social and literary endeavors, are particularly favored. Marriage, home and family too.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Lenses could be the biggest ingredient in a successful day. You should be easy to avoid, so just live up to your true character and you can chalk up a fateful, progressive day.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — An inspiring day for the clever and alert. Propound ideas first, then follow through. Be especially careful in business, chemistry, research, mining, construction, banking.

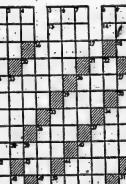
November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Work connected with civic or children's groups, livestock, travel, transportation can improve this day. Keep usefully occupied and don't be afraid to tackle the hard jobs; you can handle them.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — You should feel ambitious this stimulating day. However, don't undertake more than you can reasonably handle. Family affairs, romance rate high and satisfaction comes from these sources now.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Artistic and mental pursuits are highlighted today. Be consistent, true to yourself, and you can expect fine results. Be circumspect in romance.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Dear military forces, police and firemen come into their own today. Resourcefulness essential; also shrewd attention to what's going on around you. Be wide awake, ready for anything.

YOU BORN TODAY have good judgment, are keen analysts and handle emergencies, difficult problems and situations most capably. But you might be susceptible to flattery, so watch this trait. You have tremendous ability and talent but a tendency to procrastinate must be corrected lest it defeat the success that can be yours. Cultivate patience with those you deal with. You are by nature kindly, generous, helpful. Don't permit ill temper or a domineering manner to offset your finer traits.



Birthdate: Marie Curie, famed Polish-French scientist, co-discover of radium.

What Do You Look for in a Used Car?

Some people look for price — if the price is low enough they think they are getting a bargain. Other people look for appearance — if the car looks fine they make up their minds to buy.

Let a qualified mechanic can tell you exactly the condition a car is in. Let him check the motor, the body and the car to see if it is safe to drive. You know everything there is to know about the car you buy before you buy it.

Come and look at used cars come to us. We are open every night 'till 10.

Britain Making Bold Efforts To Ease Housing

By HAROLD MACLUSKIN

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain, building new homes at the rate of 360,000 a year, is making a bold effort to solve the housing problem.

The sight of tidy suburban homes and blocks of brick apartment flats rising throughout the country has brought new hope to many young married couples, thousands of whom are still forced to live with their parents or rent furnished apartments at rents higher than they can afford.

At the end of the war, Britain was faced with the need for nearly 2,000,000 new houses. Bombs had destroyed 220,000 homes and rendered 250,000 permanently uninhabitable. Between 1939 and 1945, building practically ceased.

The Labor government which came to power in 1945 imposed rigid controls on building because of shortages of materials. It allowed private builders to put up only a small number of houses. The rest of the building was handed over to local government agencies with instructions to build houses for renting.

RENT CONTROLS

The Conservatives wiped out many of the controls. They allowed private building firms to build as many houses for private sale as they could. The stipulation, however, was that the size of the houses should not exceed 1,000 square feet. A house of this size usually has five rooms.

The cost of having such a home built, including the purchase of the one-fifth or one-sixth of an acre of land on which it stands, is about £2,350 ($7,000).

Most Britons having a new house built or buying an older house get the necessary capital through a "building society." The down payment is 10 to 20 per cent of the value of the house. The society lends the rest on a 30-year mortgage. During this period, the house owner pays the society 12 shillings 10 pence a month for every £10 he has borrowed. This covers both interest and capital repayment.

Last year, 134,713 families were buying their homes through building societies, according to the Building Societies Association.

AUTHORITIES HELP

Though private builders now have a free hand, local authorities have not relaxed their efforts in building what are popularly known as "council houses." These state-built houses are erected by city, town and county councils helped by subsidies from the national government which pays cheap, 60-year loans.

The houses can be bought by their tenants, but most are rented from nine shillings three pence a week to 45 shillings.

Sunday School Lesson:

Beware of Words

By ROY L. SMITH

It has been said many times that the early Christians were persecuted because during those first few months the Christians held all their goods in common. But nothing could be farther from the truth. The church was communal, but not communist, and between these two ideas there is a vast difference.

A TEMPORARY EXPEDIENT

Either from something Jesus said (which is not recorded in the New Testament) or from conclusions reached by the leaders of the Christian movement, the belief developed that the risen Lord would very soon return from Heaven and begin a second career on earth.

The Christians were inexperienced men without 1000 years of religious experience back of them, and it is not surprising that they had a rather childish understanding of what the revolutionary thing was to which they had committed their lives. We must not blame them for thinking that Rome might be overthrown by a miracle, that the centre of the earth was to move to Jerusalem, and that they might expect great personal favors and advantages when the new kingdom was set up. It may have been a high level community, designed to enjoy a brief existence, but by whatever name it may be known, it was not what they were "in on the ground floor" of something that was about to happen.

In order to be in a position to move quickly, unencumbered by property and possessions, they put everything they had into the common fund and waited for the upheaval.

NO PHILOSOPHY IN IT

Modern communism, as we know it, is a definite philosophy of life, based theoretically at least on the teachings of Karl Marx. His doctrines of the dictatorship of the proletariat, of the economic interpretation of history, and of the class struggle are carefully developed theories concerning the nature of life, of man, and of history.

The Christian church which pooled all its economic resources as a means of preserving the faith of all until Jesus should put in His appearance, had in the second century had nothing in common with communism. It was an economic device adopted for the moment as a means of tiding the little company over an emergency.

One of the last things the early church would have attempted was to make it an economic revolution. It appears that even members of the church were required, even though they may have been expected, to share in the community of goods. At least one couple was punished, not for failure to share, but for lying.

BEWARE OF SEMANTIC MONEY

For the sake of convenience, and perhaps because of the way writers on the stage use a specialized metallic currency which, from a distance, gives the impression of being money but will not stand close inspection. It serves the purpose of a play, but it will not buy anything.

A complete vocabulary is in circulation among us today which is of the same vintage. Words are on everybody's lips which, as they roll off glibly in careless conversation, sound like something profound. Upon careful examination, however, they are found to be valueless.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for November 8 is "Strongest Churches — Better Communities." Acts 2:41-47; 4:23; Philippians 1:27-30; 2:12-16; 1 Peter 2.4-10; Revelation 2:1-7; 3:7-22.

The word communist, for example, has been pasted on so many decent people that we are in danger of making it an honorary label. It actually stands for an exact idea and a baleful philosophy of life, but it has been used in so many lines as a smear that its exact meaning has been almost completely lost. It has become a word to fight with, not a word to think with.

One of the first duties of a Christian is to be honest. Many a man who would not even consider passing a counterfeit dollar bill will pass counterfeit words about in utter indifference.

Many Churches Are Needed In Suburbs

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — The Christian spirit of a new church today rises above the skyline on Oklahoma City's northern edge, symbol of a religious challenge.

It represents what church authorities term one of the most critical problems facing the church. It is one of many churches that are pioneering the new residential frontier, the suburbs.

But many more are needed. In the last decade, millions of people have moved to city outskirts, often miles from the nearest church.

To provide churches in these new communities, said Thomas Charlain, head of the American Baptist Mission Society, is the "most crucial need of this generation."

MORE NEEDED

Denominations have stretched their budgets trying to build needed new churches. But the gap still is large.

In the case of the new Oklahoma City church, the Nichols Hills Baptist church, its establishment offers an example of the solution church leaders say is needed, initiative, work, will and belief.

One of Oklahoma City's leading ministers, Dr. Rupert Hsley, had a big, influential downtown pulpit to heed the call of a long time vision, to help bring the gospel to those beyond its reach.

"In city after city," he said, "churches have lost the field by not following the suburban population. "You see it now in communities growing up, rimming our cities with new homes, new families and children. This is the dwelling place of our youngest generation, the heart of our land and its future. The church must be there, too."

Striking out alone, Dr. Nasey first held services in a rented theatre auditorium. Then he set up Sunday school classes in homes and in offices of a lumberyard, donated for church use. About 100 persons became charter members of the new church. They elected officers, raised enough money to buy vacant lots and begin work on temporary quarters.

Last month, after two years' work, the $250,000 church was complete. All but $60,000 of its cost already has been paid.

Cancer Kills More Children Than Any Disease

TORONTO (CP) — Cancer kills more children between the ages of one and 14 than any other disease, Dr. W. L. Donohoe, director of pathology at the Hospital for Sick Children, said Thursday.

Cancer is surpassed only by accidents as a cause of children's deaths, Dr. Donohoe told a Trend Workshop Conference of the Canadian Medical Society.

Leukemia, cancer of the white cells of the blood, is the most common type in children and a permanent cure of leukemia has never been reported, he said.

CAMPBELLFORD

Board Will Add More Insurance On Public Schools

CAMPBELLFORD — All members were present at the regular meeting of the Campbellford Public School Board, held here recently.

The Board observed one minute's silence in memory of the late Hazel Atkinson, who had given such faithful service for over 30 years in the Campbellford Public School. She died last week.

The chairman thanked members of the board for the splendid way they had arranged every detail of October 8, when the board had entertained the staff of the Public School, and expressed his pleasure in the goodwill it had brought between the board and the staff. It was decided that each year the board will arrange to entertain the staff at a social early in October, in order that the board and staff might know each other better.

The question of an attendance officer was discussed, and it was decided to advertise in the local paper for two weeks. Salary was set at $20 per week, with the attendance officer to work under the direction of the Principal, Mr. Wm. Rothwell.

The secretary gave her report on the insurance carried on the public school buildings. After a careful study of this report, the board decided that this insurance business was being carried on the schools for the security of the taxpayers. It was decided that we write to Ludlow authorities on insurance to study the whole problem and to act on their advice. Consequently, each of the five insurance agencies in the town was invited to give recommendations as to types and amounts of insurance coverage which they think should be held on the two schools and their contents and also with respect to public liability. This will be taken consideration of such recommendations when it comes to the purchase of the insurance.

Mr. W. Rothwell, principal of the school, was authorized to buy a good re-conditioned typewriter for the use of the Public School staff. The secretary-treasurer was advised as a start on the purchase of a new supply of south needed new maps for the school.

TV Viewers See Active Cobalt Bomb in Action

CHICAGO (AP) — Television viewers across the United States Thursday night saw how a radioactive cobalt bomb throws out atomic bullets in the treatment of cancer.

The bomb, located in the Argonne Cancer Research Hospital of the University of Chicago, was demonstrated on the Columbia BBC television program reporting on research on cancer.

Television cameras saw a film of the device beaming gamma rays equal to 1,800 grams of radium at a dummy in simulated treatment of internal cancer tumors.

13-Year-Old Girl Causes Strife In Many Homes

KITCHENER (CP)—Police said Thursday they had found a 13-year-old girl who nearly turned marital bliss into marital strife, in many local homes by talking on the telephone.

They said the girl picked names at random from the telephone directory, selected only those listed in the full-first name of the man.

She would phone and ask for the man. If the wife replied the man wasn't there, the girl would relate a story of romance with the husband saying she hadn't known he was married.

Police said they believe some calls never came to their attention and that several wives may be saving their husbands an unwarranted cold eye.

They said the girl also posed as a dentist's assistant to call women to confirm dental appointments supposedly made by the husbands.

Efforts will be made to put the girl on a more normal course of behavior, police said.

STRIKE AVERTED AMONG 15,000 PAPER WORKERS

Basic Hourly Rate Set at $1.46 an Hour

TORONTO (CP)—A three-per-cent wage increase has averted a strike of 15,000 workers in Ontario's pulp and paper industry.

Nine unions, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and Canadian Congress of Labor, signed 11 of the pulp and paper companies' 12 Friday night reached an agreement on a new contract after five days of negotiation under pressure of a strike threat.

The agreement provides for the increase, with a minimum rate of five cents an hour, retroactive to last May 1, bringing the basic hourly rate to $1.46 and the average to $1.75. The agreement runs until April 30, 1955.

KEY PATTERN

Company and union spokesmen described it as a stabilizing influence in the industry. It is generally seen as a pattern for settlement of pulp and paper mill disputes in Quebec and western Canada.

A settlement was also reached on fringe issues such as sick leave pay, overtime for shift workers, and vacation pay.

The unions won overtime pay after the first shift for Saturday work by shift workers. Employers agreed to give employees with more than five days' sick leave in one year two weeks' sick pay. The existing weeks' vacation for 25 years' service, and the Labor Day holiday, remain.

The 100-member union negotiating committee and Canadian director of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers, announced the settlement.

CONCILIATION REPORTS

A conciliation board majority report, dated October 1, last month recommended "a general increase" in wages. A minority report rejected the wage increase and other demands but proposed a compromise on the overtime question.

Companies involved are Abitibi Power & Paper Co. Ltd., Dryden; Smoolt Rock Falls, Fort William, Fort William Head; St. Catharines, Ont., and Sturgeon Falls; Provincial Paper at Port Arthur; Canadian International Paper Co. Ltd., William; Spruce Falls Paper at Kapuskasing; Great Lakes Paper at Manitouwadge; The KVP Fibre at Thorold; Ontario Newsprint at Espanola; Thorold Ont. and Sturgeon Falls; Provincial Paper at Port Arthur; Canadian Corporation at Nipigon and Longlac; and Marathon Paper at Terrace Bay.

The unions are the Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphide and Paper Mill Workers; International Union of Pulp, Paper and Sulphite Workers; Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters; Association of Operating Engineers; Federated Building Engineers; Brotherhood of Carpenters; Provincial Workers Association; Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; and International Union of Firemen and Oilers.

FREED OF RAPE CHARGE

Truck Industry To Hold Meeting In Toronto

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's muscle rooming truck industry, which is worth a $180,000,000 business, will hold its first national convention here Monday.

About 1,000 "for hire" trucking firms will be represented through provincial organizations, spokesmen at a meeting of the Canadian Automotive Transportation Association.

One of the main issues before the three-day convention will be the future position of their industry under government regulations. At present, only the provinces exercise "regulation cum" highway traffic, but the federal government may be moving into part of that field shortly.

FEDERAL CONTROL

The possible federal action would be in the area of interprovincial and international trucking. A case being heard before the Privy Council in London this week will define finally who possesses jurisdiction in that field.

The truckers have fought federal control, but more recently have changed their tune and are becoming resigned to the idea of central jurisdiction.

However, the industry is expected to ask the federal cabinet to do something about the problem in the light of an expected pro-federal verdict from the Privy Council.

The convention of between 200 and 300 representatives also will be looking for the views of all federal political party leaders toward the trucking industry during its discussions.

ESPIONAGE CHARGES

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Foreign Minister Paul-Van Zeeland said here Thursday that units of the proposed European army force are expected to be "amalgamated" with British forces stationed in Europe. He said there would be no integration with the British forces, while Belgium's own forces would be "formed and amalgamate with German troops. verdict of innocent.

Early November Snowstorms Cover Wide Areas Along Eastern Seaboard

NEW YORK (AP)—Early November snowstorms covered wide areas along the eastern seaboard and the midlands of the United States today.

The storm in the northeastern of the season, erupting suddenly Friday, swept up the middle Atlantic coast from the mountains of South Carolina to northern New England and into Canada.

Snow from 6 to 10 inches of snow at Colby, Kans., and more than six inches in the Dakotas and other sections of Kansas, and in Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The most formed to rain or sleet in the eastern section of the two widely separated storm belts, increasing hazardous driving conditions.

Transportation, both by air and highway, was sharply curtailed, especially in the eastern storm belt. Scores of persons were stranded on eastern highways in some rural areas. There were traffic jams in the cities.

Rain, freezing drizzle and snow hit the Central Plains areas today.

Will Extend Four-Lane Road Beyond Belleville and Trenton

The Ontario Highways Department has no thought of leaving the four-lane highway now being constructed between Trenton and Belleville a mile north of the city limits.

This was assured by W. R. Sanderock, M.L.A. for Hastings West who said the department planned to extend the road both west of Trenton and east of Belleville as soon as was possible.

"It was never intended that traffic should drive through Trenton or Belleville to get onto the new four-lane road when it is finished," Mr. Sanderock said.

The member said he had been in close touch with Hon. George Doucett, minister of highways, with the request to have the highway extended as soon as possible.

He noted that property at the junction Road in the vicinity of the Chas. Parrn farm had been purchased some time ago as a site for the cloverleaf on No. 37 and that negotiations were underway by the highways department for the purchase of right-of-way to extend the highway east of Belleville. "The route," he said, "would be on the south side, extending from the roadway now under construction in Sidney township, south of and at the north end of farms on the second concession.

NEGOTIATIONS UNDERWAY

Mr. Sanderock said that he understood negotiations were also underway for the purchase of property to extend the four-lane road west past Trenton. Bridges across both the Trent River, Moira River would have to be built before the new highway could be used for traffic.

Mr. Roscoe Robson, M.L.A. for Prince Edward, confirmed that the route of the proposed four-lane highway through Thurlow had now been decided on although he did not know if any purchase of property from farmers had actually been made.

"The section of highway now being built from Trenton and Belleville certainly will be a credit to the province," he said. "It was extended east and west," he said. "Traffic would not be routed up through Belleville to get onto the 10 miles of highway when it is finished.

MAKING PROGRESS

The H. J. McFarland Construction Co. is making good progress in building the roughly 10 miles of grade on the new four-lane highway west from the Foxboro Road.

The 300-foot right-of-way has now been cleared and ten culverts have been completed. Four bridges, farm houses and barns, along the route will be torn down.

Eight culverts are under construction between Centenary and the Foxboro Road.

The McFarland contract is proceeding well and the grade for about half miles per month and grading over the 3.4 mile stretch is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

Main Items in Talks Expected To Be Defence, Trade Matters

By DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The talk is high level, on a wide field in discussions between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister St. Laurent and his colleagues in a presidential visit to Ottawa next Friday and Saturday. But the main items are expected to be defence and trade matters.

Mr. St. Laurent has said only that "affairs of the world" will be discussed. But the President confers with the cabinet Saturday after addressing a joint session of the Senate and House of Commons.

The topic most common to both countries at this time is continental defence. But Canada considers trade relations just as important.

The president and prime minister will also have several opportunities to chat informally during the visit's round of dinners, luncheons and receptions at Rideau Hall, official residence of the governor-general, at Mr. St. Laurent's residence and the United States embassy.

RETURN VISIT

The president's trip is billed as a "courtesy visit" and officials here say it will be largely just that. It will end with a return of the latter's visit to Washington last May.

Outside of any other good it may accomplish, the president's visit will provide a stimulus for better relations between Canada and the U. S. They are said to be almost at an almost more at Americans, making them more conscious of Canada's growth in recent years and of the close ties between the two countries, that a Canadian rather than an American newspaper man will accompany the president.

Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower will arrive at Union Station at 11 a.m. on Friday to be greeted by Governor-General Vincent Massey and Mr. St. Laurent and his cabinet.

The president will review a guard of honor in confederation square outside the station, place a wreath on the National War Memorial and it will already be banked high with wreaths and flowers from Remembrance Day ceremony two days before—and then leave for Rideau Hall, where Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower will stay as Mr. Massey's guests.

That afternoon the president and his wife will plant a memorial elm tree in the Rideau Hall grounds and in the evening the governor-general will give a dinner and reception.

At 10:45 a. m. Saturday, the president will review another guard of honor in front of the Peace Tower before entering the Parliament buildings to address senators and members of the house of commons in the Commons chamber. Canada's Zeud Parliament starts its first session Thursday.

Five Counties Will Get Share Of $100,000 Fund

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The five county tornado relief funds in western Ontario will share in the Canada Disaster Relief Fund grant to aid in the rehabilitation of the area which suffered tornado damage June 15.

R. W. Main of Toronto, assistant deputy minister of labor and director of the fund, said the money will be distributed "as and when the need arises" and will be made on a "common denominator" of assessed damage in the five counties.

The money will come from the residue of the money subscribed for relief at the time of the disaster flood, amounting to $1,485,-311.

The sixth western Ontario tornado relief fund, set up by Sarnia, will receive the $100,000 grant.

Mr. Main said there was no justification for giving the Sarnia fund money. He said Sarnia appeared to be well off compared to the five counties which had a much higher proportion of insurance coverage compared to the counties' assessment ratio was 85 per cent to 30 per cent. "The committee of Sarnia knows where it is most needed," he said.

Two Tenants Rescue Woman From Bedroom

LONDON, Ont. (CP) —Smashing down a door with their shoulders, two tenants rescued a woman asleep in smoke-filled, second storey bedroom Friday and gave the alarm which brought firemen into the room to save the woman's 52-year-old paralytic husband.

Mrs. William Gough was lying unconscious on the floor when Reginald Jones and Clifford McMillan broke in after they were awakened by Mrs. Gough shouting that his room was on fire. Mr. Gough was asleep. Mrs. Gough downstairs and outside. They tried to get back upstairs to rescue Mr. Gough, but could not grope through the dense smoke.

Firemen carried Mrs. Gough and rescued Mr. Gough, who was unconscious. His condition later was reported good.

MONTANA FLOOD

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower Thursday made available an additional $70,000 for relief in flooded areas of Montana. These funds supplement a $50,000 disaster area grant he made earlier. Heavy rains and floods caused by melting last June 9, 10. Two new additions makes the total for Montana $120,000.

PLANE STRAFES BRITISH SHIP IN CHINA WATERS

Unidentified Warships Fail to Halt Freighter

HONG KONG (AP)—The British freighter Hydralock reported today she was intercepted by an unidentified warship in the Formosa Strait, then attacked by an aircraft firing armor-piercing bullets.

There were no casualties, the ship reported.

The ship radioed the Royal Navy here at 5 a. m. that she was being intercepted by warship 20 miles southeast of Amoy, tiny Red-held island just off the Communist China mainland.

Twenty minutes later the ship radioed the presence of two more warships near the approaches to Amoy.

One requested the Hydralock to follow, the freighter reported.

The Hydralock said she asked the warship: "Where to?" and received no reply.

BULLETS BUSTFT BRIDGE

At 9:14 a. m. a message from the Hydralock said: "We are again being attacked, this time by an aircraft off Amoy. Both our bridges had been sprayed by armor-piercing bullets but that there were no casualties."

At 10:23 a.m. the Hydralock radioed she had called off the "air attack area of Tsinlang" northeast of Amoy. Tsinlang is a small island clearing Hong Kong Nov. 4.

The ship is owned by Wheelock, Marden and Co. Ltd., of Hong Kong and is captained by R. B. C. Lee.

Convict Soldier Of Manslaughter

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — Pte. Reginald John Finn Friday was acquitted of murder but convicted of manslaughter in the fatal stabbing of a fellow soldier in an army barracks brawl. He was sentenced to seven years in prison.

The 24-year-old soldier of the Royal Canadian Regiment was charged in the death at Camp Shilo here of Lt. Cpl. William Nelson Smith. Smith was stabbed during a drunken brawl May 10.

Finn, an immigrant who came to Canada from England last year, testified he was drunk and remembered nothing.

French Assembly Ratifies Accord On Saar Status

PARIS (AP)—The National Assembly early today ratified a Saar settlement accord, giving Saarlanders full political autonomy and European privileges in the rich coal and steel basin. The vote was 311 to 286.

The accord was signed May 20. Although it became part of the "Europeanization" of the territory, the ratification vote aside, spates negotiations between Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany and Premier Rene Mayer.

Adenauer favors a "European" solution of the Saar problem by which a European body would supervise the territory and all European powers would have access to its raw materials. It remains to be seen whether political reasons will refuse to approve the May 20 accord reached with the present Saar government. West Germany has objected that that government was elected in elections in which pro-German parties were banned.

Troops Alert As Trieste Plans To Bury Its Dead

Several of 40 Persons Hurt In Riots Are Near Death

By WEBB MACKINLEY

TRIESTE (AP)—United States and British troops with fixed bayonets patrolled Trieste today as the embattled city prepared to bury its dead killed in savage nationalistic rioting. At least six have been killed in the wild, spasmodic outbreaks of the last three days.

Several of the 40 seriously wounded now in hospitals are in critical condition. Among them is a boy of 12. Many others were treated for minor wounds and released.

The time for the funerals—a mass city affair that could spark new rioting—was not set in Rome. The powerful Communist-led General Confederation of Labor called for a 15-minute mourning work stoppage throughout Italy during the funerals.

MARTIAL LAW

In Trieste, itself, the situation was still grim and tense although the city began a return to work after a general strike Friday. The British and American occupation troops were on the alert with a possibility of martial law if rioting breaks out again.

City authorities, however, appealed to Italians to keep cool, headed Zurich and Trieste's Roman Catholic Bishop Antonio Santin asked their fellow citizens to end the violence.

Gardoli also appealed to President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill, asking their direct intervention to restore order in the strategic port city.

This was only one of several diplomatic moves as a result of the state of grave threat to British-American efforts to settle the long-standing Italian-Yugoslav quarrel over the Trieste Free Territory.

UNJUST AIMS

The Yugoslav foreign ministry charged that the British and American envoys to Belgrade, is reported to have demanded in an early five-power conference on settlement of the Trieste issue an end to "attempts by the Italian government to fulfil its unjust aims by terrorist methods."

The Yugoslav Press and radio blamed the disturbances on an attempt by Italy to force Britain and the U.S. to hand over Zone A of Trieste to Italy.

Italy ordered its diplomats in Belgrade to protest the violence against the police shootings in Trieste.

The Allied military government in Trieste blamed "irresponsible elements" for the riots as an attempt to embarrass the United World War Victory Day and clashed with police.

Churchill's Speech Will Be Broadcasted

TORONTO — Prime Minister Churchill's address at the Lord Mayor's dinner on Monday, will be broadcast on the CBC's Trans-Canada network. It will be heard at 8 p.m.

Naked Mother Wanders Two Days On Alaska Shore After Boat Sinks

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP)—A year-old Mrs. Tate waving a piece of canvas on the beach of Gravina Island. She had swum ashore from the foundering boat, after removing her clothes on her husband's advice.

She was suffering from exposure and was taken to a clinic.

She had wandered the beaches for two days with no protection from the cold except the piece of canvas and a coat she had found in an old shack. She spent two nights in the shack while the temperature dropped to around the freezing mark.

Begin Secret Negotiations On Peace Parley

By SAM SUMMERLIN

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The United States and Communist staff advisers today began closed-door negotiations aimed at breaking a deadlock which imperils the start of a Korean peace conference.

Two Allied and two Communist advisers conferred for an hour and 40 minutes and agreed to meet again Monday.

Kenneth Young, named by U.S. envoy Arthur Dean for the lower-level talks, said after the meeting, "Both sides agreed that until we report to our representatives we will remain noncommittal in public."

But the South Korean government, which Friday night attacked the secret meetings at Panmunjom, was assured of full information on developments. Lee Ho Soo Young, who will attend as an observer.

Italian Envoy Protests to Eden On Trieste Riots

LONDON (CP)—The Italian ambassador to Britain protested today to Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden against "excessive" action of the British-controlled police in quelling riots in Trieste this week.

The police, Italians said, were trained by British officers, opened fire on Italian rioters there in the last two days, killing six and wounding many others.

The ambassador, Manlio Brosio, was summoned to the foreign office this morning. He spent nearly an hour with Eden.

Eden told him the Italian government should do all it could to "curb the elements responsible" for provoking the riots.

SURVEY OF BEVERAGE ROOMS UNDERTAKEN BY HEALTH DEPT.

The health department has recently undertaken a survey of local beverage rooms to determine if the glasses are being sterilized effectively. The sanitary inspector, Robt. F. Weekes, has made a visit to each establishment to take swabs from glassware for bacteriological examination.

A report of the results is sent to each proprietor, and, if necessary a follow-up visit is made by Mr. Weekes to make recommendations to insure that proper sterilization is carried out.

TUBERCULIN TESTING OF SENIOR PUPILS NOW COMPLETED

Dr. A. M. Brush, medical officer of health, reports that the annual tuberculin testing of students in Grades IX, XII and XIII at the BCVI's and St. Michael's Academy has been completed by the health department.

Six hundred and three of the 686 students in these grades at BCVI had the test. Thirty-seven were positive, but no active tuberculosis was found in any of these students. Chest and X-rays were taken at the Belleville Chest Clinic.

In St. Michael's Academy, 72 students were tested and none showed positive reaction.

Since tuberculosis is a special hazard to adolescents, this procedure is an extremely valuable one to assist in determining which students should be watched more closely to prevent the development of the disease.

A greater percentage of those attending Secondary Schools in Belleville take advantage of the tuberculin test each year.

BEN SAFE TO RUN FOR ALDERMANIC SEAT

Ben Safe, owner of A. Safe and Son, 34 Station St., has announced that he will be a candidate for alderman in the forthcoming municipal elections.

Mr. Safe, who was born and educated in Belleville, ran in the contest as an alderman from 1932 through 1936.

Before entering his interests in A. Safe and Son, Mr. Safe conducted a furniture business in the city.

Mr. Safe's reasons for seeking re-election: "I have some time on my hands and as a residential taxpayer have a real interest in how this city is run."

Early Market Slowed By Inclement Weather

Dun-colored skies and snow-laden wind slowed this morning's market, and, aside from a few purchasers at an early hour.

The produce shown was of good quality, though small in quantity.

Eggs again found ready buyers with pullets selling at 40 cents by the dozen; medimms at 45, large at 50 and extra large at 60 cents per dozen.

Fowl was listed at 45, 50, and 60 cents for capons, per pound. Ducks at 40 cents per lb.

Fish was sparse, with mudcats being the only type offered for sale, selling at 15 cents by 2 lb. per pound, or 3 pounds for $1.

Flowers were a bundling off, with a few chrysanthemums offered. These were 25 cents the bunch, had listsweet, 35 the bunch.

VEGETABLES

Vegetables included Spanish onions, at 75 for 4 quart basket, or $2 per bushel; cauliflower, 25 cents per bunch or 40 cents per six heads; cabbage, 10 cents per head; turnips, 10 cents each or $1.50 per hamper; artichokes, 15 cents per berry box; parsnips, 50 cents per $1 basket; Hubbard squash, 10-15 cents; white winter radishes and red winter radishes, 10 cents per berry box; beets, 35 cents per half peck, or 50 cents per six quart baskets.

Potatoes were fluctuating between 40 and 45 cents per six quart basket, or $3 per 75 pound basket.

FRUITS

Fruits included apples, Macintosh, 75 per six quart basket, as were sweet, Richardson delicious, Northern spies, 75-1.00; and Talman sweets 75 per 6 quart basket, per hamper Macs were $4, delicious, spies $4; while Talman sweets were $3.50 and snows $4.

Cider was just about a thing of the past, at 25 cents per gallon, shown, at $1 per gal.

The inside market had the usual fine showing of home cooking at the same stalls, with pies, in all kinds, 50 cents each; pies, from 10 to 50 cents, each depending on size; pumpkin pies, 40 cents each, and all kinds of cookies at 2 dozen for 25 cents. Home cooked bread and buns were 25 the loaf for bread, and 25 the dozen for buns.

HANDICRAFT.

Handicraft of fine quality in linens, and knitting. Some nice diamond knit men's socks were shown in varying shades of diamond design. Aprons, baby sets in knit wool were in plain and most attractive, as were the children's dresses, and crocheted chair backs, and handkerchief bags resembling ducks and animals.

Sigh For a Sow

With present high pork prices, sows on the farm of Charles Davy, R.R. 1, Bath, are doing what they can to keep the owner's farm income at a high level. Two sows on the Davy farm have given birth to litters of 19 piglets each, and all 38 were born alive and are doing well.

Ladies' Night Of Y's Men's Club Great Success

The Y's Men's were hosts to their wives and girl friends at their last meeting on the occasion of their annual Ladies' Night. "Hard Times" was the attire for the evening with the hall gaily decorated in Hallowe'en theme.

After a clever recitall party the couples were split up into five groups, namely the spooks, witches, cats, jack-o-lanterns and corn shocks and seated at their respective tables for the meal.

Social chairman Donald Denton acted as chairman and fines made for the evening, and during the course of the excellent meal provided, he was kept constantly on his feet levying fines and attempting to maintain a sense of decorum. He was assisted in this by three comely sergeants-at-arms, namely Ardelle Wallace, Audrey Denton and Norma Clarke who departed somewhat from the conventional "Y" garb in favour of fine receptacles, by using repositories for a pot, a pan, and a pail with bow the latter being located in a strategic position.

An amusing incident occurred when Bryson Leslie and Dop Cunningham, the latter in latest style in men's underwear, for which display all women present were given the "bird", all those present, who were not appropriately dressed for the occasion, were called a hard times costume, were also fined.

Highlight of the evening of the extra long stem variety, were presentations to Gerry Hynes, the latest Y and Vern Weir. A singsong was led by Roger Wannamaker, assisted by President Linton Read at the piano. The door prize, an electric tea kettle was won by Miss Verna Gardiner.

After the entertainment was provided by a very gifted young pantomime artist, in the person of Douglas Cunningham. The number of encores which Doug received are a tribute to his talent in this field. One of his best pantomimes was on Spike Jones version of the popular Dragnet.

After the entertainment the floor was cleared for an evening of dancing to the music of Hugo Diggins and his orchestra. Several square dances were held throughout the evening with an experienced caller giving instructions to the inexperienced, which provided periods of fun and merriment for all.

For a very successful and thoroughly enjoyable party, special thanks are due Scott Denton and his social committee, who worked so hard to make it a success.

'Snowflurries' Blanket District For First Time

The first snowfall of the season, falling a little after noon today quickly put a mantle of white over the Bay of Quinte district Saturday morning, giving a realistic a timely warning of things to come.

Highways and city streets were in a slippery condition before noon and a number of provincial and city police were keeping their fingers crossed expecting a series of motor accidents as result of wet roadways.

The weatherman did not give district residents any indications as to how much snow could be expected, the forecast puttling it down simply as "snowflurries."

Minor Baseball Association Honors Champions, Teams at Annual Banquet

By GARRY ALEXANDRE

The curtain came down on a highly successful season of baseball last evening when the Belleville Minor Baseball Association held its annual banquet at the Riviera Centre.

Some 220 diamond stars of the future gathered at the centre along with the parents and sponsors, special guests and representatives of the radio and the press. Although there were a goodly number of adults on hand, it was definitely a night for the younger generation as they swallowed approximately seven hundred hot dogs, sandwiches, soft drinks, milk and ice cream bars.

Mr. Frank Grandeme, president of the association, was in charge of the affair and opened the activities by introducing a representative from each of the teams. He also expressed thanks to the gentlemen of the city, who for the past season donated their time to umpire the games.

PRESENTATIONS

Bill VanTassel, chairman of the Belleville Recreation committee, spoke a few words on behalf of the season as did George H. Carver, sports editor of the Intelligencer, Gallagher and Lloyd "Sad" Doran, recreational director for Belleville.

Next item on the program was the presentation of a set of gold cuff links and tie clip to George Carver and the same for Jack Devine, the latter presentation for CJBQ. Arnold Barclay did the honors on behalf of the association.

The following presentations were then made to the city champs and the teams entering the OBA playdowns: The Bill Hilbrst trophy to the peewee champs of the city, Avon Jewellers, presented to Captain Pat Asselline by Bill Gault.

The Jack Vaughan trophy went to the OBA team, and was presented by Captain Gordon Vaughan by Larry Buck.

Driver Dealerships was the city bantam title and they received the the Belleville Jewellers' Association trophy from Captain Glenn Bennett by Dave Lockyer.

Captain Jack Elliott was given the Lorne McDougall trophy for the best OBA team with Mel Richards doing the honors.

Canada Cement Lehigh were to get title for the city and Captain Jim Gordon received the McGrimmon Memorial Trophy from George Bishop.

The McGrimmon trophy went to the OBA midgets, Robb Dockrill, and was presented to Captain Charles Kingston by Lee Bradshaw.

The Recreation Committee trophy for the juveniles was received on behalf of the Elliott Motors team by Cuffer Noakes and was presented by Cyril Chamberlain.

The crests for the winning teams have not arrived, but as soon as they get them they will be presented.

Medals were second only to the food as a film on aircraft, past present, was the initial one to be shown. It displayed helicopters, "bum-jet" gliders and such antics as the Wright Bros. famous planes.

A cowboy, cowboy songs course) a number of voices to lead the singing. Favorite "Home on the Range", as well as several others.

The evening enjoyed film was the Laurel and Hardy comedy where the pair "children" were caught with their hair down, laughing just as hard as the persons were. A cartoon completed the movies.

In all it was a great success, as were the leagues themselves, but now away with the glove and ball on to the hockey rinks, for it won't be long before once again the shout "play ball" will echo from the empty lots and organized parks.

Words of thanks should be given, by all parents, to the men of the city and district who did so much, gave so much of their time so that mother's never have to find their sons, the Jackie Robinsons and Mickey Mantles of the years to come.

A Lift for Living
Air Conditioning Our Minds

DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Yes, we can air-condition our minds. Some months ago I was in the great state of Texas. Among other things, I enjoyed the various forms of air-conditioning down there. Hotel rooms, your car, even motor cars are air-conditioned.

My Texas friends, assured me that Texas is God's own country, the best country He ever made. Hence I wondered a little why they were not satisfied with the air God had made for them and wanted to make it over. But I was glad they did, for I enjoyed their air-conditioning.

And we can condition the air of our thoughts. But we cannot quite be trusted to do it healthfully all by ourselves. We can make of our minds little ivory towers and keep cool while things around us go to the devil. We cannot live to ourselves like that and be content with our own peace of mind.

HARD TO CURE

We are also in danger of closing our minds to new ideas which ought to disturb us. Closed minds are very hard to cure, because nobody ever comes to a priest or preacher asking to be cured of his narrow-mindedness.

Our minds may imprison us by confining us in vicious circles of thought. Our minds keep recurring to fixed ideas and fears. We go around in circles of frustration. We are like the Indian who thought his blanket was too short and cut off one end and sewed it to the other end, which made it longer.

We often think our trouble is to make both ends meet, when our real trouble is that we are trying to make the ends of life into the ends of life.

We need higher help in air-conditioning our minds. Often, I hear people say, "I go to the church where I get something." That is in part a very valid reason for going. The church should give people something to help them—peace of mind, courage of spirit, freedom from anxiety, even health of body.

SEEK TO SHARE

But what so many do not go on to see, and what the church sometimes fails to show, is that we should seek to get something from God only that we may share it. When we go to church to get something, we must ask why we want it. Why do I want peace of mind? Merely that I may be free from anxiety and smugly complacent? Or that I may be a more stable and helpful member of my group? Why do I want God to give me an attractive personality? Merely that I may be admired and be successful? Or that I may add to the welfare of those who have to associate with me?

It was of George Bernard Shaw, I think, who characterized some modern church congregations as a mob of hermits, each bringing his cup of self-satisfaction to be filled at the church and then carrying it back to his own little cave.

The real gifts of God cannot be gotten by people who are wrapped up in their own self-interest. Ben Franklin was wise as usual when he said: "A man wrapped up in himself makes a small bundle."

ARE YOU WORTH IT?

Back in World War II days, when anti-Japanese feeling ran high, Dr. Henry Sloan Coffin told a certain congregation about a church which had received a Japanese-American family into membership. After the sermon an elder of the church where Dr. Coffin was preaching came up to him and said, "If one of those little yellow beasts came to this church he wouldn't get my vote for admission." Dr. Coffin replied: "But remember Christ died for them too." The elder answered, "Well, if He did, it wasn't worth it, His white." To which Dr. Coffin quietly replied, "Were you?"

Some time ago I spent a night in a pleasantly air-conditioned hotel room. I left a call to be awakened. When the phone rang, the voice said: "It is seven-thirty and the temperature is 94." Shut in my room I was sheltered from the heat. But I had to go to work. And my business took me out into the heat of the day. Sooner or later we have to do business in God's world. And we better fit ourselves to face it.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

Take My Life And Let It Be

Take my life and let it be
Consecrated, Lord, to thee;
Take my moments and my days,
Let them flow in ceaseless praise.

Take my hands and let them move
At the impulse of thy love;
Take my feet and let them be
Swift and beautiful for thee.

Take my will, and make it thine,
It shall be no longer mine;
Take my heart, it is thine own,
It shall be thy royal throne.

Take my love, my Lord, I pour
At thy feet its treasure-store;
Take myself, and I will be
Ever, only, all for Thee!

BY HORACE B. POWELL

Happiness inspired by the winning of a group of friends to Christ led Frances Ridley Havergal, consecrated young English woman, to compose this beautiful prayer hymn, in 1874.

Miss Havergal, the daughter of an Episcopal clergyman, was born at Astley, Worcestershire, England, in 1836. Her father was a musician and hymnist as well as a preacher and Frances, who inherited his musical and literary talents, became a brilliant singer and pianist. Early in life she decided that her talents should be used, as far as possible, to lead others to the Christ she had learned to love and serve. She conducted prayer-meetings, wrote Sunday leaflets, and composed innumerable hymns for children.

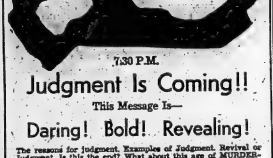
Her hymn, "Take My Life", was written one week-end while Miss Havergal was spending several days with friends at Areley House, in England. Writing later, of that visit, she said:

"There were ten persons in the house, some unconverted and long prayed for, some converted but not very happy Christians. I prayed: 'Lord, give me all in this house.' And He just did! Before I left, every one had received a blessing." The last night of my visit, after I had retired, the governess came to me and asked me to come to the room of the two daughters of the family. I found them weeping. We talked and prayed together and then and there, both of them trusted and rejoiced. It was a nearly mid night. I was too happy now to sleep and passed most of the night in praise and renewal of my own consecration, and these little couplets formed themselves and chimed in my heart, one after another, until they finished with 'Only all, only for Thee!'"

Frances Havergal tried always to live in the spirit of her hymn of consecration. In 1879, she wrote to a friend:

"The Lord has shown me another little step and, of course, I have taken it with extreme delight. Take my silver and my gold' now means shipping off all my ornaments to the Church Missionary House (including a jewel cabinet which is really fit for a countess) where all will be accepted and disposed of for me. I retain a brooch or two for daily wear, memorials of my dear parents, also a locket containing a portrait of my dear niece Jo Reaven, Evelyn, and her two rings. Nearly fifty articles are being packed up. I don't think I ever packed a box with more pleasure."

She died in Wales on June 3, 1879 and was buried at Astley, her birthplace. She went out with a hymn of hope on her lips. She was singing:



"Jesus, I will trust Thee,
Trust Thee with my soul
Guilty, lost, and helpless,
Thou hast made me whole!
There is none in Heaven,
Or on earth like Thee,
Thou has died for sinners,
Therefore, Lord, for me."

FAST WALKING

HAMILTON (CP)—Leo Sygeren of Brooklyn, N.Y., set a record Sunday when he walked the 42 miles from Toronto city hall to Hamilton's city hall in 6 hours 55 minutes and 49 seconds.

It was the first time the seven-hour mark had been broken in the 46-year history of the walking marathon. The previous record was set two years ago by Detroit's Bill Mihaik, who was four minutes over the seven-hour time.

Eighteen started the walk. Second was John Wall of Baltimore, a good half hour behind the winner.

White-haired Tommy Brown of Milwaukee, Wis., propelled his 84-year-old frame over the distance, finishing in just over nine hours.

CBC-TV EXPANDS

TORONTO (CP)—The CBC has purchased a building in central Toronto to expand its television studios and workshops. It said a studio for producing large-scale musical type programs will be built in the front half of the building while paint shops, property shops and storage rooms will take up the rest of the space. The new studio may be in operation by Dec. 1.

HOME-OWNING DANGER

A novel view is always worthy of careful study. We should not dismiss it lightly, merely because it runs contrary to what we have become accustomed to accept as the truth.

One of the widely-held beliefs in our Canadian civilization is that home-owning is desirable.

Fraser Robertson, financial editor of the Toronto Telegram, recently chalked up a point for the previously mute opposition. Some Canadian economists, he said, are disturbed at the large number of Canadian workers who are buying their homes, instead of renting them. These purchases mean, in effect, that the workers are tied to the communities in which they live. It is no answer to the argument to reply that workers can find an easy market for these homes if they wish to seek employment elsewhere. That is true today — but it would not be true if economic conditions at a point became such as necessary for large bodies of workers to seek employment in other communities. Thus 'home-owning,' says Mr. Robertson, places a very real obstacle in the way of free movement of workers to seek out opportunity and carries with it the possible threat of depressed areas, such as existed in the United Kingdom during the thirties.

"Governments, of course, is for the government to turn from its present policies which promote home ownership to a system which would encourage the construction of houses for rental purposes," Mr. Robertson notes two conditions which must be met: rents must be in line with workers' take-home pay and the landlord must be given more inducement in the form of greater financial returns on his investment than exists under present conditions. One problem would be overcome by the building of more homes as a result. There is anything short of a policy of government subsidization of rental housing, a policy which most economists consider highly undesirable.

What then is left for those Canadian workers are not, in Mr. Robertson's words, to be "mortgaged to their jobs or to communities where opportunity has died?"

Several things need to be done. Canada is a rapidly growing country. That this condition of nation-wide growth will continue without interruption is unlikely. But it may be said, in our opinion, that even our "depressed areas" will merely be communities which, because of conditions in certain industries on which they depend, cease to expand. If that is the extent of the danger, depressed areas or the home-owning worker will still be able to market his house when he desires to move elsewhere in search of opportunity, although he may not be able always to demand the high prices now prevailing.

In other words, the ownership of a house should not shackle him to his community, but should not be so strong that it cannot be broken if he is willing to accept a minor loss as the price for his freedom to roam to greener pastures.

SCIENCE ON THE GRIDIRON

Science, at times, is positively miraculous. Take the case of college football in the United States. (Or don't if you want to, brother and sister, the purpose of this editorial you will have to bear with us.)

Getting back to football. This year American colleges are playing what's known as "unlimited" football. That means that unlimited substitution has been eliminated to the point where any average genius can identify the players on the gridiron and send in the proper substitutes in the time long enough to make identification possible. Instead of divisions of men trooping on and off their chalked parade ground after every play, there is now merely a platoon or two of specialists on hand to come in and relieve the infantry intact.

Well, down at the University of Maryland the football trainer has brought into use an ultrasonic vibrator that is supposed to activate the players' molecules to speed up the healing process when the gladiators have been injured. So far, so good. What might be expected by the literati who know that the Maryland team's nickname is "the Terrapins" — a species of land turtle for those of you whose zoology is rusty — the vibrator is not intended to agitate the players into any more effective frenzy than the coach's half-time harangue.

The machine sends out ultrasonic impulses at 1,083 feet per second and when applied, by means of a rubber disk, to an injury is expected to whip up the molecular components in adjacent tissue.

The theory behind all this obviously is that a vibrating molecule heals faster than a dormant one.

With Maryland's outstanding record, U.S. college football is the last scene that this invention is being tried solely for humanitarian reasons in the rehabilitation of punctured warriors. Maryland's opponents may take a dim view of it anyway. They will keep the Terrapins in finer fighting fettle but narrow personal prejudice shouldn't be allowed to disrupt the ever forward march of science.

We are a bit disturbed however about this trend to an ultrasonic vibrator. We always thought that football players healed their wounds and bruises most readily to the very audible vibrations initiated by beautiful young ladies in gaming skirts and amplified by repetition from thousands of fellow students and alumni.

Oh well! C'est la guerre.

COSTUME PARTIES

It used to be fun, but I now shake
To go to a party in costume
I dress
When I arrive, I'd proudly appear at a ball
In a baby's skirt and not mind it at all.

I've dressed as a pirate, a tramp
or a clown,
Been chased by strangers the streets up and down.
I've appeared as a minstrel, face shiny black,
Many, for such gay frivolity
courage I lack.

I don't mind the parties for black cost and tan,
But for me to wear costume the time has passed by.
To dress as an Arab now foolish
would seem,
I won't go as Cupid though love
be the theme.

Of all fancy raiment I've had my full share,
The garb of a gypsy let younger boys wear.
I'll be the old stick if I'm asked to dress up.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

November 7, 1923

Mrs. N. Patterson, Chatham Street, and Mrs. Timothy Daly have returned home from Chicago, Ill., where they visited the World's Fair.

Mr. Franklin Lang of the Bank of Montreal, Frankford, Falls, is home to spend a vacation.

The euchre and dance which was held by the Belleville Orange Lodge in their hall was very successful. The prize winners were: Ladies' first, Mrs. W. McKenna; second, Mrs. F. Gill; third, Mrs. T. Robinson. Lone hand, Mrs. Osborne. Men's first, H. Flindall; second, N. Perry; third, E. Hoard; lone hand, E. Hoard. About 100 persons were present and everyone was enjoyed.

Miss Catherine Grier has returned home after spending a week's vacation at St. Ola.

Mrs. Mandel Bird has returned home from Toronto where she spent several days.

30 YEARS AGO

November 7, 1923

After living practically all of his 84 years in Belleville Mr. James Copeland, Foster Avenue, left here to reside in Toronto. For many years Mr. Copeland conducted a harness shop on Front Street, north of Victoria Avenue.

The Canadian new two dollar bills are now in circulation. Manager Martin of the water works department informs us that the work of laying the intake pump at the pump house is progressing satisfactorily. One thousand feet of the 30-inch pipe have been laid and the remaining 500 will be in position within the next few days.

Miss Helen Rogers, Albert Street, is visiting relatives in Kitchener.

Chief of Police John Newton will spend Thanksgiving Day in Toronto.

Rev. Leroy Keene is spending a few days in Toronto.

40 YEARS AGO

November 7, 1913

At a meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board 1,100 boxes of cheese were boarded. Mr. Morgan secured 315 boxes at 13 7-16 cents; Mr. Mark Savage bought 225 boxes at 13 1-16 cents and the balance was sold at 13 cents.

Belleville Market Prices—eggs 40 cents per dozen; butter 30 cents per pound; chickens $1 to $1.50 per pair; ducks $1.30 to $1.60 per pair; geese $1.50 to $2 each; potatoes $1.10 per bag.

Mr. McAllister Moore and Mr. Ray Moon have returned from Montreal where they spent several days on business.

Mr. J. J. Moorman has sailed for home from Liverpool.

Mr. W. P. Hudson of the Y.M.C.A. staff is spending a few days at his home in Hamilton.

50 YEARS AGO

November 7, 1903

The writing class at the Y.M.C.A., under the direction of Mr. J. A. Tousaw will meet this evening.

Belleville Market Prices—butter 21 cents to 23 cents per pound; chickens 40 cents to 70 cents per pair; ducks 80 cents to 90 cents per pair; turkeys 11 cents to 12 cents per pound; potatoes 65 cents to 75 cents per bag.

Mr. Robert Alford, son of Mr. Walter Alford, has left for Montreal where he will spend the winter.

Mr. Archie Riddell of Gilmour, is renewing acquaintance in town.

Mr. H. Bleecker of Trenton, was in town today.

His Majesty King Edward will be 61 years of age on Nov. 9th.

From our file copy at this time in 1878: "Rev. Dr. C. A. Hanson preached an excellent sermon in the morning in Bridge Street Wesleyan Methodist Church on Sunday evening." (Note 1953—Mr. Hanson eventually returned to England and some years later he became Lord Mayor of London.)

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Recently one of the five cats kept around the barn by my farmer sister, met us on the road near the farm with a chipmunk in her mouth. Seeing us coming she halted at the right dramatic distance for a good show and dropped the chipmunk. All stomped out and literally stiff with a sort of paralysis, the pood chipmunk hobbled a foot or two. Smaug caressed and lifted it back to the middle of the road. There she released it again, and turned away with the elaborate air of one changing her mind and going the other way. The chipmunk, in a flash of desperate hope, tried to summon enough strength to make a run for the ditch. But that queer paralysis which humped his back and made all its hind legs to drag, could not be shaken. After about three feet of nightmarish effort, it was instantly seized by Smokey who lapped like a tiger or a polar chacking hockey player from the path of the road.

By this time we had collected our shocked wits and charged for Smokey. My wife and daughter chased her all the way to the barn, cornered her and, to her complete astonishment, took the chipmunk from her.

It sat motionless and apparently lifeless in my wife's hand all the way back out to the road, its hind legs hanging or projecting backwards from its body. They appeared to be paralyzed in fact, and we supposed the cat had bitten some nerve or sinew. Making sure, with thing cloely with earth, that Smokey could not follow, here the chipmunk to a clump of bushes undergrowth and laid it down. It crouched motionless, hind legs still dragging behind it, rather than under it. I prodded it gently with my finger. It seemed to be waking from a sleep or stupor. It lapped a few inches. I touched it again. It struggled another few feet. But we wanted it to be seen the security of the boulders and tangled brush. One more touch, and the chipmunk appeared to spring with the shock of a sudden frenzied force, two, three enormous leaps, and vanished quick as only a chipmunk can, amidst the covert. It could not possibly be quite harmed by muscle, flesh or nerve.

Can it be that Nature anesthetizes with a paralysis of fear the creatures upon which predators prey? Was the chipmunk, by all intents and purposes dead when we found it? Was it playing with it? It seemed to wake from the dead.

Dangerous Ice Chute

A six-year-old Memphis girl who saw the movie "Shane" was quoted as saying "The ship hit an ice cube and sank." We learn something every day. We'd thought the only craft to be sunk by an ice cube was the highball.

The Unkindest Cut

(Winnipeg Free Press)

Company Sergeant Major Reginald Jaro of the British Army was not one to carry tradition, and it is common knowledge that the wearing of a handle-bar moustache by persons in the R.S.M. is an unofficial "must" in the Imperial forces.

Consequently, in the year 1940, Sergeant Major Jago, as was his duty to himself and his colleagues, took it upon himself to improve on the British noble tradition ornamenting his upper lip. Other sergeant majors had cultivated brushing handlebars that measured eight, ten, and even a record twelve inches across, and this they did with infinite pride and to a flourish, but Jago was the first to add a touch of originality to the art. He would have none of it. At this point, the man-with-a-mission left the scene of his main labors and continued. He settled down in Devon to devote his full attention to his moustache. It grew in spring showers, thrived in the summer sun, was nourished by autumn rains and withstood winter blasts.

Then last spring the first major hurdle in Jago's career. His handlebars measured precisely twelve inches across, to the nearest quarter inch or so, and it would be the finest in the land.

Disaster, a tragic day about four months ago, which left on record as the saddest in the evidence possibly the saddest tale ever told. William Chapman Wylie, in the New York Herald Tribune, describes it with his sensitive pen.

Last June a day dawned fair in Devonshire. The sun rose. The soft air bore no premonition of what was to befall. Reginald found himself in the town of Teignmouth. As he walked down the street, his moustache quivering in the air, men turned to look in admiration, a compliment Reginald always took as a token of the perseverance of a man who will dedicate his life to a single aim.

The day was warm and Reginald felt a thirst. He went to the bar at the Ship Hotel and ordered a pint. As he waited, a man poured he was at peace with the world. In the back of the bar sat man, Charles Yandell, a master tailor.

Charles was that type which neither anthropologist nor psychiatrist have ever fully explained, the practical poker, the sort described by his friends as "a card." Charles' glance fell on the burly ex-sergeant major and lingered on the tips of that proud moustache.

He rose quietly and moved unobtrusively up the bar. His big-game hunter never moved more cautiously than Charles as he leaned up behind the unsuspecting Reginald. A pair of scissors flashed in the light as the rounded Reginald's left cheek. Two sounds broke the hush of the bar, Reginald's "ouf" and Charles' cruel cry of triumph. "Got it!"

Five inches of fiery red moustache floated silently to the floor.

Heartbroken, his moustache trimmed back to the regulation Parliamentary size, Reginald went to see his lawyer. The dastardly master tailor was sued into twelve pounds ten shillings and sixpence, enough sum for the infinite hurt done to a soldier's pride. Reginald paid, and Reginald was like a man with thoughts too deep for tears. He watched up to twirl the ends of the moustache that weren't there. He felt that there is a limit to what a man can endure. He could only say: "At least three years' hard labor."

Those who have climbed to the very top of the world (by Everest and raised their goal by 29,000 feet) have said that the last all the weary effort will understand.

Keep Reading To Bitter End

(Montreal Gazette)

In London Films' lavish presentation of "The Story of Gilbert and Sullivan," the human side of the story was saved from the purely theatrical in Sir Arthur Sullivan's life-long friendship between the capital "s" for Art, or the stage, and Society. The film has a pretty girl turning the screw for the first time between the two, and the engagement with him because he writes the "unsuccessful comic opera by Jury" instead of devoting himself to the exercises of serious music and operas she believes he should write.

Sullivan, she says, as "Trial by Jury" will be forgotten in 10 years. He should write for posterity.

The truth is that no one can tell for sure what posterity will be like. The writer who is talented enough and honest enough to be able to present a true picture of his times can be sure of his place in time. He will always have historical value, even if his entertainment value is forgotten for a time.

Bennett Cerf, in his column in the Saturday Review, tells of an 18th century Indian philosopher who was found so doubtful if anyone would read his work after he was dead that he persuaded a student found a folio of his work in the Indian library and he decided to study it.

When he was well into the musty pages, he found a note saying, "The finder of this is hereby ordered to go to Bridge Court and Look up File 162, R.R. Bones, February 3, 1784." The finder was signed by the philosopher.

The student went to the court to find that he, as the first person since 1784 to read that far into the folio, had inherited all the philosopher's fortune, which now amounted to a million pounds.

Like most philosophers in a similar position, the student is now on the French Riviera, reading nothing heavier than Zane Grey. The only thing there is a rush on 12th century philosophers in the Indian Library.

The toms in which the note was found will probably be worth a fortune. Such is dependence on the tastes of posterity.

Orillia Plan Wins Applause

(Sudbury Daily Star).

The secretary-manager of the Orillia Chamber of Commerce, Garnet Smith, is promoting a public competition for a Christmas tree, at which all discarded Christmas trees will be burned in a big bonfire.

We must applaud the Orillia Chamber for a novel way of disposing of one of the post-Christmas problems that annually face us.

The Orillia Chamber of Commerce seems to have come up with a brilliant idea in good civic ingenuity.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

A DOCTOR SHOULD BE A "TEA"

Back in the days before Medicine converted to business, a national physicians' organization called the Anti-Alcohol Association of Medical Practitioners was more interested in Medicine than in cigaret and fancy soap (or sales) passed the following resolution:

Dr. Brady

Wherever we believe that the use of alcohol is detrimental to the human economy; and

Whereas its used in therapeutics is a toxic or stimulant, and for food has no scientific value; therefore

Be it resolved, that the American Medical Association is opposed to the use of alcohol as a beverage; and

Be it further resolved, that the use of alcohol as a therapeutic agent should be discouraged.

That was and still is an honest appraisal of alcohol in Medicine, which the A.M.A. ever believed in those days—poor but honest.

Today the A.M.A. is rich. Filthy rich. Why, just the weekly taxis from cigaret, pop and trick cigar promotions alone are large enough to pay the late Pooh-Bah's national debt.

So far the organization has not made the break, but everytime I pick up my weekly Journal-Medy, which I do with reluctance because it tends to prevent good health, I expect to find the first full color presentation of one of those "tea" parties, with drinks a-boose.

Some anti-alcohol resolution has never been rescinded, but it the whiskey, beer and wine interests are ready to form a powerful so-called medical organization can brush aside the old resolution and declare alcoholic drinks and beverages to the place they held in the 19th century medicine as stimulants and tonics!

In any matter of health and happiness of life and death I'd hate to be at the mercy of a person or group of persons who are not teetotal abstainers. A personal medical or lay, who thinks he can better solve a problem or pass judgment or perform operation scientifically while under the influence of a drink is in my opinion automatically disqualified, because if the drink contains enough alcohol to have an appreciable effect the alcohol benumbs, depresses, narcotizes the higher centers of brain, so that the drinker is for a brief period free from the restraints of consciousness, judgment and caution. I'd rather have a "T" or operate on me.

It seems to me that alcohol is now a greater menace to America than ever before. The churches can do nothing about it, lest they offend the millions of wealthy citizens who derive their wealth directly or indirectly from alcohol. The press is still one group of influential people who can't be muzzled—parents, uncles, aunts, grandparents, big brothers and big sisters of growing children. In some instances these people have enough influence to prevent alcohol drinking at any age to sign the pledge and renew membership at each birthday, or other anniversary. Every day of my life I thank God and the W.C.T.U. that my parents did this for me. Children today need this protection more than we did when I was a boy.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FRIENDSHIP

Friendship is something that you have to keep watering, like a flower garden, if you wish it to remain fresh, colorful, and fragrant. Without our friendships we would be travelling a very lonely road through life.

Many a time friendships get dented, like a mudguard on the body of a car, or they grow sluggish because of neglect and worn-out. In the cruise of friendships are delicate affairs, demanding care, consideration, and a great deal or understanding. We are constantly being put to the test in our friendships. They must not be confined to a one-way street. Selfish traits will spell that a two-way street offers.

Once you make a genuine friend; tie to him, or her, without reserve. You can afford to and I don't mean that you would be no spice to friendships but they are not taken frequently or misunderstandings and disagreements. It's the good period that has to be considered, as well as some's capacity to forgive and to forget. This often makes all the difference.

I was recently told of a long friendship between two American countries. The decision that one of them had made in business was opposed to that of the other one believed should have been made. The former they did not speak to each other. Then one said to the other: "Shouldn't we continue our friendly lately." Said the other: "No, we have not, and I don't like it." Then broke the ice, and the long friendship between the years was newly cemented.

Little things bring about great friendships and as little things have been known to break them up. We have to be very tolerant and broad minded to keep a friendship in good and constant repair. No material price can be put upon a friendship. Yet many's a relationship has been broken by one who put money above friendship and a friend. Friendship in itself is wealth!

Ban Waffles, Sold Too Well

(Edmonton Journal)

A beautiful example of the spirit of nationalized industry, where the customer is always wrong, is reported from Britain by the London Daily Worker.

It happened in the lunchroom of Parkinson Station, where like everything else connected with the British railway system it is operated by the government. For many years waffles were one of the specialties of the house. Then one day they were taken off the menu. A customer politely demanded the reason for the deletion.

Replied the waitress: "Too many people wanted them."

Canuck Diners Misunderstood

(Ottawa Journal)

A Canadian at dinner in a foreign land is completely misunderstood. If he takes his fork in his right hand and proceeds to shovel the meat on his plate, then he's an American. If he takes the fork in his left hand and his knife in his right, pinning down his prey before he cuts, then he's English.

There's no use trying to explain. Waiters know best. Americans eat one way, the English another, and Canadians eat as they shall meet. Some Canadians eat the English way, some the American. Enough to prove our independence, and eating with our fingers!

HUNGRY FOR BREAD

May I say a word to my fellow ministers who may read this column.

Why have we so often failed in our efforts as ministers? Many explanations can be made to this query, but if you will permit me to suggest one reason, can I say that we have all the contents-slade married in the truth of the matter is that we don't know what is right and how to do right. They go to church, about the Pyramid that they will enable them to do what they "ought" to know they ought to do. It is not necessary for us to analyze their vices from the pulpit or to spell out methods of dealing with them. People want to know that there is spiritual power available to help them in realizing their highest moral aspirations. They want to hear about God who forgives, One who bears prayer, who heals diseases, and whose presence is a light before their feet, making clear the pathway in a dark and troubled world.

They come seeking for the bread of life, and we frequently offer them philosophy, sociology, psychology, or even a resume of current events.

The only reason they keep coming is that they know we have the bread or life, and they are hungry for it. They will not eventually and spread it before them.

Accomplished Violinist Now Belleville Resident

Belleville, Trenton, and Middleton Park residents are fortunate to have in their midst a musician, Barnett Taylor, of London, England, who has devoted more than thirty years of his lifetime to playing the violin and who received his training under one of England's foremost violinists.

Barnett Mr. Taylor has found that there are many musically-minded people in Belleville who would like to have an orchestra formed. "This development of an orchestra is something that requires more than just theorizing and "has to carry a good string of violins," he states. It is Mr. Taylor's hope that there can develop a string section for a Belleville orchestra.

SCORING FACTS

At present Mr. Taylor is working on scoring parts for his pupils so that they will be able to play together as an ensemble. Remarking on this phase of the work, he added: "I have found very satisfactory results both to the performer and the listener of an orchestra comprised solely of violins playing together in four-part harmony. I hope to be able to demonstrate to the Quinte district within a few weeks of what I mean by letting them hear a violin orchestra composed of way parts.

Referring to methods of teaching the violin in England, Mr. Taylor remarked: "Music is considered a very important subject in England, and a large number of schools carry a small stock of violins for the use of any of the students. Instruments are loaned to the pupils for a small charge and after awhile the pupil who shows an aptitude for the instrument, has no difficulty in persuading his parents to purchase a violin for his own use. A violin orchestra is something that any school could be proud of and something that is practical."

Today, there are twenty students studying the Quinte district under Barnett Taylor. He is pleased with the response, but adds that to enable him to pursue a career here as a violin teacher he should have fifty students.

His fourteen-year-old son, Raymond, who has been studying since the age of ten, last year obtained a violin scholarship to the Royal College of Music, London. Like his father, he too, wants to be a professional violinist and will resume his studies under his father when he arrives with Mrs. Taylor from England at the end of November.

One of Barnett Taylor's pupils is David Cunningham, son of W/C and Mrs. D. D. Cunningham, 3 Broadmer Blvd., Middleton Park.

Mrs. A. Elliott, H. Tompkins, Stirling, New Matron, Patron Of Belleville Chapter OES 55

With every one of the twelve chapters in the district represented augmented by representatives from three Toronto Chapters, the impressive installation ceremony of the Order of the Eastern Star was carried out at the Masonic Temple on Friday evening, when Mrs. Audrey Elliott, of Stirling, and Mr. Harry Tompkins, also of Stirling, became Worthy Matron and Patron of Belleville Chapter No. 55. Approximately 500 were in attendance.

Others to be installed for the ensuing year were Associate Matron, Mrs. Ann Davidson; Associate Patron, Earl Wilson; secretary, Mrs. Leah Pitt; treasurer, Mrs. Phyllis Berry; Conductress, Mrs. Vi Slavin; Associate Conductress, Mrs. Jean Adams; chaplain, Mrs. Grace Patterson; Marshal, Mrs. Olive Jones; organist, Mrs. Audrey Hall; Adah, Mrs. Marion Vaughan; Ruth, Mrs. Hazel Hooper; Esther, Miss Isabel Orne; Martha, Mrs. Jewel Holway; Electa, Mrs. Stella Dugelby; Warder, Mrs. Hazel Bentinel; Mrs. John Good; flag bearer, Mrs. Flora Sherry.

COLORFULLY DECORATED

For the installation service the hall was colorfully and skilfully decorated in the colors, red and gold, and the symbols of the Order of the Eastern Star.

At the back of the hall, representing the East, was a large crimson curtain, intricately looped at the top with gold cord, and across the front of it was the chapter's motto for the year, "Whatsoever you would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." Below this in bas relief was the lighted star.

Pots of tall cattails in metallic gold and red, and sheaves of golden barley adorned a white picket-type fence in front of the platform.

In the centre of the floor was the altar on a blue rug, outlined in a lighter blue, and placed on the altar was five pedestals, symbolizing the five points of the star. Masses of flowers in white baskets were arranged at the top of each pedestal. Behind these, which represented the West, were the Ionic pillars and seats for the associate matron and patron.

Arranged on the platform were seats for the Grand Chapter, officers and their large ornate chairs for the heads of the chapter. In charge of decorations for the service was Mrs. Pearl Johnston. Miniatures of the Golden Rule were distributed as souvenirs during the evening.

INSTALLING TEAM

The installing degree team was composed of Mrs. Essie Naylor, PDDGM, as installing matron and Clifford Barnes, P.P., as installing patron. Other installing officers were chaplain, Mrs. Kathleen Adams, PM; Mrs. Lillian Lee, PM; Mrs. Phyllis Barlow, PM, Mrs. Maude Elliott PM, Mrs. Hazel Hooper, PM, Mrs. Ana Boyd PDM, Mrs. Irene Brown PM, Mrs. Ethel Adams PM, Reeves Orne PM, Harold Dugelby PP, with Mrs. Getra Baker PM, Mrs. Ada McMullen PM, Mrs. Dorothy McGlashon PM. The honorary officers at the installation were Mrs. Margaret Shaw, Miss Mary Carmichael, Mrs. Dora Elvidge, Mrs. Mary McLean, all past matrons of the order, Mrs. Dora Bobbs DDGM, Mrs. Wilma Reddick, newly-elected matron of the Minerva Chapter, Mrs. Gladys McFaul PDDGM, Mrs. Evelyn Hadly PDDGM, Mrs. Muriel Smith PM, and Harpa Pitt and Percy Kerr, past patrons.

Among the honored guests present were Mrs. Anna Boyd, of Barrie, Grand Page, Matron of the Grand Chapter of Ontario; Quinten Boyd, Past Grand Patron; Mrs. Edna Anderson of Bowmanville, Associate Grand Conductress; Mrs. Ruby Fleming of Wellington of the Grand Secretariat Committee; and Mrs. Evelyn Hadley of Trenton Grand Warder of the Grand Chapter. Mrs. Annie Warren of Marmora, delighted with a solo while Mrs. Annie Warren and Mrs. Mildred Morrow of Marmora, gave a duet.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, refreshments were served by the committee and a social hour was spent before one of the most enjoyable evenings in the history of the chapter was ended.

254 MINOR HOCKEY PLAYERS TURN UP AT MEMORIAL ARENA

254 minor hockey players turned up at the arena this morning for the first practice being assigned to a team and to obtain registration and insurance forms.

Ted Greer and Ted Jones were 43 squirts (under 10), 110 peewees (under 11) and 101 bantams with the age limit set at 14 prevailing the dressing rooms hoping to find out who they were to play for. This information will be published in the Ontario in next week.

Any players who could not make it to the arena this morning are asked to be there for next Saturday morning when play will get under way.

Canada's Future in Opera Outlined to Women's Club

"Opera, if successful, should be good theatre," said Dr. Ettore Mazzoleni, President of the School of Music, Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, as he addressed the Women's Canadian Club last evening at Queen Alexandra School, Ann St.

Dr. Ettore Mazzoleni, whose topic was "Opera," continued by saying that he wished to speak of opera in relation to the Canadian scene, and hoped his own experience was able to give a first hand picture of opera of today.

GREAT MISTAKE

"The great mistake is of trying to produce grand opera on a grand scale; we should begin at the bottom by training young people to act, and by training the audience to understand. It is hard to build an audience, as it is to produce good actors. In olden times the characters were not selected for their parts because of their fitness for those parts, but solely because of voice."

In explaining what he meant, Dr. Mazzoleni gave the illustration of the tenor who, because he weighs playing the love scene in some opera, would probably not even get near each other because of their sevirdrouls. Today good operatic demands actors adaptable and suitable for the parts representing.

GREAT TALENT

"Canada has a great amount of talent in singing, geography has nothing to do with acting. What Canada has lacked is the opportunity for training and when the actor has been trained, the opportunity for acclamation. He cited the case of Lois Marshall, whose beautiful voice was passed by in Canada, but as soon as she was heard in the United States, who acclaimed her talent, Canada then took notice.

Dealing with the thought of training, Dr. Mazzoleni added that one difficulty had been that when actors were trained, they were soon lost, as practically all wanted to go to Broadway and they lost touch with Canada.

NOT 'ONLY ALONE'

"In producing opera more is needed than merely voice, or ballet, but something comprising all of these to make good theatre.

When Dr. Mazzoleni came to Canada, he began with brief opera, two small operettas which were played in Hart House. From these brief scenes they moved forward to work with longer scenes, and after the Opera School, Ann St., grew.

All actors were trained to sing Italian in Italian operas, and French in French operas, as well as being trained in dialect from one branch to another. Later Jack Hall, a neighbor, set out with his gun in search of brain and spotted him as he was rounding a hill. "But Hall couldn't get within range.

Mr. Treverton stated he was within twenty-feet of the bear but did not have a gun. The animal shuffled, away at his approach.

"I have lived here fifty years," Mr. Treverton said, "and this is the first time I have ever seen a bear like that before." Occasionally we have seen deer, but not bears."

Bear Seen Near Latta

Don't speak to a stranger wearing a fur coat. He might turn out to be a black bear.

The brains are getting closer to city life in Hallowell. Yesterday a brain whose weight was guessed at 300 pounds was seen at mile southeast of the village of Latta.

It was spotted by Walter Treverton of the 6th concession of Thurlow, while feeding his young stock. The bear ambled across a field from one bounds to another. Later Jack Hall, a neighbor, set out with his gun in search of brain and spotted him as he was rounding a hill. But Hall couldn't get within range.

Mr. Treverton stated he was within twenty-feet of the bear but did not have a gun. The animal shuffled, away at his approach.

action. The Metropolitan Opera Company one year ago began training actors by television.

"Canada has talent and should be given opportunity to be recognized; it's a fact that Canada woke up to her opportunities, and be prepared to recognize what she has, and give the artistic appreciation she deserves," concluded the speaker.

Mazzoleni was introduced to his audience by the president of the Canadian Club, Mrs. W. L. Mallory, who also moved the appreciation for a delightful talk.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Willard LaCroix, Tweed, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Rose Cecilia, to Paul Allen Rose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bennet, Point Anne. The marriage to take place at St. St. Michael's Church, Saturday, November 21, at 10 a.m.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Pyne, Tamworth, wish to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Helen Mae, to Burton Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Whalen, Point Anne. Marriage to take place Saturday, November 28, 1953, at Erinsville, Ontario.

Mr. Homer Miller is now at his home, 113 West Main, convalescing following a recent appendectomy at Belleville General Hospital.

Friends of Mrs. Thomas Watt, 306 Pine Street, will be sorry to learn that she is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. Richard Seeley, Trenton, is a patient in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Misses Marjory and Jone Lynch, 151 Church Street, are spending the week-end in Plattsburg, N.Y., where they will attend the Coughlin-Mossette wedding.

Miss Stella V. McEwen, Bell Telephone staff, has returned from a three weeks' motor trip through the United States, returning by way of Winnipeg, B.C. and Chicago, Ill.

Pictured above is a view of the main kitchen of the Belleville General Hospital. In September 21,810 meals were prepared from the kitchen and served to patients and staff. Chief dietitian, Miss Audrey Bearcroft, plans to offer a selection of meals to patients when a new unit is completed. Besides the main kitchen there is also a diet kitchen and a salad kitchen. Main problem of this department is lack of storage space for vegetables and canned goods.

Challenging Indictment Made Of Education in Dr. Hilda Neatby's Book 'So Little for The Mind'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A key Canadian industry with an annual budget of approximately $400,000,000 which absorbs the entire time of five per cent of the population has come in for a challenging indictment in Dr. Hilda Neatby's "So Little for the Mind" (Clarke Irwin).

Education which supplies all other industries, including those concerned with the government and defence of the country, is examined from the point of view of the policies of educational administrators and their practices in teacher-training, high and elementary English-speaking schools in Canada.

Dr. Neatby, professor of history at the University of Saskatchewan and only woman member of the royal commission on national development in the arts, letters and sciences, writes as an "amateur and traditionalist," and quotes widely from many authorities.

She is seriously disturbed by the "apparent indifference of the experts to the disappearance of the old-fashioned ideal of the educated person" who chose to rest his reputation on his learning and conversation.

BROADLY CRITICAL

Progressive education, largely the result of the influence of the American education philosopher, Dr. John Dewey, has failed to meet the needs of the gifted child "and not stimulating age," Dr. Neatby insists. She charges that progressive education is anti-intellectual, anti-cultural and amoral.

The broad "principles of elementary and high schools . . . do not seem to have, as a result of their objective, that they are unaware of the existence of the problem." Dr. Neatby traces the origin of their boredom to the pupil-centred school and to teaching methods "as old as the mediocre members of the class."

The effect of such a situation on teachers is to render them "incapable of thought" that, although the latitude of courses of study and methods of instruction seem wide possible, the heavy, the almost unbearable pressure of the "average" for extra-curricular operations make it absolutely impossible for them to attempt anything original. Much less carry on their own investigation or development.

Western civilization faces the danger of "regression to mediocrity, equality in terms of a dull level of mediocrity" and shows too great "acceptance of the status quo." The great blessings of our Western age may be accompanied by great dangers.

The answer to the problem, says Dr. Neatby, is a renewal of faith to give direction and discipline to the mind and a return to "humility" and "reverence."

Kitchen costs are high due to lack of storage space for root vegetables and canned goods. These articles must be purchased in smaller quantities with need for the price of the goods up to a higher price level.

However, working under the difficult conditions she is, the dietitian is too busy to worry. She is busy planning her new kitchen and meals to the day when the new wing is completed.

Despite kitchen problems, the hospital staff will have a choice of meals. She also said that existing facilities are not sufficient for the kitchen staff's needs. They have one refrigerator where three, plus a deep freeze unit are required. Also needed are two tank dishwashers, with separate glass and silver must be washed by hand.

Another problem is lack of storage space for dishes, cutlery and silver must be washed by hand.

Indicts Education

Dr. Hilda Neatby, professor of history at the University of Saskatchewan and the only woman member of the Massey Royal Commission on Arts, and Letters is the author of the new book, "So Little For the Mind," called an "indictment of Canadian education." Born in Regina, Sask., Eng., Feb. 19, 1904, Dr. Neatby is prominent both as a writer and educationist.

"GOETHE'S FAUST"

Noted Chef Prefers Butter in Cooking

TORONTO — Recognized as accepted tradition, the trade secrets of acclaimed chefs are closely guarded, and they answer questions about their culinary masterpieces with an enigmatic shrug. Most of us are content to enjoy the palate-tickling dishes and attribute it all to "the magic touch."

Although not denying that a good chef may be something of a magician, Chef Henri Freiling of Ottawa's famous Chateau Laurier Hotel makes no secret of the fact that he prefers butter in his cooking. In the opinion of this expert, butter improves the flavor and the quality of food. "Nothing can replace butter for richness and higher quality in cooking," he maintains.

One of Chef Freiling's favorite recipes is the following for Butter Mousse, a sauce for cold-cooked fish, steaks or chops. When fish or meat is ready to serve, squeeze the juice of a quartered lemon over it. Sprinkle with a few finely chopped parsley or chives. In a frying pan, brown two tablespoons of butter for each person. Pour over fish or meat.

Many famous chefs are not alone in their enthusiasm for butter in their kitchens, for official figures of the dairy farmers of Canada point out that per capita consumption figures this year indicate an increase in the domestic disappearance of this dairy food.

Fashion Flashes

Corduroy has appeal for after-five wear. A charming import is of pink and red and red ruby velvet deftly twisted into a tiny turban that folds down to the ears and reveals the hair in front and back.

There are two sides to some of the after-dark black-dinner dress favorite devices is the simple bodice with a high collar in front that flows away like a back marked by a deep V, some openings reaching almost to the waist.

Graceful dresses for the woman of importance about this season, dresses that are beautiful and dignified without being either fussy or fiddly-duddy. One such is a slim dress of a black wool and acetate and rayon mixture with a subby weave in wool effect. Velvet, coupled with tiny ball fringe, edges the scoop neckline and the straight line of . . . the skirt down the front. Sleeves are long and slim and open with a slipper.

The Attractive Miss Knows What to Do With Her Hands

Get into the hand-lotion habit. Apply a non-sticky non-greasy lotion at bedtime. Let it smooth hands while you sleep.

By HELEN FOLLETT

It is important to keep hands soft while and smooth, nails delicately tinted.

The natural impulse is to lavish cosmetics on the complexion. That's all right, since everyone must keep the skin smooth. The protection necessary for their application has a tonic effect on the tissues and underlying muscles.

A HAND MASSAGE

Hands also require creaming to make up for the constant washing away of the natural oil that keeps the epidermal surface from drying out. At least once a week give yourself a hand massage. There are special creams for this purpose. They are a little richer than those compounded for the complexion.

If your hands are discolored, you will find harmless bleaches that will impart a whiter look. Or, you can rub a cut lemon into the skin.

Grace of movement should be cultivated, especially among the younger beauty-seekers who seem cot to know what to do with their hands, use them awkwardly.

Professional dancers Silitvate this form of grace to a high degree. They make their wrists flexible. Without flexibility of the wrists, movements are likely to be jerky and stiff.

Hold your hands before you with palms up. Stretch the fingers out parallel, bring them into the palms with a strong muscular pull, covering the closed fingers with the thumbs. Then relax them, and repeat. Fingers downward, press them palmward, then spread them fan-like and repeat.

Madoc-Elzevir S. S. Association Meets at Hazzard's United Church

The annual convention of the Madoc and Elzevir Sunday School Association was held in Hazzard's United Church.

The morning service was opened with the worship service by Rev. F. V. Lewis, after which Mr. Allen Ketcheson welcomed the Rev. and Mrs. John McNeil, who are new in the association, pastoring the Bannockburn Pentecostal charge. Greetings were also tendered by Miss Janet Rodgers, former pastor of Bannockburn, who came from Norwood to be with them for the convention. The group sang "Happy Birthday" to the Rev. Mr. Heslip.

ENLIGHTENING TALK

The minutes of the last convention were read and approved, followed by the reports of the Sunday Schools with all Sunday School reporting. A sing-song followed, with Mrs. Foyster at the piano. The first speaker of the morning, the Rev. F. V. Lewis, gave an enlightening talk, using as a basis for his remarks the Scripture of Timothy, "Study to show thyself approved unto God," who are new in the association, pastoring the Bannockburn Pentecostal charge. Greetings were also tendered by Miss Janet Rodgers, former pastor of Bannockburn, who came from Norwood to be with them for the convention. The group sang "Happy Birthday" to the Rev. Mr. Heslip.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HISTORY

Mr. Walsh gave a bit of the history of Sunday School, revealing that 75 per cent of church members came from Sunday School, 85 per cent church work-ers, and 95 per cent of the ministers and missionaries had attended Sunday School.

The morning address was taken and dedication given by Miss Rodgers, after which the Rev. J. F. Lane led the discussion, the subject: "The Bible, Our Bible, My Bible."

After some remarks regarding what it means to have "our Bible" these were rich related their lives for "our" Bible, strides in Bible translation (the Bible being translated into 1,100 languages and dialects), the work of the Bible society and some lovely poetry. The discussion was interesting as to methods to employ in teaching Scripture passages to Sunday School also some discussion as to the Revised Edition. Mr. Heslip closed the session with prayer.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session was opened with a devotional period by the Rev. R. Walsh, with the Rev. Mr. McEwen taking the devotional service. The hymn, "Stand Up For Jesus," was sung followed by the Bible reading from II Kings, Chronicles 23:1-7. A duet by Rev. and Mrs. Foyster, "In Times Like These," followed. Mr. Walsh introduced Miss Carrie Hazzard, the first speaker of the afternoon.

Speaking briefly of her homecoming, the convenor of her father, Miss Hazzard spoke regarding 'influence', referring especially to her Sunday School teachers, who were an example, always consistent, kind, patient and triumphant.

SCRIPT ILLUSTRATION

The illustration she left was one drawn from her visit to the home of Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek where sulphur baths were available to the home from the top of Grass Mountain. This water would have corroded the metals, if they had been available, but the bathe, which was plentiful and common there, having the fibrous centre removed became the perfect conductor for this liquid. So those who are common, when emptied of self, can become conductors of "Living Water" from the Upper Spring's of Grace.

Miss Rodgers led in some action choruses after which Mr. Arthur Wilson remarked on the necessity of the possession of the Living Water in the lives of teachers, in order that boys and girls might be saved.

Miss Richardson, second speaker of the afternoon was introduced by Mr. Poynter, whose topic was, "Foreign Interest in Sunday School." Having just completed a world tour with Miss Hazzard, she well know of the need of such work in other lands. Miss Richardson drew illustrations of the intense desire to worship that is found in many, also the ready response to the Gospel, telling how the people had to be driven from the building in order that a service might be closed.

HOME DUE CLOSED.

The illustration, which left her hearers encouraged, was that of a school teacher who taught a Sunday school in a community. Becoming discouraged and for lack of material and lack of funds, he closed the school. One couple, whose children had been taught by her, became concerned and offered to finance the Sunday school.

As a result of this new venture, the couple were converted and there now stands a growing church because someone became concerned.

Mr. Heslip thanked Miss Hazzard and Miss Richardson for their fine messages.

The addresses were followed by a duet rendered by the Reverend and Mrs. Poynter, "Let Me Love Myself and Find It, Lord, in Thee."

Following brief remarks by the Reverend H. Lewis, the afternoon session came to a close.

For those who could remain, tea and was a discussion regarding the Home Department of the Sunday School, and the point system for the banner.

The ladies of Hazzard's Church served a delicious supper.

The evening session was opened with a song service by Mr. Poynter and Mr. Heslip led the devotional period, using the hymn, "Trust and Obey," and the scripture from Psalm 23.

OFFICERS NOMINATED.

A duet, "The Garden of Prayer," was rendered by Marlene and Boyd Mackenzie after which the report of the nominating committee was read as follows: Honorary president, Allan Ketcheson; honorary secretary, Miss E. Moore; president, Allan Sagar; 1st vice-president, Lorne Kenny; 2nd vice-president, Mel Johnson; secretary, Mrs. Allan Franks; treasurer, Doug Hazzard; pianist, Clarence conveners, Mrs. Cecil Woodcock; assistant conveners, Mrs. Frank Rourke; pianist, Mrs. J. Denly; assistant secretary, Mrs. Orval Broad.

Mrs. Cecil Woods gave the temperance report; sixteen papers were written, eleven of which received prizes, two being country prizes. Those receiving prizes included Thomas Holmes, Janet Reynolds, Patsy Reynolds, Gloria Parks, Bobby Sager, Isabel Sager, Lindsay Sager, Janet Sager, Elaine Thompson, Bobby Keene and Betty Sager.

TEMPERANCE ADDRESS

The temperance address was given by the Reverend H. V. Crawford, of Carmora United Church, using for his scripture, quotations from St. Paul's writings regarding drunkenness, stating that while the Bible did not state that total abstinence was a necessity; yet he felt it was the only safe way, because of the influence on others, the waste of money, and the evil consequences of drink.

He spoke of the undernourished and the underclothed children who suffered as a result of those who drank. The text for the message was taken from Proverbs 20:1, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby, is not wise."

"The Holy City," as a solo was rendered by Mrs. Mel Gaines, followed by brief remarks by Mrs. Dave Hollinger, of Sidney township.

After the officers were installed by Mr. Crawford, Miss Rodgers led in a short sing-song service.

BANNER PRESENTED

The banner was presented to Bannockburn Pentecostal Sunday School by Mr. Allan Ketcheson, chairman of the banner committee, and was received with Mr. Harold Bell and Mr. Bill Aylesworth, rendered "Waiting on Jesus."

Miss Barbara Wilson, the last speaker of the convention, was introduced by Mr. Dave Hollinger. Miss Brown brought the thought that "young people of today will be the citizens of tomorrow," mentioning changes in the times due to travel and entertainment, and the conditions of young people connected with that of earlier days.

The interesting social evenings was emphasized as well as the necessity of the exclusion of alcoholic beverages from such affairs. The need for reading of God's Word was also stressed.

BE GOOD EXAMPLE

The fact that the young people of today will be the citizens of tomorrow, was also emphasized by Mr. Heslip, as an appeal made to older people to be an example to the young for the world works in cycles and what is made of the young people today, will determine what will be the character of the citizens of tomorrow.

Messrs. Brintnell and Aylesworth rendered "Gethsemane" and "The Stranger's Crucifixion."

Mr. Heslip closed the convention with prayer, after which he led in making it such a success.

21,310, Meals Served in September

More Kitchen Space, Equipment Needed at Belleville Hospital

Among the many necessary departments of the Belleville General Hospital, the kitchen stands out as one of the most important. It is the duty of staff to prepare meals for the patients and entire hospital staff. During September of this year, 21,310 meals were provided by the kitchen which when broken down is an average of 713 meals per day.

Within the confines of the main kitchen, diet kitchen, salad kitchen, dishwashing room, cafeteria area, cafeteria proper and office one office, 34 persons are employed. These include one dietitian, two dishwashers, four cafeteria aides, 15 ward kitchen aides, two dietitians and one supervisor.

In charge of dietetics, Miss Audrey Bearcroft, has been with the hospital almost a year. She is a native of western Canada and received her early education in British Columbia. She graduated from the University of Manitoba with a B.Sc. in home economics. Miss Bearcroft followed up her education with post-graduate work at Vancouver General Hospital and six years as head dietitian in other hospitals throughout the country.

LACK OF SPACE.

Miss Bearcroft stated that one of her major problems was the fact she is unable to offer a selective menu through lack of space and equipment. However, the dietitian said that with the completion of the new wing, patients and staff will have a choice of meals. She also said that existing facilities are not sufficient for the kitchen staff's needs. They

STOVES

How old is your electric range? If you have been using it for more than 40 years, it is something of an "antique" in appliances and may end up in a museum. . . . Skipping through a trade publication yesterday, we came upon some photographs of old kitchen ranges.

One of these, built of cast iron, was an experimental model. It resembled a rural telephone switchboard with plugs, wires and various gizmos. How anybody could possibly cook a dinner on it is a question.

ANOTHER RANGE

Another photograph showed a range with which we were familiar in 1914. It was made of solid walnut like the side board in the dining room. When you wanted to bake a roast, you removed the cutting board from the surface and plugged them into the oven. Then even the temperature control was automatic.

In two or three years, the use of wood was dropped and iron was used. Soon, enamel was added at first as trimming and later for the whole surface of the old electric stove.

POLIO

It seems to us that deaths in this season's polio epidemic are mostly in the 18 to 35 age group. Since every item in the paper telling of a polio death refers to a child under ten and a child in other years.

When total statistics are complete, a trend to older polio victims may show up.

GIFTS

One of the most practical and unusual gifts for the newly-born infant is a box containing a record and a standard phonograph. These are items which can be responsible for saving a child's life in cases these days. Cost is about 75c each.

For the business girl or student, there is a new kind of pen pocket or purse staplers in the stationery shops. These are colorful and inexpensive. Many shops are shown in an attractive plastic case for this item, priced at about $1.50.

If your car is not as new as your neighbor's and is hard to start in cold weather, think about getting your husband an electric heater for the engine. These heaters cost from $4 to $6. They plug into the engine block and keep it warm while the car is standing in the garage.

Uncle Frontenac says he'd like to see the time when Aunt Thesia would pick out a dress pattern that the store had in stock.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"MOTHER-IN-LAW TAKES HER SON AWAY FROM HER WIFE ME

Every time I write a piece with suggests that a mother-in-law is going overboard in the role of her married son or daughter, she, some thing always happens. Letters immediately start arriving to call me all sorts of an Ishmaelian monster who loves that when children leave the nest they should come back to once into the junk pile. Seldom in my letters of this sort do I invariably begin "I am a father-in-law myself." . . . Well, in a recent column, for instance, I commented on the letter of a daughter-in-law who was having other quite obviously, it seemed to me, brought in a nursing problem. She was the one of these frequently demanding, complaining, self-centered females who get started; all attention concentrated on herself, and even baby's welfare whole household upset and worse around. Quite naturally, I added, she was ill in a way I required much nursing care, but after the daughter-in-law left for several small children, I suggested to give her time and this daughter-in-law fled alone virtually packing the impossible, her relatives, including her self-effacing, tried mother-in-law, but had been unable to take her. Consequently, in two score—who obviously are all the ones on whom letters pour in—I believe this woman should be in a nursing home." And so do I.

Because I said so in print, however, the fat—they happened to be in one sample:

"I thoroughly disagree with your opinion of a mother-in-law as a mother-in-law, and I am tired of being imposed upon by daughters-in-law. I'd like to be your mother-in-law's bank. God I'm not.

"None who take care of their sweets, daughters-in-law right to stop finding fault. They is the father-in-laws themselves would want to be treated as I am treated. I'm ill, nobody asked them to get married. They chose their mates for their reasons and I'm not explaining.

"When I married, mother was widow and my husband's mother was a widow, and both lived with other one or the other received sum of money from us whic couldn't afford but we believe it in the commandment 'Honor thy father and thy mother,' and also 'Do unto others as you would have them do unto you.'

"How long will an old lady with dropsy live who has already had a stroke, as in the letter printed in your column? I advise her some to having a hearing aid conscience and sense of decency, and my opinion of her as a writer is 'Many are called, but few get up' to it fair standard."

Of course the letter was not signed. It was one of those antimonous epistles about which I wrote the other day which come to me from time to time from people who isn't wait to tell me how wrong and stupid I am, but who do not have the courage to sign their names to their scolding.

Now here is just exactly the kind of attitude which has been responsible not only for all the tales made about mothers-in-law, but for all the marital trouble caused by them. I wish very much that I could hear from this woman's own daughters-in-law by whom she is "sick and tired of being imposed upon." I strongly suspect they would have a interesting story to tell. Moreover, I don't gather that either of the widowed mothers-

QUESTION:

I was wondering if you have any recipes by which maple sugar could be used? I had a letter from a friend of mine in Ireland whose son brought back a bag of maple sugar from Canada. She is quite anxious to know of the ways to use it to best advantage.—Isabel B.

ANSWER:

Very interesting indeed.

RICE DELIGHT

Wash 1 cup long grain rice and drain. Put into aluminum, granite or white enamel saucepan with 2½ cups boiling water, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 2 teaspoons butter. Cover and bring to boiling point. Turn off heat as low possible. Do not stir. In 25 minutes or until rice has completely absorbed water it should be tender, but firm and each grain separate. Cool rice into it 1 cup raisins which has been whipped until stiff. (see substitutes below) and spile in sherbet.

Over top sprinkle 1 or 2 tablespoons each scraped or grated maple sugar. Chill thoroughly before serving. If cream is not available in Ireland as we buy it here a soft custard may be substituted for it.

Rice baked in pies or baking dishes are delicious, when seasoned with cinnamon, nutmeg and then sprinkled on top with scraped or grated maple sugar. While they are still warm. It melts a little and gives a delicious flavor and attractive appearance.

MAPLE SUGAR ROLLS

Put in mixing bowl 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt and 1 cup scalded milk. Let lukewarm and break in 1 yeast cake and stir until dissolved. Add 1 1-2 cups flour and beat well to thoroughly mix, then cover and let rise in warm place until light. Add about 1 1-4 cups flour (enough to prepare soft dough). Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until double in bulk. Roll out to 1-4 inch thickness and spread with butter and sprinkle with chopped maple sugar and nuts. Roll up like jelly roll, cut in 1-inch slices put in buttered muffin pans, let rise again and bake about 15 minutes at 425 deg. Fahr. Brush with melted butter as soon as removed from oven.

MAPLE SUGAR DIAMONDS

Beat 1 egg white until stiff and then add 1 egg yolk and beat for 2 minutes. Sift 1 cup flour with 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon powdered ginger and 1-2 teaspoon salt and add to egg mixture alternately 1-3 cup milk. Stir in 1-3 cup crushed maple sugar and 1 tablespoon melted butter, and pour into well-buttered shallow pan. Bake 15 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. or until firm. Cut into strips with sharp knife and then on diagonal to make diamond-shaped cookies.

Maple sugar, when cooked or grated may be used in almost every dark brown sugar is. I think it is especially delicious on hot rolled oats or cornmeal mush, also cereals for breakfast. I hope this helps your friend in Ireland.

QUESTION:

Would you have a recipe for Sweet and Sour Spareribs. . . . Also pickles and time and method for cooking.—No signature.

ANSWER:

SWEET AND SOUR SPARERIBS

Ask the butcher to chop ribs in halves crosswise, then you get them home cut between ribs so that meat is on both sides of rib bone and pieces are about 2 or 3 1-2 inches square. Dip these in flour then batter. Beat 1 egg, add 1-4 cup sifted flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons milk to make batter. Add about ½ the batter-covered ribs in peanut oil in deep fat kettle (do not fry all ribs at once as they get more cooking). Fry in another kettle 1 cup hard 4 tablespoons peanut oil and in it saute 1 fresh green pepper which has been cut into 1-inch squares, for 1 minute. Now add 1-3 cup brown sugar, 1-3 cup vinegar, 1-3 cup Worcestershire sauce, 1 cup tomato catsup, 1 cup cold water, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1-3 cup chopped sweet pickles, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper. Heat the vinegar, tomato catsup and water to boiling. Stir together the sugar and cornstarch and salt and pepper. Stir then into the boiling mixture until thick. Add the pickles and on ice cube.

GOUZENKO CLAIMS LIBEL

TORONTO (CP)—The law firm of Robinson and Haines said Thursday it has been instructed by Igor Gouzenko, the Russian embassy clerk who exposed his country's wartime espionage in Canada, to sue libel action against the Toronto Daily Star and one of its reporters. Gwyn Thomas, J. R. Robinson, senior in the firm, said the action will allege that Mr. Gouzenko was libelled in a Star story Oct. 20.

BEAUTY

FACIAL MASSAGE

Cleansing cream is not suitable for massage

Wise women, following their beauty routine, keep a weather eye on the future. Massage should be regularly responsible for premature wrinkles tomorrow. There are other causes of course —ill health, loss of sleep, emotional storms and malnutrition. Another factor is facial gymnastics —lifting the eyebrows, pulling them together, pulling down the lower lip.

The time to fight lines on your face is before you get them. By applying nothing except cream in quantity and by keeping the facial skin exercised with mild friction, you can ward off lines. Facial massage, correctly done, is the best weapon one has against the inroads of time.

When lines have formed but have not yet too deeply, the right kind of friction may serve as a corrective treatment. Some women say they are afraid to massage—that someone has told them it will cause more lines to form. Nothing of the sort. "correctly" belongs to a by gone day when facial operators believed in the strong arm method. No such work is done with delicacy and understanding of the location of muscles and nerves.

The cleansing cream you use daily is the cream for massage at bedtime. Get a heavy cream that will not penetrate to the fingers. Apply to a clean skin surface, starting at the collar bones and working upward. Stroke the neck up and down. Make circles on the cheeks, but do not press the flesh up around the eyes. Stroke gently from chin tip to ear lobes. Also make circles over the forehead and between the eyes if frown lines are forming. Then slap and pat over the entire facial area. What you cream is on,drink on an ice cube.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

BRIDE'S FATHER MAKES TENDER REMONEY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I remember reading in your column some time ago that you had been to a wedding in which when the clergyman asked the question, "Who giveth this woman to be married, to this man?" the bride's father very lovingly replied, "Her mother and I do." I remember your saying that you were very touched by this reply, which rightly included both parents. At that time I had no marriage plans, but I thought if I ever did have a church wedding, I would like to follow this plan you so charmingly presented. Now I am to be married soon, church wedding, I am so deeply devoted to both my mother and father that this response would do just what I would like to have it do. You do approve of this, Mrs. Beeckman, or is it appropriate for only certain circumstances?—Dorothy K.

Yes, I do approve of this tender response, particularly when there is such a loving bond between the bride's mother and father and the bride herself. As a matter of fact, I have heard this response made at several recent weddings—just last week at the large church wedding of a beloved girl friend (and incidentally his bride and you have the same first name), and the bride's father said "Her mother and I do" with such gentleness and dignity as he looked tenderly at the bride's mother that everyone in the church I am sure was deeply touched. The bride's mother can make this response so dear and never-to-be-forgotten moment in his daughter's marriage ceremony and in his life.

PROPOSING HER SISTER'S NAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I belong to a very fine woman's club here. Recently my sister and her husband have moved here, and I would like to have them join. I am a member of the club. Besides the proposer, two members are supposed to write letters as seconders, and then the name is sent to the membership committee for their consideration. Would it be proper for me to propose my sister's name, or should I ask a friend to propose her?—Margaret.

You are the one to propose your sister's name.

COVERS FOR LUGGAGE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My attendants for my December wedding and another group of my most intimate friends joined to give me a shower the other day, and for the shower present gave me a set of three pieces of matched luggage. Is it proper to use covers on these pieces of luggage while I am travelling?—Flora M.

Yes, proper and extremely practical. Often when these covers are made, they are too, as well as the pieces of luggage themselves are marked with the initials, and or with some other identifying mark.

A RIGHT REPLY—IN SIX WORDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When someone says to me, "Hello. How are you?" or "How have you been?" or a similar polite words and seems to call for an answer, please suggest a brief but polite response.—Margery M.

Your reply should have three parts: (1) your reply to the question; (3) your thanks for the kind inquiry; and (3) your inquiry about the other person's well-being. Six words are enough. Very well, thank you—and you?"

Fashion Flashes

Hands out to slip into some of the prettiest gloves in many a season, ranging from elaborately trimmed wool-knits to evening leathers. White or wood pink or palest blue lace-knit is used for the fashion glove with pointed top and big half circles of tiny rhinestones and pearls above the wrist and up the arm.

Knitting new coats after a nice change in mid-last year. A black and white mohair and wool mixture, with white knitted collar, cuffs and belt and easy sleeves finished with the narrowest of cuffs. The fabric is very deep-textured.

Lavish hats for after-dark doings are here from Paris. Dior does a cocktail cap in black silk velvet embroidered all over in heavy white braid and crowned with tiny rhinestone and twigs of mobile rhinestones.

A boon to the college and career girl wardrobe is printed corduroy, which offers something new and different at a sensible price. Black and white paisley printed corduroy does up into tapered skirts and a sleeveless coat that offers all sorts of possibilities.

Long wanted is the dressy after-dark costume suit, but with a blouse or top that is detachable, allowing for variations in the suit's functions. Black broadcloth is used for one such suit, with the decollete blouse and accessories of black cloth, both of satin, and both removable. The jacket collar is flat, one side longer than the other, and is sequin embroidered, in a gold pink or pale blue.

That darling of the campus, the coat of alpaca pile—furry, comfy and warm—is better than ever this season, by virtue of finer styling. Done in black, gray or beige in a good length model with soft roll collar, yoke back and long slash pocket cuffs. Really dressiest in black!

U.S., Canada Disagree on Air Policy

When the U.S. aeronautics board refused to allow trans-Canada Airlines to operate a single service from Toronto to Tampa, Florida, the Minister of Transport retaliated by suggesting the same ruling would apply to U.S. lines operating single-plane services from Seattle to Whitehorse via Fairbanks and from New York to Montreal to Ottawa. The U.S. civil aeronautics board said the original order banning TCA's proposed method of operating from Tampa to Nassau came from the department of state. The single-plane service is used in most TCA schedules throughout the world and Mr. Abbott would cause many airlines to stop flying if it now are close to being unprofitable.

Blue Bombers Quoted 6-5 Favorites, But Snow Blanket Makes It All Even

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

WEEE WELL!

Eddie Redmond's Peterborough Petes survived another bad road test tonight in Kingston that they've had prior to every one conference title in this already sizzling senior "A" circuit. The Petes edged the champion Kingston Goodyears 5-4 before 2126 howling fans right in their own backwash in a game that was reminiscent of the playoff series of a year ago. Both teams played the puck and the result was a searing exhibition of hockey that was anybody's battle until Toodie Gresenlaw parked in the winner (thirty-two seconds after the third period opened. The Petes had a 3-2 edge in the first shoehiker and the Goodies evened it up with the only goal of the second heat. Gresenlaw broke the tie and the teams split a pair later in the period. The victory hoisted the Petes to second slot in the standing with five points, one behind the leading Oshawa Terachmen.

The only thing that can happen now to make the group a merry ole blistering pots' hockey is for the Memos to knock off the potent Truckmen in Memorial Arena tonight. Stranger things have happened and the Memos are due for a check-mark in the win column. Game gets under way at 8.30.

Incidentally George McGregor and Johnny Myles are back in the Goodyear fold and played against the Petes last night. But the rampaging Littlechers were not to be denied. They came up with a brilliant exhibition, just a shade better than that of the Goodies and skated off with a hard-earned victory.

NEW SPORT

We have heard of, or come in contact with, several odd forms of sport in our sport writing days. There are cow-fighting, skin-kicking, spelunking, duck calling, cockball, face-slapping, walking-on-hands, fish fighting, "coodle" racing and what-have-you-not from one end of the other day, which, we are informed, has been played or driven in England and only once in Canada.

It is called a stock car racing rally. In Britain they use racing cars.

The second event of this kind to be staged in this country took place at RCAF Station 6 Repair Depot, Trenton, on Sunday afternoon.

Warrant Officer A. Kennedy, who is on the committee in charge of the rally came up with some information here yesterday in regard to this unusual sports epic. We pleaded dire ignorance, but Mr. Kennedy was patience personified and we finally got some of the rules and regulations between the ears.

All you need to qualify as an entry is a knowledge of speed, a fair inkling of the country terrain, a pub or two of map-reading, patience and a dash of Sherlock Holmes.

And him "gets there fastest and fastest" is not necessarily the winner.

Mr. Kennedy informs us that some seventy cars have entered thus far and he expects that 100 will face the barrier when the starting pistol blasts the "They're Off" on Sunday at nine o'clock.

The course will average some sixty miles across country. Fifteen minutes prior to the start, the drivers are furnished with cryptic clues, which they must try to fathom before they line up. They will be given two speed and check points. They must maintain a rate of speed or as near to it as possible, which is furnished them, over the entire course. Short distance checks are given every 1,000 yards. Deductions are made for various breaches of rules, such as speeding, wrong directions, failure to maintain as near as possible the given rate of speed, and other errors. Invariably the Barney Oldfield who arrives home with the "neatest" number of points wins the first prize of seventy-five simoleons. Second-prize gets twenty-five, while there is a ten-buck bonus for the lady who comes in first.

The rally is not open to the general public, only to station personnel, service and civilian.

Searching through Frank Menke's sports "bible" the nearest approach to the "stock car rally" we could find was the famous Glidden "tours." But these were designed mainly to test the durability of the cars. There were no basic rules. The general route was outlined and the driver or drivers could get to destination in any way that suited them best. As the years went on the tours became a sort of get-together affairs.

So don't be alarmed if you are travelling in the area north of the Repair Depot, Trenton, Sunday afternoon and you see a small motorized armada picking its way through the countryside, drivers stopping at various points to study maps, scratch noggins and peer in wonderment at the surrounding terrain.

Five Inches Expected Before Whistle Starts Game Tonight; Benson, Bandiera, Vessels Out

Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Only "Dirtiest" is expecting the record-breaking crowd expected on the eve of the first game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union finals. The weatherman held the odds.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers were quoted as 6-5 favorites to take the best-of-three series from league-leading Edmonton Eskimos. But that was before the snow arrived on Wet snow blanketed Clarke Stadium Friday and a total of five inches was expected before game time tonight—8:30 p.m. MST (10:30 p.m. EST).

Bomber coach George Trafton said the snow would give neither team a edge.

NO TARPAULIN

"It's going to be as bad for them as for us," he said.

Clarke Stadium has no tarpaulin to cover the playing field and crews were shovelling all day to keep the snow.

The weatherman forecast a high of 25 for today. The temperature is expected to be about 30 at game time and should be warm by the contest is over.

Bombers were pre-season favorites for the western title, Loaded with talent, they scrambled badly to get started and finished third in the regular schedule. The split-T Edmonton Eskimos rolled over it by scoring a long string of wins to clinch the title.

Then the Bombers finished with a burst and Esks lost two straight and the two teams clashed. Winnipeg won the playoff semi-finals in two contests over Saskatchewan Roughriders.

TEAM READY

Winnipeg left behind fullback Lorne Benson and linebacker Dave Bandiera, injured in the Roughrider series.

Fullback coach Darrell Royal sent his team through another workout behind frosted glass at Clarke Stadium Friday night.

Doug Kime, quarterback, will start in place of Billy Vessels, the Oklahoma kid who suffered an injured spinal muscle attachment in the final regular game.

Fullback Jackie Ewong, who has been having trouble with an ankle, probably will be replaced by Rod Pantages, the Vancouver product who does the Esks' kicking.

The second game is in Winnipeg Wednesday and the third, if necessary, in Edmonton next Saturday.

Reese Not Interested in Dodger Job; Dressen Expense Cat Hops Out of Bag

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Pee Wee Reese pulled the rug right from under his brooklyn employers when he let them know he wasn't interested in presiding as player-manager over the Dodgers next season.

The popular shortstop is the one man who could have made Brooklyn fans forget that the club let Charlie Dressen go back to the minors after he had won two straight pennants. Blacks of mail have told the Dodger executives in no uncertain terms that they are on the spot and had better make their next move a good one.

Whoever finally takes the job is not going to be in an enviable position, on paidday. Our own feeling is that Reese made a very wise decision. He should have at least two more good playing years in his system. Then, if he does take over the Dodgers, some of the present teammates will have passed from the scene and the situation will be a happier one for all concerned.

The latest report, if you haven't heard it, is that Dressen was given the door because he demanded a $10,000 yearly expense account, and that the argument over the length of his contract was only incidental. At that, Chuck was the most lavish after - game entertainer in either league, and the cost came out of his own pocket. BROWN BONANZA

Whoever dreams up the National Football League schedule must have at least a county playing with Cleveland Browns. Not that the Ohio terrors need any help to speak of, but the only title contender they play from here on is San Francisco. They don't have to mix with either Detroit or Los Angeles.

Why the pros do not at least try to draw up a round robin schedule in which each club would play all the others is not clear. They

Boston's 'Mysterious' Power Over Canadiens May Bring Leadership Race in National

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Your car almost will it on upon Maple Leaf Gardens ice here tonight that breaks every league record in the book of the National Hockey League while still this week-end.

It sounds a bit "screwy" if the Canadiens' six-point edge over Boston Bruins, second-place club, then an underdog against the team they borrowed all of their games in the Stanley Cup final last spring.

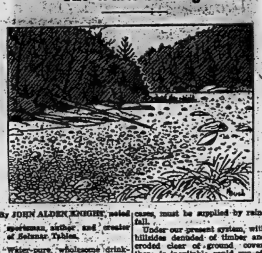
But the Bruins wield anywhere near power over the Montrealers, as their record indicates, in the schedule, they won nine games, tied two and lost only three to Dick Irvin's Habitants while the other team was able to beat more than five times.

And there are indications that the Stanley Cup reversal was only a temporary one.

BRUINS EVEN

If the Canadiens lose at home tonight and in Boston Sunday their margin over the Bruins will be cut to a single point. If the Wings could tie them by winning tonight's game, Boston would be facing tail-end New York Rangers at Detroit the following night, transforming an indistinct Montreal runaway into a tight three-team race.

Both the Canadiens and Canadiens have line-up problems. Milt Schmidt's dicky knee gave out during Tuesday night's hockey action in Chicago Black Hawks Thursday night and the veteran centre and captain is likely to be lost to the Bruins for two weeks.



The Canadiens are short centres Jean Beliveau and Dickie Moore and defencemen Doug Boothman and Doug Harvey are doubtful tonight. Doug Harvey with a sore back and the latter with a knee injury.

EXTRA FORWARDS

The Leafs, who earned a 1-1 tie on Detroit's last visit, are in good physical shape with the return to action of Gordie Haughton. The sparkling right winger will work with Bob Hassard and Metz Nesterenko while Ted Kennedy centres Ron Stewart and Jim McFadden and Ted Sloan plays between George Armstrong and Harry Watson.

They also have three extra forwards available for reserve duty should the going get rough. Leafs move into Chicago Sunday night, following the Rangers, who will try to break their fifth-place deadlock with the Black Hawks.

The Water Shortage

BY JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT, noted sportsman, author, and creator of Sehrange Tables.

Water-pure, wholesome drinking water-is becoming somewhat of a serious problem in just about every state in the U.S. In many areas water tables are low to the danger point. Streams are mere trickles or dried up entirely. Our rainfall, instead of being well-distributed as generally distributed, is sporadic. We have floods in some areas and drought in others.

In the central Pennsylvania our water shortage is acute, as this is being written in mid-October. Those of us who depend upon wells—and I am one of them—are deeply concerned. A dry well is not a pleasant thing to contemplate.

Only last week a farmer neighbor stopped me and asked me how my well was producing. Then he told me that his well had gone dry. Even within the memory of his grandfather, dead now for thirty-odd years, that well had given them all the water they could use.

Fortunately, he has an auxiliary well and this one still produces its limited quantity, so his family has a water supply. However, it is a worrisome thing to lead having only a few hundred yards from mine.

Many municipal water authorities tell us that a water company must deliver 100 gallons of water per person per day to satisfy the needs of the average community. That, my friends, is a great deal of water.

NEED MUCH WATER

Most folks do not realize just how much water is required to keep this world of ours going along smoothly. We human, consisting as we do of about 70 per cent water, must have six to eight pints per day in order to live comfortably.

Consider crops. Experiments have shown that an acre of wheat requires 30 tons of water to produce one ton or finished crop. That doesn't mean simply wheat alone. It means root, stem, leaf and grain combined.

On the same basis, an acre of clover needs 760 tons of water; beans, 740 tons; alfalfa, 820 tons, and so on. An acre of Kansas corn uses 225,000 gallons of water during the crop year. This water, in the great majority of cases, must be supplied by rainfall.

Under our present system, with hillsides denuded of timber and brush and sheer of ground cover, there is inevitable rapid run-off of the rain that falls on these areas. Thus, we have unprecedented floods which wreak havoc periodically here and there over the country.

As a remedy, the U.S. Army Engineers have their big-dam program of flood control. Believe me, impounding water in the lower river valleys behind big dams is far from being the answer either to flood control or sane conservation.

POLLUTION PROBLEM

Water impounded behind large dams in the lower valleys of our watersheds has flowed from the land which is needed during the dry spells. Thus, to be used it must be pumped and the cost is prohibitively expensive. In addition, water in the lower valleys more often than not is polluted to the point where it no longer is safe for human consumption.

So we have the familiar paradox of flood waters and drought on the banks of large rivers being subjected to acute water shortages while plenty of potentially good fresh water flows unused through their very dooryards.

A great deal has been said of late about watershed management. After all, a trapped raindrop, impounded and put to use reaches of a watershed, can be held in reserve. Thus stored it will not rob the soil of our topsoil and help to erode our hillsides. Moreover, it is free from the impure state, to be used when needed.

Reforestation, reclamation of eroded lands, and contour planting of cleared, cultivated sloping lands will keep the water where it belongs when it falls as rain. Strip farming helps to accomplish the same end. Dewatering sheds are nature's reservoirs.

Properly managed, they hold the water for us for that extended periods of no rainfall no longer water becomes precious. All this is not mere theorizing. Sound conservation management has proven itself in a great many localities.

AFFECTS SPORTSMAN

The sportsman who lives in a town or a city does not, for the most part, realize what an acute water shortage means to him directly. He reads about the millions lost to farmers through crop

Rookie Scores Three Goals In Canuck Victory

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver fans had better enjoy the stylish play of rookie Dale Sweany while they can—because he is a likely candidate to move from the Western Hockey League into the big time.

The 20-year-old left-winger who came to the Canucks from Prince Albert Mintos of the Saskatchewan Junior League, notched two goals in the last 36 seconds of a game with New Westminster Royals to put his night's output at three. The Royals lost 8-2.

Other Vancouver marksmen were Fred Brown with a pair, Carl Kaiser, Larry Popein and Bill Wylie. Gord Fashoway and Pierre Brillant scored for the Royals.

Goalie Red Kelly turned in his first shutout of the season as Victoria Cougars moved into fourth place by blanking Seattle Bombers 3-0. Bob Manno scored two with Sam Bettio notching the other.

Saskatoon Quakers lost their fifth straight game, dropping a 5-2 decision to Edmonton Flyers. Eric Solinski notched two with Bud Poile, Len Haley and Jimmy Anderson getting one each for the Flyers. Forgone moved Aggie Kukulouics scored for the Quakers.

Jimmy Carter, Savoie Ready For Big Scrap

MONTREAL (CP)—Jimmy Carter, world lightweight champion who will defend his title here Nov. 11 against Italy's Armand Savoie, refused Friday to go through with a preliminary weighing. Savoie weighed himself at 136.

Both fighters underwent a preliminary medical examination and were pronounced physically fit.

Carter balked at the weigh-in, saying his contract calls for the official weighing at noon the day of the fight.

Both fighters have been tapering off their training. Since he returned from his training camp in the Laurentian mountains last week-end, Savoie has done little or no boxing. His manager, Cliff Gowers said Savoie had already boxed more than 135 rounds during training and the 9lb he'd lost he'd let him from going stale.

Carter has been hitting to good form, since he reached Montreal early this week and has looked sharp.

Cornwall Beaten

CORNWALL (CP) — St. Lawrence High School Friday defeated Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School 17-6 in an Eastern Ontario Secondary School Group B football game here.

Player Squabble In Quebec Loop Left With Court

MONTREAL (CP)—The dispute over which of two Quebec City junior hockey clubs rightfully owns an 18-year-old goalie reached Superior Court Friday and one club—Citadelles—was granted permission to intervene in injunction proceedings.

At the same time, Mr. Justice A. I. Smith set Nov. 12 for hearing on the injunction.

The injunction is sought by Gaston Proulx, the club says that the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association be restrained from carrying out threatened suspension of Proulxmass for allowing the goalie to play with that team.

The QAHA offered no defence or contestation and left the matter in the court.

The young player concerned is Jacques Marcotte. He played last season with Citadelles, then in the Quebec Junior Hockey League and operating in the Junior A division of the Ontario Hockey Association.

This season Marcotte was granted permission by the QAHA to play with Frontenacs, new entry in the Quebec junior circuit.

damage. He knows that he should not or can not use valuable water to sprinkle his lawn. Water shortage is a nuisance but that is about as far as it goes.

Nor is it apt to forget that his area is likely to be closed to hunting because of the fire hazard. There go those golden days afield, for which he has been planning all through the summer.

Dried-up streams concern him only casually, for his lawn, well-stocked and he will have his fishing again during the coming season. He forgets or ignores the fact that loss of fish is only a minor loss when a stream goes dry. He doesn't consider that bottom life also is lost and without bottom life fish can not feed. Moreover, only nature can rehabilitate a stream bottom and this takes considerable time.

Even though the woods and fields are not closed to hunting by state edict, he will find that farmers are not too anxious to have fifty hunters across their lands for the hazard of fire. Trespass notices go up and increasingly more land is withdrawn from circulation.

Canadian Wins Jumping Event

NEW YORK (AP) — Canadian Jackie Rudolph won first and second Friday night in the West Point Military Academy tournament at the National Horse Show.

Col. Charles Baker of Tucson was the international jumping event by taking Star Cliff faultlessly around the course in 1 minute, 3 seconds. He beat captain W. R. Ballard of Toronto, who second and Pat Smythe of Britain finished third.

Earlier in the day, a United States pair edged out Baker and Ballard by a slim 14-point margin in the second phase of the international low-score competition.

Arthur McCashin and Mrs. Carol Durand won first event with four faults to fix against the Canadians.

Bill Terry Said Prospect For Dodger Post

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Reports circulated in this baseball town Friday that Bill Terry, former New York Giants manager and now a Florida business man, will be asked to join the front office of Brooklyn Dodgers.

The report was given credence by the arrival of Walter O'Malley, Dodgers' president, for an inspection tour of the club's spring training camp.

"If Bill Terry coming to see you while you're here?" O'Malley was asked.

"If he does I'll be glad to see him."

"Are you going to offer him the manager's post?"

"I have nothing to say about that," replied O'Malley.

Terry managed the Giants to pennant victories in 1934 and 1937.

His name came to the fore as prospective manager of the Dodgers after Pee Wee Reese, star shortstop and playing captain was considered top choice, voluntarily bowed out of the picture.

Charley Dressen quit as manager in October when he was refused a long-term contract.

Others mentioned for the job are Rocky Bartik of Washington Senators Jimmy Dykes, recently with Philadelphia Athletics; Lefty O'Doul, manager at San Diego and Clay Hopper and Walt Alston, Dodger farm system managers.

Alouettes Name Coulter, Hugo For Russell Trophy

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes announced Friday night that Ted Coulter and Tom Hugo have been nominated by Montreal Big Four players for the Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy.

The trophy is awarded the league player considered the most valuable and sportsmanlike. Players on each team nominate their choices.

The award was won last season by tackle Vince Mazza of Hamilton Tiger Cats who has been nominated again this year. The other Hamilton nominee is Lou Kusserow a halfback. Hamilton also nominated Art Davis and Bob Dawson for the rookie-of-the-year.

Ottawa Rough Riders chose halfbacks Bob Cunningham and Gene (Cho Cho) Roberts as their choices for the Jeff Russel Trophy.

Race Tracks Cancel Programs Because of Snow

NEW YORK (AP)—Two of the three major race tracks now running on the United States east coast cancelled their programs today because of heavy snows, and the third held off a decision until closer to post time.

Laurel, near Washington, postponed the running of the $65,000 Washington International Race which has drawn entries from six countries, and called off its entire card.

Garden State Park at Camden, N.J., failed to run Friday and won't try again until Tuesday. Monday normally is a dark day at the track. The $50,000 Trenton Handicap, originally scheduled for today, will be run Thursday.

Jamaica in New York City ran Friday, but one source said it would call off Friday night if the weather remained nasty.

Harness racing at Yonkers Raceway, just north of New York City, was called off Friday night.

Three minor U.S. college football games were postponed, and high school and junior college football games were postponed as far south as Richmond, Va.

However, today's major games were scheduled to go, weather or no.

Meet For Schools Title

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Kennedy Collegiate Clippers and Patterson Collegiate Panthers Friday night secured victories in a pair of Windsor Secondary Schools Association football league sudden-death, semi-final games.

Kennedy defeated Assumption High School Purple Raiders 20-0 and Panthers downed Walkerville Collegiate Vimys 26-6.

The two teams will meet next Friday in a sudden-death game for the league championship.

The title holders then will clash with the winners of the London High School Football League championship in a game at London Nov. 21 for the Western Ontario Secondary Schools Association championship.

Stampeders Sign Hamilton Back

HAMILTON (CP) — Garnet Williams, Hamilton middleweight boxer and heavy-duty wrestler for the Panther intermediate football club, has signed a playing contract with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Rugby Union.

Williams was signed by Stampe manager Bobo Robinett here Thursday.

Hornets, Bears Play 2-All Tie

HERSHEY, Pa. (CP)—A goal by Ralph Willis early in the third period gave Hershey Bears a 3-2 tie with Pittsburgh Hornets in an American Hockey League game Friday night.

Hershey's Skip Teal and Hornet defencemen Frank Mahaffey matched first-period goals and Willie Marshall shot Pittsburgh into a temporary lead in the second frame. The 10-minute overtime session was scoreless.

AT THE McCARTHY — Tonight Tony Curtis brings off-limits lass Marcia Van Doren to the fraternity frolic in a dramatic scene from Universal-International's exciting production "The All-American", opening Monday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, co-starring Lori Nelson. Ex-Yale Coach Herman Hickman and a roster of All-American grid-greats are featured in the picture which was directed by ex-All-American Jesse Hibbs, produced by ex-All-American Aaron Rosenberg.

AT THE CAPITOL—Out of impassioned pages of James Jones' daring best-seller, "From Here to Eternity," is depicted the romance between Montgomery Clift and Donna Reed at the Capitol Theatre for its first showing starting Monday. The new Columbia film also stars Burt Lancaster, Deborah Kerr and Frank Sinatra. Special matinee Wednesday at 2.00 p.m. for this attraction.

AT THE REGENT — Tonight Tony Curtis and Piper Laurie are featured in "Son of Ali Baba" at the Regent Theatre, Belleville. Starting Monday, Moira Shearer, star of "The Red Shoes" will be seen in "The Story of Three Loves" in color by Technicolor.

Sure Vietminh 'Master Plan' Has Been Wrecked

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—One of the biggest offensives ever launched by French Union forces in the seven-year Indo-Chinese war was credited today with having wrecked a "master plan" of the Communist-led Vietminh for assaulting the Red river delta.

French military sources said that the plan called for the Vietminh to infiltrate their hard-fighting 320th and 304th divisions into the delta from outside the southern rim and link up with the 60,000 Vietminh followers who have long been inside the key, French defence bulwark.

The sources said that once these divisions got inside the delta, that was to be the signal for a frontal assault for the north or west by two or three Vietminh divisions.

Success of such a manoeuvre might have carried the Vietminh deep into the heart of the delta.

Today Gen. Rene Cogny, commander in northern Indo-China, was confident that the Vietminh plan had been smashed.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars

FOR SUNDAY, NOV. 8, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Many things survive a thrashing—especially human beings. Little things shouldn't upset but serve to hearten. Pray.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Mental efficiency takes care of most matters for us, and keeps us doing the right path, if outlook and incentive are wholesome. Church services humble, strengthen simultaneously. Maintain logic.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Narrow prejudices hamper progress generally, prevent us from seeing things in right light. And they cause misunderstandings. Seek perfection in little ways; appreciate little favors.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Cultivating the soul's nourishment is like cultivating the ground for healthier growth. Disengage yourself from dissenters, lazy ones.

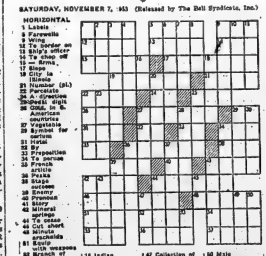
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — There is a lack of humility in importance. We each have work, obligations in this life. Be cognizant of your assets and recognize your talents. That is not boasting but necessary for good living.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — This day's tendencies encourage exaggeration, too much pride, or false pride, and disregard of health requirements. You know; now heed.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra) — Note Virgo's "don'ts" and include restraint of desire, and over-indulgence in favorite activities and you can enjoy this day immensely. Don't forget church. Cultivate your talents.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Do some mental reviewing, re-checking, so that you will not repeat past errors during the new week. Never let discouragement or dissatisfaction spoil your fine ambition or disposition.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Check over observations—or were you so truly observing recently as you should have been. Severity and a humorous outlook can hinder where good humor and give-and-take methods would assist.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Neither magnify small matters nor pass too lightly over important ones. Overemphasis of personal matters or wishes is a likely fault now. Remember spiritual obligations.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Be sure that neither acquired fault nor laxness deprives you from the better development of which you are so capable. Stress harmony, inspiration, co-operation. Your sociable nature should aid greatly.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Attitude and strength of purpose are today's primary requisites. And the right start is half the battle won—but continued effort and faith are necessary complements. Pray.

YOU BORN TODAY are a combination of ambition, endurance, diplomacy and straight-to-the-point action. You can achieve remarkably when you put your mind and heart to it. Look out for tendencies toward audacity and overexertion. You do not mean the former and do not realize it when indulging in the latter. Persevere in the difficult, knowing that there is reward in the mental satisfaction of doing the worthwhile.

Garden Notes

Fruit Trees for The Home Garden

By FLORA M. SAVELLE

Mid-November is a good time to plant fruit trees in the home garden, with the exception of peaches. The trees should be two years old, or older. It is important that you get them well. Cheap stock is apt to be undersized, weak, or partially dried out when received. Avoid a gamble with respect to replacement if the tree does not survive a few trees. Standard trees should be grown on proven root-stocks. French pear, or Bartlett seedling for pears, French crab, or American Domestic for apples, Myrobalan for plums, and Mahaleb for cherry.

If you have a particular variety in mind consult your nearest fruit performance station as to suitability, and ask for list of best varieties for your area.

Sweet cherries, apples, pears and plums need another tree of its kind for cross pollination. They should be within 100 feet of each other for best results. Where a neighboring garden has a tree of like kind this will not be necessary, and only one tree will be necessary.

DWARF TREES SUITABLE

For the small lot, or family dwarf apple and pear trees are available. They are known as Mailing IX, and Angers quince for dwarf pears. They are high or in prize than standard stock, but are worth it. These dwarf trees must be furnished with some support, and this post be maintained as long as the trees live. Otherwise there is danger of a break at the graft. Care must be taken to plant the graft above ground.

Cherries, plums, peaches and apricots have no dwarf varieties, but can be kept pruned back to enable the grower to spray and pick the fruit, but it is best to select the variety which is to grow to be large trees.

Five to six fruit trees are being featured by some Ontario nurseries. Five different varieties have been grafted on one trunk. The five varieties are planned to give the grower a long season of fruit by using early, late and intermediate ripening dates. This tree might include Delicious, McIntosh, Northern Spy, Wealthy and Transparent.

WHEN GOOD DRAINAGE

If good drainage is provided most trees will do well on a wide variety of soils. Peaches prefer sandy soil. The hole dug for the tree should be large enough to spread the roots out to their fullest extent. See that the graft will be above ground. Fill in the soil to half the required depth, tramp the soil well around the roots and fill in vender, will be installed at the December meeting.

Presents Jewels

Bro. Leighton McGinnis presented the Past Matron's jewel to his wife, Sister Mary McGinnis, and Sister Edith McInroy presented the Past Patron's jewel to her husband, Bro. Donald McInroy.

The chapter officers and members also gave a gift to Sister Mary McGinnis and Bro. Donald McInroy.

After the chapter was closed the lunch committee served refreshments.

Visiting Members

Visiting members were present from Havelock, Madoc, Tweed, Trenton, Belleville, Peterborough and Bancroft chapters, in addition to Sister Grace Norris, of Burlington, Washington, in addition of the worthy matron, Mrs. Mabel Nayler.

Mrs. R. S. Degner, of Bancroft, opened Friday and Tuesday with her sister, Mrs. William R. Ansley, at Mrs. Ansley's home.

County Master Gordon Moffatt, accompanied by Past District Master Percy Jones officially visited Wellman's Corners L.O.L. 173, on Wednesday evening.

Mr. John Moffatt is spending the week in Norwood with his daughter, Mrs. David McCoy, and Mr. McCoy.

Mr. Ralph Green has returned home from Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston.

The new residence of Mr. Roy Barker on Keyrole Street is nearing completion.

Mr. George Forestell has returned home from Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, after being a patient there for some days.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

There are owls or all sizes to be met with in Canada. The smallest, and rightly called "pygmy owl," sparrow-sized, is found mostly west of the Rockies.

Not much larger is the saw-whet, just eight inches in length, which breeds from southern seaboard to central Alberta. The very largest, our hooting owl, may reach up 27 inches because of exceptionally long, loose plumage, is the great horned owl, with a wingspread of more than five feet.

In spite of its great size, this bird is seldom seen because, like its owl relatives, it is nocturnal and has protective coloration, blending perfectly into the tree trunks. A person can get quite close to the branch before the owl, depending upon camouflage until the last second, takes off in slow, heavy flight.

FACIAL DISKS

Forward directed, yellow eyes are set in the usual, but inconspicuous "facial disks." These disks are really made of small feathers arranged as though radiating from a centre. The short, downward curved bill is also yellow. The great grey owl is round headed. With no ear tufts as in many of its relatives have. Sitting upstraight, as all owls do, this one shows wide, dark stripes down the front, and a black chin spot.

This big owl lives in our dense evergreen forests right across the continent, and mostly fairly far north, though in winter it frequently comes down into cultivation. Consequently little is known of its domestic affairs. It nests in large hollow trees—but whether or not the building is done by itself or is the neglected home of some other bird is still uncertain. The two to five eggs are, like those of all other owls, pure white, and the same may be said for the owlets.

EFFICIENT MOUSER

An efficient mouser, the great horned owl also eats other little mammals and occasionally small birds, catching the prey in its enormous feet. Everything goes down and then the bones and fur are disgorged in the form of pellets. Sometimes it is these pellets found on the ground, which lead to the finding of the bird in the tree above. However you need to go into the woods to discover this, as the big owl seldom ventures into the open. All the same, you may hear one—a great booming voice hooting "whoo-whoo-whoo-whoo" at regular intervals. It is said to have a tremulous whistle, as though imitating the little screech owl.

Four Men Flee Communist Police

BERLIN (AP) — Under fire from Communist police, four men raced across the Soviet sector border into West Berlin Friday in two automobiles.

The shooting occurred at Potsdamer platz, where the British, U.S. and Soviet sectors meet. The four were unhurt. They were taken to West Berlin police headquarters for questioning.

Having Trouble

LONDON (CP)—Mrs. Ellen Cowdrey is having trouble with the airliners which roar over her cottage to London airport.

She was taking a bath recently when the vibration sent tiles showering down on her from the ceiling.

"I was so frightened," said Mrs. Cowdrey. "I thought it was a man breaking in through the trap door."

"I suppose I shan't be able to have a bath unless there's a big shoot-to-stop plane landing."

Should Replace Many One-Room Rural Schools

LONDON (CP)—More than one-quarter of Ontario's 4,400 one-room rural schools are in need of "immediate replacement," a department of education official told a conference of western Ontario school inspectors.

Speaking of trends toward "centralization" of rural school sections, C. B. Routley, assistant superintendent of elementary education, said about 3,000 of these "were set up" one-room schools could be replaced by central schools.

Speaking of emergency program for training teachers, Mr. Routley referred to criticism levelled at the department last week by John T. Stubbs, of Sault Ste. Marie, past president of Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation. Mr. Stubbs told a meeting in London the department was allowing what he termed "professional baby sitters" into elementary school classrooms.

"I always recoil from the word 'baby sitter'", said Mr. Routley. "I think we have to do something about this situation (but) there should be ways and means of bringing it to the attention of the department without blaring it across the front pages of the newspapers."

Ore Now Flowing

ATHENS (AP)— From bauxite mines developed near Eleusis, famed in antiquity for the Eleusinian mysteries, ore is now flowing out of Greece at the rate of 1,000 tons a day to become, in Germany, aluminum.

The Eleusis Bauxite Mines, Inc. within the last few weeks has become completely mechanized from the beginning stripping operation to loading into ships. Just a year ago much of the mining was of the pick-and-shovel variety.

In 1952 the mine produced 205,000 tons of bauxite. The estimated output this year will be 250,000 tons. The 1953 production is lower than 1952 because sales to commercial firms fell off.

Committee Says Legislation Will Be Tough

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario cemetery authorities have been given a warning that legislation on the establishment and operation of cemeteries may appear hard when it is made known.

The statement was made by James N. Allan, chairman of the legislature's select committee on cemeteries which will soon report to the legislature on where and by what means the dead should be buried.

Errol T. Bayeroft, spokesman for the Ontario Funeral Service Association which represents 320 funeral directors, said his organization feels the establishment and operation of cemeteries for gain should be prohibited, in the interest of the public. The operators should be subject to the same taxation as any other commercial undertaking, he added.

Four Members Of Family Die In Toronto Fire

Five Other Adults, Ten Children, All Related, Escape

TORONTO (CP)—Four members of a family died in a fire Saturday night which swept through an attic rescue by a grandmother.

Mrs. Tekla Rivney, 53, lost her own life when she dashed into her flaming home as fire broke out in a semi-central Toronto to try to save her daughter, Mrs. Mary Gonda, 32, and her grandchildren, Gonda Gunda, 4, and Nicky Gunda, 2. Five other adults and 10 children, all related, escaped to the street.

The East End Day Nursery and Community Centre was opened late Saturday night to provide a temporary home for eight of the children, all surviving members of the surnames of Rivney and Habinsky.

Nicky Gunda, one of the victims, was dead on arrival at the emergency hospital in bed with his mother, his face fire. He had been a patient there for a tonsil operation.

ON SHOPPING TRIP

His father, Nicholas Gunda, 40, had brought him home from the hospital and gone shopping when fire broke out in the attic bedrooms on the main floor of the two-storey home, which housed 25 persons. Four others, besides Nicholas Gunda and his son, were in the fire hall out, apparently, fireman say, from defective wiring in the attic and flooring.

Mrs. Rivney and children fled for their lives through the front and rear doors and upstairs windows.

The grandmother, Mrs. Tekla Rivney, wife of owner John Rivney, realized some members of the family had not escaped. Plunging through a wall of flame, she fought her way upstairs through dense smoke to rescue her daughter and grandchild.

Firemen carried the bodies lying side by side in the hall.

They found the baby in his crib. Doctors said he had died of suffocation and that the women were burned about the head and back.

Queen Honors Dead of Two Wars at Cenotaph

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen, mourning Prince Philip, led remembrance Day tribute on the shoulder of her black coat, Sunday laid the Commonwealth's commemoration of overseas to the dead of two world wars.

Her stood with bowed head before the White marble cenotaph, national shrine in the Whitehall, observed the traditional two-minute silence from the first stroke of Big Ben.

The short, moving ceremony in Whitehall was taken into millions of British homes by television. It takes place every year on the Sunday nearest Nov. 11, official armistice day.

The Duke of Edinburgh and the Duke of Gloucester stood behind the sovereign. Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret watched from the balcony of a nearby government office.

In Westminster Abbey, where lies the tomb of the unknown soldier, it takes pride of place among those of kings, queens and the great of the land, 2,000 persons earlier attended a remembrance service.

Princess Decides To Go Walking With Her Dog

LONDON (Reuters) — Officials responsible for royal security have a new worry—Princess Margaret has decided to go out walking with her dog.

The princess took a walk last Friday in St. James's Park, just across the road from Buckingham Palace. In doing so, she broke an old British rule that senior members of the Royal Family do not move beyond the walls of the palace.

The gossip columnists, and the chief complained to the Queen that this rule was out of date. The Queen gave her permission to break it.

Now Margaret plans more expeditions with her dog. And Scotland Yard and the Royal Family will have to work out new security precautions.

Another British Freighter Fired On by Chinese

HONG KONG (AP)—A gunboat presumed to be Chinese Nationalist, prowling off the coast of Red China, attacked and fired on a British freighter Sunday.

The 1,850-ton freighter Rosita reached the Royal Navy at Hong Kong that night with a shell hole in its wills off Haichung Island, about 13 miles southeast of Shanghai.

A second message soon after said the Rosita had successfully eluded the lone attacker and had resumed her voyage to Shanghai.

No casualties were reported.

Saturday the British freighter Mydrocck was strafed by aircraft and shelled by two warships, also presumed to be Nationalist. The vessel escaped with no casualties to Tsingdang, northeast of Amoy.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: A storm which piled four to five inches of snow over southern and northern Ontario on Saturday is a weakening low pressure centre located over central Ontario this Monday morning. It will continue to migrate northeastward into Labrador, leaving Ontario in a western flow of air from Minnesota and Wisconsin. As this colder air moved into the province scattered snowfalls is forecast for southern sections today and Tuesday with Burmese and easterly officers claimed were re-

WEEK-END STORM DUMPS SIX TO 8 INCHES OF SNOW

Helped Put Out 51 Forest Fires in North

TORONTO (CP)—Cool cloudy weather was forecast for most of Ontario today in the wake of the weekend storm that dumped six to eight inches on southern parts of the province.

The wet snow was blamed for scores of accidents, some fatal, and for several major traffic tie-ups. But it also helped put out the 51 forest fires raging as a considerable threat in the north country and ended the fire hazard, everybody until next spring.

The highways department stepped up hiring and sending equipment into play soon after the storm curved into Ontario from the east-central United States Saturday. Buses were able to keep to most of their schedules Monday. All main routes in Southern ontario were reported open Sunday night but wet in spots, while slush hampered driving in sections of the Muskoka and Haliburton areas.

TRAFFIC IMPEDED

Traffic on highway 2 near Brockville was tied up for hours by a series of accidents Saturday night.

Traffic over the Peace Bridge near Fort Erie, on the Niagara River was cut to a trickle at the height of the storm.

Remembrance Day annual memorial parade and cenotaph ceremony at Fort Erie was put over Sunday due to unfavorable weather.

Freezing rain made driving hazardous in Hamilton Saturday and was blamed for a number of minor accidents.

Winnipeg had cloudy weather during the weekend but no more than a trace of snow fell. Flin Flon reported a 10-inch downfall. Observers forecast a trend toward clearing skies and warmer weather in most of Manitoba today.

While the east coast had Sunday temperatures in the high 50s and low 60s, Dawson City reported a cool shower day with readings in the High 30s and low 40s. South western Alberta temperatures were relatively balmy—in the 50s.

Former Carnival Strip Teaser Admits Kidnapping Child

HUGO, Okla. (AP)—A 17-year-old former carnival strip teaser was arrested today on a charge of kidnapping a three-months old baby boy while baby sitting with him at Evansville, Ind.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents arrested Mrs. Tommie Dene Doughty and recovered the baby, Richard Lee Stammer, alive.

They were found at the home of Doughty's father, Buford M. Mason, north of Hokchits in Red river valley farm country.

The child is the son of Richard Lee Stammer, 20, a sailor, and Shirley Stammer, 18.

Mrs. Doughty was arraigned here by U. S. commissioner D. A. Stovall six hours after she was captured. Bond was fixed at $20,000 bond and she was turned over to a U. S. deputy marshal for removal to Muskogee federal jail.

GLAD IT'S OVER

"In a way, I'm glad it's over, but I still wish I could have kept the baby," Mrs. Doughty said. Mrs. Doughty told The Associated Press in Oklahoma City by telephone.

She was permitted to talk on the phone after her arraignment and Stovall declined to interfere. Questioned about her trip by bus and hitchhiking since she took the baby Friday night,

"It's just the age of the one I had," Mrs. Doughty said. "I fell in love with him when I first saw him. He reminded me of my own. He didn't give me any trouble at all during the trip.

"I had some money when we left Evansville and I bought what he needed along the way. He didn't cry at all — it was just a perfect baby.

LOST CHILD IN JUNE

Asked how she felt, she quickly replied:

"How would you feel?"

The FBI said that Mrs. Doughty left a child at Gary, Ind., and one in Chicago.

The agents said that Mrs. Doughty told them she gave birth to a child at Dallas in 1951 but a few weeks later her husband took it away and she never has seen it since. The FBI said the father is Lamar Mitchell.

The Stammer baby apparently was last seen in Chicago the two days and nights of travel.

Bills of Missing Ransom Money Appear in Michigan Says Paper

DETROIT (AP)—Twenty dollars of the missing $500,000 Greenlease ransom money has turned up, Peter Petokey, Mich., according to a copyrighted story by the Detroit Times Sunday.

The Times story said FBI agents have been investigating the money since last Tuesday when the $20 bill was discovered by Mrs. Henry Krauser, who operates a rooming house.

Mrs. Krauser identified the money from a list circulated by the FBI to its agents around the country, rooming houses and merchants.

The Times said the number of bills discovered since the FBI started further work. Flin Flon reported a 10-inch downfall. Observers forecast a trend toward clearing skies and warmer weather in most of Manitoba today.

While the east coast had Sunday temperatures in the high 50s and low 60s, Dawson City reported a cool shower day with readings in the High 30s and low 40s. South western Alberta temperatures were relatively balmy—in the 50s.

U.S. Says Disarmament Hopes Depend on Change in Kremlin

By A. T. GOLDBERG

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The United States told the UN today disarmament hopes now depend on a "change of mind and attitude" in the Kremlin.

In a major policy speech prepared for the UN Assembly's political committee, Henry Cabot Lodge said:

"The fighting in Korea obviously has not disappeared. But now we have an armistice and the United States continues to support the United Nations in the discouraging nature of the Soviet attitude. That is a disappointment.

"A four-power conference on Germany, the Soviet Union refused. There are indications that they actively desire to remedy the current state of international affairs."

He hoped Russia would join the U. S. in "positive acts" to reduce international tension."

NEED SECURITY

"Disarmament is impossible without international security . . . international security depends on a change of mind and heart on the part of the rulers of the Soviet Union," he said.

"The proper safeguards for controlling disarmament can and will be put in place. The Iron Curtain no longer exists, so that we will know what we are doing. We can know what we are doing. The issue is the present case lies with the Soviet Union."

Lodge headed a week's inaugural session of the UN building for new attempts by the UN disarmament commission to win agreement. Elements next year on arms reduction.

Referring to a promise last week by Russia's Andrei Vishinsky that Russia would not spend "a thousandth of a millionth part of a ruble" for armaments, if the ruble were declared them banned, Lodge said:

"This simple weapon is a matter so deeply affecting the vital security of every people that its effect or effect only when there are safeguards which protect against violation."

British opened the debate last Friday. France's Jules Moch and other Western spokesmen expect to take the floor after Lodge, perhaps Tuesday.

Two Million Soviet Workers Parade in Square

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Two million Russian workers paraded in jubilant mood through Moscow's Red square Saturday as Premier Georgi Malenkov turned the spotlight of the Bolshevik revolution anniversary observances on the armed forces.

In contrast to the precision of the 30-minute military parade which led the processions, the civilians surged informally across the square, often breaking into impromptu dancing to the accordion music of strolling players.

Malenkov looked down on the marchers from the top of Lenin's tomb flanked by Nikolai Bulganin, Defence Minister Vyacheslav Molotov, President Kliment Voroshilov, Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party, and other top leaders.

Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, Soviet defence minister, delivered the massed troops and then opened the ceremony with a 15-minute speech. He stressed the government's drive to increase output of food and consumer goods for the home front, and accused the Western powers of blocking the road to peace.

RAGS EAGLE

CODERRE, Sask. (CP) — Arch Hollands of Moose Jaw bagged a rough-legged eagle in the Codderre, Saskatchewan district. The eagle had a wingspread of seven feet, and fell victim to a 22-calibre rifle.

King Ibn Saud, World's Richest Monarch, Dies

Crippled for Years With Arthritis

BAERHEIN, Persian Gulf (AP)—Word reached this island that King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, the world's richest and most powerful absolute monarch, died today.

The crippled, one-eyed king was stricken with angina pectoris Oct. 1, and on Oct. 27 a message said that the outside world that he had banned the crisis.

The king, a 6-foot, 4-inch giant of a man in his prime, had been ailing for weeks later his husband took it since, the message said.

Ibn Saud's skill and daring as a desert warrior carried him out for him his kingdom of Saudi Arabia, with a 1,000,000 square miles of U.S. capital, which tapped his country's vast oil resources, and gave him an income of more than $200,000,000 a year.

HAD 40 SONS

Ibn Saud, 80 sons, among them Crown Prince Saud, who was named prime minister of Saudi Arabia's first cabinet on March 10, The message received here today said Saud had become king without opposition.

The king had more than 40 sons by at least 135 marriages. He never had more than four wives at a time, as his religion in accord with Moslem law, and practiced strict monogamy.

Because of his one eye, a few old Bedouins who had fought with him in the desert wars called him "old cyclops."

The king was only 30 years old Ibn Saud and some of his brothers, commanding wars called Ikhwan brigade by night, surprised the garrison, killed the governor and announced that a new Saudi Arabia come to power. That was the start of his long career as a warrior and statesman.

In co-operation with the famed Lawrence of Arabia, Ibn Saud and his Wahabi army drove the Turks out of the Arabian peninsula and Britain recognized the independence of Ibn Saud in 1927.

FRIEND OF WEST

During the Second World War Ibn Saud was a friend of the West. He kept land, air and sea routes open for the Allies. This won him the Legion of Merit from former president Truman of the U.S. in 1947.

Ibn Saud received revenues from the pilgrimage to Mecca, but his income really soared when the Arabian-American Oil Co. struck oil in underground reservoirs of oil in Saudi Arabia.

Aramco invested more than $100,000,000 in exploration and producing oil. In 1950 Ibn Saud signed an agreement with Aramco giving him 50 per cent of the profits.

Legends about Ibn Saud are many. He lost the finger he had worn wounded in the groin during battle. To put a halt to additional speculation about the kind of wed being. Ibn Saud chose a young bride from a tribe other than that of his first wife, and consummated the marriages that night.

Russian Conditions for Big Four Meet Not Acceptable to U.S. Says Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles said today Russia's conditions for a meeting a hunt demand that free nations "unconditionally surrender their protections" and "unconditionally accept protective principles and practices of security and peace themselves, divided and thus weakened, in order to gain the privileges of coming with the rulers of the Soviet and Chinese Communist world."

Dulles said the Soviet demands are backed up by "an unpleasant reminder" that Russia has the power to impose its will upon other countries also:

1. Declared the U.S. government has complete confidence in general Sir John Winterton, Allied commander in Trieste, when he removed the Italian government has requested as an ultimatum to block Italian Adriatic port area.

2. Asserted that the Republican administration has never said it will forever oppose recognition of a Communist government in China.

He said present refusal is based on Red China's aggression in Korea and Indo-China and its unwillingness to act in a way in accordance with United Nations charter principles.

Eden Says Trieste Riots Organized By Italian Fascists

Extremists Infiltrated City In Move to Provoke Trouble

By ALLAN JACKS

ROME (AP) — Rallies from Trieste to the toe of the peninsula laid down their tools today in a 10-minute "memorial" work stoppage for the six persons killed in police during Trieste rioting last week.

The suspension was called by all three of Italy's big labor federations, representing nearly all Italian workers. They said only essential public services continued during the period. Many shops in Rome observed 10 minutes silence.

The nation-wide demonstration followed a bitter accusation Sunday against the British commanders of the Trieste civil police by the Italian government. It charged said the bloodshed in the disputed Adriatic city was caused by "criminal tactics of the police, which were characterized by unusual severity and the hasty use of firearms."

SAY ACTIONS UNJUSTIFIED

The report charged the police measures were unjustified and that they failed to take into account advance warnings by Italian officials or Italian plans to ease the situation.

Today's work stoppages came on the heels of another wave of calm following the bloody riots that shook Italy last week.

Riot police and carabinieri stood guard outside the Italian embassy in London, where 20,000 rioters battled with police Saturday, but there were no demonstrations in relatively large numbers of police in the U.S. embassy Hiswhere had nothing to do.

TRIESTE IS QUIET

Trieste itself, where an estimated 150,000 persons turned out Sunday, to bury the six riot victims, also remained quiet.

Italian newspapers continued to demand removal of Sir Winterton. John Winterton, Allied commander in Trieste's zone A.

Many papers reprinted British editorials about the Trieste scrap. The London Times said they were shocked at what they called the "hard British attitude."

Italian Prime Minister Giuseppe Pella called for a meeting Monday night for a thorough parliamentary investigation to place the blame for the riots outbreak. He also asked that the British and Americans look into what took place.

TRUCK KILLS CHILD

COBOURG (CP) — Danny Hayward, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hayward of Cobourg, was killed Friday night when police said he ran from a parked car directly into a truck. The lad, carrying Hallowe'en novelties, was struck by the truck driver, his 15-year-old sister Barbara when she darted out onto the dark highway.

Stalled Auto Led to Arrest On Theft Charges

TORONTO (CP)—An automobile that ran out of gasoline on Kingston Sunday led to the arrest of two men on four charges of armed robbery in Toronto and Ottawa.

In custody here are William Page, 25, and Neil Orsten, 21, both of Omemee. They face an additional charge of theft.

The men got stuck in the snow near the village of Arden when a provincial police cruiser driven by Constable Harvey Adams came along. Adams agreed to help them and shoved the car out of the ditch with his cruiser and then asked to be checked his stolen car list and found the vehicle was wanted. He arrested the pair and took them to the county jail in Kingston.

Toronto detectives questioned the men and later laid the charges.

The men are charged with one count of armed robbery of Sloves here during October and November and with the one in Ottawa of $468 Saturday.

Evacuation of Chinese Nationalists From Burma Halts After One Day

By DAVID CRIFF

TACHILEK, Burma (Reuters)—Evacuation of Chinese Nationalist guerrillas from Burma to Formosa broke down Sunday after one day in operation and with only 204 Chinese taken across the Burma border.

The guerrillas have been fighting in the jungle-clad hills of Burma since 1949 when they were forced over the Chinese frontiers by the victorious armies of Communist China.

Their presence in Burma was condemned by the United Nations General Assembly last April and after months of negotiation Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's government agreed to the return of 2,000 of them by way of Thailand.

The evacuation started Saturday but broke down because of argument over the nationality of 38 Chinese civilians whom Burmese army officers claimed were recruited in Burma but whom the Chinese said came from Yunnan, the province of China south of Burma.

When the Burmese refused to allow the 38 Shans to cross into Thailand, a group of 26 Chinese leaders across also refused to go. Both groups returned to the camps.

Some of the Shans appeared to be Burmese citizens, but Burmese officials, on interpreter, they said they came from the Kentung area in China.

They said they had been recruited a week ago. None could speak Chinese nor could they respond to the most simple military orders.

Col. Raymond D. Palmer, American chairman of the three-nation commission (United States, Burma and Thailand) handling the evacuation, said it would start again as soon as possible.

Second Suspect Is Arrested

TORONTO (CP)—A second suspect in the $250,000 platinum-concentrate robbery at Sudbury last week was arrested here Saturday.

Edward Blair, 29, of Toronto, was arrested and charged with conspiracy after being spotted by an off-duty policeman. Constable said Blair and Russell Lloyd Hatton, 25, also here Blair driving on a Toronto street.

The other suspect in the robbery last Wednesday is being held in Hamilton. He was Harlow Harloway is a Hamilton hospital with a broken leg he suffered in an automobile accident.

LIVING FOSSILS

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP)—Two dragon-like lizards of a type which died out in Europe with the mighty thousands years ago have been discovered on a small island off here. They are tuatara, slow-moving creatures now found only on a few small islands off New Zealand.

Two Million Soviet Workers Parade in Square

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Two million Russian workers paraded in jubilant mood through Moscow's Red square Saturday as Premier Georgi Malenkov turned the spotlight of the Bolshevik revolution anniversary observances on the armed forces.

In contrast to the precision of the 30-minute military parade which led the processions, the civilians surged informally across the square, often breaking into impromptu dancing to the accordion music of strolling players.

Malenkov looked down on the marchers from the top of Lenin's tomb flanked by Nikolai Bulganin, Defence Minister Vyacheslav Molotov, President Kliment Voroshilov, Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party, and other top leaders.

Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, Soviet defence minister, delivered the massed troops and then opened the ceremony with a 15-minute speech. He stressed the government's drive to increase output of food and consumer goods for the home front, and accused the Western powers of blocking the road to peace.

Sales of Poppies, Wreaths Bring Total of $3,800

Poppy Fund Chairman Les Digby announced today that poppy sales on Friday night and Saturday amounted to $1,800. Monies collected in the sale of memorial wreaths amounted to $2,500.

Chairman Digby expresses the sincere appreciation of himself and his committee to all who donated to the fund, and the tagsers for their excellent work under extremely discomforting weather conditions.

Bailey little Belinda De Veyst, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George De Vyust, 1 Highland Avenue, has earned the title "Queen of the Poppies" for the third year in succession.

Belinda collected nearly forty dollars selling poppies on Saturday. She turned in the highest individual total.

Starting when she was four years of age, Belinda has added a list of poppy sellers for the past three years.

Police Circles Quiet Despite Week-end Storm

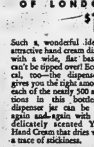
Despite slippery street and highway conditions caused by the fall of approximately six inches of snow, municipal and city police reported today that they have had a quiet 72 hour weekend.

Provincial police reported that the only incidents of a serious nature occurred in the immediate Belleville area, while city police attributed the quiet to the fact that one minor accident in the city.

"Everyone would be wise to take into consideration the condition of the streets and highways and operate accordingly with caution," one police officer noted.

The storm was reported in the Kaladar district. Joseph Beaucage, 70 of Northbrook was killed when his panel truck skidded into the path of a Colonial bus on Highway No. 7 Highway Mrs. Jessie Boomhower of Huntsville, has injured when she stepped in to the front of a passing car during the heavy downpour.

At the Trenton air station three pedestrians were reported injured when struck by a car on the air station property.



Woman Suffers Broken Arm, Struck by Car

Struck by a passing car as she stood by a stopped car on No. 7 highway near Actinolite, Mrs. Jessie Boomhower of Huntsville suffered a broken arm and head injuries Saturday evening. She was brought to Belleville Hospital.

It was reported that Mrs. Boomhower was a passenger in a car which skidded on the highway. She was standing near the car, when in the heavy snowstorm she apparently stepped into the highway and was struck by a car, which struck her a glancing blow of the car, Walter Sutton of Bridgewater, Brighton, took the woman to Dr. M. G. Dales who ordered the woman to Belleville hospital.

Provincial constable R. Dyvey of Madoc, investigated.

Clinic Attracts 28 District Basketball Men

What may be called a "turning point" for the promotion of basketball in the Belleville area took place Monday night at the YMCA, when an all day Basketball Officials' Clinic was held, led by Stan Mockford and Jack Keay, top notch basketball officials from Toronto.

The two leaders were also accompanied by Ken Paul, of York Mills, Ont., past president of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association and now a Canadian representative to the North American Rules Committee.

Twenty eight candidates took part in the clinic which included: interpretation of rules; questions and answers; floor and basket duties of various infractions and violations; methods of giving the candidates under supervision of the two leaders; and a 40 question "Yes" or "No" quiz.

The candidates represented the B.C.H.C., Queen's C.I., O.S.I., the Picton R.C.S., and the Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, and the Y.M.C.A.

Arrangements are being made to have this clinic continue in Belleville, with emphasis on "coaching" of basketball, on November 21st.

CNE LYRE OFF 25

STRATFORD (CP) — The Canadian National Railways said Thursday 33 semi-skilled workers at its captive power shops here will be laid off Nov. 13. Officials said the lay-off was caused by the halting of eastward movement of coal over the Prairies. The Nov. 13 lay-offs here will bring to 93 the number of CNR employees laid off in the last five weeks.

Dr. John F. McColgan, left, regional medical officer of the Canadian National Railways, Toronto, and Robert D. Adams, regional supervisor of First Aid, Belleville, were among those honored by the St. John Ambulance Association at a Government House investiture for outstanding service to the organization. They were made Officer Brothers by His Excellency, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, acting in his capacity as Grand Prior of the Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem. (CNR photo.)

First Pentecostal Church In City Officially Opened, Special Dedication Services

The culmination of nearly two years' labor and initiative on the part of congregation members of The First Pentecostal Church in Belleville was seen Sunday with the official opening of their new church on North Front Street.

The new church with its attractive New England architecture, was built 75 per cent by volunteer labor on the part of the congregation and pastor Rev. A. L. Epp-ler. By paring costs wherever possible and with volunteer labor doing most of the construction and installation of services, cost of the church edifice will be kept below $30,000. Estimated cost of the new structure had it been done wholly by contract was over $70,000.

Special afternoon and evening services saw the new church dedicated by Rev. C. Cross of Brockville, senior elder for the United Pentecostal Churches, while the evening message was brought by Rev. C. L. Abbott, Toronto, district superintendent for the United Pentecostal Churches.

MAYOR COMPLIMENTS PASTOR

Mayor A. M. Haig complimented the pastor for the church and members of the congregation for their enterprise in building the fine new edifice and called for more religious-minded people to take part in the municipal life of the community. He stressed that these should be a definite relationship between church and state and political and civic life.

The sparkling new white clapboarded church with its New England colonial steeple and main entrance was crowded to capacity for the afternoon service, when extra chairs were brought in to seat nearly 450 persons. About 300 people attended the evening service.

Over the dedication service Mr. Cross chose his sermon from Solomon's dedicating prayer at the Temple, bringing out many outstanding points in application to the new church in Belleville.

At the evening service Mr. Abbott spoke of the importance of salvation in following the work of God.

SPECIAL MUSIC

Special music was featured at both services as Misses Evangeline and Ruth Gee of Picton were heard in solos and in duets. Miss Ruth Gee played a piano accompanist. The young ladies' choir of 20 voices representing the Canadian Bible Institute, sang special numbers at both services. Rev. Epp-ler was the pastor who presided at the Hammond organ.

The New England architecture of the church makes the new edifice strikingly attractive with its red brick lighted steeple jutting into the evening sky draws the interest of the passer-by, especially at night. Inside, about the exterior of the church, including steeple, are seven arched windows, and white clapboard siding has been patterned after New England styling.

A slight deviation is seen in the glass panelled doors at entry to the church which allow passersby to see directly through the length of the church auditorium to a lighted cross positioned over the pulpit.

WALL LANTERNS

Period type wall lanterns and lamps form the basic lighting for the church and are in keeping with the New England type architecture. Indirect lighting in troughs running the length of the church auditorium and colored spot-lights illuminating the pulpit and dais are also featured. All lighting can be shaded and controlled by rheostat switches.

The main church auditorium and balcony have been completed but the basement where Sunday School classes will be held is yet to be finished. Work is progressing daily and the Sunday School will get its official opening next Sunday morning at 10.

Mothers with young babies need have no fear that their children will disturb the service at the New Pentecostal Church. Built into the building, a special "mothers room" where mothers may take their babies, has been made in full view of the church auditorium and is soundproof. A special speaker will grant the church services into the room.

SPENCE VOLUNTEERS HOURS

Much share of the credit for the construction of the new church is due the congregation's energetic young minister who since coming to Belleville in the fall of 1951, has spent countless hours on the job.

Almost every week day saw Mr. Ellis and some members of his congregation at work on the church. He roughed out plans for the church, which, were later drawn to scale by W. A. Watson, local architect. Then he supervised the excavation for the foundation, the pouring and finishing of the first concrete to the laying of the two shingle on the roof. He even "shopped" around for many materials and equipment to best advantage.

And when funds for the new church low, Mr. Ellis went into the contracting business and built 13 houses and three garages, the proceeds being poured into the church building fund.

LOAD CAN BE CARRIED.

"We have got our finances in good shape and to a point where the load can be easily carried," Mr. Ellis modestly stated. He turned all his efforts toward building the church as "being hardly worth mentioning."

Special evening services Tuesday through Friday will be held in the new church for the next two weeks in addition to the regular Sunday services and evening services on Sunday. Also a Canadian Bible Institute has been formed, classes to continue from seven until 9 p.m. Five local teachers will take part in this new project of the church.

Four Airmen Hurt on Sunday When Hit by Car

Four members of the RCAF at Trenton were injured early Sunday morning when they were struck by a car as they were leaving the station recreation hall driven by Aircraftsman Ian Saturday evening dance.

Provincial police said the four men had left the dance and were walking along the main gate of the air station when they were struck from behind by a car driven by Aircraftsman Ian Mc-Victoria Avenue, Belleville. The injured men were admitted to the air station hospital where one was said by the medical officer, to have a possible fractured skull. Three of the men were released from the hospital.

Still in hospital with a possible skull fracture is LAC G. H Emerson. The other three airmen suffering injury were AC1 John R Woloschuck and AC2 W. R. Burke.

Mrs. Willcox had been living with her daughter in Youngstown and had been spending the Edward County since last Tuesday.

INFANT WEESE

The death occurred in the Belleville General Hospital on Thursday last of the one-day old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Weese of Carrying Place. Burial of the infant was in Albury Cemetery on Friday with Rev. R. S. Townsend of Redeemer officiating at the graveside.

Surviving are the parents and three brothers and sisters.

The funeral was under the direction of the Grant Funeral Home.

MRS. MARY ANN CODLING (Osborn—Belleville.)

In poor health for the past six months Mary Ann Brewer, widow of William Codling, 226 Elgin Street West, died in the Oshawa General Hospital on Friday, November 6, in her 83rd year.

A daughter of Mr. Ellis and Mrs. Thomas Brewer, the deceased was born in October 15, 1871, at Bradfield, Suffolk, England. She was married in London in 1902 to William Codling, who died 30 years ago. A resident of Oshawa for 30 years, she moved to Belleville in the Belleville district.

Predeceased by her husband on October 15, 1950, Mrs. Codling is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ernest Hall (Ivy) of Oshawa, and Mrs. R. McLean (May) of Belleville, also by four sons, Frank and Arthur, of Belleville and William and Charles of Oshawa.

Also surviving are a sister, Miss Ellen Brewer, in England; two brothers, George in England and Arthur of Belleville, also 13 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Rev. Kenneth D. M. Rose, rector of St. George's Anglican Church, conducted the funeral service at the Armstrong Funeral Home, Monday, November 9. Interment in Oshawa Cemetery.

MRS. GARFIELD OSTRANDER (Picton)

PICTON. —A highly esteemed resident in the person of Mary Estella Reid, wife of Garfield Ostrander, passed away at her home, Bloomfield Road. She had been ill for some time having undergone an operation in Kingston General Hospital and had spent nine weeks in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital being removed to her home a few weeks before her passing.

Born at Milford, Ont., in 1889, she was the daughter of Hugh Reid and the late Mary Mallon (Allen) Reid. For two years after her marriage she lived in Picton county, then moved to Lucknow. Mr. and Mrs. Ostrander resided there for 25 years, then moved following the sudden death of their only child, Mary, to a new home on Bloomfield Road.

ACTIVE CHURCH WORKER

A member of the United Church, Mrs. Ostrander, when health permitted, was active in church work, the Ladies' Aid and in the Women's Institute while in Lucknow. Lady of many fine qualities, Mrs. Ostrander enjoyed the esteem of a wide circle of friends.

Survivors are her husband, Garfield Ostrander, Bloomfield Road; Greenbush and Major Howard Reid of Trenton; Mrs. Gordon (Edith) MacDonald, New York City, Mrs. John (Mary) Allen, Mexico; Mrs. Gladys Vanderwater, Dunbarton, Ontario.

The pallbearers were a son, Rexford Ostrander; a sister, Mrs. William (Jessie) Fleming, and a brother, Rexford Reid.

Service at the funeral Home of G. M. Hicks and Son, was largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Dr. Stewart, of Trafalgar, was assisted by Rev. F. J. Whiteley of Picton United Church.

Mr. Stewart had conducted the funeral of her son, Rexford, and his sermon topic in keeping with Mrs. Ostrander's long illness, being "For I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us." There were a great many beautiful floral tributes.

Interment was in Cherry Valley cemetery.

The bearers were nephews, Keith Reid, Charles K. Reid, Howard Vanderwater, Raymond Ostrander, Keith MacDonald, Harold Ostrander.

Many Hunters Successful In Obtaining Quotas in North

Successful deer hunters trekked through the city on Sunday bearing the trophies of the chase. At least seven were noted with their quotas of one or more fine deer. Some had had a fine shot at black bear ridding the wood.

Vern Rose of the Trinidad Leasehold staff went hunting with his two sons, Peter, 13, and brother, Gerald of Kingston.

They sought the elusive bucks on the runways near Griffiths in the north country, but within a couple of days had their quota of three. The two weighed approximately 185 pounds, while the third tipped the scales at 150 pounds.

Hunting conditions were anything but good Saturday morning and afternoon, as a blizzard deposited 12 inches of snow in North Hastings in three hours.

A party of four Belleville men, Jack Wardhaugh, Tom Hutchison, Harry Bland and Bob Bland, were out on Loon Lake when the storm was at its height. The men reported that they were unable to see more than 15 feet in front of them at one time and that waves whipping over the boat threatened to swamp them.

LOST, OUT OF GAS.

They moved around twice on the lake and were lost when they ran out of gas. Just as they ran out of gas the snow ceased and for a minute and they found themselves just off the shore.

No one in their party got a deer. One called at a camp in the area to see a deer missed a shot at 55 paces.

Keith Macdonald, Belleville hockey star, and his party at Loon Lake, shot four deer.

Ken Smith and Dave Stevenson of Belleville, also in the Loon Lake area were busy Saturday afternoon with their jeep as they hauled nearly a dozen motorists out of holes and mud.

GOT SPEEDING TICKETS.

Two Belleville duck hunters, Mike Cooper and Bob Lucy, shot their quota in the marshes at the south shore of the Bay of Quinte.

Ken Smith shot the second and one of their decoys broke loose and the two men put out in a boat to retrieve it. They had just pushed out from shore, without their guns, when the Canada goose flew over very slowly only 20 feet above the water. Fortunately at the time was limited to about 20 feet and neither hunter had guns or time to make the approach.

A farmer at Read reported over the week-end that he had a 70-pound bear cub on his farm last week.

Northbrook Man Instantly Killed Near Kaladar

A Northbrook man, Joseph Beaudrie, age 72, was instantly killed on Highway No. 7 Saturday when his half ton panel truck skidded into the path of a Colonial bus on Highway 7 three miles west of Kaladar. The accident occurred during a heavy snowstorm.

Police said that Beaudrie was eastbound while the bus, driver by Rollie Hamelin, 28, of Ottawa was westbound when the accident occurred. The driver managed to bring the bus under control and brought it to a stop just as it hit the guard rail. None of the 24 passengers on the bus was injured.

Traffic at the scene of the crash was held up for over an hour because the coroner on his way to the scene from Napanee had his car skid into the ditch.

BUS-TRUCK COLLIDE

GUELPH (CP)—A bus carrying 28 Erin district schoolboys collided with a dump truck near here Wednesday. No one was seriously injured. Police say Nelson Eagles of Erin was charged with not giving 132 right of way to the bus. Witnesses said the truck careened 30 feet before overturning.

Five of Missing Hunters Return, One Still Lost

SUDBURY (CP)—Five of six hunters missing in Sudbury district bush turned up safe during the week-end. Three hunters were wounded, one seriously.

Still missing is Nick Schurba of Hatchell, near Sudbury, overdue on a hunting trip near Nairn Centre, 32 miles west of here.

Those who turned up were: George Volpel of Minago Lake, Sudbury suburb; Eino Sakey of Sudbury; Ernest Cook, 30, Wakville, Ont.; Charles Hardy, Tweed, Ont.; and Reg. Winstall, Toronto.

Harvey Carriere, 17, of Sudbury, lay in hospital where with a bullet lodged in his chest. His condition is serious. He was shot when a 22 rifle carried by his son, Victor, 25, accidentally discharged.

3 Hunters Shot Two Missing Near North Bay

NORTH BAY (CP)—Authorities today issued almost-hourly reports on hunters wounded, missing or found in district bush lands.

Three men are in hospital here with minor gunshot wounds. Of the dozens lost, two are still missing. Both haven't been seen since Saturday. They are William Davis of Callander, Ont., and Sam Bargratt, 45, of Widdicfield-township, who was brought separately in Jocko township, some 20 miles northeast of here.

Two others missing since Saturday came out today after surviving a blizzard that reared down on the district Saturday night. They were James Clifford Towers and Harry Lackner, 45, Elmira, Ont. Clifford found his way out to a railway section house at Tomiko this morning. Lackner, who ate snow to ease his hunger after two days in the woods, reached Highway 11 today.

An unidentified one-legged man, who was lost Sunday, also found his way out this morning.

Higher Assessment To Be Discussed At Special Meet

TRENTON. (Special) — A special meeting of council had been called for Tuesday night to discuss curb and assessment problems. Interested parties and ratepayers will have the opportunity to air views on both subjects.

On top businessmen considers increased assessment on industry and apartment houses a stumbling block in the path of industrial expansion. In one case the assessment value of plant and premises was questionalized.

Landlords renting apartments faced with rising taxes anticipate a rent boost as the answer to higher assessment rates.

The reassessment this year was recommended by assessor Charles Hall and Associates of Hamilton in accordance with the Provincial Manua lor Assessment. Values will apply for the purposes of taxation after seven years of research.

Until the latest assessment the town collected on assessment totals of $8,000,000. Revalued property lifted estimated valuation $2,000,000 bringing total assessmer' figures to $10,000,000.

Few Accidents Despite Heavy Week-end Snow

TRENTON (Special) — Despiteslick driving and walking conditions prompted few accidents during the week-end.

Road trafic however stood still at times until maintenance men sanded slippery surfaces.

Provincial Police at Brighton reported an accident-free weekend with a dozen cars in the ditch in Brighton, Murray and Cramahe townships.

Belated travellers down from Manners told of a big traffic tie-up at the junction of No. 7 Highway and the main street. Chief Constable Caldwell labored more than three hours before the entanglement was straightened out. Lack of sand on hills at both the east and west ends of the town caused helpless car drivers to wait for aid from highway department.

In the long line of snarled traffic were American deer hunters displaying fine specimens destined to the fenders of their cars.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 2 1-8 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Friday's noon rate was 97 15-16 cents. Pound sterling $2.75 3-16, against $2.76 3-16.

TOO MANY CATS

WORTHING, England (Reuters) A retired naval commander admitted in court here, Wednesday that he tried to spank his wife with a walking stick, but claimed he had a reason, she kept 14 cats in the house. Cmdr. Hugh Smith Pugh said his wife behaved like a spoiled child, so he decided to treat her like one. The judge fined him £5.

100th Anniversary Church Services Are Concluded

TRENTON (Special)—Centennial religious services marking the 100th anniversary of the congregation of King Street United Church were concluded Sunday with a visit from Rev. J. R. Matchmor, D.D. of Toronto, Secretary of Evangelism and Social Services for the United Church of Canada. Mr. Matchmor delivered both morning and evening sermons.

Church minister G. J. Minielly noted a large crowd was present for the morning worship despite bad driving and walking conditions.

In the morning Mr. Matchmor compared the church to the visual body of Jesus Christ. "It is the part of the Lord that can be seen," he said. "It is the realistic part of religion and being invisible no one is impressed and have faith in the invisible."

A history of an accelerated church building program the Church Secretary pointed out that the new house of worship at the great aluminium project at Kitimat, B.C. was also in other communities springing up with the rapid growth of Canada. He revealed that the United Church's total property value in Canada had now reached $120,000,000.

Since one in every three marriages in Canada are solemnized in the United Church and the birth rate in recent years has reached new highs there is more need for places for little children to gather, Mr. Matchmor pointed out, advocating that Christians plan now for the century ahead.

Probing Cause Of 2 Major Fires At Army Camp

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP) — Extra security precautions outlined at the army's Camp Aldershot here today by army military and police investigators sought the cause of two major fires that broke out within 24 hours Sunday.

The first destroyed the officers' Mess, the second the camp theatre. Damage was fixed at about $200,000.

Arson or sabotage is suspected.

CAMP PATROLLED

The camp, being made ready for 27th Brigade troops from Germany next month on rotation leave, was under close guard. Sentries patrolled the grounds and all entries and exits. Special permits were required to enter.

About 350 men of the Black Watch and West Nova Scotia regiments are in camp now. Those on week-end leave were recalled when the second fire broke out.

"Until we can find the cause of the fires, every clue will be followed," Col. H. E. T. Doucette, camp commandant, said. An army fire marshal was due today from Ottawa.

Grain Piles Now Prairie Landmarks

Huge mounds such as this of wheat and other grains are common throughout the grain-growing areas of the prairies as farmers, unable to find storage space, have to pile it in the open. The government, asked by CCF Leader Coldwell to advance payments for farm-stored wheat, has signified that advance payments or loans will not be made. — Central Press Canadian.

Fire Threatens Detroit Factory

DETROIT (AP)—A short-lived, but potentially dangerous, fire disrupted operations at General Motors' hydramatic transmission division Sunday night.

The blaze broke out in the heat treat department of the division's recently-leased quarters in the Kaiser Motor Corp.'s Willow Run plant. It was the second time in three months that fire has struck GM hydramatic transmission division.

Company officials said the fire started near a number of quench tanks. When streams of cold water were poured on the tanks, they exploded spreading flames throughout much of the plant.

A night force of 1,300 workers was sent home, but company officials said the midnight shift reported on schedule.

One person was taken to hospital after inhaling smoke. Three others received first aid treatment for injuries.

9 Persons Flee As Flames Gut Kingston House

KINGSTON (CP)—An old wooden ladder was used by nine persons to flee upstairs bedrooms when fire gutted the interior of a brick home here early today.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hawks; three daughters, Joan, 21, Brenda, 16, and Sally, 13; three sons, Fred, 11, Paul 6, and Brian, 18; and a cousin, Bernard Power, 24.

Mr. Hawks broke a partition into the girls' bedroom when their escape was blocked by flames. All nine gathered in a front bedroom and crawled down the old ladder put up by a passerby.

Two of the girls were slightly injured.

CANADIAN FLAG QUESTION

Dona Arsenault, Liberal member for Bonaventure, Quebec, will provide the great debate about a Canadian flag as the coming session of parliament. He has given notice that he will place a resolution on the Commons' order paper urging the establishment of a joint committee of the Senate and the Commons to consider the matter.

In 1945 and 1946 sessions, thousands of designs were considered by a Flag Committee. Finally the committee narrowed the choice to two designs, a red and white triangle design by La Ligue du Drapeau National of Quebec and the Red Ensign with a few changes. The committee recommended that the Red Ensign have a maple leaf in golden colors, in a bordered background of white, replacing the cost-of-arms in the fly.

Parliament subsequently took no action when French-speaking Canadians insisted that the Union Jack was on the flag then the fleur-de-lis should also have a place.

It should be noted that of the thousands of designs submitted, most English-speaking people wanted the Union Jack incorporated in the new flag whereas most French-speaking people wanted to omit all symbols of meeting Britain in the old world, including the dropping of their own fleur-de-lis."

Should Mr. Arsenault's recommendation bring about the formation of a joint Senate-Commons committee, it is nearly certain that the experience of 1945-46 will be repeated. English-speaking Canadians will again seek to incorporate the Union Jack and French-speaking Canadians will insist on the elimination of all Old World ties.

The matter of a flag is not something that can be decided quickly and resolutely like the installation of a new shirt. Any flag grown up with its flag and the symbolism of the flag is intimately associated with its nation's deeds and its dead. A flag is a symbol of the warriors' and the emotional traits of the country as a whole—a symbol of unity which should weld groups of different racial backgrounds and divergent interests into a unified whole with a common, definite identity.

Canadians are being told daily about the magnificent strides forward which their country has taken in the past few years. They are told that the whole world is beginning to recognize Canada as a vital, independent force in the association of free nations. Canadian economists, scientists and industrialists are bringing Canada more and more into the spotlight of world attention. Canadians abroad, soldiers and tourists, are finding that other nations recognize them as distinct from British and Americans.

It would seem, therefore, that never has there been a better time for Canadians to adopt a flag that is a process of identification than the present. And one of the best methods of crystallizing this awareness of our own identity would be to adopt a new, distinctly Canadian flag. We do not believe for a moment that the creation of such a flag would rob Britain of any measure of the tradition and heritage which has been associated with the Red Ensign.

Rather, we feel that a new flag, free of all Old World symbols, would serve to unite the many different racial elements in our population in a more cohesive Canadian whole by providing a common symbol which they can all readily accept as their own.

BELLEVILLE'S HYDRO SYSTEM

Belleville residents may not be aware of it, but they have a million-dollar baby in their municipal electrical system.

The forty-fourth annual report of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario shows that assets of the Belleville system totalled $1,339,859.54 as of December 31, 1952, with liabilities of only $771,462.47. Incidentally the assets was Belleville's equity in the H.E.P.C. system, a healthy $496,628.63. If you are a consumer of electricity, you are a part-owner of a million dollar system. You can stick it under your chest. But do not try to get your banker to accept your interest in the firm as collateral for a loan to finance the purchase of a floor lamp. It won't work.

Still, you do have the consolation of knowing that, on paper at least, you are wealthier than the residents of many other communities.

One of the things in which you might be interested is that in 1952 Belleville's peak load was 11,985.2 kilowatts, while total energy consumption throughout 1952 was 58,468,000 kilowatt hours. The peak load, compared to consumption, was considerably lower than for some other communities, for example, Brantford, a higher peak load, 12,711.0 kilowatts, and a lower consumption, 56,812,000 kilowatt hours. Keeping down the peak load, in ratio to total consumption, is the ever-present problem, since peak loads affect the amount which the local commission must pay for the power it receives from the H.E.P.C., which total consumption is the amount which receives from consumers. Incidentally, Belleville's consumption increased by 5.7 per cent in 1952 over 1951. Brantford recorded a whopping 29.5 per cent increase, exceeded only by the 84.5 per cent increase reported for the little village of Holstein in Grey County; by an increase of 97.8 per cent for Port McNicoll, the Georgian Bay port near Midland, regarding which the Hydro report notes that "this is not a normal increase; during 1951 the municipality took over a power consumer formerly supplied by H.E.P.C."; and by a truly amazing, and unexplained, increase of 394.6 per cent for Cache Bay in Northern Ontario.

YOUTH AND THE FUTURE

Look at it any way you choose,
The past has come and gone.
The future, for the young to use,
Is all that's drawing on.

Within the future lies the fates
Of all our youth today.
And there it's change awaits
To reach the goal or stay.

The old may little more achieve,
The dreams they had are spun.
But this I'd have the young believe:
There's more than can be done.

What is to come, as yet, none knows,
But progress never ends,
And what the future will disclose
Upon the young depends.

Robins are still seen in considerable numbers throughout the city and district. The warm weather which has prompted migration of the other birds has had little effect on the friendly red-breasts. Swimming from the top of a large timber on East Bridge St. late Tuesday afternoon one of the robins was heard singing a few scattered notes of his familiar song. It won't be long now before they will decide to seek a warmer climate.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It's an odd thing that the rudest, most outspoken and least polished of men are usually the healthiest. A kinsman of mine who runs a restaurant says this is due to the fact that blunt men get what they want to eat.

Too many people are so polite, at home and out in company, that they get what is set before them. Result: they are bilious most of the time.

"Husbands who sniff and snort at their food," he says, "enjoy wonderful health." Their wives give them the best of meals, carefully thought out, and thoughtfully prepared. If such men don't like them, they don't eat stews. If they like their beef rare, they get it rare. Accomplishing husband is a healthy husband.

"But the way the world is going, with women becoming more emancipated, more liberated from domestic toil and more be-down-to-you in their attitude towards men, it is a foregone conclusion that the men of the world will grow more and more peaked, more frail, ulcerous, harpy, droopy, wilted. In the end, the only persons who can show big strong, healthy husbands will be the little kitchen biddy type who are so fat and vanishing."

We were sitting in my kinsman's restaurant at the moment. "Just look at the number of men in here eating alone this night," he said. "All great big healthy characters. Not an ulcer in the lot. Do you suppose they are all bachelors?"

"They probably businessmen from out of town," I suggested.

"Not on your life!" asserted my kinsman, who is a big, healthy, merry man himself. "See them all in here once a week or so. They're men who have had a row at home over the food. By the way, what are you doing in here tonight?"

"Er . . . I have been detained down town by a little business."

"Eh?" demanded my kinsman. "What are they having for dinner tonight at home?"

"Uh . . . a casserole," I said lamely.

Plow Builds Future

(By Howard D. Kramer in The Egerian Magazine)

Take a simple plowshare, a moldboard, a few bolts and a wood beam. Put them together and you have a Shabash plow. It will cost you, I suppose, $9, if you're a small Indian farmer, you'd much rather have it cost on a Shabash, than on a tractor, in Hindustani, "Shabash" means "well done."

Behind this simple implement which thousands of Indians want but which so far only a few can have, is a remarkable man — a unusual Indian — by the name of Mason Vaugh. Born and raised on a farm in Missouri, Mason Vaugh went to the University of Missouri in his youth to study scientific farming. This new knowledge he decided to share with some of God's people who seemed to need it greatly, and in 1921 he accepted an assignment as a lay missionary who would teach agricultural engineering at Allahabad Agricultural Institute which stands near the junction of the Jumna River and the sacred Ganges in Northern India.

The first thing Mason Vaugh was to learn was that scientific farming in India is not like The United States, could not be applied successfully to Indian methods of agriculture. On the advice of Sam Higginbottom, founder of the Jumna mission school, he thus turned his talents to improving traditional Indian farming.

What a farmer would and could do depended upon what experts thought he should, became the guiding rule. In short, to make progress, Indians must have to back up.

Mason Vaugh has spent a time in remaking things the Indian way. Bullock plows, Indian buildings, bullock carts, kitchen equipment and field implements are all kinds are native forms and materials.

You would welcome a three-fold increase in the efficiency of the average Indian farmer if it cost you almost nothing, wouldn't you? That is what Allahabad can offer Indian farmers, largely because of Vaugh's improved Indian implements. Nearly a man and his pair of bullocks can work one acre a day, using native implements, he can work 22 acres. And there are acres to work in India. Almost all the country is India's food lands, it is estimated, if it were properly worked, by brick-hard soils, stubborn wild grass, or by tool-dulling scarcity. Primitive wood plows cannot begin to cope with these challenges.

What gives the Shabash its superiority over other plows? To begin with, its generous throat between moldboard and share is wide enough to clear the heaviest in weeds and tough grass. Also, its hard steel share stays sharp longer and more durable than the soft iron variety. The plow is hewn out of a block of wood and fitted with a metal tip. Then, the wider throat for trash flow makes the Shabash almost a third lighter in draft. Of most importance, its price, only a few rupees more than a dollar, brings it within reach of the village's purse.

At present the Institute workshop is turning out 100 plows a month. Next year, if all goes well, Mason Vaugh hopes to erect a factory capable of turning out 1,000 plows a week. That won't meet the demand. Fortunately the United States Point Four program in India has requested Indian manufacturers to incorporate the basic principles of the Shabash in their own locally-designed implements finally convinced Point Four officials that the Shabash is the best known best.

Mason Vaugh and his staff have designed 14 other low-cost implements, including seeders, hoes, harrows, seeders, knurpies, earth borers, garden tools, winnowing machines, and so on. All are field tested for years before mounting ture. Vaugh is now concentrating upon refining Indian harvesting practices, for a considerable amount of a crop is lost by wasteful methods. All Institute implements are sold at village prices. Even so, by careful management the workers a slight profit.

Fame and fortune await the Indian architect who incorporates into his work the Vaugh construction materials, such as bricks, sideboards, work space, stove, chimney, etc. Hundreds of concrete have earned for Vaugh the gratitude of housewives who are enough to have one. In a land where material costs more than labor, this low-cost home construction for coolness and many other built-in features are more economical than the usual Indian bullock hovels.

Mason Vaugh punctuates his conversation with homely quips and sayings. One of them is: "Work is a firm believer is Emerson's observation about better mousetrap, He sees no reason to tip to discard this maxim. Without any advertising except word of mouth, Indian farmers are beating a wide path to his door to purchase these implements that increase their income, and help them ease their hard lot in life.

Seven Creeds Have Same Rule

(St. Catharines Standard)

The oldest precept of religion is the Golden Rule, a good guide for son M. Compton, writing in Youth Leader's Digest, points out that in the Golden Rule lies the secret of religions. Each has its own historic background, but underlying them is one philosophy. Yet, through all of them runs a golden thread of the "good life" which is the basis of the code of the accumulated experience of mankind. Here are the creeds that we seek to extend the frontiers of the "good life" and to live by the tested teachings of the world's great religions:

This is the Vedas of the Hindus.

"One should seek for others the happiness one desires for one's self."

This is the Mahayana of the Buddhist.

"Do as you would be done by."

This is the Zend Avesta of the Persian.

"Do not do unto others that which you would not wish others to do unto you."

This is the Talmud of the Jew.

"All things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even unto them."

This is the Golden Rule of the Christian.

Here then is history's greatest lesson: A rule of life.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

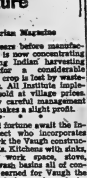
A PLACE OF PEACE AND HEALTH

This talk is not an advertisement, but a tribute to a great institution — the Battle Creek Sanitarium, in Michigan. It was established many years ago by a remarkable man, Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, who lived to be 91 years of age, and who was active almost to the very day that he died.

People from all parts of the world have gone to this place and have come back feeling and left better and happier, with new purposes and new ideals for more useful lives. I have spent many profitable weeks there. It is a place that is unique among institutions. There is a note of cheerfulness and helpfulness about it.

Here the physical body is given the best aid and spiritual that are emphasized as the best foods, the best drinks and the good life. The dining room is most attractive with its flowers and white uniformed dietitians and waitresses. A soft gong is heard and you go to your table and enjoy a brief prayer.

Vegetarian meals are served.



All about this place is to be found the best of health exercises, instructive talks and lectures, as well as many recreations, are offered. You feel better, need to be there. You meet friendly people. You make valuable acquaintances. There is a large room for quiet and reading, and all for moderate prices. You do not get lonely easily for soon you find you have a host of companionship of others.

In a way this institution is a school established to teach people how to live the good life and make it worth while. You go back to your home, or office, with renewed faith and confidence and with a better knowledge of God's values. Here is a place of real Christian and inspiring coaches to the soul.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

EMULATING GEORGE CHEYNE

Dr. Brady.

Here the other day Mrs. John Doe, who signed her real name but not her address, said that she had weighed 228 pounds when she was 32 years old, 200 pounds when she was 40 years old. Then she began to diet and lost 150 pounds — but the lady did not say how long it took to lose 150 pounds nor what reducing regimen she followed, if any. She did say that her physician prescribed the Iodin Ration and that the Iodin Ration has been a daily habit for the past seven years. She now feels and acts a smart 90, at the age of 64, and she has landed a job with a firm that has a 35 years age limit. Dr. Brady, you Doe offered "Orchids for your Iodin Rations, Doctor."

I know of only one instance of intentional reduction that parallels Mrs. Doe's achievement, and that is possibly legendary. I refer to one George Cheyne, born in Scotland in 1671. At the age of 30 he weighed 448 pounds. It was 32.7. (before Lister) that he nevertheless the young man drank a good deal of beer, when he drank liquor to keep up his strength, for it tuckered him out something dreadful. He finally reduced 300 pounds of blubber.

Like all intelligent persons George was lethargic and short of breath. Except in eating and drinking, and maybe smoking, George could not keep up with other men of his age. Gradually his consciousness of his inferiority (when about 40) began to drive him to forget for a while about it. He began to read books as well as popular, among morons, weaklings and perverts.

Little most habitual eating and drinking hogs George Cheyne somehow snapped out of it, quit drinking, restricted his diet to milk and vegetables, began a rigid schedule of graduated exercise (from the simplest daily calisthenics s systematically increasing as a general average day-by- day) and reduced to 190 pounds, or to they say. Or they say George himself said so. I can neither affirm nor deny it. They say George also recovered his strength and lived to the venerable age of 70. They say Cheyne even wrote an essay on health, and long life, which must have been suppressed as it was ever published at all, for I have never come across any allusion to it in medical literature except, wouldn't you guess, this in Cheyne's Practice;

"Every wise man, after fifty, ought to begin to lessen at least the quantity of his food" (and especially for food). "and if he would continue free or great and lasting vigour, strength and preserve his senses and faculties clear to the last he ought every seven years go on abstinent gradually and proportionally at last drawing out of life as he ascended into it, even into the first seven years."

Milk that is. We can go along with the Cheyne suggestion except that the degree of physical activity and not the person's age should determine the "abating gradually and sensibly." That is, one does not abate his exercise intensity instead of living it done; or one does not abate one's study, desire and garden instead of living it with much vim and vigor and from school, office or job instead of riding; or one who plays his or her own music instead of watching professionals play; in short one who practices what it is to passive existence can continue to enjoy and learn a great deal of "ailment" or fuel (carbohydrate material which would inevitably accumulate were it not in the body of a sedentary person.

Journey To Non Sequitur

(Christian Science Monitor)

If a Canadian press dispatch to the New York Times is to be believed, it could be a case of a horse that not to be tall. Telling of a Nova Scotia strong man who, starting 90, still offers to lift a horse (not a fine day), the dispatch continues: "Although he is only about 6 inches tall, he is still rugged, healthy, and active."

Well, life may be hard for short men in the Maritime Provinces, although we wouldn't know just why. That doesn't seem to hold true elsewhere. To be sure, short men don't have much chance in modern big basketball. But many have done pretty well at other sports.

Phil Rizzuto, younger but also 5 feet 6, seems to be surviving the rigors of the baseball diamond. Martin Van Buren, smaller than the same height as the strong man and at about the same weight is in the White House. Napoleon I, the "Little Corporal," not much younger than either of these, was leading the league at soldiering. Alexander the Great, it is suggested that Abraham Lincoln outdebated Stephen A. Douglas because he was a little Giant" had to look up to the "Hallspitter's" height.

The idea suggests some fascinating questions: What about the land of Non Sequitur, George Washington, though over six feet tall, threw a dollar across the Rappahannock. (Or did he?) William Jennings Bryan, although he was no beard, was a great orator. Sinatra, although he sings, is a wrestler. And Mr. X., although a piano player, never ran on the Republican ticket.

Now try your own.

Strength for the Day

PICTURE PUZZLE

A little two-year-old sitting up at the table with his family in the dining room of a summer hotel had been given a simple picture puzzle and was quite attention and keep him quiet. Suddenly he turned around to dently belonged in a certain place but he would not put it there. "I don't want it there," he said, he would cry out; "I want it to be here." And he turned and tried to make it fit into an impossible space.

He was not so different from many of us. Life lies before us and God's providence is spread out like a picture puzzle on a table. It takes a little ingenuity to get pieces all together.

But there are certain pieces which fit into certain places because a sovereign God has demanded that it be that way, and is futile for us to try to make these pieces to fit into any other places. We can be just as foolish as the little three year old. We can weep and shriek and pound picture puzzle if we don't get it; I want this." But all the God in the sky we are going to do is ridiculously impossible.

Try thinking of life as a picture puzzle. Ask God to help you fit all as Universal Law exerpieces of God, and then try to arrange the pieces so that they will fit as Universal Law exercises them. Then you have God intended they should fit.

Annual 'Parade of Songs' By Belleville SPEBSQSA Delights Large Audience

By EUGENIA LANG

Despite inclement weather that normally would keep people indoors because of its wintry nature, hundreds of local music lovers ventured through slushy streets to the Collegiate Saturday evening to attend the third annual Parade of Songs at the Bloomer Night given by the Belleville Chapter of the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A., said long group of initials spelling out "Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America".

This Society had its beginning in Oklahoma in 1934, being formed by O. C. Cash, a man who wished to preserve this style of close harmony in the singing of those hundreds of songs that beloved old songs that people love to hear and also like to indulge in themselves whenever a group of oldtimers get together to relive those days of the hour. So the century. Since its formation the Society has mushroomed out with chapters through out the U.S.A. and Canada, with a total membership nearing the thirty thousand mark. The Belleville Chapter was formed in 1950 by Maurice Bond, Cliff "Thud" Bradford and since its beginning with only a very few members has now increased to fifty-three members. Meetings are held twice a month, during which time the members get together and try out numerous combinations and groupings of voices to find the quartet in their musical talents and enjoyment.

FOUR VISITING QUARTETS

Before a large audience of those who really get a thrill out of this very different kind of vocal entertainment, the local chapter had invited four other quartets from near and afar to demonstrate their respective abilities, the feature being the entire Belleville chorus of twenty-seven singers under the able direction of Al Evans. Following the selections sung by the chorus there is a hearty and full throated mancry, the local chapter's quartet "The Gentlemen", Bill Smith Keys, tenor; Al Evans, lead; Dick Brethour, baritone, and John Waddell, bass, gave forth with their well rehearsed voices in a group of the real old songs of yesteryear that never fail to please.

The Dutchmen from Oshawa were the first visiting quartet to appear —and appear they did as a four-some of rustic hill-billies right from the Kentucky Hills. They had the audience chuckling with laughter at both their costume and their down to earth peasant humor and realistics, what with the mirth-filled songs that they had chosen and the pantomimes that accompanied them, they knew how to reach out and draw from the listeners all the attention and applause that a well planned and harmonized series of songs could muster.

FEMININE QUARTET.

The Ballsdrawn from Wallaceburg were a surprise in the appearance of four lovely young voices — but from female throats. With graceful ease these four girls sang their way right into the hearts of the audience. It was no effort for them to blend their voices into sounds of richness and succulence, rendering their forte in the modern songs that they offered.

The Rythmaires, the prize quartet from one of the two Toronto Chapters, they also had the audience in their polished and professional grasp that they had acquired from years of singing together. This quartet, with many awards to their credit seemed to think and act as one instead of four separate beings. One can only say that everything they sang and the way that they sang it was done to perfection.

It was most regrettable that the American quartet, the Jolly Boys, from East Liverpool, Ohio, could not be in attendance but bad weather prevented them from getting any further to their destination here then Buffalo, N.Y.

TWO BELLEVILLE SOLOISTS.

Two promising young singers, both winners of the third annual scholarship contest for voice training in Belleville were next heard from. Miss Jarka Novak, soprano, and Mr. James Laughlin, tenor, demonstrated their vocal abilities in one selection each. These scholarships will be given annually to the boy or girl registered at any one of the local high schools, adjudicated as having the most promising voice during the current year. These two young winners were chosen from a group of four girls and four boys and each received a hundred dollar tuition scholarship. Mr. Sydney Hinton, president of the local chapter, spoke briefly about these scholarships and their winners before each appeared. Miss Novak was the winner from Belleville Collegiate and Mr. Laughlin from Albert College. All will sincerely hope that both have promising and successful singing careers ahead of them, each being the possessor of a very fine voice.

AUDIENCE PARTICIPATES.

During intermission a harmony sing-song was participated in by the audience. After intermission each quartet again appeared and meritoriously poured forth in song their very best. In fairness to all it can only be said that each quartet had certain qualities that the others did not possess, but what one lacked in any one respect it gained in another. The main thing was that one could see that each member of each quartet sang with that feeling of joy in singing and the resulting feeling of a job well done. And the final item to take into consideration was the appreciation of the audience for every person present seemed to enjoy the show to the fullest — what more can one want?

Mr. John Dodds acted as Master of Ceremonies and the accompanist for Miss Novak, and Mr. Laughlin were Messrs: Alec Gordon and Douglas Hoare, respectively.

EDEN SAYS

Eden said Britain still feels that a five-power conference would be the best way to solve the bitter Trieste dispute which began with the Anglo-American decision to pull out of zone A and turn it over to Italy. This decision brought violent objection from Yugoslavia.

We consider that a conference still offers the best chance of finding a solution of the vexed problem of Trieste. We shall persevere in our attempts to secure an acceptable and lasting settlement and shall not be deflected from this purpose by violence from any quarter. Our first duty is to be sure that order is firmly restored in Trieste. This is being done.

"I have made the view of the government quite clear to the Italian government and urged that they should continue to do all in their power to curb those elements who have been responsible for provocative demonstrations recently and the subsequent anti-Allied demonstrations in Italian cities," Eden declared.

Former Labor prime minister Clement Attlee interposedat this point to ask:

"May I take it that the Italian government has been left in no doubt that the attitude of this kind is not calculated to make public opinion in this country sympathetic to the Italian case?"

BRITAIN WHIPPING BOY

Replied Eden:

Yes, sir. I think public opinion in this country also feels strong resentment at being made the whipping boy for trying to discharge an international responsibility, at its own expense and without the slightest personal advantage to this country at all."

Eden was then asked:

"It is not true that the main animosity has been directed towards the British and not the United States?"

The foreign secretary said:

I think that is very largely true and I draw the attention of the Italian government to it. It is true that the military commander and the commander of the police are both British but the American government have firmly underlined over the week-end that the responsibility is a joint one."

General Sir John Winterton is the military governor of the free territory. There have been reports that Italian Premier Giuseppe Pella has demanded that he be ousted on grounds police under his command fired into the Trieste rioters.

The foreign secretary made his statements only a few hours after Prime Minister Churchill unexpectedly called his cabinet into session to discuss the Trieste situation.

WIFELY OBEDIENCE

LONDON (CP)—Brides at Christ church in the Lancaster Gate district are not required to "obey" their husbands-to-be under the revised marriage service there. Rev. Oscar Hardman said "there will be no question of wifely obedience where there is true love."

U.S. Was 'Dumb' To Turn Over U-Boats to Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Defence Secretary Charles Wilson said today that after the Second World War, "We were dumb enough to, turn over the whole German submarine fleet to the Russians."

Wilson, in a copyright interview with the magazine U.S. news and World Report, did not elaborate on his remark. Germany sank submarines, nor say how many the Germans had when they surrendered. Asked about reports that Russia has the world's second largest navy, Wilson said:

"The first thing I would like to do is my job down here is to work over some of the mistakes of the past.

"When anyone mentions the Russian submarines and the fact that we were dumb enough to turn over the whole German submarine fleet to the Russians, I get a little hot and stay hot for several minutes."

"TOO PANICKY" ABOUT REDS

Asked about his controversial statement of a few weeks ago that he does not think the Russians have the capacity of waging a sustained atomic war, the defence secretary said:

"I did think we were getting too panicky . . . I know the people in the Kremlin are going to start what we think the nation ought to do . . . I don't think the Russians are going to start a war and move in on us first because they have a 6-months say more than they did just because they've got a side of the line in Europe."

William Wilson was president of General Motors Corp. before President Eisenhower picked him to be defence secretary.

FINED ON DRIVING CHARGE

PORT ERIE (CP)—Joseph DeSantis, 22, of Stamford was convicted of careless driving Wednesday and ordered to pay a fine and costs totalling $25. The charge arose from a recent accident in which D'Ester's automobile skidded into a ditch, struck a culvert and overturned.

FIREMAN DIES

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—George Smith, 54, retired chief of the Peterborough fire department died Friday. He joined the department in 1923, becoming chief in 1948. He leaves his widow and four sons, all of Peterborough.

Miss Mary Reid, Plainfield, and Robert Mallory, R.R. 7, Trenton, were named outstanding girl and boy in Hastings county junior farmer activities for 1953. Miss Reid is a member of the Plainfield homemaking club, while Robert is from Sidney township 4-H clubs.

The two winners are seen with awards presented by the Canadian Bank of Commerce at club night held at Stirling last week.

Northern Electric Hockey League

The Elbow Benders defeated the Dragnets 8-3 and the Buzzers dropped their game to the Jerks by the same score in the Northern Electric Inter Department Hockey League games played over the week-end.

The Elbow Benders took a two-goal lead in the first period on goals by Bradan and Woods only to have the Dragnets rear back with a pair from the sticks of Hatfield and James in the middle twenty minutes.

Smith for the E.R's and Hatfield with his second goal of the game for the Dragnets opened the final period but Semark, on a pass from Bradan notched the winner. Stevens banged in the insurance marker from Smith to complete the scoring.

The second game found the Jerks out front by four goals in the second period before the Buzzers bit the score sheet. The score, at the end of the second period was 5-1 but the Buzzers came back for a pair in the last frame on goals by Bedard and Rastelle. Bell got the other marker for the losers while Belnap with two, Lynch, Wardaugh and Westerdall hit the hemp for the Jerks. Day had a pair of assists in a losing cause.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

Over The Moon

Whether or not any cow ever jumped over the moon, it is a fact that birds fly over the moon —that is, they fly between us and the moon, passing according to one's face. If you are dubious, try looking through a telescope around the time of the full moon some clear night in September, October, or November. The birds are in migration, on the way from their breeding grounds to their winter holiday resort in the south; and whereas a large number travel by day, the majority travel under cover of darkness. To be exact, they generally choose the time between 8 P.M. and midnight, or from 4 to 6 A.M., thus avoiding the very darkest hours.

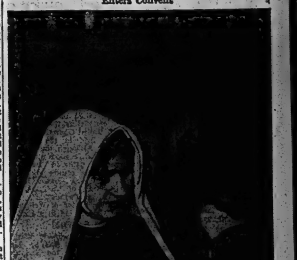
You might very well ask why timid little birds should want to migrate by night. There are several reasons, one being because they are timid. They hope to elude their enemies. Nearly all small birds are night fliers; they warblers, vireos, thrushes, flycatchers, the great family of sparrows, orioles, and so on. Weak birds, such as rails, and hosts of other shore birds may be counted in with this group.

The food problem compels most birds to travel by night. These small creatures use up much fuel in migration, and require frequent meals. Fruit and seed eaters could not find enough nourishment in the dark for a prolonged flight. And so the hours of daylight are used for feeding and rest.

Certain kinds of birds, as swallows, are fortunate in being able to take in food as they fly. Ducks, geese, and many other swimmers as well as waders feed either by day or night because they can feed at all hours and are not accustomed to hide, rather they submerge.

Some birds fly very low in migration, a few very high, but the majority keep at a reasonable height. On a moonlight night they may be seen moving like a great procession across the bright disc. Sometimes in the early autumn that they passed at the rate of 1000 an hour. Banding has been tried to count, and other data was needed. And so a co-operative effort was made recently.

In the spring of 48, 200 ornithologists and amateurs were stationed scattered over North America watching the moon. Then in the autumn of 52 and again in the spring of 53 Canadians played their part. Their task in each case was made on a larger scale. The findings will be of value to science but much data makes it possible to begin to study the question and the effect of weather, and to tell the hour of greatest activity. The plan is to repeat the experiment twice a year.



BLIND CHURCHMAN

THORNTON HEATH, England (CP)—Rev. Fravey Whittlebum, vicar of St. Jude's-on-the-Hill here, has never seen his congregation. He was blinded as a boy. Now 73, he is turning over the post to a younger man.

COUNTER-ATTRACTION

CANTERBURY, England (CP)—Attendance at a boys' school here dropped so sharply for one afternoon that 54 pupils were investigated. He found the absentees had stayed home to watch television carrying a game between an English soccer team and the "rest of the world."

Weddings

WALKER—JARVIS

PICTON.—The chapel of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene was the scene of an interesting wedding when Elizabeth Ann Jarvis, became the bride of Alan Leslie Walker. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jarvis, Lake Street, Picton and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nobel Walker, Main Street West, Picton. Rev. W. G. H. Swayze officiated.

The bride chose a suit of steel blue with black accessories and corsage of autumn Beauty roses with gold feathers.

Her attendant, Mrs. Jack Jarvis, wore a suit of navy blue with red accessories and corsage of red roses with white feathers.

Mr. Jarvis was groomsman.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth, centred by the wedding cake, which was flanked by tall white tapers and white and yellow baby mums. Autumn flowers decorated the rooms.

Servers were Miss Joan Jarvis, Miss Mary Hoover and Miss Kerrigan. Tea was poured by Mrs. Nobel Walker, mother of the bride. Many lovely gifts were presented to the young couple and a telegram from Buckingham was read from the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. A. E. Bowyer, Highland Lake.

Following a trip to Toronto, Kirkland Lake, and Bourlemaque, Quebec, Mr. and Mrs. Walker will reside in Picton.

GARGHAN — BARNES

White chrysanthemums adorned the altar of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, and white satin bows, the guest pews, on Saturday, October 31st, at 3.30 p.m. when Lily Carter Barnes, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Barnes, became the bride of James Garghan, also of Belleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. Garghan, Birmingham, England. The Reverend Canon H. J. Robinson, B.A., rector of the church, officiated.

The traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Ernest Wheatley, church organist, who rendered, "Because", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in her bridal gown of nylon net, Chantilly lace and white slipper satin, fashioned with molded sleeveless bodice of lace, featuring a Chantilly lace bolero with long pointed sleeves, small stand-up collar and short sleeves. The gracefully full floor length skirt of net over satin featured small Chantilly lace panniers in crinoline effect.

She wore a double veil of scalloped tulle illusion in finger-tip length held by a small, pearl-encrusted coronet, matching nylon net mitts, and carried a cascade bouquet of pink "Delight" roses. A floral horseshoe of red carnations and tiny white 'mums was presented to the bride during the reception.

Miss Nancy Cook, of Belleville, was bridesmaid, attractively attired in pale blue nylon net over taffeta with matching mitts. She carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of orchid carnations and wore a matching headdress.

Mr. Alfred Pilinger, of Toronto, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was groomsman.

At the reception, which was held at the Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road, the bride's mother received, wearing pale blue crepe with navy accessories, and corsage of red "Bettertime" roses. The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Alfred Pilinger, of Toronto, assisted, gowned in navy blue with white accessories, and corsage of red "Bettertime" roses.

The bride's table in U-shape, was daintily accented with white damask, centred by a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and encircled about the base by bouquets of pink and white tulle. Tall, white tapers in silver holders, and bridal bouquets, added a lovely accent.

The toast to the bride was proposed by the rector, the Reverend W. J. Robinson, to which the bridegroom responded.

Following the reception the guests were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Cook Bridge Street, west.

For the wedding trip to Montreal and points east, the bride chose a flame-colored suit with brown accessories and corsage of yellow "Sunbeam" roses. Mr. and Mrs. Garghan will reside in Belleville, upon their return.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto and Hamilton.

United Church of Canada W.M.S. Holds 27th Rally in Wellington

The Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada held its 27th sectional rally of Prince Edward County in Wellington.

Mrs. Rolland Barker, vice-president, conducted the meeting.

Owing to an unavoidable delay in completing the newly decorated United Church, the meeting was held in the Friendship Church. Although the morning was overcast, a good attendance of women gathered from all points of the county and their enthusiasm was shown in the hearty singing of the hymn "The Church's One Foundation". Rev. A. Pentlow, pastor of Wellington United Church, led in prayer.

MORNING SERVICE

The morning worship was in charge of Bethel W.M.S. Mrs. N. Trumble read the Scripture lesson from Romans 4: 1-17. Mrs. Huskinson spoke on the theme "Responsibility of Christians for Christ and His Kingdom." The W.M.S. has a duty to bring Christ to the world so Christ but this must begin in the hearts. We must be willing to make an offering but keep our enthusiasm and joy of service. Mrs. Huskinson's address—"We, as we do not fail those who go. By being obedient to the call of God, we can discover our true mission to a depairing world." The offertory dedication of self can never be lifted up to God unless we humble then led in prayer and the whole gathering seemed to be led to a receptive mood by this inspiring worship service.

Mrs. A. Keeper, of Wellington, brought words of welcome to the rally. She explained the meaning of "over the decline" in their church, but thanked the neighbors, the Friendship, for the use of their church. Mrs. Poulter hoped the ladies would enjoy the warmth of friendship throughout the day but also a deepening of the spirit of prayer in their personal lives.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Shaver introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. C. Maxwell Lewis, Toronto, executive secretary. She gave a list of her duties which are many, including correspondence and speaking—even as many as 13 addresses a week. Mrs. Shaven then introduced the team—a group of workers, the Presbyterial executive who travel to the sectional rallies. They are: Mrs. C. D. McLellan, president of the Presbyterial; Mrs. S. Denton, Christian Stewardship secretary; Mrs. Pierce Jones, literature secretary and Mrs. E. Lewis, treasurer.

Mrs. Denton and Mrs. K. Jones conducted a study dealing with plans made by the Dominion Board. They disclosed the following facts: there is an increase in the 1954 allocation of $10,000, because of (1) increase in salaries of missionaries. (2) increase in the cost of living. (3) starting up a pension fund for payment of staff. (4) increase in grants to Sunday School in home by mail and air and to the Youth Caravans.

ALLOCATION INCREASED

In Belleville Presbyterial the allocation is increased to $22,600, in speaking of tithing, Mrs. Denton told of a "Tithing Advertisture" set up by a panel, where a program of tithing is planned for a month. 200 churches have now joined this and the development in the women is unbelievable. It leads people to a deeper sense of commitment to God, said Mrs. Denton.

CHURCH'S TASK.

Mrs. Lewis' theme was in line with the W.M.S. study for this year, "Life and Task of Church Around the World". She spoke of the unique opportunity of the W.M.S. to help in creating the wider horizons of the Church — not only geographically but in the vision of its strength. Samuel Moffatt in his book, "Where's the Sun", in a chapter on, "Low Ceiling" shows the life of the Church during persecution. Martin Neimoller's oldest son was a member of a Bible Circle which met secretly as it was forbidden by Hitler. Each night some members would be missing. When the leader failed to appear one night, the 16 year old son of Neimoller stepped forward ready to lead in the prayer. He was ready because he had been studying the Word of God.

60 COUNTRIES REPRESENTED.

Bishop Bergrave, who was imprisoned during the war because of his preaching, returned to Oslo in 1947 a free man, and welcomed 1,000 delegates from 60 countries to his church. A low temporary ceiling was at one end of the church because an artist was painting a great mural which would take years to finish. "Just so," said the Bishop, "When the low ceiling of life is taken away, we see God is there at work all the time."

Turning to the work with which he is personally so familiar, Home Missions, the speaker first told the story of twin missionaries to Hope and Faith Weaver. They were born in Preston, Ontario and as twins do they took alike in all things. They went on mission fields in Northern Ontario. Later they volunteered for overseas service but Hope was forced down because she failed her medical test. So Faith went with four other women to India where she met and married Rev. John Mistering. Hope is at Gypsumville, 175 miles north of Winnipeg. She feels the nurse who is in charge there. She has a church, a choir, Sunday School, Vacation Bible School, education in the schools and is having a wonderful time knowing that northern community. All this because of the knowledge that caught the vision of service and gave their lives.

OVERSEAS MISSIONS

Time for us to overseas missions the W.M.S. now brings scholarship girls from foreign countries to Canadian colleges to finish their education. Such a girl is Teruko Kimura who came to Canada on education in Japan, then went to Halifax Ladies' College, Toronto College, was brought to Canada on a scholarship and has now returned to Japan to be with Canada and Japan to be with Canada and Japan to be head of a Social Service Centre in Japan. There she has a Day Nursery, Kindergarten, English classes, leads a choir of 40 young people to name only a few of her activities.

On her one day a week off she goes to Theological College and studies the new Testament, Mrs. Lewis concluded her day in the United Church Training School in Toronto where she has taken the following places: India, Jamaica, Korea and Japan. The life and task of the Church around the world is our obligation to build a Christian Church in Canada and to help in other countries.

BOOKS' DISPLAY

The display as literature secretary had a large number and variety of books on display for all ages. Among those for younger children were: Looking South, Canada lands in many lands and Missionary hero stories. For adults: South India Diary; He wears Orchids (about Latin America); Where there is Courage; Revolution! The World is my home; Report from Christian Europe; a book of the Bible Exercise Christ and Peace. These are only a few of the books ready and rapidly reviewed by Mrs. Jones.

Carol Marsden and Carley Cleave, who attended the W.M.S. Leader School at Whitby last August, gave reports of their day courses. This report given by the two bright and charming girls was a highlight of the day. With remarkable poise they demonstrated in the talk their work their training and does for them. Carol described the first two days and Carley the two closing days.

The program at the school began in the morning with hymn singing and morning worship followed by Bible study. Special speakers gave reports on different subjects such as "United Nations", and "Blood Missions". In the afternoon they divided into groups such as C.O.I.T. and Mission Band, and this was followed by recreation. In the evenings they had musical programs or other group services. The girls spoke in glowing terms of the food and accommodation and added to all, old and young who are interested.

WOMAN'S TASK

Mrs. C. D. McLellan took as her theme for the Quiet Half Hour, "Servant of Christ", Mrs. McLellan, it is stated, (1) worship — the most important thing that happens in any community is when people go to church on Sunday morning leading God's word. It does also help them to go with words apply to life and it will work. (2) Care for all in the fellowship — support, adopt a younger group, sending girl to Training School — (3) Preach the Word — do missionary work every people work have closed minds about missions. (4) Minister to the needy — with love and concern, sew, knit, and share talents. One man had carved, and Mrs. Lewis used the words "Simon Peter stood and warmed himself" as an illustration to share warmth. (5) Wage war one evils — greatest evils of the age are (a) drinking — urge the church women not only to abstain but never to serve alcohol. It weakens the witness of the church (b) gambling — urge the government of Churches urges that no more lotteries be held in connection with churches. Church women should go further — they should help do so by organizations —again it weakens the witness of the church. (c) Sabbath desecration — Keep God's Day holy, thereby strengthen the spiritual life of the church. (6) Strive for right relations with all men. Prayer, the key to peace from between parcents.

The Christian patience to create peaceful home. But it is first important to have right relationships with Jesus and all else follows. The task of women is great but it can be summed up in the words of a negro as told in Dr. Stanley Jones' book, "Love yourself full, think yourself clear, forget yourself and go to work." This meditation closed with a moving prayer and the singing of the hymn "Jesus Shall Reign" jointly by Mrs. McLellan and Mrs. Barker while Mrs. Huskinson led in prayer with bowed heads. Hymn "Lord, speak to me that I may speak" concluded.

The ladies of Wellington served delicious dinner in the United Church basement.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The afternoon session opened with the hymn "Faith of our fathers" put on by the team with Mrs. McLellan leading. Hymn, "O Master of the Waking World", and prayer by Mrs. Huskinson followed. Minutes of previous meeting were read by Mrs. Lewis. Treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Jones. Reports from Christian Stewardship and Friendship, report by Mrs. Welch. Report from literature secretary by Mrs. Wiles; literature by Mrs. F. Jones.

Worship service was then conducted by Mrs. Lowrys. It consisted of a hymn, prayer by Mrs. Lowrys of Lydia. Lydia was a good organizer and a business lady and had her whole family out to worship. She had a contagious faith as she was the household when all baptized by Paul. She was a good hostess. (a) Invited Paul to her home; she was a successful business woman, a seller of purple. She was also the first Christian convert in Europe. We also dedicate our lives as Lydia did." Mrs. Lowrys closed the thoughtful talk with the hymn "Jesus Where'er Thy Peoples Meet" followed.

NONE TOO HIDDEN

"None Are Too Hidden" was the program played supplied by the ladies of the Picton Evening Group. Mrs. Lewis gave the task of the Christian Church throughout the world and the needs it uses books, newspapers, letters and radio. Miss Hettie Ellis read the introductory reading, then Mrs. Harold Gibson was heard in "Missionary Jesus" and "Where's Thy Peoples Meet" followed.

NONE TOO HIDDEN

"None Are Too Hidden" was the program played supplied by the ladies of the Picton Evening Group. Mrs. Lewis gave the task of the Christian Church throughout the world and the needs it uses books, newspapers, letters and radio. Miss Hettie Ellis read the introductory reading, then Mrs. Harold Gibson was heard in "Missionary Jesus" and "Where's Thy Peoples Meet" followed.

Mrs. Lewis' address on the order of the day. The message was made more real by the ladies costumes of Africa, India, Arabia and Japan; also a school girl told of Sunday School by her and mail. Appropriate music was played by Mrs. Curtis Stanton, and films of scenes in the life of Christ formed a fitting climax to the whole cast joined in a hymn at the close and Mrs. Gibson pronounced the benediction. This was truly impressive production brought the model meeting to an end.

Mr. J. C. Harvey, secretary, called the roll to which 13 auxiliaries answered. Their vitality and keen interest was shown by the variety of projects and gratifying amount of money realized, often by a small number.

AFTERNOON ADDRESS

Mrs. Lowrys' afternoon address was looked forward to with keen anticipation after the "sample" in the morning, and no one was disappointed.

Drawing from her large experience with women and girls Mrs. Lowrys gave a new and first hand outline into the work of the church on the home mission field. She began by compliment-ing the ladies on the excellent production of their play. This ability comes through education and using talents given. "This is what we want to give to all lions were laid about 18 years ago, now Miss Mary Mansfield is working—giving Christian education in the schools and holding church services.

CHRISTIAN SERVICE

This Christian service is the only fellowship these people enjoy.

In Manitoba the United Church hospitals at Teulon and Dauphin are crowded. There are many new Canadians in that great area where Miss Mary Hudgins is in charge. People are thankful for the things the church brings: a missionary, a nurse, and a church service. Sometimes these their greatest blessings. In Pine River the church is growing rapidly and young people from there go to the cities and take their places in the churches there. The nurse at Gypsumville (Hope Weaver's area) has her dispensary in the kitchen where numerous patients are treated, often several ones are taken to Winnipeg hospital.

In all that 170 miles to Winnipeg there are only four women missionaries, two Anglicans and two United Church. Mrs. Lowrys visited all these places last summer and told of the kindness shown because in these places visitors are appreciated especially if they represent the church.

Film Flan has grown so it now has a beautiful church and 1,000 Sunday School children.

NURSES NEEDED

Nurses are badly needed all over the north land, especially at Coe Lake and Matheson. Said Mrs. Lowrys, "If you know of nurses, tell them; if not, make it your prayer. The time has come when we must have more women. In Knob Lake, Uranium City and in the Burns Lake Hospital the population of Kitimat is expected to reach 20,000 shortly. In Grand Prairie (Peace River) Rev. H. Pritchard ministers to the surrounding outposts. He speaked for volunteers to the Yukon and went last May. She teaches Christian education in ten schools, visits families, starts prayer and study clubs. There are many still in our own land who are in need. We are in the centre of the work of our church. Witness must join hands with service and truth with love in order to find people so the church grows on — Where'er the Sun — Jesus shall reign."

Mrs. Barker expressed the feeling of the meeting as she thanked Mrs. Lowrys for the inspirement and for her challenging message.

BUSINESS REPORT—OFFICERS

Mrs F. Huskinson gave the report of the Presbyterial executive as follows: The W.M.S. is invited to hold the 1954 Rally in Bay Church. Sincere thanks were given the following: The Wellington ladies, for the bountiful dinner served; the guild of the Friends' Church for the use of their building; Mrs. Lowrys for her inspiring address; the girls from the School of Leaders for their report; the pianist, Picton; Mrs. Gibson and others who helped to make the Rally a success. Thanks and thanks were also given the retiring vice-president, Mrs. Rolland Barker, for her efficient leadership in the last four years.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: honorary president, Mrs. Clarence Hicks; president, Mrs. Curtis Stanton; vice-president, Mrs. Alan Palmatier, Mrs. Ross Sprague. Business committee, Mrs. Ross Sprague, Mrs. Stanley Whattam, Mrs. Fred Jones, Mrs. Harold Gibson, Mrs. Kery.

Mrs. Barker then introduced the new vice-president, Mrs. C. Hicks.

Mrs. C. D. McLellan closed with prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. James Garghan are shown following their marriage in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville.

English Travelogue Shown at W.M.S.

A large number of ladies attended the thank-offering meeting of Bridge St. Woman's Missionary Society on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Lewis was the president.

The treasurer, Mrs. Country-man, made a most satisfactory financial report while Miss Claxie announced that she had sent to overseas relief four boxes of clothing. Mrs. Broad too, gave an excellent minute talk on reading and the need for more groups to read and study seriously.

Mrs. S. Hibbard and Mrs. T. Franklin with their group members were in charge of the program. The devotional with "The Church—the Body of Christ" as the theme was taken by Mrs Gilroy.

The guest speaker, Mrs. George Campbell, was introduced by Mrs. N. Cathers. Through the medium of excellent pictures taken while attending the International Rotary Convention in Paris, Mrs. Campbell took her audience through England and France, interestingly explained. The beauty of gardens, the ancient grandeur of churches built in the Norman occupation, and the many interesting cycle portrayed to all a living picture of England.

Mrs. Broad thanked Mrs. Campbell for her travelogue and interesting address.

The groups in charge served refreshments.

Princess Alex Edging Margaret In Beauty Match

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1953

By COLIN FROS ?

LONDON (AP) — A 24-year-old with misty blue eyes is edging Princess Margaret for the role of Britain's most eligible "spinster."

Princess Alexandra, the Princess Margaret, a long-limbed beauty with a Royal flair for elegance. Already she's been around Europe with some of Margaret's old beaux.

Alexandra Helen Elizabeth Olga Christabel of Kent, Alex for short, is growing up. She is five feet seven inches tall with a taste for fancy clothes and sophisticated chatter.

She gets her looks from her father, the Duke of Kent, fourth son of King George V. The Duke died in a wartime air crash while serving in the Royal Air Force.

GLAMOROUS MOTHER

Her elegance comes from her mother, the former princess Marina of Greece who, in her day, was one of the world's best-dressed women.

At school she proved adept at languages but a flop at cricket.

FIRST SOCIAL WHIRL

At coronation parties last summer Princess Alexandra took a preliminary canter around the social circuit. Her escorts included Prince Nicholas of Yugoslavia, Lord Jamie Hamilton and Lord Plunket, all in their early 20s.

A chaperone was always near at hand. Sometimes her mother acts as chaperone. Sometimes it's the French Vicomtesse de Bellaigue, who earlier this year took the princess around on a trip to Paris.

Like Margaret, Alex likes the theatre. Musicals and sophisticated comedy are her favorites.

Fashion Flashes

Elaborate trims mark some of the new cardigans. A beauty in cashmere in various colors has an intricate flower, leaf, stem and petal design in contrasting wool in gold braid, white, pink and blue baroque pearls and bugle beads.

So many uses for those decorative cardigans and sweaters that the stores can't keep them in stock. Even the cardigan sweater used geometrically-spaced rhinestones, pearls and little pearl shells for really classy trimmings.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Everything Is Wrong For This Girl —Should She Break Off Engagement?

Right

"All my life I have been overly dominated by my mother," writes a young woman of 20 who describes herself as "a nice girl, not beautiful, of average state of mind. She adds, in fact, that if she doesn't say so herself, she believes she is going to be one day.

The cause of all this? Here it is in a few of the sentences from her letter.

"I have been engaged to marry twice, but each time my mother said or did something that broke up my engagement. I almost lost my first man when my first engagement was broken, and had to have medical treatment for a nervous breakdown.

"I am very little for my age—not five feet tall—and I am decidedly plump. All my life I have been told that I am ugly and fat, with the result that I have a very bad inferiority complex. I am also behind me in some way I would be eternally grateful for.

Like everybody else is the world who has a problem, this young woman can be helped if she will make a determined effort to help herself. No one can give her a magic formula which, applied to her inferiority complex, will cause it to vanish. No one can give her a wand to wave over her mother's head and transform her from—Dare I say it?—an ogress into, if that is how her daughter sees her, into a fairy godmother.

What this girl must strive to do is to take herself firmly in hand and start directing her own destiny. Instead of letting it be run by her mother, her past unhappiness or her inferiority complex, I am going to suggest six things for her to do that will definitely help if she has the fortitude to do them. Here goes, and almost right at her:

GET A JOB

1. If you haven't got a job already, go out and get one. This will start you on the way to independence at that. If things get no better with your mother, you can leave home when you are 21 and strike out for yourself as a young business woman. In the meantime, a job will give you things to think about outside yourself.

2. Stop worrying about your height and start worrying about your weight to the point where you do something definite about it. You to see, your present manner, after what cat too much, a very common happening. Find out what your proper weight should be for your height, get yourself a good sensible diet and follow it till you slim down to just what you should weigh—and then don't begin overeating again.

3. Stop thinking you're "ugly" and begin thinking about how to make the most of your looks. Go to a good beauty shop and get consultation on make-up and a new hairdo. Remind yourself that some of the most fascinating women in history have been downright homely, but they had such an air of confidence that they never lacked for men friends and admirers. If you believe about your looks, you must have somebody who attracts the male sex or you wouldn't have been engaged twice. Remember that.

4. Study up on clothes, and no matter how little you may have to spend on them, select them with the greatest care so they will be a tasteful plus to your looks. Don't just right for you. Learn which styles and colors that will play up your good points, play down the poor ones.

5. Stop brooding over your two broken engagements. Instead, begin dreaming about your next one, which, if you do the things I'm telling you to do, will work out just fine. Make up your mind that instead of dwelling on the past, you're going to look to the future and your mind on the future, knowing that the future is what you make it, will find it behaving more and fulfilling, or unhappy and frustrating, according to how you approach it.

6. Get yourself some good active recreational interests and throw yourself into them with enthusiasm. I am a firm believer that as a matter of theatrical group, or a bridge club —anything active like as long as you get busy in it. In addition, join at least one organization whose object is to be of help to the community. There's no better way to make new friends than to do worthwhile activities with others.

So here, now, is your program: a road map from the state of unhappiness and misery to the state of happiness and achievement. re you going to use it?

STUCK IN TAR

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A man who was stuck to a patch of tar for several hours in near-freezing temperatures was reported in fair condition today. So tightly was 67-year-old Otis Hill held by the tar that it took two hours to free him. He was found in an abandoned quarry Thursday, hours after he apparently stumbled into it.

Apple Dumplings! Reducers Beware

By Mary Moore

Blindfolds are indicated for the radiomen at TV. I'm going to give you a recipe for Apple Dumplings that will test your resistance and fortitude. If you read it you are doomed. I did, I was. Others are they ever good! Probably 400 calories per serving.

BAKED APPLE DUMPLINGS

Pare and core, 6 tart, juicy medium-sized apples and fill cavities with mixture of 1-4 cup sugar and 1 teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg or cinnamon, and 6d top with 1 tablespoon butter —that is use 1-3 teaspoon butter on top of each filled cavity.

Pastry (same as for one 2-crust 9-inch pie): 2 cups sifted pastry flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup shortening, 4 tablespoons ice cold water. Sift flour, measure, sift flour and salt; cut in shortening with knife or pastry blender until like meal. Sprinkle water over, mixing lightly and a fork until flour is moistened. Gather dough together with the fingers (press 3 times in one direction) into ball and roll out on lightly floured board, to a little less than 1-8-inch thickness, and cut it into 6 7-inch squares.

Place an apple that has been prepared as above on each pastry square, apple cavity being filled and dotted with butter. Bring opposite points of pastry up over the apple, overlapping four points, then moisten them a little underneath and seal. Lifting them carefully place them a little apart on baking dish. Pour the hot syrup around the dumplings: Syrup: Boil together for three minutes 1 cup sugar, 2 cups water, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon. When syrup is poured around apples bake immediately at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 40 to 45 minutes or until crust is nicely browned and apples are cooked but not mushy. Just test one from the side with a fork. Serve these warm with the syrup and, with pouring cream or unsweetened whipped cream.

Now I have given you the regulation recipe but I have a recipe for pastry made with sour cream and a very little butter that makes the tenderest dumplings imaginable. You are supposed to have unpasteurized sour cream for this if any of you are sort of your source and can get unpasteurized sour cream you are in luck. I tried it with -pasteurized sour cream and it was excellent too.

SOUR CREAM PASTRY FOR DUMPLINGS

(Since this cannot be rolled as thinly as regular pastry this pastry will only cover 5 apples.) Sift together 2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt and cut in with 1 tablespoon butter. Stir into 1 cup sour cream 1-4 teaspoon baking soda. Quickly: stir this into the flour mixture. If your sour cream is a little thin—do not add all of it. Add just enough to make the dough soft but not sticky. Chill for an hour and a half. Roll out. You must be a good judge of pastry texture to do this right the first time. Roll out to about 1-4 inch thickness or a little thinner if you can without breaking it and cut into 5 7-inch squares. Finish as above.

Note—You may want to omit the syrup with the sour cream pastry dumplings. Then serve more pouring cream when you serve them. You may want to add juicy peaches for the filling —if so omit syrup.

Top to Toe

A nice compromise between turnup and beret is needed to top the dashing bit of headgear done in turquoise satin with brown velvet trim. There is also an ensemble of gloves, with much use of cotton or the double weave variety with a doeskin finish. This luxury cotton is used for an interesting contrasted glove with three hand-embroidered buttonholes; two for fancy stuff, one for actual use. Then at the bottom there is a pretty black suede sandal the draped vamp of which is pulled into an inlay knot.

Queen to Make Yule Speech From Australia

By J. C. GRAHAM

Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—For the first time since royal Christmas Day broadcasts were inaugurated by King George V in 1932 this year's message will be aired from outside England.

The Queen will broadcast from the opposite side of the world, speaking from government house here.

Radio experts for months have been examining the problems raised. They believe that as a result all their planning the Queen's speech will be heard by more people than ever before.

SPEAKS IN EVENING

The Queen will make her speech at 9 p.m. Christmas Day in New Zealand time, which will be in the early hours of Christmas morning in Canada. The time chosen was decided upon after lengthy discussions for three reasons.

It suits the Queen's convenience. It suits the greatest number of listeners throughout the Commonwealth.

It offers the most favorable transmission and reception conditions.

Radio experts examining the world-wide problem have found that between 8 and 10 p.m. New Zealand time would offer the best conditions.

It will be a summer evening when the Queen sits down to make her broadcast. She will speak from her sitting room in government house, the residence of the governor-general when in Auckland. Beyond green lawns and English trees in the heart of the city, the white two-storied building is a venerable building by New Zealand standards, parts of it 100 years old.

The young Queen will sit at a simple, old-fashioned desk. Her message will go by a network of landlines to broadcasting stations beamed to give best reception in the various countries of the United States transmission to Canada will go either direct or by arrangement with the United States authorities via San Francisco, depending on conditions.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S CHRISTMAS CARDS ARE INFORMAL

Happily and appropriately, most Christmas cards today are informal. Delightfully, high-heartedly informal. They are bright, personal messages from friend to friend. Today the formal name is sometimes left off Christmas cards. Today we seldom read the chilly and pretty long conventional "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith request the pleasure of your company at Christmas wishes." Instead, Mary and John, of any age, wave their greetings on their cards to the happy spirit of "It's Christmas! And 'Hi' from Mary and John!" How endearing! How welcome, this bright, warm friendliness.

WHEN TO CROSS OFF LAST NAME ON IMPRINTED CHRISTMAS CARDS.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

There is a very fine gift shop at the resort where my husband and I spend our summer vacation, and they had such especially artistic Christmas cards that we liked and ours there, and ordered our names imprinted on them. Marie and John Harris. (These names for example.) Now, it is pleased that this year we would be "early birds"—but now that we've received them, I'm not pleased at all—over style, and the popular it were so much easier to have just our first names.

When I think of sending these cards to my relatives, close friends and just don't see right, too formal! Did I make a mistake, Mrs. Beeckman?

No . . . no mistake! The name-form you ordered is customarily the form chosen for a general order of your relatives, when it is appropriate to include the last name, so often necessary to identification in out-of-state friends, acquaintances, and so forth. (Particularly necessary when the first names, as in your example, are not unusual.)

On the cards to be sent to relatives and intimate friends:

1. Cross off (in ink) your last name.

2. Write above the names "Devotedly" or "Affectionately" or "Lovingly" or whatever is appropriate.

3. Add (if you wish) write a personal message below your names.

These two uses for your cards would cover, I think, all, or practically all, your relationships.

GIFT TO HER GODCHILD.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to give my goddchild a bracelet, and would like to have it engraved. Would it be proper to have it engraved inside with the word "Godmother"?

M.L.

Yes . . . with the name or initials of your godchild first. Then a sentiment—if you desire. (Note: You should not, of course, give a bracelet to a baby. Wait for a young child. It is not suitable for them).

FREE-RIDING DUCK

College Hill United Church W.A. Sponsors Autumn Bazaar

College Hill United Church presented a picturesque appearance on Wednesday afternoon with flowers baskets decorating each window with bronze, yellow and red 'mums, the latter autumn leaves and the gold-and-white emblem of the W.A.

Mrs. A. Dickens and Mrs. Jean Price, who acted as reconvenors welcomed the guests. Mrs. B. Beeley, also spoke a few words of welcome and gave the invocation.

HOME COOKING TABLE

The home cooking table was filled to over-flowing with many good things including bread, buns and rolls done to a golden brown; appetizing pies of all flaky flavor; apple, pumpkin, raspberry, raisin, lemon, butter tarts that looked so good they were so 'yummy'; cakes of all sizes, shapes, colors and decorations; cookies, plain and fancy. Convenors were, Mesdames A. Clapp, G. Wade, L. McMullin and J. Ketcheson.

APRONS AND EMBROIDERY

The aprons, as always, had a large collection of all prints fashioned in the forever favorite, the all-over style, and the popular half-style. One aaron of unusual patterning was neither; daughter's and dolly's. Crocheted bottle mats were dainty in white with flower baskets decorating each; cushions in dainty mauve; knit mitts for the cold days to come; and embroidery work. This booth proved most popular. Convenors were Mrs. C. Bailey and Mrs. F. Rodgers.

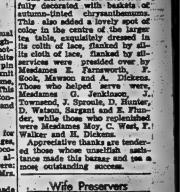
CANDY TABLE

This proved a busy spot for both young and old; fudges, fondants, peanut brittle, chocolates, marshmallows, in fact almost every kind. Convenors were: Mrs. J. M. Vandervoort, and Mrs. R. Turner.

The recipe books were made by College Hill W.A. with everyone's favorite recipe typed in. The convenor was Mrs. E. Keese.

FISH POND

This was a centre of activity with young and old busily engaged at casting for "fish." This was under the convenorship of Mrs. Reddick and Mrs. M. Thompson.



The Young People of College Hill had a table daintily arrayed for Christmas with a wide assortment of articles of table centres; religious calendars and corsages.

The convenors were Miss J. Reddick, and Mrs. B. Beeley.

DAINTY TEA ROOM

The tea tables were most tastefully decorated with baskets of autumn-tinted chrysanthemums. This also added a lovely spot of color in the centre of the larger tea table, exquisitely dressed in its cloth of lace, flanked by silver services were presided over by Mesdames A. Farnsworth, J. Rook, Mawson and A. Dickens. Those who helped serve were, Mesdames Wm. Bateman, Jos. Townsend, J. Sproule, D. Hunter, Watson, Sargent and R. Thunder, while those who replenished were Mesdames Moy, C. West, F. Walker and H. Dickens.

Appreciative thanks are tendered those whose unselfish assistance made this bazaar and tea a most outstanding success.

Wife Preservers

Let a sheet of waterproof material over your cook book in the front of the book, so that it may be opened flat on the kitchen table, to avoid "messy marks." A cellophane bag, or transparent plastic bag may be fastened out into a sheet for this purpose.

Women's Institute

FOXBORO W.I.

The Foxboro Branch of the Women's Institute held their November meeting in the auditorium of the Foxboro school, with Mrs. M. Sherry presiding.

After the usual opening, Mrs. Sherry welcomed the visitors from the Pine Grove and Wallbridge branches.

Some interesting answers were given to "What I Would Do With an Extra Hour in the Day?", by both visitors and members present.

During the business, discussion regarding the canvass for the new hospital wing was a serious topic. It was decided to give Christmas remembrances to the shut-ins and blind of the district. The sum of $25 is to be donated to the Foxboro Cenotaph.

Mrs. M. Waller reported sewing meetings and Mrs. T. Harry reported for "Canadian Industries Limited." Mrs. McCurdy reported for "Home Economics and Health," in the place of Mrs. H. Stewart, who was unable to attend. A reading "Red Cross Homemaker."

After the singing of the national anthem Mrs. Sherry turned the meeting over to Mrs. Dresher as program convenor. Readings were given by Mrs. Coulter, of the Pine Grove Branch; Mrs. Hollinger and Mrs. Meyers were enjoyed. Mrs. R. Vandervaeter gave a delightful piano solo, another contribution from Pine Grove. Mrs. Wallbridge, sang a lovely solo, "Bless This House" accompanied by Mrs. C. G. Smith also of Wallbridge and Mrs. W. Vandervaeter sang two numbers to her own guitar accompaniment.

Following three contests which were won by Mrs. C. Fair, of Foxboro; Mrs. Hollinger and Mrs. W. Rombough, refreshments were served by the committee.

CELEBRATES 105TH BIRTHDAY

WELLSBURG, W.Va. (CP) — Mrs. Alice Jowett, pioneer British Columbia hotelwoman and prospector, celebrated her 105th birthday Thursday. Mrs. Jowett said she was born in what was then a state that her birth was not registered until four years later in her parents' Bible of Bradford, Yorkshire, England.

Pr. of Wales H-S Assoc. Enjoys European Travelogue

The Prince of Wales Home and School Association held its regular meeting in the school on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Marion Sproule, the president, opened the meeting.

Scripture, Mark 10, was read by Mrs. Earl Ferguson, after which Mrs. Slack introduced Miss Jane Grey, a pupil of Mrs. Burtt, who spoke in preparation for the Public Speaking Competition to be held on Thursday evening.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Watson, the program convenor, then introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Bill Powell, who spoke of the trip that she and her fellow-teachers took overseas for the purpose of seeing the Coronation and visiting friends.

Leaving Toronto on a plane and arrived in England, saw the Coronation. Told of many interesting places in England. They were also in Ireland and Scotland stating, "it was indeed the Emerald Isle." From there, they went to Holland, a clean country. They passed through Luxemburg and Switzerland, and then to France. After this they returned to England and thence to Scotland, to Labrador and Montreal.

Mrs. Follwell was so enthused at with her trip that she took all along with her as she was telling of all the places and beautiful scenery she had seen. They all thought Canada "the land of opportunity."

Mrs. Follwell also showed some pictures of Switzerland, which were picturesque.

A vote of thanks was voiced by Mrs. Burtt.

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

The man whose picture belongs here is not necessarily a celebrity or a leading citizen. Indeed, he might be any one of millions of Canadians.

How did so many people benefit their communities so greatly? Simply by insuring their lives! Each was prepared to act in a section a series of events which have far-reaching effects on themselves and their fellow-citizens.

Take for instance the new highways, schools, bridges, power plants, homes, hotels, hospitals and other improved facilities now being built from coast to coast. Many of these projects have been financed with money which life insurance companies have invested for their policyholders.

Or look at the workers streaming out from some new industrial plant. They may owe their jobs to life insurance policyholders who provide the money needed for investment in that plant's expansion.

Good health, too, is promoted by life insurance policyholders. Several important medical research projects, supported by life insurance company funds, are waging war against polio, heart ailments, cancer and other dread diseases.

But perhaps the life insurance owner's most important service is not any of these things. It is the way he provides for his family so that they will not be a financial burden to his relatives or the community.

So, if you own life insurance, be proud that in all those ways you're helping to make Canada a better land to live in!

Wooden Lead Pencil Is Still In Fine Shape

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — In some snobbish circles a man's social rating today is determined by four things: The size of his car, the breed of his dog, the fur his wife wears, and the number of tricks his pen will perform.

This has led some worried friends of the wooden lead pencil to ask:

"Why can't it keep up with the times, too? It will go the way of the dodo."

Well, we have just had a long talk with Clyde Nissen, the tall, pencil-slim executive vice - president of the Lead Pencil Manufacturers Association, who assured us that the lead pencil is still in fine shape.

"To begin with," he said pointedly, "the wooden lead pencil was able to write under water years before the pen, and can still do it better.

KEEPING PACE

"True, there have been more changes and improvements in the lead pencil in the last 30 years than in the entire motor car industry. But it has been trained to do more kinds of real work, not just tricks."

The industry turned out 1,367,000,000 wooden lead pencils last year in scores of types and styles.

What can they do?

"We have pencils that will write on white hot steel," said Nissen. "Pencils that make pictures, outline the operation area on the skin of a hospital patient, mark stock-yard beef, cruise rust and touch up the paint on your auto, cut instruction, play a phonograph and write on glass, plastics, film and chinaware, rat's tail artists' brushes scratches or stained wallpaper."

EVEN SAVE LIVES

One pencil is so slender it is said as a bookmark. There even is a "rocket pencil," guaranteed free of government products, developed for hunter butchers. Pencils, used to duplicate laminated, have proved lifesavers to accident victims.

"And the wooden pencil is still the only writing instrument that enabled the blind to keep its feeling of self-respect."

Of course, you know all the time there isn't any lead in a lead pencil, and never has been!

VALUABLE METAL

More than 1,000 different metal alloys containing nickel in various proportions now are being manufactured.

Back from Normandy

Nine years after they were buried under a barrage in France, the two regimental drums of Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal have been recovered by Lieut.-Claude Turgeon (centre) of Montreal. He turned them over to his unit, now completing the summer training with 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade in Germany. At left is Sgt. Juliaan Vaid, right, Staff Sgt. Andre Deslauriers, both Montreal.

Regimental Drums of Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal Finally Coming Home

By JACK MACRETH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Shut away with Normandy mud and hay, the regimental drums of Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal are finally coming home.

The drums, muted for nine years in the dark French cellar that protected them from German shell-fire, will reach Quebec City Monday aboard an army transport. With them will be a company, of their famed owners—FMR bonnets captured from Germany.

Why the drums were taken into battle, no one seems prepared to say. An army spokesman says he believes it was "by mistake," since no units were supposed to carry their band instruments with them in the invasion.

How they got there is another matter. Major Fernand Dostie said in Quebec they came in on his truck.

HIDEOUT NEEDED

Later, he recalled, a safe place had to be found to leave them. This was in the village of Rots, near Caen.

"Trucks and vehicles were ... ing hit by German shells and we wanted to protect the drums.

Maj. Dostie, then a lieutenant in the unit and now assistant deputy-minister of the Quebec department of youth and social welfare.

"At the time, I was scout platoon commander and when things got really hot the second-in-command arranged to hide the drums in the cellar of the priest's presbytery."

The second-in-command was Lt.-Col. Joseph Paul Sauve, now minister of Maj. Dostie's department. Army headquarters said Capt. Maurice Beaudry, Roman Catholic chaplain of the regiment, and the village cure hid the drums under hay in a farm cellar near the presbytery. Capt. Beaudry, now a lieutenant-colonel, has since become director of Roman Catholic chaplain services for the army and is currently visiting Canadian troops in Korea.

"Then," Maj. Dostie continued, "we all forgot about the drums, until three years ago when Mr. Sauve went to Europe and visited the battlefields in Normandy."

FOUND BY COLONEL

The major said Col. Sauve located the parish priest at Rots and found the drums. A number of bugles hidden with the drums, however, had disappeared.

He said Col. Sauve tried to have the drums sent home but ran into difficulty. Army headquarters took it from there and now reports:

"Last week, Lieut. Claude Turgeon of Montreal, an officer of the FMR company service with the 1st Canadian Infantry Battalion in Hanover, Germany, was sent to recover the drums."

An army statement said the drums were still buried on the farm, adding:

"Still marked with the mud of Normandy, they will be brought back this week by Lieut. Turgeon and his company, to the FMR regimental depot in Montreal."

The FMR company has just completed two years service in Germany with the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade.

Ice That Chills Food, Drinks Can Also Be a Health Hazard

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—The ice that chills your food and drinks can be a health hazard, germ tests show.

Ice almost always starts out pure, made from water meeting high sanitary standards. But there can be many a slip twixt freezer and lip by careless handling and serving of crushed or cubed ice.

The tests often find ice carrying germs inviting food poisoning or diarrhoea. How much actual illness they may cause is hard to determine.

Harvard scientists reported a remedy to keep crushed ice sanitary—a chlorine bath.

CRUSHED ICE WORST

V. D. Foltz of Kansas agricultural experiment station, Manhattan, Kans., analyzed 114 samples of ice collected from public places and hospitals in central Kansas.

From 75 per cent of them, he could cultivate germs of the type responsible for food poisoning, diarrhoea, wound infections, typhoid and dysentery.

Crushed ice was usually worse than cubes, with only 19 of the samples of crushed ice meeting good sanitary standards, Foltz found. That's significant, he said, because crushed ice is not only used in drinks but also in direct contact to chill foods, some of which are eaten raw.

Cubed ice made by machines was much better, with nearly half of 37 samples being pure. In hospitals particularly, where ice-making machines were well tended, the ice cubes were really sanitary.

Foltz, writing in public health reports, also found sand, threads, bits of fingers and insect parts and other debris in sediment from melted crushed or cubed ice.

HANDS CAUSE TROUBLE

Fred Edward W. Moore, Evelyn B. Brown and Ellen M. Hall of Harvard University also report germs often contaminating crushed ice as it was formerly dispensed in 16-foot serving units of the university.

Spoons or scoops were used to dish the ice into glasses, but despite strict rules human hands would touch it and were the main source of germs.

An effective remedy was to cover the crushed ice with a weak solution of sodium hypochlorite, supplying chlorine which kills most of the germs.

Use of chlorine brought absolutely no complaints of changes in taste or flavor of drinks, and chlorine now is being used in all the dining halls, Moore writes in the American Journal of Public Health.

MANY VISITORS

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — R. L. Way, director of historic Fort Henry, reported 152,000 people visited the tourist attraction since last May 24, an increase of about 25,000 over last year. The old fort was reopened to tourists in 1948.

Turkey to Enshrine Former Dictator in Magnificent Tomb

By FRED BURY

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Kemal Ataturk, hard-living, hard-drinking dictator from 1920 to his death in 1938, wrought a great revolution in Turkey.

On the 15th anniversary of his death Tuesday, Turkey will enshrine him in one of the world's most magnificent tombs. Under construction for nine years, and costing more than $12,000,000, the tomb is a massive, square-pillared structure of native yellow kayseri stone. It stands atop a hill overlooking this capital city Ataturk ordered built on marshes once infested with malarial mosquitoes.

ABOLISHED FEZ

Ataturk threw out the last of the Ottoman sultans, abolished the Moslem caliphate, banned the fez and fez veil, replaced the old Arabic script with a new Latin alphabet and substituted Western legal codes for Turkey to assume the important role she plays today as Middle East anchor of the defence against communism.

In 1921, Ataturk made his first international gestures of friendship and he went West to the Russians. A Russia-Turkish friendship pact signed in March 1921 was the first formal foreign recognition either government had.

At one point, to gain Russian assistance, Ataturk even permitted organization of a Communist party in Turkey. But he made sure some of his best "turned Communists" and ran it.

Best proof of Ataturk's success in making a modern state out of Turkey came in the 1950 national election when the Democratic party upset his own Republican party, never before seen in the Ataturk himself had ordered organization of the opposition Democrats.

MOSLEM SNIPING

Most of Ataturk's reforms have struck down Moslem customs dating from some Moslem groups. However, Turkey still is no land of Islam. Moslem religious customs have little strength. Army and civil servants are poorly paid, living costs are high. Agricultural and industrial wealth is only partially developed.

Ataturk made Turkey socialistic by law. The state planned, constructed and operated almost every big factory and industry, including coal, steel, textiles, cement and even cigarets and alcoholic beverages.

Turkey now is putting emphasis on private investment and seeking foreign capital. New laws under study would encourage foreigners to develop improved oil resources.

Hamilton, Windsor To Get Cancer Therapy Bombs

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Martin said today the federal government has approved financial assistance towards the purchase of two cobalt 60 beam, cancer therapy bombs for installation at Hamilton and Windsor.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the official opening of the Ontario Cancer-Treatment and Research Foundation's cobalt therapy bomb clinic here, Mr. Martin said the bombs will be sent to Hamilton and Windsor by next spring.

"The province's two remaining university centres, Ottawa and Kingston, may be expected to consider construction arrangements for the receipt of cobalt 60 bombs soon after," he added.

The first cobalt bomb was installed two years ago at London, Ont. "The unit unveiled here today is Canada's fifth. Others are at Vancouver, Winnipeg and Saskatoon.

SUBJ ECTER REACTORS

Mr. Martin said the atomic energy commission is building more powerful reactors "which will increase substantially "the supply of cobalt available for bombs. He added:

"It is expected that beginning in December of next year, it will be possible to step up production to two units each month.

"In recent years no nation has shown greater energy than Canada in its efforts to defeat the deadly scourge of cancer. Because of this, there is developing all across the country a growing unity of effort and a better-balanced distribution of facilities and services for the detection and treatment of this disease."

He said that because of the many aids for early detection of cancer, major advances in surgery, improvement in x-ray devices, the wider use of radium and the beam therapy bomb clinic here, thousands of cancer victims were alive today who would have had little hope of recovery a few years ago.

"It is our hope that cobalt 60 units will eventually be in operation in every province," the minister said. "I have no doubt that in the years to come scientists will find new weapons to detect, to treat and to defeat cancer."

Briton Wins Jumping Trophy

Lieut.-Col. Harry M. Llewellyn, captain of the British Olympic champion equestrian team, was the star of the second day of the National Horse Show being held at Madison Square Garden. He climaxed a gallant comeback with two perfect rides on Olympic equine champ "Foxhunter," to capture the Royce A. Drake Memorial Challenge Trophy. The presentation was made by Mrs. John Tuppen Cole, — Central Press Canadian.

PICTON

Grand Master Of Odd Fellows Visits District

PICTON—A challenging and inspiring address was delivered by Kerr E. Williamson, London, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario, Independent Order of Oddfellows, on his annual visit to District 46, Bellleville Lodge, Picton, on Friday night. Visiting lodges included those at Picton, Trenton and Brighton.

Following a delectable dinner served in the dining hall by the Rebekahs, with P.D.D.G.M. Miller as convener, the brethren repaired to the lodge room where District Deputy Grand Master A. C. Sammons, of Belleville installed the Grand Master, who was born in Denmark and has been a resident of Canada since 1922. Not only a gifted speaker, the Grand Master is especially endowed as an organizer and much of his address was related to the plans designed to benefit this great brotherhood.

Oddfellowship is a secret order. The Grand Master stressed as he mentioned the three principles being founded on Holy Writ. In his ten point program he urges "let us keep faith with Almighty God" as the very essence of the future success and prosperity of the Order. "It is very important that man have faith in God, faith in himself, in his church, in his country, in his lodge, and in his fellowman."

ENJOYS HIGH PRESTIGE

Speaking of the prestige the Order enjoys, the Grand Master spoke of its membership including kings and statesmen. The only decoration on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Washington is the Oddfellows' Decoration of Chivalry. The Order's Sovereign Grand Master was one of those invited to the Coronation.

Oddfellowship is something more than the local lodge; it is a fellowship of some three million people in most countries of the world. It offers benefits to the sick, the bereaved, the homeless, those in distress and provides if necessary, a home for members in their declining years, said the speaker, who wondered if these benefits might not be more appreciated if the cost was greater.

The Grand Master had visited many parts of the world where Oddfellowship is doing a great and humanitarian work. This was especially true during the war years. He pointed out that success of the Order is dependent on the leadership and work of many members, but there are others who are content to enjoy the prestige and benefits the Order gives but make no effort in return. In stressing the importance of the subordinate lodge, he pointed out that the Order is like a tree, the future of any branch of the Order depends first and last on the welfare of the subordinate lodge.

The future of Oddfellowship is dependent upon members practicing what the Order teaches, and in this way the element of petty jealousy is overcome.

The Grand Master reviewed the ten point program which has been drawn up by the Oddfellows' lodge and The Rebekah Assembly. He detailed the combination membership drive in which it is suggested that the Oddfellows and Rebekahs form a 'joint' committee for this purpose, as such effort, as demonstrated in Cancer, Polio and Tuberculosis Fund, has proved joint effort to accomplish more. We must strive for new members of the quality, who will make good Oddfellows.

Oddfellows' Home

The Grand Master told of the I.O.O.F. Home near Barrie where 39 elderly members of the Order are provided with a real home. While the administration costs are high, the speaker gave figures to show that the average per resident is lower than for Ontario gaols and County Homes, while better accommodation is provided. He paid tribute to the Rebekah lodges who had provided many comforts and invited the Oddfellows to contribute toward the Christmas cheer fund of the Home.

Finding "the Ontario Oddfellow and Rebekah", the monthly newspaper of the Order, very unsatisfactory, the Grand Master reported steps being taken to improve the content and appearance. In a current membership drive 8,000 subscriptions in this jurisdiction have been secured and the objective is 10 thousand.

A new application for membership in the Order was exhibited by the Grand Master. In addition to the form there is a review of what the Order stands for and its benefits.

Wellington on the Lake

SOMETHING FOR SUMMER

Grieve not, for the passing summer
Nor sigh that the birds have flown,
But let the keep of the summer
Something our very own,
Something sweet of the fragrance
And brightness of summer flowers,
Dreams of the tranquil beauty
That enhanced the summer hours.

The gold of the dawn and the blue
May we store within the heart—
Treasures strong and enduring
To light the dark days apart.
And may the spirit of summer
That gladdened each lonely place,
Sink deep in our inmost being,
And shine from each sunny face.

Then something of summer sunshine
Will brighten the winter day,
Though winter winds are wailing
And winter skies are grey.

—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON—I had always considered the 8th month when asked to write a composition on the subject. The writer, a pupil of mine, the late Wilmot Nethery, wrote a fine composition on this bleak and barren month. Perhaps by retaining the spirit of summer in our minds we can enjoy these "melancholy days, the saddest of the year."

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton with Mr. and Mrs. Burkitt and Mr. and Mrs. E. Herns, of Burr's, motored to Peterborough, and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cochrane.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klonear and Gladys Anne of Vineland spent Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morton, Consecon Street.

Mrs. Frances Jones, who has been confined to her home because of a broken hip, is now with her daughter, Mrs. Roderick McLean, Hamilton.

The November meeting of Hillier Guild was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Way.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Osterhout, Burr's, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Adams on Sunday and attended the anniversary services in Wellington United Church in the evening.

Mrs. Rowena MacDonald, Kingston, spent a few days with her mother, Mrs. Stinson Christie.

Mr. Harper Broad is a patient in Kingston General Hospital. Mrs. Broad visited him on Sunday. His many friends are anxious for his recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morton, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Hoyck and Mrs. Lila Weeks, enjoyed a motor drive to Port Hope on Sunday.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

The anniversary services in Wellington United Church on Sunday were well attended. The church, recently redecorated presented a fine appearance, enhanced by a beautiful display of flowers.

With the pastor, Rev. A. Poulter in charge and Rev. A. MacKenzie, principal of Albert College, Belleville, guest speaker, the morning service was inaugural the choir assisting with Mr. Thomas Fillingham, organist, and Mr. Helga Vemb, of Belleville, soloist.

The church for the evening service was filled to capacity with Rev. A. Poulter in charge and

A manual of instruction has been prepared, designed to assist subordinate lodges in the conduct of lodge work and banquets, the speaker said.

With a joint program for the 30,000 Rebekahs and 48,000 Oddfellows in this jurisdiction, the Grand Master felt that the combination membership drive, working together, would mean much to the success and prosperity of the Order.

Praise for the work of D.D.G.M. Summers was voiced by the Grand Master who asked each lodge to give him full support.

Speaking briefly in appreciation of the Grand Master's fine address were Noble Grands Rev Rolston, Picton; T. Ashbury, Brighton; Isabel Prentice; D. Simpson, Bellville as well as a number of Past District Deputy Grand Masters.

at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Ray and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ray. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ray of Stirling, spent Friday evening at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Tummon, Mrs. Dorothy Tummon, Dr. Geo. Brown of Selby and Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Quick of Kingston, were Sunday guests of Mr. H. Tummon and family.

The 2nd Mrs. Ray's surprise new parents, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bateman spent the week end at Ottawa Winter Fair.

Mr. Donald Harris attended the Young People's Rally, which was held in Peterborough.

The regular W.M.S. meeting was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Ketcheson with a good attendance.

Mr. W. C. Ketcheson is visiting his daughter, Mrs. George McCullough.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Sayers accompanied by Mrs. McFarlane and Mrs. Pringle of Belleville spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. McConnell of Port Hope.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Tummon and Mary were Saturday afternoon callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cairns, of Ameliasburg.

JOINT EFFORT

ST. STEPHEN (N.B. CP)—Fire departments of both St. Stephen and of Calais, Maine, international border in Maine responded when fire damaged a grocery store here. The combined efforts kept damages down to about $3,000.

FALLS FROM TRAIN

LONDON, Oct. (CP) — William Gentle, 63, a foundry worker, had his left leg amputated Tuesday a short time after he fell from a freight train. Police said Gentle was taking a shortcut to his job and climbed onto the standing train, slipping as it began to pull back. The train started to move and one wheel ran over his leg.

CATTLE SALE FOOS

STRATHROY (CP)—Prices were generally low here at the Lambton-Middlesex-Oxford sheep-beef sale Thursday. W. P. MacDonald of Petrolia, secretary of the Lambton County Shorthorn Club, said the animals sold for $100 less than what they were worth. Thirty-three lots were sold for a total of $8,375, an average of $254.

BURIED UNDER SAND

TORONTO (CP)—Antonio Darros 35, was buried under tons of sand for more than an hour Thursday after a cave-in at a Toronto construction project. Fellow workmen, firemen and hydro men worked with improvised tools and bare hands before rescuing Darros' head. He suffered a possible fractured collarbone.

Indian Chief of Commission Goes to Kaesong for Meeting With Red Command on PoW

By JOHN RANDOLPH

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Indian chief of the Korean repatriation commission went to Kaesong today for a face-to-face meeting with the Red high command that may determine the future of the struggling Communist program to woo back thousands of its former soldiers.

The trip by Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya came after the Communists defied a set of ground rules for the interviews which he laid down Friday night.

The Reds say interview program reached its last-way point Monday with only 70 per cent of the 22,629 Chinese and North Koreans interviewed as a direct result of Communist dehytor tactics.

Thimayya told the Reds in his new rules to call 359 prisoners (one compound) a day and forget about anyone they failed to get to on day. Otherwise, he indicated, the Indians might have to take over the job themselves.

LAST DAY

However, the Communists Monday morning again demanded the remaining two-thirds of a Chinese compound be made available for interviewed Thursday on the last day of scheduled time.

Since then the remaining prisoners have refused to come out for interviews. Thimayya told the Reds to call for another compound because it would be nearly impossible to separate the partially interviewed group.

However, the Reds refused to yield in their demand for Tuesday's interviews.

There has been considerable speculation that the Communists may be seeking to force an argument and bow out of the entire interview program with a propaganda blast that they were treated unfairly.

RED PLEAS

Their propaganda has been given a shellacking by the overwhelming number of prisoners who have refused to return home—only 64 of 3,866 interviewed have accepted the Red plea.

Thimayya said his meeting with North Korean Lt.-Gen. Lee Sang Cho and Chinese Gen. Tung Hua Tu would probably last into the night. He said he did not plan a press conference on his return.

The repatriation commission also decided to delay action on a petition allegedly signed by prisoners in north area holding 22 Americans, one Briton and 333 South Koreans who have not returned to the Allies.

The commission said it wanted more time to study the protest, which denounced the Indians for not consulting Communist chief UN side. The petition said mail delay for them to come home violated rules of the repatriation program.

Meanwhile, Allied and Red staff advisers met secretly in efforts to settle an agenda for the armistice talks which play a Korean peace conference.

STAFF OFFICERS MEET

U.S. delegate Kenneth Young said the Reds offered the statement which he studied during a recess.

Young would not discuss the Red statement, but said:

"We hope we can get an agreement."

Monday's one-hour- and -45-minute session was the second held by staff officers after top-level diplomats in 11 meetings couldn't agree on what to talk about first.

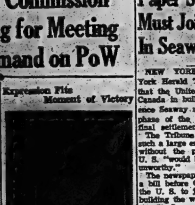
In past negotiations, the Reds often have made their concessions in lower level, closed-door sessions rather than in the publicized, high-level meetings.

500 Deer Shot

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—An estimated 300 deer were shot during the four-day hunting season in five western Ontario counties, game officials said Sunday.

More than a thousand hunters were out during the four days, 200 of them in Perth county alone, where an estimated 300 deer were bagged.

Open season for deer was held in Huron, Grey, Bruce, Perth and Oxford counties.



WARDEN BAGS HIS TOO

GODERICH (CP)—The four-day open season for hunting deer had attracted many hunters to this area. Everyone reports seeing lots of deer, and they all get their buck. Even the game warden is getting his share. He got one Monday for not tagging his deer, another group for jack-lighting and one other for carrying a loaded gun.

Salazar Wins Sweeping Victory In Portugal Vote

LISBON, Portugal (Reuters)—Antonio Salazar's Uniaco Nacional party, which has ruled Portugal since the 1926 military revolution, won a 100 per cent victory in Sunday's general election, it was announced early today.

In the first officially - contested election in 27 years, all 38 opposition candidates were defeated. In some areas they polled almost a fifth of the votes.

If every one of the opposition candidates had been elected, Uniaco Nacional would still have had an overwhelming majority in the 120-seat National Assembly.

All opposition candidates belong to an unnamed anti-Communist centre group which hoped to get a foothold in the assembly.

MURDER TRIAL

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet zone officials here said Thursday night that two Zzechs who failed in a dramatic series of latest bodies to reach the West will be placed on trial as murderers of four policemen. The two were left behind by their three fellow Czechs who managed to get to West Berlin Sunday night. They reported five gun battles in which, they said, they killed eight East German police.

Paper Says U.S. Must Join Canada In Seaway Plans

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Herald Tribune says today that the United States must join Canada in building the St. Lawrence Seaway now that the power phase of the project is close to final settlement.

The Tribune says that to have such a large enterprise undertaken without the participation of the U. S. "would be both unwise and unworthy."

The newspaper urges passage of a bill before Congress calling for the U. S. to join with Canada in building the waterway, parallel to the St. Lawrence, which will enable ocean vessels to pass between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic.

12,000 Entries In Livestock For Winter Fair

TORONTO (CP) — More than 12,000 head of cattle, sheep and swine received for the 25th Royal Agricultural Winter Fair which opens here Friday.

Some 1,000 horses will take part in the fair's horse show, one of the fair's features. There will also be a two-day dog show.

Square dance contests continue throughout the week and more than 1,000 Canadian Girl Guides will gather on opening night to be inspected by Lady Strathcona, world guide leader.

The poultry show, the largest on the continent, dominates farm exhibitions. Fruit, vegetables, forage and grain entries make up a considerable portion of the show.

Total Canadian and United States cattle entries reach 2,775 when entries closed.

Army Staff College Grads from 11 Nations

OTTAWA (CP)—The 1953 graduating class from the Canadian Army Staff College at Kingston will comprise 86 officers from 11 countries, the army announced today.

Of that total, 73 are Canadians, including two members of the RCAF. There are 13 officers from other Commonwealth and North Atlantic Treaty Nations, two each from Britain, the United States and Turkey and one each from Australia, India, Pakistan, Italy, France, Norway and Belgium.

The course, eighth since the end of the Second World War, started early in January and will end Nov. 20. The Canadian graduates will assume staff and field appointments with various formations and establishments throughout the Canadian Army, the Commonwealth and NATO officers will be appointed to similar posts in their respective forces.

Farm Surpluses Take Top Place in List of Troubles

By OVID MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm surpluses take top place in the Eisenhower administration's list of domestic troubles.

Faced with the twin headaches of declining farm prices and increasing surpluses, Congress when it reconvenes will hear vigorous demands from some farm groups for the United States to embark on a broad food relief program abroad.

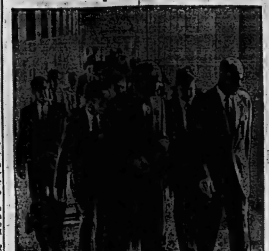
Leaders of the aggressive National Farmers Union and the CIO, the big labor organization which has joined the farmers union in endorsing greater government aid for agriculture, were chief proponents of the idea at recent hearings of the House of Representatives agriculture committee.

Advocates of the plan blame a huge domestic export of U.S. farm products for most current farm headaches. Export shipments are running more than 30 per cent below a year ago. Supplies once sent abroad are piling up in surplus stocks, most of them held by the government.

PRODUCERS HARD HIT

Many countries ravaged by war have largely restored their own farm production capacities. Producers of wheat and cotton have been especially hard hit by the loss of foreign markets.

But it's doubtful the Eisenhower administration will want to go into a broad give-away food program.



Much has been said, and probably more will be, about encouraging exports by lowering tariffs and lifting other restrictions on imports. The American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Grange, two strong farm organizations, believe reduced trade barriers would help foreign countries to sell more goods in the United States and use the dollars to buy farm surpluses.

FARMERS WANT SUPPORTS

In advocating lower price supports and greater efforts to sell crops abroad, Agriculture Secretary Benson has run into sharp opposition from some farmers and farm groups. They say the House agriculture committee, after touring farming sections of the northeast, south and midwest, concludes that farmers want the support programs continued. Yet these supports tend to price crops out of overseas markets.

At the same time proposals to set up a so-called two-price plan for moving cotton and wheat into world markets appear to be winning little support from growers. Under this plan, the government would support the price of only those portions of the two crops used in the United States. The remainder would be available for sale abroad at competitive prices with other countries.

Ike Escapes 'Bombs' in Shelter

President Dwight D. Eisenhower (right) is shown leaving the White House underground shelter after Washington staged its first full-scale air-raid drill since World War II. He is followed by Bernard Shanley (left) and other members of his staff. About 500,000 government workers and children took part in the mock atomic attack, during which "bombs" were dropped.

YOUTHS RELEASED

TORONTO (CP)—Four youths, picked up Tuesday in connection with last week's murder of Fred (Scotty) Cameron near Barrie, were freed Thursday. Police said the quartet was viewed in a line-up by Percy Glithero, victim of an assault Monday night. Police said Glithero did not identify any of them.

Mossadegh Fires His Lawyer, Threatens to Commit Suicide, As His Treason Trial Begins

By DON SCHWIDD

TEHRAN (AP)—Angry eccentator Mohammed Mossadegh, charging the competence of a military tribunal to try him as a traitor, today threatened to commit suicide, fired his lawyer and warned the court he might boycott future sessions.

Clad in his customary pajamas, the 73-year-old Iranian premier told the court he would not appeal any sentence it might mete out.

"I will not accept any forgiveness. I will stay in this prison until I die. If you release me, I will commit suicide as soon as I get hold of the means," he shouted.

"I am not going to attend the coming sessions. If you carry me off my bed," he declared at the climax of a heated argument with Gen. Nadarmand Mokhtari, chairman of the five-man tribunal.

DEMONSTRATIONS BANNED

It was the second day of the trial for Mossadegh's life. As he did on the first day Mossadegh repeatedly pounded the table and gesticulated. He made fiery speeches against the British whom he had fought to a deadlock over this nation's vast oil riches.

At both sessions, Mossadegh declared the military court was not competent to try him on charges he tried to overthrow the monarchy, defied the Shah and illegally dissolved the Majlis (lower house of parliament). He said he still enjoyed the old argument—the British were the cause of Iran's woes.

HEART STIMULANT

When the photographers were ordered out of the well Mossadegh perked up. He began shuffling about among his papers, mumbling "Give me just a minute, I am sick."

As Mossadegh fumbled, an armed doctor standing behind him solicitously pushed a lighted browned heater closer to the ex-premier's back, and passed him a flower-decorated teacup of heart stimulant.

From time to time he mumbled to the court "I am sick. If I am delaying it is because I'm sick."

A noisy row over whether Mossadegh could make a speech developed when Mossadegh refused to go with him before Aug. 19 "united with the collective trilling Mossadegh: "Go away from me. You are not my lawyer."

The exchange opened when the chairman broke into Mossadegh's defence of his former colleagues with "this is beyond the subject."

Mossadegh, Alert, snapped back: "How do you know it is beyond the subject? This means you have not read the material I prepared last night."

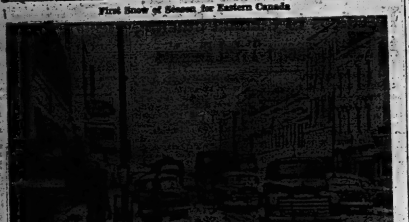
SWEAR ON KORAN

Bureaucrat sprang up, drew a Koran (the Moslem bible) from his pocket and declared: "By God and the Koran I have not shown these documents to anyone."

Mossadegh retorted: "By the Koran, you have."

Mogfhel told the former premier "You are a religious man. You should lie and swear on the Koran. You should not accuse us of saying documents."

Mossadegh stood his ground.



"That is what I think. I am sure you have read it," he said.

DENVER (AP)—A Denver wife on Thursday paid off a $6,000 mortgage on her home at a cost of $9.68. Her Husband, George Smart, 32, had bought an insurance policy which would pay off the mortgage in the event of his death. He died the day after he paid the first premium. Accurial actuarial estimates are odds against such a circumstance as more than 1,000,000 to one.

First Snow of Season for Eastern Canada

Long overdue, snow fell in many parts of Eastern Canada, bringing to an end a long period of balmy weather unparalleled on the weatherman's record book. Lower Taxes, Economy in Govt. And Increased Trade Will Form Basis of Opposition Demands

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Lower taxes, economy in government and increased trade likely will form the basis of demands by opposition parties at the new session of Parliament.

At the general election last August the Liberals were returned with a large majority but the Opposition gained strength slightly.

The official Opposition, the Progressive Conservatives, will concentrate early in the session on trade policies which it contends have lost foreign markets, particularly in the Commonwealth. The government denies this charge.

MAY ENGAGE CONFERENCE

When he speaks in the first main debate after the session opens next Thursday, George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, likely will renew a demand that the Liberal government take the initiative in calling a Commonwealth trade conference and seek more world markets for wheat, beef, pork, lumber, butter, cheese, minerals and other products.

This demand probably will receive general support of other opposition groups. The CCF will urge efforts to sell more grain, especially wheat, to countries outside the International Wheat Agreement to relieve Canada's current glut.

Mr. Drew also is expected to urge the government to take the lead in making sterling convertible into other currencies so Commonwealth countries can increase imports from Canada. The sterling-dollar picture will be studied next January in Australia by Commonwealth finance ministers.

Opposition parties also will call for lower taxes and more economy in government operations. Mr. Drew is expected to reiterate his election stand that taxes should be cut at least $500,000,000 annually. At the same time, however, many opposition members will ask the government to increase old age and veterans' pensions.

SEEK BETTER DEAL

Extensive discussion is anticipated on demands for a better financial deal for municipalities. Suggestions may include abolition of the 10-per-cent sales tax on municipal purchases and payment of full municipal taxes on property owned by the federal government. Grants in lieu of taxes now are paid if crown property exceeds four per cent of a municipality's taxable assessment plus the value of the federal property.

Mr. Drew has declined to comment on government proposals to revise the Bank Act but has indicated the legislation will receive thorough examination.

The Social Credit party is expected to expound its monetary theories during study of this legislation.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, has said he welcomes the opportunity to study Canada's banking system.

In an interview, he said his party signs markets. Opposition parties want Canada to sell more wheat abroad and relieve the current glut. This long wheat train is moving to a lakehead elevator, crammed, as are most elevators, with grain.

TRADE DEBATE LOOMS—The official opposition — the Progressive Conservatives — will concentrate early in the new session of Parliament opening next Thursday on Government trade policies which it contends have lost foreign markets. Opposition parties want Canada to sell more wheat abroad and relieve the current glut. This long wheat train is moving to a lakehead elevator, crammed, as are most elevators, with grain.

REVIEW BANK ACT—Finance Minister Abbott reviews the Bank Act which is up for its regular 10-year revision in the first session of the 22nd Parliament which opens Thursday, November 12. Mr. Abbott recently wanted to quit the finance portfolio but was persuaded to remain until the bank amendments are approved.

28 Persons Die Violently In Eastern Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Twenty-eight persons died violently in Eastern Canada during the week-end, four in a fire that razed a dwelling housing 25 persons in east-central Toronto.

A Canadian Press compilation today listed 20 deaths in Ontario, six in Quebec and two in New Brunswick.

In addition, two young duck hunters were missing and feared drowned in the Montreal district.

SIX FIRE DEATHS

There were 15 traffic deaths, 13 of them in Ontario, six deaths in fires, two by drowning, two in a plane crash near Montreal and two from miscellaneous causes.

Killed in the Toronto fire were Mrs. Tekla Rivney, 52, who tried vainly to save the others trapped upstairs in the flaming house; her daughter, Mrs. Mary Gunda, 32; and grandchildren Sonia Gunda, 4, and Micky Gunda, 2. Five other adults and 10 children escaped.

The crash on takeoff of a small privately-owned plane at Montreal killed Douglas Allan, 20, the pilot, and Miss Adrian Blackwood, about 21, both of Montreal.

Sudbury miner James Handa and his wife, both 34, were crushed to death when their car skidded on a slush-covered highway, was rammed broadside by an oncoming car and hurled into a ditch eight miles north of North Bay.

12 TRAFFIC DEATHS

Other out-of-control type automobile mishaps in Ontario took the lives of Armand Boivin, 25, near Timmins; Walter McDonald, 28, near Walkerton; and George Wiles in Windsor. Killed in collisions were Joseph Baudrie, 72, about 17 miles east of Tweed; Nelson Carbert, 21, near Owen Sound; and Rodney Sheffield, 17, five miles east of Brockville.

Pedestrians killed by vehicles in Ontario were Alfred Anfinson, 64, of Wollaston, Mass., struck down near Oakville; Thomas Levesque, 65, of Belleville, hit while crossing street at Granton; James Reid, 16, of Windsor, was knocked from his bicycle, and Fairfax Abbey, 3, was crushed by a truck that rolled when snow melted.

A blasting accident near Sudbury killed nickel miner Jean Bastien. Elden Christie, 20, was electrocuted on his father's farm when he touched a fence charged with high voltage from a power line.

AGED COUPLE DIE

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Yeates were asphyxiated when fire gutted their Sarnia home. Mr. Yeates, retired real estate dealer, was 85 and his wife 82.

The two drownings were in Quebec province. Gilles Beaudry, 8, lost his life when he plunged through thin ice at St. Pie de Bagot. Pierre Jocelyn Vezina, 5, went through ice at Boischatel, near Quebec City.

Two traffic deaths occurred in Quebec province and two in New Brunswick.

Ontario Highways Bare and Wet

TORONTO (CP) — Highways throughout Ontario are mostly bare and wet, the highways department reported today.

Highway 35 in the Haliburton area and Highway 60 in the vicinity of Algonquin Park are snow-covered. Heavy fog patches exist north of Barrie and light intermittent rain in the Stratford district.

Lost Overboard

VICTORIA (CP) —Rev. T. W. Moir, formerly of Cornwall, was lost overboard from his launch Saturday near Moresby Island, RCMP reported.

An RCMP boat was sent to look for the missing man.

Mr. Moir was returning from Sidney near Victoria, to his home on Pender Island.

He was Anglican minister for the Gulf Islands parish for a year and used his launch to visit various islands in the parish.

ASK SANCTUARY

CAIRO (AP)—The British Embassy said Friday night that two British soldiers held in the Suez canal zone on theft charges escaped from a guard room Tuesday. Cairo newspapers said two British soldiers from the canal zone reported to Egyptian authorities there asking for asylum and claiming mistreatment in British camps.

Jubilation Among Democrats

Democrat Harrison A. Williams, Jr., 33, of Plainfield is hoisted aloft by jubilant supporters in Elizabeth after his upset victory over Republican George A. Hetfield for the Congressional seat from New Jersey's Sixth District. The district had sent a Republican to Congress since it was organized in 1912. Hetfield campaigned on the Eisenhower record. Williams' victory was one of several Democrat upsets of favored Republicans. — Central Press Canadian.

We like our business. It's pleasant

—Because it gives people pleasure

We write most kinds of insurance. You might think this is pretty dull doin's.

But we figure what we sell is mainly . . . pleasure.

Insurance gives pleasure to insured people every day because it banishes fear of loss and disaster.

But it gives greatest pleasure when it covers an actual loss. We've seen people who would have been ruined by a fire, lawsuit, robbery or other loss if they hadn't had insurance written by us. With insurance, they still found life pleasant.

'Hap' Emms Gets Ousted from Arena But Hawks, Flyers Brawl Merrily On

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was like old times in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Saturday.

The league, known in the past for its colorful incidents, was fairly quiet during the first 39 games of the 1953-54 season. But there was no indication in Galt Saturday night that things will be restored to normal.

While Galt Black Hawks were on their way towards handing the Barrie coach Hap Emms was picked to leave arena. Following the departure of Emms, ejected for arguing a penalty against the Flyers late wednesday, the teams took up the battle in a third-period brawl which resulted in four major penalties and two disciplinary misconducts.

Elsewhere in the league, Hamilton Tigers fired an overtime goal on home ice to defeat the league-leading St. Catharines TeePees 4-3.

HOME TEAM WINS

In the Sunday doubleheader at Toronto both home teams were successful. Toronto Marlboro defeated the last-place Quebec Citadelles 4-3 and Toronto St. Michael's College Majors downed Galt Black Hawks 4-1.

At Galt the Hawks slammed home three unanswered tallies in the second period to win. Jack Markarian, Rick Collin, Ron Halstead, John Slenver and Pete Kowalashuk scored for Galt. Ross Rideon, Cleland Mortson, Don Cherry and Jim Robertson were the Barrie marksmen.

PAYOFF GOAL

In Hamilton Ed Lentiff's second goal of the night, this one in overtime, gave the Tigers a 6-4 victory over St. Catharines. Marlin McAlendin, Larry Hillman, Ted Redd and Reed Mitchell did the other goals for Hamilton. Brian Cullen led the TeePees with two goals. John Cullen, Barry Culley and Hugh Barlow scored the others.

Dave Redd scored a goal a period in Toronto Sunday to spark Marlboro to a 4-3 victory over the Quebec goals.

Jim Lofan fired two markers for St. Michael's. Ray Hannigan and Dick Duff added the other for the Majors. Collin scored for Galt.

Kitchener Greenshirts play host to St. Catharines and Quebec travels to Galt Tuesday night.

Sport in Brief

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, feeling itself named respondent in injunction proceedings, has decided to see if it can't dissociate itself from the case and have the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association "take the full responsibility, financially and otherwise, of the consequences."

The QAHA was named in injunction proceedings brought Friday by Quebec Frontenacs, in dispute with Quebec Citadelles over ownership of Jacques Marcotte, 18-year-old junior goalie.

The Frontenacs club seeks to have the QAHA restrained from suspending the club for using the player. The QAHA had notified Frontenacs that confirmed use of the player "in defiance" of a ruling by the QAHA would bring suspension.

The QAHA gave Marcotte permission to play this season with Frontenacs, Citadelles, who owned the goalie last season, claimed he is their property and carried the case to the CAHA. The CAHA ordered Marcotte's return to Citadelles.

WARSAW (AP)—Moscow's Spartak defeated rival team, Russian League champions, defeated the Polish champions, Gornik, 3-1.

Effort Made To Break Grip Of Socialism

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Liberals and Progressive Conservatives have started to overhaul their political systems in an effort to break the grip of socialism in this agricultural province.

The first step in a new policy of the provincial Liberal party now outnumbered more than 4-1 in the legislature, was made here on Saturday. Party officials named a new house leader, Azsumder (Mike) Loptson, 56, year-old member for Saltcoats.

A retired business man and former mayor with 14 years of experience in provincial politics, he will help direct an intensive reorganization of Liberal organizations.

Present standing in the 53-seat legislature is CCF 42, Liberals 10, Progressive Conservatives, 1. CCF members hold 11 of the 12 federal ridings, Liberals two and Progressive Conservatives one.

Albert College Beats St. Peter's 5-0 To Enter COSSA Senior 'B' Finals

Albert College senior gridders ran their string of victories to 18 straight with a 5 to 0 victory over St. Peter's H.S. of Peterborough, in the Littlock City on Saturday. The game, a COSSA senior "B" semi-final, took place on a snow covered field, with no markings. Don Mumford, of the University of Toronto Schools referred, and both coaches agreed to leave the game completely in his hands. Both teams played clean, hard football, only one penalty being called, that for offside interference. The hilliard blew during the whole of the game.

St. Peter's kicked off to Albert to start the game, and although the first half it was a case of two bucks and a kick. Neither team got within scoring distance, and St. Peter's fine line plunging was offset by Vaughan's kicks against the wind. Death, Pettman, Waisman and Rasgaen, in the middle of the Albert line blocked and tackled hard, and tightened up in the pinches. Ing, Gillanders and Gormley on the ends of the Albert line stopped many potentially dangerous end runs.

To begin the second quarter, Albert's starry halfback, Gerry Flynn, entered the game for the first time, and on the first play of the quarter, took over the ball on a reverse, and went 90 yards for an unconverted touchdown, which turned out to be the only score of the game. Play again ranged around centre field until half time, with St. Peter's having the best of the ground play but not being able to score.

The second half was a repetition of the first, right up until the final five minutes, when St. Peter's on some excellent plunging by Allen, forced Albert back to their 20-yard line — three attempts and Albert were punting. Albert got the ball and on the first play fumbled and St. Peter's recovered and on three more attempts but go nowhere — on the third try St. Peter's fumbled the ball—and Vaughan kicked to centre field, where the St. Peter's lost the ball on one play which failed to gain any yards.

Albert College — Waisgan, McGuigan, Lake, Melenko, Gray, Scott, Ashton, McCaig, Fleck, Pettman, Death, Webster, Rothwell, Watson, Waisman, Haspanen, Berry, Gillanders, Gillman, Ing, Gormley, Warren, Budgell, Lemon.

St. Peter's High School — Hickey, Feeley, Waiman, O'Rourke, Kearns, McGee, Quinlan, Kingston, Nolan, Hurtubise, Goolry, Pearson, Kubica, Fait, Faly, Hefferman, O'Connor, Ryan, Quinn, Board, Allen, Brainiff, Fitzpatrick.

Officials—Referee, Don Mumford, University of Toronto Schools; umpire, Clyde Fitzgibbons, University of Toronto; Al. Schreider, Peterborough.

Need Only Signatures

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Signatures on an agreement remained the only thing to be done today by striking carpenters back to work in the Windsor area after a strike lasting two weeks. After meetings by the office of Mayor Arthur J. Reaume Friday, carpenters, labourers, bricklayers and painters agreed upon the general terms of their contracts.

No details of the new agreements were to be released until after the signing. It appeared possible that the men could be back on the jobs tomorrow.

Nearly 100 construction projects in Windsor have been at a standstill during the past two weeks because of the strike.

Oshawa C.I. Downs B.C.I. In Snowstorm

By PETER UFFER

Behind the running and kicking of Chaszewski, the Central Collegiate Institute of Oshawa downed the Belleville Collegiate Juniors 13-0 to take the first round of the COSSA Junior A finals. The game was played Saturday afternoon in front of 300 at Alexandra Park in Oshawa.

Central Collegiate opened the scoring early in the second quarter They kicked the ball into the BC end zone and when Jones attempt to return the kick he missed the ball and CCI took over on BCI's 40 yard line. The BCI line held on the first attempt but Cestra kicked the ball across on their second down for a T.D.

The convert attempt was blocked and Belleville kicked off. It was noticed that Belleville team wanted the ball and more than could be helped. Central took the ball but they stopped momentarily. Then they faked a third down kick and Chaszewski for a first down.

However it was to no avail as they were forced to kick after two more attempts. They fumbled on their third down and lost the ball. CCI kicked out at the attempted return was missed and went out for a rouge.

BCI attempted a pass which was intercepted on their own 40 yard line. Chaszewski kicked 2 rouge.

That was all the scoring until halftime. Early in the fourth Kemp broke away from the BCI line and made yards for a touchdown and the final score for Central Collegiate.

The game was played under the worst conditions of the season so far. The snow was a foot deep and it snowed all during the game. The field was also a strong wind blowing.

Joe Kennedy and Graham Beeby played a good defensive game for Central Collegiate while Barry Rae and Bill Jones played a good offensive game for the losers.

Starting lineups:

Central Collegiate: Vanderwater, Berry, Hunter, Tippet, Melnick, Rodkowski, Chaszewski, Wrubie, Campbell, Kemp, Beeby, Proctor.

Belleville Collegiate: Hagerman, Bateman, Beeby, Bovay, McCann, Sills, Ablarde, Batchelor, Little, Jones, Rae, Hunter, Hamilton.

Officials: Referee, Dell; Umpire, Mosher; Judge of play, Sealy; Head linesman, Goyer.

PC's Will Ask Ban on Elections In July, August

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative party will ask the new session of Parliament to ban federal elections in July and August except in an emergency.

The request will be made in a resolution placed on the Commons order paper today by Rodney Adamson, Opposition member for York West.

During the last session, the Opposition protested strongly against the government's decision to hold the last election on Aug. 10. The Progressive Conservatives charged that many Canadians, particularly those on summer holidays, lost their ballots.

Bisons Stampede Syracuse 8-1; Reds Nip Hornets

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons continued to thunder along in the American Hockey League during the week-end, stampeding over Syracuse Warriors 8-1 Sunday to remain well in front of the pack.

In the only other game Sunday, Providence Reds climbed out of the cellar with a 3-1 decision over Pittsburgh Hornets.

At Buffalo, rookies Russ Kowalchuk getting three goals and Marshall two, Gaye Stewart, Pete Wright and Eddie Slowinski completed the route. Bill Gooden was the Syracuse marksman.

At Providence, second-period goals by Pete Kapusta and Ken Davies turned the trick. Rookie Parker MacDonald scored for the Hornets and Paul Gladu matched it with the Reds final goal.

Saturday's scores: Syracuse 1, Providence 1; Pittsburgh 4 Hershey 1, Cleveland 3 Buffalo 2.

Ottawa Ousts Argos As Larks Claw Tiger-Cats; Eskys Defeat Bombers

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

A TOUCHIE!

"The toughest team we've met yet, and we can thank Les Colvin for this one."

That was Ryan Blair, general manager of the Oshawa Truckmen, talking after Saturday night's Truckmen's overtime thriller victory over the Memos in Memorial Arena.

The victory gave the Truckmen a clean sweep of their first outset around the circuit and they now top the loop with four victories. But as Blair says they can thank Gizelle Colvin's sensational net effort for their fourth nod.

Four times, sweeping Memos attackers dazzled in on him with nary a Truckmen defenseman around and four times the cool Colvin outgeneled them. Bob Taylor's sterling waist-high shot in the first period had the Truckman goalie beaten cold, but it wrangled off a post.

It was the best senior "B" tilt seen here thus far this season, and the Memos gave ample notice that although edged by a single overtime marker and frowned on by Lady Luck, they are no pushovers. In fact in the overall play they had a territorial edge and they outshot the group leaders 44-38.

It was fast, furious hockey, with the Memos twice leading the lead only to have the Truckmen rear back and tie it up. The Doran crew seemed well on their way to victory midway through the third beat when they ushered in a 3-2 lead and with boldstar of Don Osborne attacking time with a great deal of success. Then "Red" Doran drew a penalty and that paved the way to the victory. The Truckmen swarmed in with the one-man advantage and that meant a lot in Saturday night's game, and within a minute crafty playing rookie Ernie Dickens of the Truckmen, picked up a loose puck from a ganging attack and blasted it behind Sarazin in the Memos' net.

Rally Sarazin came through with a fine performance in his Belleville debut. The youngster kicked out plenty of rubber, seemed cool as a cucumber and on three occasions grabbed screened shots that appeared labelled. The Duncan twins turned in an outstanding effort and with Dickens formed the "Three-D" line that accounted for two of the Memos goals. Jake Wade, Bob Taylor and Vern Goyer also stood out with some sparkling play.

But tomorrow night is another night. The upswing Peterborough Petes, fresh from their 5-4 victory over the champion Kingston Goodyears, will be thirsting for Belleville's gore, and should be another typical Peterborough-Belleville battle. The Petes rest comfortably in second spot in the group standing, and they have given notice aplenty they are a force to be respected. They are a lot lawr of the Petes, with six assists and a lone marker, is tied for second spot with teammate Gus Leonard, who leads the group in assists with seven. Greenlaw tops the goal-getters. The Truckmen have five players in the charmed circle, with Fred Eicher holding down a tie for tenth place with five points

PROMISING!

Eddie Schamerhorn, up-and-coming welterweight from the city's, is making a name for himself in Toronto boxing-boosting circles. Eddie, who is under the tutelage of Mark Sterne, fights in the main bout in East York Arena, Wednesday night against hard-hitting Sonny Forbes of Toronto.

Schamerhorn is riding the crest of a victory wave, having won his last three starts in a convincing manner at the East York Arena. He punched out a clean-cup victory over Hughie Lindsay and knocked out Pat Campbell, of Guelph, and Billy Agar, Toronto. Forbes is also a confident winner and the bout looms up as one of the best arranged in weeks.

Y BASKETBALL

The Second Annual Y.M.C.A. Basketball House League gets under way tomorrow at 7.30 when the "Nationals," captained by Ted Batchelor, clash with the "Hoopsters," captained by Jack Matthews.

The second match of the evening will start at 8.30 p.m. with the "Monarchs," captained by Bill Gault, meeting the "Crazylegs" captained by Stanley Jackson.

There are indications that this year's House League will be more successful than that of last year's in both quality of games and in officiating.

Others wishing to join the league should contact physical director Di Diamaslides before tomorrow's games.

Riders Thump Champions 13-4 As Alouettes Score 31-18 Win; Three Tied for Big Four Top

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Western Interprovincial Football Union clubs, whose vast experience helped the Toronto Argonauts in the Grey Cup final are legend, can relax. The defending champions are out of the picture this year.

The curtain to an 18-game Toronto season was lowered Saturday at Ottawa when the Rough Riders, switching from the straight-T to split-T formations, swept Argonauts out of the Big Four playoff scene with a 13-4 triumph.

The Ottawa victory, coupled with Montreal Alouettes' 31-18 triumph over Hamilton Tiger-Cats, left Argonauts out of reach of a playoff spot with only one game remaining in the 14-game schedule.

A few hours after the Toronto loss, the original spoilt kids of Canadian football, Edmonton Eskimos, smacked Winnipeg Blue Bombers 25-7 in the mud to end their best-of-three WIFU final at Edmonton. They'll play it in the same finesse that sent them to a runaway first-place finish in the regular schedule.

WRETCHED WEATHER

It was a wretched week-end for football from a weather and attendance standpoint. Field conditions for all seven scheduled senior games ranged from a snow-hard sheet surface at the Alberta city to snow-and-rain-sodden fields in the east.

Attendance hit a week-end low for the season—less than 60,000. The largest crowd, 15,500, sat through 23-degree weather in Edmonton.

The Als took an early 13-0 lead and were the only club in minutes with only a 18-18 margin. They threw for two successful fourth quarter touchdowns to salvage the triumph and draw into the first place tie with Riders and Tiger-Cats with 14 points each.

In other senior football activity, Toronto Balmy Beach defeated Sarnia Imperials 18-13 in the home-and-home total-point Ontario Rugby Football Union semi-final series played in two games, Beaches lost 2-0 at Sarnia Saturday before a 900 crowd and then defeated the defending champions 18-10 at Toronto Sunday with 700 fans in attendance.

ALOUE DIDN'T SHOW

It was a one-sole game at Ottawa and Argonauts just didn't have it. Their points came on two safety touches—one conceded by Ottawa as a defensive manoeuvre.

Now for another Argo downfall off Edmonton Eskimos 21-11 in the Grey Cup last season can or only as a spoiler in the Big Four schedule wingup Saturday.

Alouettes, who defeated Toronto 39-11 in their last outing, will be out of the playoffs if they lose to Argonauts and Hamilton and Ottawa play to a tie at Hamilton. That is the only possible way the Als, last-place club the previous three years, could slide out on the post-schedule series.

The winner of the Edmonton-Winnipeg series will meet the winner of the Balmy Beach - Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen home-and-home total-point final opening at Kitchener Wednesday. But the west hasn't much worry of missing the West, 28 cup final. HOWEVER, with the exception of Sarnia, it made up of farm clubs of Big Four teams and it is expected the west winner will take it easily.

Riders fashioned their win over Argonauts on touchdowns by Gene (Choo Choo) Roberts and Bernie Faloney, converted by Lou Kusserow, a single by Avatus Stone. Stone was smeared for the first safety touch late in the game and then conceded the other.

RUNNINGER STARS

The scoring standout at Montreal was Chuck Hunsinger who went over for three touchdowns, one set up by a sensational 80-yard runback of a kick by Alex Webster, Joey Pal and Webster accounted for the other Montreal majors, Ray Poole kicked five converts and quarter Sam Etcheverry a single.

Ralph Tooley, Tip Logan and Lou Kusserow scored the Tiger-Cat majors and Logan kicked three converts to record his string to 79 without a miss.

The Intercollegiate, the last senior club, apart from the colleges, to remain almost strictly Canadian, went down fighting, Saturday, spoiled the Argonaut farm club two first-half converted touchdowns, carried over for two unconverted majors in the third quarter and lost the game in the fourth when Toronto intercepted a forward with the Imperials on the Toronto 20-yard line.

Nayland Moll, Toronto high school product, scored two Beach majors and import Dick Gregory went over for the other. Gregory made the converts.

Eric McKeever and Corky Dunshene scored Sarnia's touchdowns.

Verdun, Windsor Clash in East Football Title

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Four teams dropped out of competition during the week-end as the Canadian Junior Football eliminations were narrowed down to the eastern and Western finals.

Verdun Shamrocs won the Quebec Junior Championship and the right to enter the eastern finals when they trounced Ottawa St. Anthony's 21-0 in Montreal Sunday.

The other finalists for the eastern title, Windsor AKO, were decided in Hamilton Saturday when AKO defeated Hamilton Tiger-Cats 20-7.

Vancouver Blue Bombers, who won the Alberta-British Columbia championship edging out Calgary Brooks 3-0 in Vancouver Saturday, will clash with Saskatoon Hilltops in the western final. Saskatoon won the Saskatchewan-Manitoba crown by smearing Winnipeg Weston-Wildcats 25-1 in Saskatoon Saturday.

Both Canadian semi-finals will be played Nov. 14. The western representatives will be decided at Vancouver. The eastern final will be played in Windsor. The Dominion final is scheduled for the home-and-home total-point winner Nov. 21.

At Hamilton Windsor AKO held the play for three-quarters of the game before scoring 14 points in the first, second and fourth quarters. Eddie Mularchyk scored two touchdowns and Whalen, Zarr and Reed five points for AKO on two converts and a field goal.
